No. 62. M.P. 660/27. 28th December, 1943.

The following telegrams were exchanged between the Secretary of State for the Colonies and His Excellency the Governor on the 23rd December, 1943:—

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor.

"I am very glad to have this opportunity of sending a Christmas message to the peoples of the British Colonies, Protectorates and Mandated Territories.

"Since I talked to you all just under a year ago much that we dared to hope for has been fulfilled. The Italian Dictator is a fugative and his Empire founded upon crime and aggression has collapsed. Germany is now at bay and Japan is feeling the blows that will ultimately beat her to her knees. During the coming year the onslaught of the United Nations will be strengthened and concerted; and we can look ahead with confidence to the day of retribution for these two aggressor Nations.

"In successes, which have been achieved up to date, you in the Colonies have played a notable part. You have given freely of your man power for the fighting services: you have worked hard and untiringly to produce essential foodstuffs and raw materials for war; you have made generous gifts of money and in kind; and throughout the long struggle you have constantly sustained us by your courage and comradeship. Thank you for your efforts; and go on giving of your best. We cannot afford to relax our efforts for a moment. Not until our enemies have been destroyed and the people they oppressed have been freed. During my year at the Colonial Office I have been brought into daily contact with many of your activities. I have also had a chance to visit some of you in your own countries. During my recent tour by air of West Africa, I was able to see for myself something of the life of the people in the territories which I visited. In the course of my tour which also included visits to East Africa and Gibraltar I realized how the development of air travel will after the war increase personal contact between this country and Colonial peoples all over the world. I came back with a deep sense of our common interest and our common aim, and with an enhanced realization of the weighty responsibilities of my office. It was with pride and pleasure that on my return I had the honour of delivering to His Majesty the King the many messages of loyalty which I had been asked to convey to him during my tour. I offer my own grateful thanks to the many of you who helped to make my visit such a happy and inspiring experience. I hope very much that it will be possible for me to make similar visits in the future to other Colonial territories.

"I do not want this Christmas to go by without special words of sympathy and encouragement to those of our fellow citizens of the Empire who are in the enemy's hands in the Far East and elsewhere. To such of those as this message may reach I would say "Do not lose heart. We will not forget you. We know what trials and sufferings you have endured and are enduring. Keep hope and faith that your day of deliverance will come; and we will not fail you". To members of the Colonial Service I would say how deeply I appreciate your untiring efforts and your devotion to duty. Yours has not been an easy task. You have born the hardships and separations imposed upon you by the war in a spirit worthy of the highest traditions of our service. You are doing a job of the first importance and I am glad to tell you that His Majesty's Government are proud and appreciative of your work.

"To all people in the Colonies of all races, creeds and languages I send my telegram of warmest greetings at this season of good will. May the coming year confirm and strengthen our common resolve to bring down our enemies and to keep this Commonwealth and Empire free for the great and beneficent task that awaits us when victory has been won."

From His Excellency the Governor to the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

"Please accept the thanks of myself and the Falkland Islands for your message which came over very clearly, and our greetings to you. May 1944 bring peace and with it great happiness throughout the Empire."

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Minutes of meeting held on the 2nd December, 1943.

1. The minutes of the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 26th of November, 1942, were confirmed.

2. The Governor delivered to the Council the following message :

"Honourable Members,

"The principal business before us is the Budget for 1944. You have in front of you the statement of the Colony's Assets and Liabilities as it stood at the beginning of this year, and I think you will agree that after four years of war it is most satisfactory.

"On January 1st, 1943, assets more or less liquid, including the Reserve and Marine Insurance Funds together with an approximation of £150,000 in the Research Fund, totalled some £429,268, against which there was a nett deficit of £39,506.

"This deficit as you know is due solely to war expenditure which is estimated to amount to £116,148 at the end of 1944. This sum is made up by the following payments :—

1939	£11,986
1940	23,839
1941	18,639
1942	32,124
1943	29,560	} estimated.
1944	21,246

"During these years of war, Revenue has shown a favourable balance, apart from this drain, to such an extent that the above £116,148 is represented by £60,217 — a financial position which few Colonies can show.

"Revenue has in recent years been difficult to estimate as the following table shows :—

Year.	Estimate.	Actual.
1939	£55,157	£54,589
1940	65,345	65,142
1941	59,778	69,988
1942	56,452	89,780
1943	66,709	71,798 estimated.

"These figures do not include revenue from land sales.

"The result of such sales amounts to capitalization of the Colony's assets, and the sums accruing should be regarded as in the nature of a Trust, only to be used in most exceptional circumstances. The Fund has grown in recent years from £241,129 on January 1st, 1935, to about £272,284 on January 1st, 1944, but that is very nearly the limit of its growth. Payments into the Fund now total only £355 per annum and that is a decreasing sum. In plain language we "have cashed in and are without a reserve upon which to draw. This is a financial problem which can only be dealt with when post-war conditions are clear and a definite policy embarked upon.

"The discrepancy between estimated and actual receipts is not easy to analyse. The Income Tax has given good results but there has been a quite unforeseeable increase in customs, telegrams and sale of stamps. Possibly these will be maintained but in presenting my revenue figures for 1944 I have tried to discount them, and submit the budget on an anticipated receipt of £70,943 as against an actual amount of £92,128 shown in the latest complete return.

"Expenditure against this amounts to £69,357 excluding war commitments which are expected to total £21,247. The £69,357 compares not unfavourably with £66,485 in 1942 and an estimated £62,949 for 1943, when extra costs due to present day conditions are taken into consideration. But it is obvious that although a balance can be struck between ordinary revenue and ordinary expenditure, much control will have to be exercised.

"In my opening address at the last two budget sessions I stated that the actual financing of our war expenditure was under consideration. It still is and if my proposals are acceptable to the Secretary of State, our financial position will be most favourable and we shall be in a position for some time to meet the problems that loom ahead.

"There is not much call for an analysis of the expenditure figures, but the following points will possibly explain those items which show an increase.

"I have included in my own expenditure a sum of £100 for a temporary clerk as I wish to provide for the inevitable clerical and secretarial work which will occur as the War draws to its end.

"Under Head VI Post Office a slight decrease is to be noted but it must not be forgotten that the Mail Contract is included. The position at present is that the contract itself expired on January 1st, 1942, and has, under section 25, been continued on an annual basis. It could not have been otherwise. The shortage of shipping and complete lack of competition prevented any other course, and so far we have been most fortunate in the service provided. There can be few Colonies who have enjoyed similar regularity and frequency,

"However the mail contract serves more purposes than for the carriage of mails. It is a subsidy for both passenger and cargo traffic and is actually in excess of the normal receipts from postage fees. To-day it is a very important factor in maintaining a low level in the cost of living and as such must be regarded in the first instance.

19 "There is an increase of £737 under Head VII. Electrical & Telegraphs of which £613 is for personal emoluments. As this Department is now a great revenue producing one - it gave £13,655 in 1942 and is expected to produce £12,000 in the present year - the increase is justifiable, for it includes duty allowances for the very heavy extra work and the usual increments.

"I should like to take this opportunity of recording my appreciation which I think you will endorse of the work performed by Mr. A. Mercer's Department. The growth of this work has been phenomenal as the following figures show. The pre-war year of 1938 is compared with the war year of 1942.

Telegrams	7,069	19,890	181.36
Words	64,303	516,036	702.5
Staff	12	15	25.00
Cost	£3,423	£4,743	35.59
Revenue	£2,848	£13,655	379.05

"Under Head XI Medical there is a total increase of £1,104 due to the taking over of the station at Darwin and an increase in the cost of maintenance. Against this £1,104 must be remembered the contribution of the Medical Officer's salary which appears under Revenue.

"Education (Head XII) is costing more and will continue to increase each year. No one will cavil at this, provided the results show improvement. The Budget calls for £783 over last year's estimate. It includes £275 for the second pair of scholarships and an extra £150 for the boarding of country children in Stanley. This latter step was recommended by the Farmers' Conference in 1939 but could not have been taken earlier until the war situation was clarified. Actual boarding allowances will be increased from £1 to £2 a month. You will be interested to know that from various reports the two scholars now in Montevideo have very favourably impressed the school authorities there and it is expected that they will prove to be highly satisfactory in every respect. One of these scholars is from the Camp and it is hoped in the future more candidates from outside Stanley will compete in the preliminary examination.

"Head XIV. Naturalist calls for little comment although there is a small increase asked for. Last year you voted £100 for the purchase of trout ova; this sum was not used as difficulties arose in obtaining them and you are being asked to re-vote this amount. The original importation in 1942 has shown a certain amount of success and it is thought that there were last February some 1,000 young fish, mostly brown trout with a sprinkling of rainbow in the neighbourhood of the hatchery. If we can succeed again then the question of distribution will have to be considered.

"Head XVI. Agriculture. It is probably against this Department that most public criticism is levelled, although the majority of individuals are actually strong supporters. It is not easy to understand the critics except on the score of expenditure, for in these modern days an Agricultural Department is an absolute necessity in every country. No single farmer nor ranching "company could afford the experimentation, compilation of statistics, observation, accumulation of technical literature, research, scientific investigation and all the other centralised activities upon which development and improvements depend. In any case, if after the war this Colony wishes to progress, it can only do so with financial assistance, and that help cannot be forthcoming unless the Colony has shown a willingness to co-operate, which it only can do by spade work on the foundations and these in an agricultural country are based on a scientific centre of research—in other words an Agricultural Department.

"The following figures show clearly that this department has been conducted economically :-

Year.	Expenditure.	Revenue.	Nett Expenditure.
1939	8,772	209	8,563
1940	4,120	434	3,686
1941	4,671	758	3,913
1942	6,269	1,166	5,103
1943	7,703	2,521	5,182
1944	9,402	3,485	5,917

"Thus in spite of increased costs of labour and material there has been only a very small rise in actual payments.

"During the past year very heavy work has fallen on the staff to which the success of the dairy scheme and the vegetable-marketing testify. In the last season covering twelve months the Department's share in the former was a production of some 5,782 gallons of milk and in the latter 176,305 lbs. of vegetables. The labour involved received outside help offset by the restricted sale-price. It is self-evident that a considerable measure of success has been achieved. Perhaps it might be argued that all this work is of a commercial character and is only of a temporary nature. One might agree; for, as I have stated above, the true work, the essential work of an Agricultural Department is scientific and experimental. In this respect the Department has continued and enlarged its labours and without any doubt these latter must prove inevitably in course of time of value to the Colony. In any event, save for the exceptional conditions obtaining in war time, it is not for the Department to embark on any scheme competitive with private enterprise.

"Under Head XVII. Miscellaneous there is little change. Provision has been made of £100 towards allowances for stenographic work. It is hoped thereby to encourage students of short-hand, who are urgently needed both in public and private offices.

"Public Works Annually Recurrent: Head XIX. The amount asked for shows little real change on the annual expenditure of the last three years. Two-thirds of the total is for labour. It is difficult in present circumstances to estimate our requirements and when the budget for 1943 was prepared it was anticipated that labour would have been employed outside the Department, which accounts mainly for the apparent increase.

"I do not think any comment is necessary for Public Works Extraordinary. The £800 includes £450 for a new lorry and the only other new item is for wash houses at the Police Cottages.

"I hope there will be a considerable saving on War Expenditure and in that respect am asking for £21,247 as against £27,005 last year.

"I am presenting you with the annual Supplementary Appropriation Bill. It is for 1942 and calls for a total amount of £23,267 : 10 : 2. At first sight this appears a very large sum but analysed the figure is not so formidable for it includes the investment of £2,500 derived from the sale of the m.v. "Georgia" and £3,700 in the Note Security Fund. War Expenditure amounting to £12,248 : 17 : 9 contains the cost of the children's evacuation which totalled £6,014, the balance being for uniforms, etc. The schedule attached to the Bill details the remainder, £4,818 : 12 : 5, a total that compares most favourably with the previous similar bills of recent years.

"There are other bills before you, one of which is the hardy annual dealing with the duty on whale and seal oil exports. There is no change, and I hope that in the future this routine legislation will be unnecessary. It will be so if you consent to a consolidation bill entitled "The Tariff Ordinance". This embodies all previous laws on the subject and except for the inclusion of His Majesty's Air forces so as to give them the same privilege as already afforded to His Majesty's Army and Navy, there is no change. It is necessary to pass this law in order to consolidate the existing laws and bring the whole of the Import and Export duties into a single ordinance.

"As you know the Honourable Mr. B. A. Cathie was appointed to revise, consolidate and bring into a new edition the laws of this Colony. He has so far completed the preliminary work that the stage has now been reached when his position must be legalised. The usual model bill is submitted to enable this to be done. It is identical with similar measures enacted elsewhere and calls for no comment.

"When the new edition of our laws comes to be printed it is most desirable that it should be as up-to-date as possible. It is therefore necessary in some cases for a new bill to be introduced, modernising and consolidating existing laws. Such a bill is presented to you at this Session. It deals with the Customs and is based on the Model Ordinance. It standardizes procedure and the various Colonial Governments were asked to consider its enactment when the revision of legislation was itself under consideration. That occasion has come.

"It is more than likely that many of the provisions of this Ordinance may prove unworkable in this Colony. There is provision for this in the first section which gives the Governor the power to specify the date of the Ordinance coming into force, which power, my Legal Adviser informs me, enables the Governor to bring into force certain sections only and not necessarily the whole bill.

"The customs legislation at present in force follows closely the original provisions of the United Kingdom Customs Consolidation Act, 1876. The necessity for revision has long been recognised, and arises chiefly from the great changes that have taken place in methods of trading and of the carriage of goods by sea and air during the last 60 years. The Customs Consolidation Ordinance was brought into force in the United Kingdom in days when ships were small, and when the range of goods liable to duty was limited to such articles as spirits and tobacco. Accordingly the law provided for goods to be entered, duty paid and examined before being discharged from the importing ship. No provision was made for ad valorem duties which nowadays require particularly close attention. Aircraft were unknown; today the examination of goods imported by air is an important part of customs work. The present bill seeks to make the full provisions called for by present-day conditions. These provisions have been agreed upon by representatives of other British Colonies, and approved by various authorities in the United Kingdom, including the Commissioners of Customs and Excise and the Board of Trade. The bill contains no really embarrassing changes of procedure. Experience gained elsewhere during the course of the past 60 years has however been used to strengthen to a certain degree customs control.

"That, Gentlemen, is a short survey of the business before us. There is nothing constructive - there can hardly be in these uncertain days. But I hope in the near future to be in the position to lay before you a plan for the remodelling of our constitution and measures upon which a prosperous future for the Colony can be founded. Unfortunately we are still at war. We all believe, nay, are certain of victory; indeed the clouds of war appear already to be less dark, but when they have lifted and gone away, what will the light of peace reveal?

"So we must be content for the moment; but the time of waiting need not be wasted for all of us can ponder over these matters and when the time for decision arises be prepared with ideas and thoughts, suggestions and proposals based entirely on a determination of mutual assistance.

"I have kept you long, Gentlemen, and I thank you for your attention. Let us to our business and may God be with us in our deliberations".

No. 21. M.P. 41/37. 2nd June, 1944.

A Ceremonial Parade will be held at 11.00 a.m. on Thursday the 8th of June, 1944, on the occasion of the official celebration of His Majesty's Birthday.

The Parade, which will be inspected by His Excellency, will take place on the Football Field, and will comprise detachments of the Royal Navy, the Falkland Islands Force, the Falkland Islands Defence Force and the Civil Defence Services.

Members of the Public wishing to attend the ceremony are requested to arrive at the Government House Paddock by the south gate, not later than 10.45 a.m.

No. 22. M.P. 191/42. 5th June, 1944.

His Excellency the Governor directs it to be notified, for public information, that intimation has been received from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies to the effect that His Majesty will not be advised to exercise his power of disallowance in respect of the following Ordinance of the Legislature of the Falkland Islands:—

Ordinance, No. 3 of 1943, entitled "An Ordinance to make provision for the preparation and publication of a Revised Edition of the Laws of the Colony".

No. 23. M.P. 163/31. 5th June, 1944.

His Excellency the Governor directs the publication for public information, of the following message received from His Majesty the King on the occasion of Empire Day, 24th May, 1944:

"Today in these eventful times we celebrate the 5th Empire Day of the war. We are in good heart for we can justly say that whatever danger may still threaten the Commonwealth and Empire we have at this moment to our hand the men the weapons, resources and mastery of the situation which make the final issue certain.

"Throughout this bitter and terrible conflict I have never doubted that the response of my Colonial peoples to all calls made upon them would be swift whole hearted and complete. It is a wonderful thing for me to reflect that promises of loyalty and support which so many of you sent to me in the darkest days of our history have been redeemed many times over.

"My Colonial troops, side by side with their comrades from all parts of the Empire have fought and are fighting with their traditional bravery. Success crowned their arms in Africa, as I know it will in other theatres of the war. But fighting in battle is only one part of "the total war. The organization of large and small communities and their resources on a war footing, the carrying out of urgent war measures and the planning and execution of programmes of war production have thrown a heavy burden upon my Colonial Governments and Legislatures. They have, I know, been helped in their task by the outstanding and loyal co-operation of the people.

"I wish to pay especial tribute to the men and women of my Colonial Service. Many of them in the Far East are now in the hands of the enemy. They are always in our thoughts. Others have left their civil duties for military service where their expert knowledge and experience have been of the greatest value. This with the urgent and always increasing demands of war has made still harder and more exacting the task of those who had to stay at their posts. They have sustained this heavier burden, often under difficult conditions deprived of the companionship of their wives and families through long periods anxious for their safety and well being.

"None have spared themselves. To all I send this expression of my appreciation of their devoted work and hope that with God's help we shall come through the perils and sufferings to happier times."

No. 24. M.P. 8/8/40. 9th June, 1944.

His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the following appointments to the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire:—

COLONEL WILLIAM HENRY HYNES

to be an Officer (Military Division).

THE REVEREND GERALD KENNETH LOWE

to be a Member (Civil Division).

No 25. M.P. 41/37. 15th June, 1944.

His Excellency the Governor directs the publication for public information, of the following telegrams exchanged between His Excellency and the Secretary of State for the Colonies on the occasion of the official celebration of His Majesty the King's Birthday:—

From His Excellency the Governor to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, 5th June, 1944.

Grateful if you would convey to His Majesty the King on behalf of the people of the Falkland Islands and their Dependencies, members of the Imperial Forces stationed here and myself our humble duty and sincere congratulations on the occasion of the celebration of his birthday. The series of glorious victories which have been won by His Majesty's arms during the past 12 months on land and sea and in the air culminating in the liberation of Rome have been to all of us a source of the most intense and exciting pride.

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, 13th June, 1944.

Your telegram has been laid before the King who desires that an expression of his sincere thanks for the message contained therein may be conveyed to you and the people of the Falkland Islands and their Dependencies and the Imperial Forces stationed in the Islands.

GIFT PARCELS FOR FALKLAND ISLANDERS OVERSEAS.

Residents of the Falkland Islands may now send parcels of comforts etc., to their sons and daughters overseas or to other residents of the Colony overseas. Persons wishing to send such parcels should make themselves acquainted with the procedure outlined below.

1. Parcels may only be sent to persons (i) who are normally resident in the Colony, or (ii) whose parents at present reside in the Colony.
2. One parcel only may be sent to any one person each quarter.
3. Parcels must not exceed 5-lbs. gross weight, and although there is no restriction on the type of article that may be included, not more than 1-lb. of any one foodstuff may be sent at one time.
4. The name and address of any person to whom it is desired to send a parcel must be registered with the Competent Authority, who will keep a register of all parcels despatched.
5. An export permit must be obtained from the Competent Authority for each parcel to be sent. This permit must be surrendered with the parcel at the post office at Stanley or at Fox Bay. The post office authorities have instructions to refuse any parcel not accompanied by the proper permit.

In connection with the above procedure the Public are asked particularly to note the following points:—

- (a) It will be advisable for persons wishing to send gift parcels to obtain the necessary export permit before preparing the parcel, as it may happen that another person has already sent the quarterly package authorised by this scheme. In these cases permits will be refused, and application will have to be made again during the following quarter.

(b) Arrangements have been made for parcels addressed to members of the forces to be received duty-free provided that they are properly marked with the number, rank and unit of the recipient, and are addressed

"c/o the Victoria League,
Colonial Bureau,
60, Trafalgar Square,
London, W.C.2."

(c) It is emphasised that this concession is a privilege, and that it is purely experimental. Abuse of the scheme may result in its immediate withdrawal.

Further details may be obtained from the above office.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Minutes of meeting held on the 20th December, 1944.

1. The Honourable D. W. Roberts and Doctor the Honourable J. E. Hamilton, after taking the prescribed oath, assumed their seats at the Council.
2. The minutes of the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 2nd of December, 1943. were confirmed.
3. His Excellency the Governor delivered to the Council the following message :

"Honourable Members,

"We are met today to consider certain business, chief of which is the Budget for 1945. "The preparation of the Estimates has been more than ever difficult this year owing to the "absolute impossibility of forecasting the future. August is the usual month in which the "Estimates are considered and this year that month witnessed a surge of optimism, since then "considerably abated, so that we must plan for yet another year of war and that quite possibly "still in Europe.

"During these war years, as you know, the finances of the country have shown a deficit due chiefly to our war expenditure, which tabulated is as follows :-

1939	£11,986
1940	23,839
1941	18,639
1942	32,124
1943	29,560
1944	22,630 (revised estimate).

"The Estimates for 1945, based on the presumption of the continuance of the war and without any clear knowledge of imperial policy as regards demobilisation amount to £19,900. Thus for seven years a total of £158,678 will have been used on Extraordinary Expenditure over which we have had practically no control.

"But during those years the actual and estimated figures for Revenue and Expenditure have been :-

Year.	Revenue. £	Expenditure. £	Deficit. £
1939	54,589	70,759	16,170
1940	65,142	83,647	18,505
1941	69,988	73,089	3,101
1942	89,780	98,609	8,829
1943	91,099	96,500	5,401
1944 (revised estimate)	161,051	167,667	6,616

"which, totalled, amount to a gross deficit of some £49,700 or £7,100 per annum up to the end of this year. However, as I have told you at each Budget Session I am very hopeful of at least adjusting the deficit by financial arrangements. And I should like to remind you that in the 1942 November Session I said "One may assume that at least a further two years, that is to say until December 31st, 1945, will elapse before a return to peace conditions can reasonably be expected, and averaging our expenditure at £25,000 a year we shall have faced a total war expenditure of some £150,000 to £160,000".

"You will no doubt wonder how the revised revenue and expenditure for 1944 have soared to such heights. The former received quite unexpected sums through the Post Office and from the insurance of the Town Hall. These receipts were counterbalanced by corresponding expenditure in investments which were £45,000 placed in a Revenue Suspense Investment Account and £18,000 in a Town Hall Fire Account. There may be adjustments to be made with the Imperial Authorities of which I have today no knowledge. But on the presumption that the whole of that money is ours the deficit of £49,000 mentioned above will have changed into a profit of approximately £13,000. One must bear in mind however that the Town Hall and its various offices have got to be replaced as soon as possible. If these have to be paid out of General Revenue, a deficit is certain; but we quite fairly can ask for assistance in this matter.

"The estimated Revenue for 1944 was £70,943 and deducting the £45,000 and £19,630 (actual Insurance receipts) mentioned by me just now is expected to amount to £96,808. The excess is due almost entirely to the unprecedented sale of stamps and unexpected customs dues.

"During this year, after the adjustments for investments have been made, there is an over-expenditure on the estimates of some £14,000. This amount is explained by £2,000 over-expenditure in the Post Office which by way of return netted £66,500 - a good investment; it also includes the purchase, totalling approximately £9,000 of certain stores which unexpectedly became available and were bought on the advice of London. The shortage of material in the years immediately following the war will undoubtedly prove the wisdom of this deal; and of course the stores are today an asset probably in excess of the cost. War Expenditure during 1944 has included bills from 1943 for equipment both for the Defence Force and the Air Raids Precautions".

"Such is the foundation on which to base the Estimates for the coming year. Taking Revenue first, I anticipate receipts to total £76,692 which is more by £6,000 than the anticipated 1944 return. The £6,000 is in the Post Office figures, all others remaining, save for a few small alterations, as they were for last year.

"Expenditure for which I am asking your approval amounts to £97,572. This is £6,623 more than last year due chiefly to Educational, Medical, improvements to the Hospital and a new service - Meteorological. With these I shall deal as they appear in their order in my survey of the various departments.

"I. PENSIONS. There is no need for comment but I should like to draw your attention to Appendix IV which shows the gradual working of the Provident Fund as it is reflected in the cost of pensions. One can indeed say that apart from small contributions to officers seconded from the Unified Services the annual requirements will be stabilized in and around the present figure.

"II. THE GOVERNOR & III. COLONIAL SECRETARY require, I think, no comment nor for that matter IV. TREASURY & CUSTOMS. I should very much like to take the opportunity to draw your attention to the work done in the Treasury by the senior officers who have done remarkably well without the guidance of substantive heads, in which good work they have been assisted loyally and ably by their juniors. It may be invidious on my part to have named this department, for my remarks apply to all; but I mention this one in particular because of the fact of its most essential importance and the uniqueness of having carried on for more than a year without a head.

"V. AUDIT & VI. POST OFFICE remain more or less the same as for last year whilst an increase of £300 in the ELECTRICAL & TELEGRAPHS to be found in item 5 is an anticipated greater cost of fuel oil.

"HARBOUR, LEGAL AFFAIRS & POLICE & PRISONS are in accord with the expenditure for previous years. I think you will note that the office of Tugmaster and Government Pilot is abolished. This probably will be only a temporary measure. At present there is no licenced pilot in the Colony so that actually one cannot under the Ordinance be appointed. If a licence or licenses are granted the question of remuneration will be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of the law after reference to the Secretary of State.

"The contract with Mr. B. A. Cathie, as Legal Adviser, ended a short while ago and I have asked for no substitute. As you know this officer came here especially to revise the laws of the country. To a very large extent he did so, but a number of important amendments and details had been referred, and until these were answered progress was not practicable. The main part of the work is done - but it will require further editing after the replies to our questions have been received. There will arise the question of the cost of printing and publishing, which will amount to no small figure. There is bound to be considerable delay before we see the fruits of Mr. Cathie's work, which cannot possibly be visible so long as the war lasts and with the rush of post war arrears of publishing the new volume will probably not make its appearance for some considerable time.

"Under head XI. MEDICAL there is an increase of £850 over the approved estimate for 1944 which, under Personal Emoluments, includes the Medical Officer at Darwin. You will find in the footnotes a further explanation of this but I should like to draw attention to items 14 and 15, Medical Treatment Overseas and Transport of Medical Cases. The former represents the cost of a scheme under which serious tubercular and other cases not susceptible to treatment here are sent to Montevideo. This is a temporary measure pending the provision of adequate facilities in the Colony for which from time to time funds have been provided but which the war has inevitably delayed. The provision of £150 for the transport of medical cases must be regarded as a token figure as it is the present intention of Government to pay in future the transport costs of sick people and expectant mothers from the farms as from the 1st of January next. The service will be given to all persons in the Camp regardless of whether the farms in question are contributors under the medical scheme or not. It will, of course, be understood that Government will meet the cost of passages only on the issue of a medical certificate by a Government Medical Officer, or in cases where this is not practicable, on the advice of the Senior Medical Officer. The scheme is, of course, experimental and may, if abused, have to be abandoned. I hope you will regard this as a big step forward but I must strike a note of caution because at the present moment we are more or less without the necessary shipping facilities.

"I do not wish to anticipate the method by which in future years sufficient revenue can be collected but there is no doubt that in the future there must be an increase in the cost to Government of Medical Services. Private practice is unlikely to be set up and with the modern tendency to make preventive measures the dominant feature in matters of health it is obvious that Government will in the future have to meet high costs. No one will cavil at this, nor will there be any criticism of expenditure under Head XII. EDUCATION provided the latter shows results.

"I am asking you for an increase of over £2,000 under Education. £1,300 of which is for personal emoluments. There has been very great difficulty in obtaining medical and educational officers. We managed, as you know, to get a doctor and we hope to replace our present two Assistant Mistresses during 1945. If we succeed in doing this, there will be an overlap which accounts for the £1,000 instead of £700 which might have been expected. Similarly we hope to get a relief master to help us out while the Superintendent and his Assistants are on leave.

"Provision is made for the new Supervisor of Camp Education, the extra travelling teachers who have recently been engaged and the new teacher for broadcasting. It is hoped that these several appointments will make an advance in Camp education. The educational broadcasts are, of course, only experimental. First reports indicate that listeners throughout the islands are giving the scheme that support which is essential for its ultimate success, but that considerable improvement is still necessary on the technical side. So far as Government is concerned endeavours will be made to improve the transmission. Whether, however, a larger supply of receiving sets and parts for sale in the Colony can be arranged at present is very doubtful. Meanwhile the experiment is providing very useful information and a good many children are being helped. I think you will agree that it is well worth going on with. At the same time, I think you will agree that the subsidizing of teachers at San Carlos and Teal Inlet may prove of great value and form a base upon which to plan in the future.

"The increase under Other Charges for Education is just over £900 and can be accounted for chiefly by the extra cost of materials and the two extra scholarships. The first two scholars will have completed the term of the scholarship in 1945.

"I think members will be interested to have some figures of the apparent result of doubling the rate of boarding grants for children from the Camp. Last year you voted £400 and the following table shows the number of children who have taken advantage of the scheme during the last five years :-

1941	26
1942	Evacuated.
1943	11 (shortage of accommodation)
1944	32

"but these figures are not of much value as the comparison is for only one year of the scheme.

"Under head XIV. NATURALIST there is a reduction of £242 which you voted last year for "a fishery experiment. This has been discontinued because it was proving uneconomic with the limited facilities available in wartime. It may, however, be possible to revive the experiment on a different basis if financial assistance can be obtained.

"I am asking for a further vote of £100 for trout ova. It has been proved beyond doubt that Brook Trout can live here. Brown Trout are inclined to be cannibals and are therefore not desirable immigrants, while Rainbow Trout have twice been killed en masse in flood waters, the actual cause of death not being known. The 1945 introduction will be of Brook Trout only and is to be earmarked for distribution outside the Stanley area. The present Brook Trout are already sizeable but not sufficiently numerous as yet to allow of their being fished.

"Head XVI. AGRICULTURE. During the past few months this Department has again been the subject of a certain amount of criticism, particularly from the farmers. I have never understood this. As I pointed out last year, the necessity for an Agricultural Department is obvious: the question as to whether so small a Colony can afford the upkeep of such a Department is quite another matter. At present we certainly can and shall be able to do so for some years to come but an Agricultural Department is not one of stagnation. It is one of progress, not only of local but of international value and therefore normally will tend to cost more and more for experiments and research. It is to be regarded as one of the great State Departments such as Medical and Educational intended for the immediate benefit and general future welfare of society. You have heard only the other day that His Majesty made the following statement in his speech to Parliament :-

"There will also be presented to you legislation making provision for assistance towards the development of the Colonial Empire both by prolonging the period covered by the Colonies Development and Welfare Act, 1940, and by substantially increasing the provision of funds authorised to be made under that Act".

"This indicates a road along which we might proceed in the future. I do not wish to continue to parry criticism that has never been fully formulated. The amount asked for next year is £9,003 which is a gross figure. The nett estimated expenditure on agriculture is actually only £5,029.

"I should like to call attention to a new item which is temporarily under this Head of Expenditure. The item is £50 for a young Junior Meteorological Observer. He is included under Agriculture because until recently Meteorology had its principal work linked with Agriculture. Today it has become a science which is indispensable to flying. The Falkland Islands will, of course, have its own inter-insular air service and that, apart from any international requirements, alone makes the maintenance of a Meteorological Station or Stations inevitable. I think it only right that we should provide an opportunity for young Falkland Islanders to enter more or less as Apprentices into what will probably become a great international service. For the moment such a service has not been defined but there is no doubt that there must be either an international or Imperial one. The Falkland Islands are of extreme value and at the present moment the observations made here are considered to be of the utmost importance in South Africa as well as in South America. You will find included under Public Works Extraordinary the sum of £600 for the erection of a small Meteorological Station, that is, the building. I am in communication with the Admiralty on this subject, in which I am personally very much interested. I should greatly like to see a Falkland Islands international Meteorological Station manned exclusively by Falkland Islanders. Weather is the general topic of our conversation. No one can deny that we are weather-minded and I should like to take this opportunity of thanking publicly the following voluntary observers, who, as part of their contribution to the war effort, have undertaken this responsible work :- Mr. A. G. Barton, Mr. J. Peck-Betts, Mr. W. B. Myles, Mrs. E. S. Smith, the late Mrs. G. M. Goddard, Mrs. B. Elliot, Mr. K. V. Lellman, Mrs. J. Hansen, Mr. & Mrs. J. Ferguson and Mr. W. J. Lewis.

"Head XVII. MISCELLANEOUS shows an increase of approximately £3,000 of which half is a token provision for investment in a Suspense Account of monies received from the sale of Dependencies Stamps and the other half is the anticipated increase in passages. You will observe, too, that there is an item of £230 classified as Town Hall Fire. This represents chiefly the cost of the replacement of safes and other equipment.

"Heads XVIII. & XIX. PUBLIC WORKS do not call for any comment.

"Head XX. PUBLIC WORKS EXTRAORDINARY. I am asking for £3,000, £1,250 of which is for a new dental block and maids quarters at the hospital. The present maids' quarters are in a sorry condition, which should be remedied at once. This entails the re-arrangement of the dentistry. Provision is also made for the reconditioning and extension of the jetty at Fox Bay. It is proposed to undertake this necessary work in conjunction with Messrs. Packe Brothers.

"Head XXI. As Members are aware, it is impossible to estimate the requirements for 1945 and the amount for which I am asking covers a very rough guess.

"Of the Bills which are laid before you five are Bills of Consolidation and require no explanation. They are already the law. You might, therefore, perhaps think it unnecessary to worry but, as an example, take the Control and Licensing of Dogs Bill. Five former Ordinances are repealed and consolidated. The same number are repealed under the Consolidated Dangerous Drugs Bill. I am presenting an enabling Bill to control fishing in anticipation of the possibility of these waters being used under the post-war world food production scheme. There is also a law to control the importation of plants which has long been required and at the request of the farmers there is an amendment of the Livestock Ordinance. There is also a modernization of the Cinematograph Exhibitions Control and three formal Bills, one of which concerns the revision of the Laws, the second amends the Probate Law and the third is the supplementary Appropriation Ordinance, 1943.

"That, Gentlemen, is the business before us. May God bless our deliberations".

Report on Education in the Colony for the year 1943.

PART I.

Preface.

1. The population of the Falkland Islands is all-British and numbers about 2,500, and educational provision is correspondingly limited. About half the people live in the one town of Stanley, the rest being scattered either in small settlements or isolated shepherds' houses over an area about the size of Yorkshire. The whole country outside Stanley is called the "Camp". Education in Stanley is compulsory between the ages of five and fourteen, but this cannot be enforced in the "Camp".

2. The Educational facilities fall into three groups :

- (a) Schools in Stanley.
- (b) Schools at Darwin and North Arm controlled by the Falkland Islands Company.
- (c) Tuition by itinerant teachers in the "Camp".

Stanley.

3. A Government School is maintained from Public Funds. The curriculum and time table are much the same as in an English primary school, and in addition there is a full time Continuation Class which provides a two-year course of further education. A scheme of boarding allowances, to assist "Camp" parents to send their children to Stanley for schooling, has been in operation for many years. Until the evacuation of the Stanley children in 1942 there was also a Convent School, taught by Roman Catholic Sisters; but this school was closed during the evacuation, and has not yet been re-opened.

Darwin and North Arm.

4. The Falkland Islands Company maintains a school at each of these two settlements for the children of its employees. They are not assisted or inspected by the Government.

The "Camp".

5. The Government provides a number of itinerant teachers on the East and West Falklands. These teachers travel from house to house, mainly on horseback but in some cases by boat; they usually stay a fortnight at each house. The houses are often isolated, and the teacher usually has to travel for several hours before reaching the next place where there are children to be taught. Each teacher has a "beat" which he covers as a rule about four times a year. At the conclusion of his stay at each place, he sends a report to Stanley, giving a detailed account of work done, a list of books or material wanted, and so on. The Superintendent of Education makes tours of inspection during the school summer holidays, normally visiting every child under tuition once every two years.

6. The Falkland Islands Company also maintains three itinerant teachers for work on its extensive farms on the East Falkland; as with the Company's schools at Darwin and North Arm, their work is not subject to Government inspection.

PART II.

Administration and Staffing.

7. The authorised establishment of the Education Department for 1943 was as follows :

Superintendent of Education & Headmaster, Govt. School	}	Holders of University Degrees or Board of Education Teachers' Certificates.
Assistant Master
Assistant Mistress
Infant Mistress
Second Assistant Master	}	Uncertificated with experience in United Kingdom.
Five Assistant Teachers		Locally Trained.
One Temporary Teacher
One Travelling Teacher		Certificated by Board of Education.
Four Travelling Teachers		Locally Trained.
One Clerk.

8. At the beginning of the year, owing to the resignation of one of the travelling teachers in December 1942, one of the five travelling teachers' posts mentioned in paragraph 7 was vacant. It was not possible to find a suitable man either locally or in the United Kingdom to fill this post; so although the Travelling Teachers had hitherto always been men, it was eventually decided to appoint, as an experiment, two young women to divide this teachers' beat between them. Further reference to these appointments is made in paragraphs 20 and 21.

9. In August the Superintendent of Education and Headmaster of the Government School, Mr. T. D. Evans, went to England on leave, his duties being carried out during his absence by Mr. H. L. Baker, the Senior Assistant Master.

10. The staffing of the Government School was adequate until towards the end of the year, by which time the number of children in the Infants' Department had increased so much that it was putting a severe strain on the three teachers employed there. Education in the "Camp" was still handicapped throughout the year by the difficulty of obtaining sufficient suitable teachers, and by the consequent size of their beats.

Finance.

12. The expenditure under Head XII Education of the annual estimates of expenditure was £3997 : 16 : 5 as compared with £3266 : 3 : 9 in 1942. The revenue collected in 1943 amounted to £203 : 11 : 5 as against £22 : 9 : 10 in 1942. Details of expenditure and revenue in 1943 are as follows :

EXPENDITURE	£	s.	d.	REVENUE	£	s.	d.
1. Personal Emoluments	3215	12	5	1. School Fees	173	10	11
2. Other Charges	782	4	0	2. Sale of School Materials	30	0	6
	£3997	16	5		£203	11	5

Government School.

13. In an attempt to make up for some of the schooling lost during the unsettled evacuation year, the school hours were increased from four and a half to five hours per day, and the school year was planned to start a month earlier than usual, on January 4th, and to continue until Thursday December 23rd, with only two short holidays, each of a week's duration, during that time. The early start was however offset to some extent by an unexpected break during the winter, when an epidemic of influenza in the town first caused a large number of absences from school, and finally necessitated the complete closure of the school for a fortnight.

14. Some difficulty was experienced over accommodation during the year. For the first month part of the school was still occupied by military forces, and the Continuation Class met in the Public Library, as at the end of 1942. The Infants' Department remained throughout the year in the Gymnasium of St. Mary's School, which had been fitted up for this purpose at the end of 1942; but with a large number of new entrants during the year, even this additional accommodation became overcrowded by the end of the year.

15. The curriculum of the school was in most points similar to that followed in previous years. Some of the work (especially the art and craft work) was hampered by war-time difficulties in obtaining materials. The cookery classes for senior girls had to be abandoned completely, as the domestic science centre had been taken over by the naval authorities. Less sports were played than in most years, because exceptionally heavy demands on the town's playing fields caused them to become unfit for use earlier in the winter than is usual. Physical training in the Stanley Gymnasium was also curtailed to some extent, as the use of the building for other purposes rendered it frequently unsuitable for the children's exercises. As far as possible, these difficulties over sports and physical training were overcome by the use of the school playground; but as the playground is of concrete, and is separated from the street by only a low paling fence, some of its limitations are obvious. A new course in Nature Study was begun throughout the school, the course including both a general study of natural science and a more detailed study of the Falkland Islands flora and fauna. The senior boys' courses in woodwork and gardening were continued, and in addition classes in agricultural science were organised for the same boys, the lessons being conducted by officers of the Agricultural Department.

16. All pupils were medically and dentally examined during the year. The small number who required further medical attention visited the hospital in their leisure hours, but arrangements were made for the larger number who needed dental treatment to go to the dental clinic during school hours.

17. The annual open day and exhibition of work was held in December and as usual attracted a considerable number of parents and friends of the children. Particular interest was shown in the large display of excellent needlework done by the girls; some pencil and pastel drawings and models of warships made by the senior boys also received high praise.

18. At the prize-giving ceremony at the end of the year His Excellency the Governor presented the prizes and addressed the gathering on the educational policy of the Colony. The display usually given by the children at the ceremony was cancelled this year, as it was felt that the lengthy preparations needed for a display which became each year more elaborate interfered too much with the work being done in the school in view of the leeway which still had to be made up after the evacuation.

19. An Old Pupils' Association was formed during the year. Membership is open not only to ex-pupils of the Government School but also to those who have been educated in the "Camp" by the Government Travelling Teachers. By its provision of a varied programme of social and cultural activities, including talks, cinema shows, dances and whist drives, the Association has made a valuable contribution to the life of the town.

The "Camp"

20. During 1943 two travelling teachers were employed on the East Falkland, teaching between them 33 children in 11 different places. On the West Falkland the replacement of one male teacher by two young women raised the number of teachers employed there to four; these four teachers had under their tuition a total of 51 children in 20 different places.

21. The experiment of appointing two young women as teachers in the place of one man proved highly successful. In the first place, doubling the number of teachers on that beat meant that the teachers' visits to each house were more frequent, and the children's education naturally benefited; in the second place, while the women maintained as good discipline as the men with the older children, they were in most respects more suitable as teachers for the younger children; and in the third place, women "fit in" better in many ways in the houses where they stay. The success of the experiment in this case does not however mean that women would necessarily be preferable to men as travelling teachers in all cases, as conditions vary greatly in different parts of the "Camp".

22. In addition to being taught by the Travelling Teachers during their periodical visits, the children living in San Carlos settlement and at a shepherd's house nearby were taught very capably for two hours a day throughout the year by Mrs. V. Bonner, wife of the manager of San Carlos Station. The Government paid a subsidy in respect of this work.

23. As in previous years, the short time at the teachers' disposal during their stay at each house obliged them to concentrate most of their attention on arithmetic and the various branches of English, but a little work in history, geography and drawing was done by some children. The "Camp" library continued in circulation; the use made of it by the different children varied considerably, but some children gained a great deal of benefit from it.

24. The boarding allowances granted by the Government for "Camp" children coming in to school in Stanley remained at the same rate as in previous years; in 1943, however, only eleven children, or less than half the number for 1941, took advantage of the grants. This low figure is probably to be attributed mainly to the break caused by the evacuation in 1942, and to greatly increased difficulties in finding homes for the "Camp" children in Stanley in 1943.

25. The Superintendent of Education planned his annual tour in the "Camp" for the early part of the year, but pressure of other work prevented him from carrying it out.

26. Further details of education in the "Camp" together with recommendations for improving it, can be found in the Educational Survey of the Colony submitted by the Superintendent of Education in 1943.

Government Scholarships to Montevideo.

27. Details of the Government's scheme for granting scholarships to enable Falkland Islands children to go to the British School in Montevideo can be found in the Report on Education in the Colony for 1942.

28. The first two pupils to be granted scholarships, both girls, proceeded to Montevideo in March.

29. The two girls settled down in their new surroundings remarkably quickly. They made a good impression in the school by their ability in their school work and by their general conduct. Besides making good progress in their school work during the year, they also found time out of school hours to take part in a variety of activities, such as the Girl Guides, which contributed to a noticeable broadening of their outlook and increase in their self-confidence.

30. The two girls were very well looked after in every way while they were in Montevideo, and a great deal of the credit for the success of the scheme is due to the staff of the British School and of the girls' boarding-house, who took a keen personal interest in the girls' welfare and who spared no pains to make their stay in Montevideo both profitable and enjoyable.

31. In November an examination was held in English, Mathematics, and General Intelligence for all candidates for the two scholarships for 1944. After considering the results of this examination, and the school record, general ability and character of the candidates, the Scholarship Selection Committee awarded one scholarship to a girl and one to a boy.

Evening Classes.

32. The presence in Stanley of comparatively large contingents of armed forces from overseas made possible the organisation of winter evening classes on a scale previously unknown in the Colony.

33. The classes, organised by the Army Education Officer and the Superintendent of Education jointly, were open to civilians and members of armed forces alike. Some of the classes were held in the Government School, others in Army huts. No fees were charged for any of the classes.

34. The subjects studied included English Literature, History, Modern Languages, Mathematics, and scientific and commercial subjects; languages and commercial subjects were the most popular.

35. Out of a total of about two hundred enrolments for the various classes several dozen were from civilians. Not all the students who enrolled for classes attended them, however, and there was a marked tendency in most classes for the number of students to diminish for some time, until a certain level was reached at which attendances remained more or less steady.

36. The classes, intended only for the winter and early spring, stopped when the summer came.

Apology.

37. An apology is offered for the late presentation of this report; mail delays made it impossible to complete certain of the tables until towards the end of the year.

H. L. BAKER,

Superintendent of Education.

No. 19. M.P. 114/44. 30th May, 1945.

The following notice issued by the Ministry of War transport in the United Kingdom is published for general information :—

"Shipping companies both here and overseas are receiving many applications for the reservation of passages on ocean liners. In order to remove any misconception which might arise from the registration by the Shipping Companies of these applications, the Ministry of War Transport wishes to emphasise that until some considerable time after the war with Japan, the present severe shortage of passenger accommodation, except for high priority passengers, is likely to continue on all ocean routes. This shortage is caused by the heavy demands on shipping for the conveyance of troops and others directly connected with the war effort. All ships with passenger accommodation will remain under the control of the governments concerned in accordance with the Agreement (Agreement on Principles having reference to the continuance of co-ordinated control of Merchant Shipping, issued as a White Paper on 26th September, 1944) recently reached between the main maritime Allies in London, and it will be necessary to continue for some time the present priority arrangements for ocean travel."

WILLIAM CHARLES RUMBOLDS, Esq., J.P.,

Customs Officer, to be Officer-in-Charge, South Georgia, during the absence on leave of Major A. I. Fleuret, M.B.E., J.P., Magistrate, South Georgia, with effect from the 11th of August, 1945.

No. 31. M.P. 61/41. 27th August, 1945.

His Excellency the Governor directs it to be notified for general information, that the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies has approved the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure of the Colony of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies for the year 1945.

No. 32. M.P. 35/45. 28th August, 1945.

His Excellency the Governor directs the publication for general information, of the following telegrams exchanged on the occasion of Victory over Japan.

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, 18th August, 1945.

"Following is the text of message from His Majesty the King to all His Navies, Armies and Air Forces throughout the Empire, begins :-

"The surrender of Japan has brought to a victorious end a war which has engaged our full fighting strength all over the world. I send my heartfelt congratulations to the men and women of my Navies, Armies and Air Forces throughout the British Commonwealth and Empire.

"Through long years of grim struggle with your enemies in the West and in the East your unflinching resolution and indomitable courage in the face of manifold adversities have earned you the eternal gratitude of your countrymen.

"Many of your comrades have fallen in the fighting. With you I grieve for their loss, for the suffering wounded and for the sorrow of the bereaved. With you I look forward to the homecoming of those who have had to endure captivity.

"By God's mercy, the forces of evil have been overthrown. But many tasks remain to be accomplished if the full blessings of peace are to be restored to a suffering world.

"It is the duty of each one of us to ensure that your comrades have not died in vain and that your own hard won achievements are not lost to the causes of freedom, in which you undertook them. On behalf of all my people I thank you. God Bless you all."

GEORGE R. I. Ends.

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, 15th August, 1945.

"Final victory over forces of aggression has been achieved. It is a source of great pride to me that one of my first tasks in office should be to send you such a message. It is little more than 3 months since Colonel Stanley sent to all Colonial territories a message telling them of the surrender of Germany. We all knew then that the capitulation of Japan was only a matter of time and that the tribulation of those territories which had been over run or ravaged by a barbarous aggressor were drawing to an end, but little did any of us think the end was so near. Let us thank God in all humility that the task has been so quickly completed; that this horrible slaughter and destruction are now ended and that the efforts of mankind can once more be devoted to the happiness of mankind. To all of you I send congratulations on the occasion of victory and warmest thanks of His Majesty's Government and of the people of Great Britain for the loyal and generous part that all the varied communities of the British Colonial Empire have played in achieving it. Your contribution has been a noble and valuable one, and has shown itself in material and varied forms: in service in the armed forces and Merchant Navy and in the Civil Defence; in helping to produce vital materials of war; in maintenance of essential services in your own land; in gifts and loans of money you have made for furtherance of the war; and in voluntary welfare work and hospitality for His Majesty's forces. The Chief of Staffs of the three fighting services have asked me specially to associate them with this message of thanks."

"Let us hope, pray and work together to build from desolation of war a new and prosperous era of peace and goodwill among nations."

From His Excellency the Governor to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, 15th August, 1945.

"I should be grateful if you would submit to His Majesty on my behalf and that of all those of his subjects in the Falkland Islands and their Dependencies our humble duty and an expression of our pride in and deep thanksgiving for the glorious and final victory which God has given to his arms."

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, 22nd August, 1945.

"I have laid your telegram before the King who desires me to convey to you and his subjects in the Falkland Islands and Dependencies an expression of his sincere appreciation of the message of loyalty on the occasion of the capitulation of Japan."

From His Excellency the Governor to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, 15th August, 1945.

"I should be grateful if you would convey to the Prime Minister on behalf of this Colony and of those now serving their country in the Antarctic our heartfelt congratulations on the glorious and final victory which under God's guidance has been given to the United Nations and our gratitude for the magnificent leadership given to the whole Empire throughout the war by His Majesty's Government."

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, 23rd August, 1945.

"The message contained in your telegram on the occasion of the capitulation of Japan has been delivered to the Prime Minister who has asked me to convey to you and all concerned an expression of his thanks for the message."

From His Excellency the Governor to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, 15th August, 1945.

"On this glorious occasion I send you on behalf of all the Colonists of the Falkland Islands and those who are wintering in the Antarctic our most cordial greetings. This has been a day of great joy here, of pride in the achievements of the Colonial Empire, and of humble gratitude to God."

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, 21st August, 1945.

"I very much appreciate your good wishes on the capitulation of Japan which I heartily reciprocate."

From the Secretary of State for the Colonies to His Excellency the Governor, 16th August, 1945.

"Grateful if, as soon as possible, you will pass following message to all ranks of armed forces of Falkland Islands, begins:—

"The capitulation of Japan has a significance which goes far beyond the defeat of our far Eastern enemy. After 6 years of conflict in which forces drawn from all parts of the British Commonwealth and Empire have been engaged, victorious peace has now crowned our exertions."

"To those serving in the armed forces of the Falkland Islands I send this message of admiration and gratitude for their contribution to the common victory."

"Although peace has now come, to ensure its maintenance there are important tasks ahead. I am confident that in execution of those tasks, discipline and sense of duty and high purpose shown in this war will once again be made manifest and that under God's providence those who have served in the armed forces will play their part in building a better world."

From His Excellency the Governor to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, 22nd August, 1945.

"The Falkland Islands Defence Force gratefully appreciate the kindly view which you have taken of the comparatively small services they have been able to render towards the final victory."

From His Excellency the Governor to the Naval Officer-in-Charge, Falkland Islands, 15th August, 1945.

"I should be grateful if you would convey to the Commander-in-Chief, South Atlantic, on my behalf and that of all the people in the Colony and its Dependencies, our expression of our deep gratitude for the magnificent part played by the Royal Navy in this great and final victory. We in these remote Islands are particularly conscious of what we owe to the Navy and especially to the Officers and Men of the South Atlantic Division. For nearly six long years you have protected us, maintained our food supplies and kept us in communication with the world. This is a service we shall not forget and a debt which we can never repay."

"Would you please also convey the sense of this message to the Officers and Men under your command and wish them from me a speedy return to their homes and families."

From the Naval Officer-in-Charge, Falkland Islands, to His Excellency the Governor, 17th August, 1945.

"I had great pleasure in communicating your kind message of appreciation not only to the Commander-in-Chief, South Atlantic, but also to the Officers and Men under my command. I have received a reply to your message from the Commander-in-Chief which I am attaching."

"During the past six years when so great a burden has been borne by the naval and mercantile services, it has been a great help to realize that we have been supported in our vital task by the prayers and help of our kinsmen ashore and that those of us who have been exiled from our friends and families at home have received such kindness and hospitality wherever the lot of war may have cast us."

From the Commander-in-Chief, South Atlantic, to His Excellency the Governor, 17th August, 1945.

"We thank you most sincerely for your kind message. The vital importance of the distant outpost of our Empire in your Islands is ever in our minds and we are deeply appreciative of your steadfastness and help in the long struggle from which, by God's Grace, we have emerged victorious."

No. 33. M.P. 61/41. 29th August, 1945.

Report on Education in the Colony for the year 1944.

PART I.

Preface.

1. The population of the Falkland Islands is almost entirely British. It totals only about 2,400, and educational provision is correspondingly limited. About half the people live in the one town of Stanley, the rest being scattered either in small settlements or isolated shepherds' houses over an area about the size of Yorkshire. The whole country outside Stanley is called the "Camp". Education in Stanley is compulsory between the ages of five and fourteen, but this cannot be enforced in the "Camp".

2. The Educational facilities fall into three groups :

- (a) Schools in Stanley.
- (b) Small schools in a few of the settlements.
- (c) Tuition by itinerant teachers in the rest of the Camp.

Stanley.

3. A Government School is maintained from Public Funds. The curriculum and time-table are much the same as in an English primary school, and in addition there is a full-time Continuation Class which provides a two-year course of further education beyond Standard 6. A scheme of boarding allowances, to assist Camp parents to send their children to Stanley for schooling, has been in operation for many years. Until the evacuation of the Stanley children in 1942 there was also a Convent School, taught by Roman Catholic Sisters; but this school was closed during the evacuation, and has not yet been re-opened.

Settlement Schools.

4. There are not many settlements with enough children to justify the establishment of schools there. At San Carlos and Teal Inlet, however, small schools are now conducted by part-time teachers; the Government assists these schools financially, and supervises the work done in them. The Falkland Islands Company also maintains two part-time schools, one at Darwin and the other at North Arm, for the children of its employees; these schools are not assisted or inspected by the Government.

Tuition in the rest of the Camp.

5. The Government provides a number of itinerant teachers on the East and West Falklands. These teachers travel from house to house, mainly on horseback but sometimes by boat, and teach the children in their homes; they usually stay a fortnight or a month at each house. The houses are often isolated, and the teacher usually has to travel for several hours before reaching the next place where there are children to be taught. Each teacher has a "beat" which he covers as a rule about four times a year. At the conclusion of his stay at each place, he sends in a report (formerly to the Superintendent of Education in Stanley, now to the Supervisor of Camp Education), giving a detailed account of work done, progress made by the children, and so on. It has been customary for the Superintendent of Education to make tours of inspection during the school summer holidays, normally visiting every child under tuition once every two years.

6. The Falkland Islands Company also maintains a few travelling teachers (varying from two to four during 1944) for work on its extensive farms on the East Falkland; as with the Company's schools at Darwin and North Arm, the work of these teachers is not subject to Government inspection, nor is any financial assistance given by the Government.

7. Two important developments in the Government's system of Camp education were made during 1944. One was the appointment of a full-time Supervisor of Camp Education, who travels round the Camp, supervising and organising the educational work done there; he does not visit the parts of the Camp where the educational facilities are provided by the Falkland Islands Company. The second development, of an experimental nature, was the institution of daily educational broadcasts to the children in the Camp. Further details of these two developments will be found in paragraphs 35 and 36 of this report.

PART II.

Administration and Staffing.

8. The authorised establishment of the Education Department at the beginning of 1944 was as follows :

Superintendent of Education & Headmaster, Govt. School	}	Holders of University Degrees or Board of Education Teachers' Certificates.
Assistant Master
Two Assistant Mistresses (one for infants, one for seniors).
Second Assistant Master	}	Uncertificated with experience in United Kingdom.
Three Assistant Teachers		Locally Trained.
One Temporary Teacher
Two Pupil Teachers.
One Travelling Teacher		Certificated by Board of Education.
Five Travelling Teachers		Locally Trained.
One Clerk.
One School Caretaker.

9. A good many changes in staff occurred during the year. The first loss came in February, when the Superintendent of Education, Mr. T. D. Evans, was transferred to another Colony; his place was taken by Mr. H. L. Baker, Assistant Master in the Government School.

10. The post of Assistant Master was now vacant. In view of the difficulty of obtaining male teachers from the United Kingdom, an attempt was made to fill the post locally; two successive temporary appointments were however not entirely successful, and at the end of the year the adequate filling of the post still remained one of the major difficulties of the school.

11. Early in the year it was decided not to appoint just yet the two pupil teachers provided for in the Estimates. Instead, another temporary teacher was appointed to assist in the Infants' Department, where an unusually large influx of new entrants during 1943 had made the task of the three teachers already there very difficult.

12. In August the Second Assistant Master, Mr. D. J. Draycott, completed very satisfactorily his three-year term in the Government school, and was appointed to the newly-created post of Supervisor of Camp Education. His place in the school was taken by Mr. F. T. Lellman, a locally-trained man with nine years' experience as a Travelling Teacher.

13. At the end of the year, the two Assistant Mistresses, Miss P. F. Ryder and Miss H. Brown, also completed three-year terms of valuable service in the Colony, and returned to the United Kingdom.

14. During the year, one of the male Travelling Teachers was granted leave of absence to serve in the Royal Navy for the duration of the war, while two others, Mr. R. Rice and Mr. F. T. Lellman, who wished for a more settled life than that of the Travelling Teacher, were transferred to other work in the Education Department. Mr. Lellman's appointment to the post of Second Assistant Master in the Government School has already been mentioned in paragraph 12. Mr. R. Rice, the only certificated Travelling Teacher, had originally been engaged in the United Kingdom as a Travelling Teacher, for three years, but had served for four; after a period of work in the Government School, he was put in charge of the educational broadcasts to the Camp begun in the latter part of the year. This loss of three Travelling Teachers from the Camp was balanced by the appointment, in the course of the year, of three new ones (one man and two women); and in addition a teacher-storekeeper was engaged for Teal Inlet Settlement by the manager of the station, with the help of a Government subsidy (see paragraph 32).

15. Apart from the difficulty over an Assistant Master, the staffing of the Government School for the year was adequate. The staff dealing particularly with Camp education was considerably improved during the year by the additional appointments made (a Supervisor of Camp Education, a teacher for educational broadcasts, and one extra teacher in the Camp); at the end of the year, however, there still remained room for further improvement (see paragraphs 29 and 30).

Government School.

18. The Government School opened early in February and closed just before Christmas, as usual. The normal week's holiday at the end of June was however increased to a fortnight, on account of work being done in the school in connection with the installation of a new heating system. The week's holiday at the end of September was observed as usual. The extra half-hour added to the daily timetable in 1943 (making the length of the school day five hours in all) was retained as a permanent change designed to help in the gradual raising of the educational standard of the school.

19. As the accommodation available in the Government School itself was barely sufficient for the classes from Standard 1 upwards, the infant classes continued to meet, as in 1943, in buildings formerly used as part of St. Mary's School; one additional room in these buildings was rented in 1944, to provide accommodation for a larger number of children, and to afford more scope for indoor activity.

20. In June a new heating system was installed in the main building of the school to replace the old one, which had been in the school for many years and was no longer efficient. The new system made a marked difference to the warmth and comfort of the classrooms. The hot water water pipes were also made to pass through the cloak-rooms, between the rows of coat-pegs, thus giving better drying facilities than had previously existed. It was not possible to connect the Continuation Class room (in a separate building) with this new heating system, but an improvement was made there too by installing a second slow combustion stove in the room.

21. The curriculum of the school was in most points similar to that followed in previous years. Some of the work was hampered by war-time difficulties in obtaining materials. The course in nature study begun in 1943, and the senior boys' courses in woodwork, gardening and agricultural science were continued during the year, and as usual particular attention was paid to handwork throughout the school. As the domestic science centre was still occupied by naval personnel, it was again not possible to hold the former cookery classes for the senior girls; in the place of these classes, some of the senior girls took lessons in shorthand and typing, while others devoted the extra time to art classes. The physical training work of the school suffered a set-back early in the year, when first of all difficulties over lighting and ventilation in the Public Gymnasium hampered the classes, and then the destruction of the Town Hall by fire, and the consequent use of the Gymnasium for other purposes, made it an unsuitable place for the children's physical training classes; but the situation improved when the Falkland Islands Defence Force came to the rescue, and generously lent its Drill Hall for these classes. With the town's playing fields in better condition this year, out-of-door sports fared better; and besides the regular games in sports periods, a number of games were organised, at the children's request, out of school hours—some between teams from the school, and some against outside teams. Parties at the end of each term were a much-enjoyed feature of the life of the Infants' Department. In connection with their work in civics, the pupils of the Continuation Class had an excellent opportunity of studying at first hand some of the proceedings they had been learning about, when a public enquiry was held into the fire which destroyed the Town Hall; the children took it in turns to attend the sessions of the Court, and to report the proceedings to the rest of the class. A practical task carried out by the children in connection with their work in hygiene was a survey of the distribution of the house-fly in the town. In carrying out its varied curriculum, the school was greatly assisted by a number of helpers from outside the Education Department—officers of several Government Departments, officers and men of the Naval Meteorological Office, and men of the military forces stationed in the Colony; and warm thanks are due to them for their generous assistance.

22. A scheme put forward by the Imperial Institute for correspondence between school-children here and in the United Kingdom (part of a wider Empire Correspondence Scheme) was received enthusiastically by the pupils of the school; altogether 66 children submitted their names as wishing to take part in the scheme.

23. All pupils were medically examined during the year, but it was not practicable this year to carry out a thorough dental examination, as the dentist was kept too busy attending not only to the civilian population but also to the military and naval forces stationed here.

24. In the course of the year the school received three visits from His Excellency the Governor, one on the occasion of the Open Day and Show of Work, another in connection with St. George's Day, and the third on Trafalgar Day. On the two last-mentioned occasions, he addressed the senior pupils, and granted the school a holiday for the rest of the day; he also granted a half-holiday in honour of the liberation of Paris, when the news of this event came through. The keen personal interest taken by His Excellency in the school and all its activities is much appreciated by the children and the staff.

25. The annual Open Day and Show of Work, held in December, again attracted a large number of parents and friends of the children. There was a good display of needlework, wordwork and handwork of various sorts, but it was the excellent work in art (including pencil and Indian ink drawings, pastels, and paintings in water colours and powder colours) that attracted most attention.

26. At the prize-giving ceremony at the end of the year His Excellency the Governor presented the prizes and addressed the large gathering of children and their parents and friends on the educational needs of the Colony.

27. The Old Pupils' Association formed in 1943 continued to thrive; throughout the winter it provided its members with a varied programme of social and cultural activities, including talks, cinema shows, dances and whist drives; many of its meetings were held in the school.

The Camp.

28. In the absence on leave of the Superintendent of Education Mr. H. L. Baker, the Officer in Charge of the Education Department, made a tour of the Camp in the school summer holidays. Thanks to the ready help generously given at every stage by the station managers and the children's parents, it was possible for him, in the short time available, to visit almost all the children being taught by Government Travelling Teachers on both the East and the West Falklands. The general impression gained from the tour was that the parents' interest in their children's education had increased encouragingly in the last few years, but that the existing educational facilities needed a great deal of improvement. To improve Camp education became accordingly one of the chief aims of the Education Department's work for the year.

29. Staffing was seen to be one of the difficulties to be faced. One of the chief disadvantages of the system of travelling teachers here is that if the teacher's beat is large, his visits to each place are infrequent, and the parents often lack either the time or the ability to give the children the help they need with their homework in the long intervals between the teacher's visits; it was therefore the policy of the Education Department during the year to reduce the sizes of the teacher's beats as much as possible.

On the West Falklands, at the beginning of 1944, there were four Travelling Teachers, teaching altogether 49 children in 18 different places; 6 more children, in 4 new places, were to begin school work as soon as a Travelling Teacher could visit them. The teachers' beats were not all equal in size; two were satisfactory, one was already too large, and the fourth threatened to become too large very soon. A slight regrouping of the beats was carried out to reduce the size of the largest one, but the most satisfactory solution of the difficulty appeared to be to appoint two extra teachers and so to reduce the size of the beats to an average of 3 or 4 places each. The attempt to carry out this plan was however only partly successful; besides the teacher who took the place of the one who was granted leave of absence to join the Navy, one extra teacher was engaged, thus allowing one of the two large beats to be split up; but by the end of the year the Department was still unable to find a teacher to split up the other large beat, so that, although in fact various factors had in the meantime reduced the size of the beat, the position there was still not entirely satisfactory.

On the East Falkland, at the beginning of 1944, there were two Travelling Teachers (Mr. Rice and Mr. Lellman), teaching between them 30 children in 10 different places; the children living in San Carlos Settlement and at a shepherd's house nearby were taught not only by the Travelling Teacher, but also for two hours a day, in the teacher's absence, by Mrs. V. Bonner, wife of the manager of San Carlos Station. When Mr. Rice left the Camp, the work on the East Falkland was carried on by Mr. Lellman and Mrs. Bonner until a new teacher was appointed (the number of places to be visited by the Travelling Teacher having in the meantime been reduced by two). Although it was not possible to replace Mr. Lellman by another Travelling Teacher when he was transferred to the Government School, a resident teacher-storekeeper for Teal Inlet Settlement was engaged shortly afterwards by the manager of the station (see paragraph 32); and as the number of places needing to be visited by the Travelling Teacher had by now shrunk to 5, the number of teachers on the East Falkland could be considered satisfactory.

30. The tour mentioned in paragraph 28 revealed that most of the Travelling Teachers (though not all) were carrying out their duties conscientiously, and were achieving good results. Some, however, were hampered in their work by the fact that their own education had not gone much beyond the stage their more advanced pupils had reached; and some had had little or no training as teachers. Efforts were made during the year to improve this state of affairs. When teachers visited Stanley on local leave during the winter, their leave was extended to allow them to be given help with their private studies and a period of training in the Government School (particularly in infant work). Of the new Travelling Teachers appointed during the year, two had already had experience (and in one case some training) as teachers; the third Travelling Teacher, and the resident teacher engaged for Teal Inlet, were given short courses of training in Stanley before they began their work in the Camp. The training carried out in 1944 represents however only a small beginning of the large task of raising the standard of the Camp teachers.

31. The small part-time school at San Carlos carried on its work in 1944 on the same lines as in the past few years, Mrs. Bonner teaching for two hours a day in the Travelling Teacher's absence, and the station receiving a subsidy in respect of her work. The school meets in her house, in a room that has been specially set aside and fitted up for the purpose. Mrs. Bonner has herself gone to considerable trouble in equipping the room properly, and great credit is due to her for the capable way in which the school is managed. The success of the school is evident from the good progress made by its pupils.

32. The school at Teal Inlet, to which some reference has already been made, is a new development. As there seemed likely to be a fairly large number of children in Teal Inlet Settlement for some time, an arrangement was made with Mr. A. G. Barton, the manager of Teal Inlet Station, for the appointment of a resident teacher-storekeeper there. It was agreed that this teacher-storekeeper should be employed and paid by the station, and that the Government should pay the station a subsidy in respect of his services as a teacher; his teaching hours would be 4½ hours a day for five days a week and 43 weeks a year (that is, nearly the same hours as in the Government School in Stanley), and in educational matters he would act under the guidance and supervision of the appropriate officers of the Education Department. The man appointed to this position was Mr. O. McPhee, a former Government Travelling Teacher; he began his work at Teal Inlet early in October, after a short period of training in Stanley. The school meets in a building that was used as a school many years ago, and was later converted into a small two-roomed cottage; it has now been altered again to make a comfortable schoolroom with a small porch. Outside, Mr. McPhee is making the school attractive with gardens and stone paths. Mr. McPhee is conscientious in his work and popular with the children and parents, and he enters fully into the life of the settlement; altogether he is making a great success of the work at Teal Inlet. From the beginning, Mr. Barton has in many ways given very generous assistance with the scheme.

33. The range of subjects taught in the Camp was considerably broadened during 1944. The Travelling Teachers still give most of their time to arithmetic and the various branches of English, but the increasing frequency of their visits to each place (due to the reduction in size of their beats), and the provision of a better supply of text books, made it possible for them to give more attention to other subjects. History, geography and handwork (including drawing, knitting, weaving, cardboard modelling and toy-making) became general throughout the Camp; most teachers also gave some scripture teaching, and some took work in hygiene and nature study. In cases where the teachers did not feel competent to teach certain subjects, the gaps were often filled in by the educational broadcasts. In the schools at San Carlos and Teal Inlet, the curriculum included most of the work done in an ordinary junior school.

34. Better supplies of text-books, exercise-books and other school materials were sent to the Camp during 1944; shortages of certain articles in Stanley, however, hindered this work to some extent, and the position will not be entirely satisfactory until considerable fresh supplies can be obtained from the United Kingdom – a slow process in war-time, when firms cannot always supply all that is ordered.

35. One of the most important developments in Camp education during the year was the appointment of a full-time Supervisor of Camp Education. Even with the help of the Travelling Teachers' fortnightly reports, and periodical tours made in the Camp, it was not possible for the Superintendent of Education in Stanley to supervise the work in the Camp as effectively as was desirable, or to give promptly all the help the teachers required; and it was felt that a person was needed who could give his undivided attention to this work, and who would spend most of his time actually in the Camp. Accordingly, on the conclusion of his contract as Second Assistant Master in the Government School in Stanley, Mr. D. J. Draycott was appointed as Supervisor of Camp Education. After a short time spent in studying infant work in Stanley, he began his work in the Camp in September. His duties are to travel round the Camp, organising and supervising the teachers' work there and helping them in their difficulties. His appointment is proving of great value in the attempt to improve Camp education.

36. A scheme of educational broadcasts to the Camp was started, as an experiment, in the latter part of 1944. The two chief aims of the scheme were to encourage and help the children with their homework in the intervals between the teachers' visits, and to supplement the teachers' work by talks on a wide range of topics. Information about school broadcasting was sought from New Zealand and the Central Council for School Broadcasting in England. Mr. R. Rice, a Government Travelling Teacher until the beginning of 1944, made a tour of the West Falkland to explain and discuss the scheme with parents, and further publicity was given in the local newspaper and in the weekly news broadcasts to the Camp.

The educational broadcasts began in October, on a frequency of 83 metres. They were given for an hour each afternoon, the hour's work being divided into four short lessons, separated from each other by musical interludes. A quarter of the total time was allotted to reading for infants and juniors, as that was a branch of work in which the children greatly needed help in the teacher's absence; the other work done included mental arithmetic, English, history, geography, nature study and general science, hygiene and scripture; the week ended with "question time," when listeners' questions on any topic were answered. The method of presenting the subject-matter was varied as much as the limited resources of so small a place permitted. The main speaker for the broadcasts was Mr. Rice; but the scripture talks were given by the Reverend W. F. McWhan (the Non-conformist minister in Stanley), and other speakers took part from time to time; the participation of children from the Government School in some of the broadcasts was particularly appreciated. In connection with some of the lessons, exercises to be done by the children as "homework" were set, the work being either corrected by the Travelling Teacher or sent in to Stanley for Mr. Rice to see. Summaries (in some cases full scripts) of the broadcast talks were sent out to all the Camp teachers.

At the end of the year, after three months' trial, it was clear that the scheme was meeting with success: it is true that for various reasons (atmospheric conditions, difficulties of transmission, the number of families with no wireless sets, poor sets, or sets without the necessary 83-metre band, etc.) the number of children who could hear the broadcasts clearly and regularly was less than had been expected – rather less than half the total number of children in the Camp; but the broadcasts were so much appreciated by those who could hear them well (and it was by no means only children that listened and enjoyed them!) that the scheme was decided to be well worth continuing. Plans were accordingly made to carry on with the work in 1945, and to do everything possible to overcome the technical difficulties which were preventing the broadcasts from being heard more widely. The enthusiastic assistance given by the Supervisor of the Electrical and Telegraphs Department in carrying out this scheme is greatly appreciated.

37. At the beginning of 1944 the boarding allowances granted by the Government for Camp children coming in to school in Stanley were raised from £1 to £2 a month. With this additional encouragement, and with the return to more normal conditions in Stanley, the total number of children from the Camp who attended school in Stanley during the year rose to 31; of these 23 attended for periods of more than three months, and 16 for periods of more than six months.

38. To sum up, one may say that the year 1944 was one of marked progress in Camp education, but that further improvement is still needed; efforts to bring about the desired improvement are being continued.

Government Scholarships to Montevideo.

39. In 1944 there were four scholarship pupils from the Falkland Islands at the British School in Montevideo; the two girls who in 1943 were the first holders of the scholarships returned there for their second year, and the girl and the boy who were awarded scholarships at the end of 1943 went there for the first time.

40. The pupils again spent a happy year in Montevideo, being well looked after in every way by the staffs of the British School and of their boarding-house. In their school work all the pupils made good progress; one of the two new scholarship holders (the girl) did particularly well, and won a Form Prize at the end of the year. In sports too the scholarship pupils were well to the fore; two of the girls played hockey in the School First XI, while the boy, besides boxing in the school team, played football on occasions for the School First XI, and won a prize at the School's annual athletic sports contest. The pupils also took part with enthusiasm in various out-of-school activities, such as the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts. The broadening of outlook and increase in self-confidence brought about by these varied activities and by new experiences are not the least valuable of the benefits given to the children by the scholarships.

41. In November an examination was held in English, Mathematics and General Intelligence for all candidates for the two scholarships for 1945. Stanley was the main examination centre, but one candidate sat the examination at Port Howard, on the West Falkland. After considering the results of this examination, and the school record, general ability and character of the candidates, the Scholarship Selection Committee again awarded one scholarship to a girl and one to a boy. Upon the boy's parents declining the scholarship, however, the funds thus made available were used to enable another boy, who had also done very well in the scholarship examination, to go to Montevideo in the place of the original scholarship winner.

42. An anonymous donor has generously offered three prizes (to be known as Falkland Prizes) to be awarded annually in connection with the scholarship examination, to children who are either unsuccessful candidates for the scholarships, or who win scholarships but do not accept the financial assistance offered by them; one at least of these prizes each year is to be given to a child from the Camp. The first award of these Falklands Prizes was made in 1944.

Evening Classes.

43. Evening classes, similar to those held in 1943, were again organised by the Army Education Officer and the Superintendent of Education jointly, for civilians and members of the armed forces alike. Some of the classes were held in the Government School, some at the Army Camp. No fees were charged for any of the classes.

44. As the military garrison, which had provided the chief support for the classes in 1943, was much smaller in 1944, the classes in 1944 were not on as large a scale as in 1943. The subjects studied included Spanish (two classes), Mathematics, Engineering, Shorthand and Art. Attendances at the classes, though naturally smaller than in 1943, were also more regular. The classes, intended only for the winter and early spring, stopped before the beginning of summer.

School Certificate Examination.

45. Arrangements were made for a boy who had been studying here under private tutors to sit the Cambridge School Certificate Examination in Stanley in December 1944; this is the first time the examination has been held in the Colony. News has since been received that the candidate was successful.

2. The minutes of the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 20th of December, 1944, were confirmed.

3. His Excellency the Governor delivered to the Council the following message :

Honourable Members.

We meet to-day to discuss the Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for 1946. That year will be the first one of Peace, but it must inevitably, for at least the next twelve months, be under the heavy influence of war conditions. Therefore, it is more than probable that there will be a second budget session, when we know more nearly the value of money, the trend of a more settled policy and a truer state of the world markets and values. Not one of these can be understood or reasonably guessed at to-day; but it is fairly safe to predict a short period of boom, say until the end of 1948 and then unless some new miracle occurs a standstill in trade of unprecedented magnitude. One must not allow oneself to be blind to the facts. The war has been one of utter destruction in many parts of the world, such destruction that we here can scarcely imagine, and in that general destruction there have disappeared the whole wealth of many nations. With that wealth there has passed away great markets. Central Europe, Eastern Europe, the Far East can no longer afford to buy our products; Russia, India, Africa are to all intents and purposes self-supporting and are also at the moment suffering from the disappearance of wealth and the aftermath of war; other countries may lift their tariff walls to allow our goods to enter, but the reaction of war usually is a tendency to draw back into an isolation as complete as possible protected by customs duties, immigration laws and so on.

This sounds very pessimistic; but it is a fair summary of facts. We, here, in the Falklands depend entirely on our wool exports. Before the war the wool markets as shewn by imports to the various continents were approximately as follows :-

Continent.	Total Imports 1,000 Quintals.	Principal Markets.	Total Imports.
1. Europe	9429.4	{ Germany Belgium France Italy U.K.	{ 1237.3 1064.9 1746.9 526.1 3919.3
2. U. S. S. R. including Asian Republics.	319.3
3. North America	996.3	U. S. A.	919.6
4. South America	5.0
5. Asia	1222.5	Japan	1104.2
6. Africa	20.4
7. Australia	25.2

The disappearance of Germany and Japan from the wool market would seem to be a very serious loss and to indicate a decline in demand that will throw some 2,500 quintals on to an already flooded market. It was stated at the recently held Wool Conference :-

"On the assumptions that -

"(a) there is a substantial increase in world purchase-power compared with pre-war by reason of the successful prosecution of policies of full employment and expansion of world trade,

"(b) the price of wool and wool textiles is a reasonable one which encourages consumption.

"(c) use is made of every aid, such as long term credits to needy countries, publicity and scientific research in order to facilitate sales and expand consumption,

"it is thought impossible that total world consumption of apparel wool might increase to a level of 12% above pre-war. This will represent an increase of 20% in the consumption of Dominions and South American wools over pre-war levels.

"If this aim is achieved the period required to dispose of existing stocks alongside new clips, at the estimated rate of future production, would be on average 13 years from 30th of June, 1945."

But throughout the report there was the thread of a fear that the markets may not recover as hoped for. Apart from the lack of money, there is the unparalleled loss of houses to be considered which means loss of storage space; neither can one keep a wardrobe in minute rooms, or in shared quarters. Moreover the modern tendency of wearing less and less clothing must not be ignored as well as the fact that other textiles than wool are more desired and considered more fashionable.

As a result of the Conference there will be set up a Joint Organisation representative of United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa to buy, hold and sell wool as agents for the four governments and generally to administer the scheme agreed upon between them. The interests of this Colony were watched over by the Ministry of Supply but "as there was no substantial accumulation of wool in the Falkland Islands it was not thought that they could usefully be brought into the scheme".

Our contribution to the wool market is minute, averaging approximately 4,000,000 lbs. per annum which is in the neighbourhood of one sixhundredth of the world's aggregate.

But, as I have said, we are dependent on wool. It may interest you to have the figures for the war years when the whole clip was taken over.

FALKLAND ISLANDS WOOL CLIP.

Season.	Quantity dealt with. (lbs.)	Agreed price. (per lb.)	Price realised.
1939-40.	3,896,031	11.2180d.	£182,106 : 19 : 8
1940-41.	4,264,196	11.2180d.	£199,315 : 8 : 6
1941-42.	4,444,437	11.2180d.	£207,740 : 8 : 1
1942-43.	4,620,467	12.9007d.	£248,363 : 11 : 4
1943-44.	4,534,243	12.9007d.	£243,728 : 18 : 8

To these figures must be added the value of other farm products such as sheepskins and tallow which amounted to less than £15,000 per annum. So that the total of new money coming in to the Colony annually at the present fixed price is about £250,000. On that figure to which one should add the annual interest on our investments must be based our financial policy.

The £250,000 includes the cost of production of the wool, labour, ranch maintenance, various charges of insurance, freight etc., which probably amounts to two-thirds of that total.

Another figure on which to base the future of the financial policy is to be seen in the Income Tax Reports which shew :-

1940 - £ 5,049	1944 - £18,345
1941 - £11,180	1945 - £12,000 (Estimated)
1942 - £13,323	1946 - £13,000 "
1943 - £11,510

The sheep-farming industry in 1944, the latest year for which a correct figure is available, paid 86% of the total tax collected or approximately £15,778, whilst other persons paid only 14% or £2,568. It is interesting to note that there were 19 sheep farming companies that paid this tax and only 185 other persons, mostly individuals, contributed. Of these 185, 154 received incomes of £300 or less. The tax was collected on all persons both here and abroad who came within the income tax area as defined by the local Ordinance whether they were absentee landlords or shareholders.

Thirdly in the background of both present and future pictures of any policy lies the factor of the numbers of the population. A most unfortunate state of affairs is revealed in the returns known as "Vital Statistics". These have been kept up for many years and present a fairly accurate account. On June 30th, 1945, the population of this country amounted to 2,294 persons who can be regarded as permanent residents, but there were away 24 who might reasonably be expected to return, so that for statistical purposes our population numbered 2,318. At the last census, taken in 1931, the return was 2,392.

An analysis shows that in 1931 there were 714 children under 15; at the beginning of 1945 there were 720 under 15. Thus the adult population in 1931 was 1,678 whilst to-day it is 1,598. The figures are not quite accurate, as no deductions have been made for non-adult deaths, which happily are rare. This decline is serious and affects our background. So, too, does the return of sexes. In 1931 males exceeded the females by 324; today the excess is estimated at 239.

It is of immense importance that the true picture of the population should be seen. To that end during 1946, probably towards the end of April, a census will be taken. One certainly cannot make plans without this knowledge and until the war was ended it was not possible to make a public investigation into our numbers.

The background can be summarised thus :-

- (a) More or less static wool production shortly to be on the open market where the price will be largely controlled by the wool sales of the Wool Organisation;

(b) As a corollary to the above either a fixed or declining national income as shown by the Income Tax Returns;

(c) Decreasing population, with a steady fall in the hitherto recorded excess of males.

One need not, I think, persist in painting this background – it is not too pleasant. But in the foreground one should notice the actual financial state of affairs, viz. our assets, from which we can draw material for the future improvement of our Colony. But right at the outset of our investigations we must not for a moment forget that an item of considerable value in our Revenue Account is the receipt of interest from the investments which make up these assets. Any expenditure drawn from these means a loss of revenue, as well as an erosion of capital.

The figures of Revenue derived from investments since the outbreak of war are :-

Year.	Investment Revenue.	% to total Revenue.	Year.	Investment Revenue.	% to total Revenue.
1939	£14,141	25.90	1943	£12,077	13.25
1940	£13,226	20.30	1944	£12,164	7.02
1941	£12,007	17.29	1945	£13,430	(Estimated)
1942	£11,757	13.95	1946	£14,168	(Estimated)

The decrease in the percentage in the latter years is due to abnormal receipts from other sources and cannot easily be analysed. But if one takes our normal pre-war or peace-time revenue to be £61,619 and normal interest to be £14,153 the average percentage will be in the neighbourhood of 22.98%.

Our assets in so far as investments are concerned are, compared with pre-war figures, as follows :-

MARKET VALUE OF INVESTMENTS.

	1st January, 1939.	1st January, 1945.
(1) Reserve Fund	£ 50,838	£ 3,634
(2) Land Sales Fund	£241,898	£255,267
(3) Marine Insurance Fund	£ 189	£ 3,982
(4) Research Fund	£185,990	£188,813
(5) „ Joint Colonial	£ 14,000	£ 13,000
(6) Revenue Suspense A/c.	£ 36,453
	£492,915	£501,149

Since that date, 1st January, 1945, there have been further investments,

(1) Marine Insurance Fund	£ 122
(2) Research Joint Colonial	£ 3,000
(3) Revenue Suspense A/c.	£10,077
	£13,199

making our invested capital on the 30th of September, 1945, reach the total of £514,348. One must admit that that is not too gloomy a portrait of our war-time finances, nor of our present financial background.

It would be considerably better if we were able to take into account our actual war expenditure. I repeat the table which I gave you last year but brought up to date :-

1939 - £11,986	1943 - £28,003
1940 - £23,839	1944 - £20,611
1941 - £18,639	1945 - £13,043 revised estimate.
1942 - £32,124

Total £148,245.

If this together with the Reserve Fund, which, when we gave it to our homeland, cost us in cash £46,377, were recoverable, we would find our total fluid assets to be in the neighbourhood of £708,970. In my policy to which I shall shortly refer a method of achieving this end is outlined. But before doing so let us consider what our average annual revenue has been and is likely to remain compared with expenditure figures, but excluding those of war.

Year.	Revenue.	Expenditure less war expenditure.	Profit. +	Deficit. -
1939	£ 54,589	£ 53,773	£4,184
1940	65,142	59,808	£ 5,334
1941	69,988	54,450	15,538
1942	89,780	66,475	23,305
1943	91,099	66,940	24,159
1944	172,643 † ‡	115,201 † ‡	57,444
* 1945	108,634 †	107,132 †	1,502

* Revised. † Including Revenue Suspense Account. ‡ Includes Town Hall Insurance.

The seven years shewn in that table are of little real value in helping to make an estimate for the future. They were grossly abnormal years, and the seven year period that lies ahead is almost certain to be just as abnormal. But they do show unmistakably that revenue does out-balance expenditure. That tendency is excellent; how long, however, can it endure?

I doubt if anyone to-day can see clearly ahead, though one has got to plan, and plan to meet progress and prosperity, not stagnation nor depression. So long ago as 1941 a scheme for the future of this country was prepared and submitted to London in February, 1942. You will remember that that was the time when the whole Empire seemed to be in disruption, when the strain on our resources was almost impossible to sustain, when for every man the future had to be disregarded in the business and pre-occupation of the present. It is not surprising that the scheme was for a while set aside and therefore could not emerge into a definite policy.

It is not possible, since so far no discussion has taken place, to give details of the scheme which was to have been the base of a future policy. But outlined in brief it was :-

1. To develop inland communications after a full survey of the country had been carried out;
2. To educate with a firm and strict direction towards agriculture;
3. To form co-operative settlements after the Danish fashion.

Such a policy would run counter to many interests and would provoke much criticism, if not hostility. The chief criticism would obviously be that however pretty the policy might be painted it could not be anything but a gamble. To that the answer might well be that without trial and experiment no progress is possible. The whole scheme is open to attack in many places, but it was not intended as a rigid, inflexible plan. It was and is a basis for discussion.

In July of this year after the collapse of Germany and before the General Election I was informed that negotiations were taking place in London to send out here an expert in agriculture to investigate and report upon the possibilities of agricultural development here not just grass-growing or sheep rearing. It was hoped that the Colonial Development Fund would meet the expense of his visit. Unfortunately the professor who was being considered died suddenly in September. The Colonial Office was asked how matters stood and recently a reply was received that they were negotiating with another expert. The great value of the reply is that no alteration appears to have been made in the Colonial Office policy towards us in spite of the change of Government at home.

The proposed visit is a suggestion of vital importance. Should the resultant report be favourable to agricultural development, our future plans must be on lines somewhat similar to those mentioned just now by me; should, however, the report be unfavourable, the whole position would have to be re-examined. But one must never at any time forget the controlling factor of population.

At the time when the scheme was first set out, the question of finance had to be investigated. It appeared feasible to recover the war expenditure and to obtain the necessary capital for the road construction, the creation of co-operative units and the foundation of an Agricultural School and Institute by means of either a straight loan or by an issue of premium and interest bearing bonds. On that assumption to attain both these objects a sum of £500,000 would be required. Such an amount at 3½% repayable in 50 years means an annual cost for interest and redemption of £21,318 less the interest on the recovered war expenditure which for safety one can estimate at £6,000 per annum (£200,000 at 3%). Thus the nett annual cost of the scheme would be some £15,000. Maintenance and other local charges would be met from surplus revenue which in 1941 seemed to be stabilised at approximately £4,500. This sum would probably not have at first met the whole cost and in the original scheme fresh or increased taxation would have been necessary.

It is impossible to have taxation, such as was being considered in the scheme, without real representation. Therefore it was imperative to introduce some constitutional change and a draft Bill was finally submitted to the Legal Advisers of the Colonial Office in July, 1943. The suggestions are still under discussion.

May I, for a moment, be permitted a small digression? A change in your constitution can be obtained by either

- (a) broadening of your present nominated membership; or
- (b) election of members to the the Legislative Council with (i) official majority or (ii) equality in numbers of official and unofficial members or (iii) unofficial majority.

The question bristles with difficulties. As I have already shown our population is microscopic and even if votes are given equally to men and women, the total electorate would only be about 1,350, of whom the majority would probably be resident in the "Camp". The election would not be for a rural district council, but for a parliament of the whole country. This is a very great problem; and when the draft is completed and returned, a Select Committee of this Council will probably be necessary. But in recent years we have witnessed changes bordering on the miraculous, and these might well alter the whole position and our outlook in this matter. For a moment I shall be talking of a remote possibility, a utopia which has not been the subject of any despatch to the Secretary of State and is, therefore, wholly personal to myself.

Fifty years ago the Outer Hebrides or the Shetlands were at the quickest 48 hours from Westminster, to-day distance is reckoned only in time. There was no wireless, no television. How near are we to-day in the Falklands to Westminster? How near shall we be in the near future? We are not indigenes, we are all British; there are no tropical problems or tropical people, our problems and our people are identical with those at home. It seems to-day somewhat ridiculous to ask from a distance of 8,000 miles to be considered a part of the United Kingdom; but it seems equally ridiculous to think of true colonial or dominion status for a community of less than 2,400 people. The policy of the Empire is to lead forward to nationhood each Crown Colony; is that policy practicable here? If not, we must even now consider to what end we are aiming.

Returning to the finance of the tentative proposals set out in the scheme, a considerable change in the outlook took place, at the end of 1944 and in January of this year, when the Colonial Development Fund was enlarged into what is now known as the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund. Roughly speaking this Fund will have at its disposal some £12,000,000 a year for the next ten years beginning April 1st 1946, until 1956. We are entitled to make applications under this Imperial scheme and have done so.

One can divide our possible applications into two classes, the first that of progress and development, the other that of much needed improvement of existing services, institutions etc.

Under A there may well be listed :-

1. Survey.
2. Construction of Main Arterial Highway and assistance to feeder roads on private land;
3. Aerodromes;
4. Agricultural School and Institute together with first Co-operative Centre.

Under B :-

1. Improvements to King Edward Memorial Hospital (T.B. wards, new Dental Block, accommodation for Sisters and wards for chronic cases, senile etc.).
2. Improvement to Electric Supply.
3. Drainage and Sewage Development.
4. Improvement in Water Supply.
5. Enlargement of Schools.
6. Library and Museum Buildings.

That is an ambitious scheme, quite capable of execution in a comparatively short while. But one must always remember the shortage of labour here, and importation of labour may well have to be extensively permitted.

If we are assisted by grants from the Fund, we could still keep to the idea of a Loan or Premium Bonds. The Isle of Man provides a parallel to the former; Cyprus one to the latter. Indeed the Isle of Man presents a very similar case to that of ours. That Government in 1933-34 raised a loan at 3½% to pay off its war liability and at the same time to finance a development scheme, the amount being £530,000 redeemable in 50 years.

You will have observed that I have made no mention of the replacement of the Town Hall, a civic centre of which we were so justifiably proud, nor is there any reference to its reconstruction in the budget about to be presented to you. The chief reason is that I regard its replacement or re-building as a matter covered by the Investment Fund which was begun on the receipt of the insurance money. The total received was £19,630 and the expenditure on clearance and purchase of law books etc. has amounted to £1,630, the balance of £18,000 forming the Fund. The interest accruing is automatically credited to it.

In October of last year a Committee was appointed to consider the whole question. The following were the members :-

The Honourable D. W. Roberts, J.P.	L. A. Sedgwick, Esq.
The Reverend W. F. McWhan	Mrs. J. D. Creamer, O.B.E.
J. S. Barnes, Esq.	Miss M. Biggs
S. C. Luxton, Esq.	Miss G. Pettersson, and the terms of reference outlined in a speech by myself at the first meeting were as recorded in the minutes as follows :-

"His Excellency began by thanking the members for agreeing to serve on this Committee. They were being asked to advise on a matter of great importance to the Colony and shewed "good public spirit in accepting the service.

"The Committee was concerned with the reconstruction of the Town Hall and His Excellency described briefly the historical development of the institution of the Town Hall from "being merely the offices of the Local Authority to the modern civic centre not only for "administration but also for culture and recreation.

"His Excellency emphasised that the main function of the Committee was to assess and to "interpret the wishes of the public. What form did the people wish the reconstruction to take? "Where did they want the new building or buildings to be sited, and what type of construction "and architecture did they prefer?

"The question of finance governed the whole problem but this was a matter entirely for "the Legislative Council of the Colony. It was impossible for him to give the Committee an "idea of the financial limits within which to work but members must remember throughout "that there was not very much money. The old Town Hall had cost £16,000 in 1913 and this "had been recovered in the insurance, but in the 1940's £16,000 would not go very far. The "Committee must, therefore, be restrained in its ideas.

"His Excellency reminded the Committee that they represented primarily the users of the "Town Hall on the social side and that this side was perhaps of secondary importance but, as "members of the public, they were also immediately concerned with the public offices which "needed replacement. Reconstruction did not, however, merely mean replacement since it "provided an opportunity for modernisation and improvements. For instance, there had been a "good deal of talk in favour of a swimming pool. This was not part of the reconstruction of "the Town Hall but an additional undertaking which might possibly be included in the general "scheme.

"His Excellency concluded by asking the Committee to give very deep and careful thought "to all the problems involved in this complicated question. He wished them good fortune in "their deliberations and said that he looked forward to receiving their report in due course."

Emphasis was laid on "costs" and lately these have become more and more confused. An effort to obtain these was made by telegram to London in September and a reply received about the middle of October, on which, possibly, costings of various types of building or buildings might be prepared and referred to the Committee. Meanwhile the latter submitted a report from which it appeared that when reconstruction was undertaken there should be a division of the work into three separate buildings, housed previously under one roof. It was recommended also that the priority of construction should be :-

- A. Social Centre; B. Public Offices; C. Library and Museum.

I have made no decision nor shall do until the costings are available but I will at once say that it is not in my mind at present to draw on our capital funds (which are irreplaceable) in order to meet this work of reconstruction.

Nor do I contemplate submitting an application for assistance from Imperial funds in the case of the Social Centre or the Public Offices. We have some £18,000 of the insurance fund and we must cut our cloak to suit that amount of cloth. It may very well be that a combined building for the Social Centre and Public Offices can be erected for that sum.

As regards the Library and Museum, I consider their restoration as imperative to the education of our youth. Few people can afford the works of reference needful for their studies, nor have access to specimens and objects such as a museum provides. There is here a reasonable case for submission to the Imperial Authorities, especially if the building were to contain a children's room in which book enjoyment and book handling would be cultivated from the earliest years. That this view is commonly held is shown by the most generous gift of the Falkland Islands Company who have presented, for the purpose of a Library and Museum, a plot of land fronting on John Street to a depth of 100 feet. The area is some 1,300 square yards which will give an ample floor space for a truly fine Library and Museum. No doubt Council will wish to express their thanks.

The air is full of schemes. Not only are thoughts being directed towards material progress: they are also directed to social and welfare improvements. It is pleasing to record that this is so throughout the Colony. Steps are being taken and plans prepared for better conditions in the settlements, conditions which range from lighting to housing and from water supply to assembly halls. This urge towards betterment seems common throughout the world in so far as the Allies are concerned and may well be carried on the crest of the wave of victory well up on the shores of our new hopes. One remembers the almost universal acclaim with which the Beveridge Plan was received. That showed widely how our thoughts were being directed.

Few remembered or even noticed the almost totalitarianism, the quasi-fascism of the principles on which it was based; in particular the complete control of the individual by the State, not only as regards the nature of his work but also the whereabouts of its performance. Such a plan in this Colony would have settled the problems of shortage of labour in the "Camp" and unemployment in Stanley. It is curious how in the "Report in Brief" this aspect is concealed in the précis of the various proposals. One should compare, since the plan has been discussed locally to quite an extent, the pertinent clause as summarised :-

"Making of disability benefit at full rate indefinite in duration, subject to imposition of "special behaviour conditions" with the original which on page 58 of the full report reads :-

"This general principle leads to the following practical conclusions :-

'Men and women in receipt of unemployment benefit cannot be allowed to hold out indefinitely for work of the type to which they are used or in their present places of residence, if there is work which they could do available at the standard wage for that work.'

I must not digress further. In fact I have been already consuming too much of your time, but I wanted to impress upon you that our future is both bright and dark; and for the moment it is impossible to see clearly. Thus I present an unsatisfactory budget, since it really is only a marking time, and I foreshadow a later budget when we shall know more clearly how our finances stand and to what, if any, assistance we can look forward in the carrying out of our proposed improvements.

Usually the Estimates are based on the capital, which is represented by the Land Sales Fund. It was considered in the revised Statement for 1944 that the deficit on the revenue and expenditure would have amounted to £49,784. Actually it amounts to £27,842 due to completely unforeseen receipts in Postal receipts; and to-day our expected deficit for 1945 of a further £20,880 has been revised to a reduced figure of £11,541. Thus it is expected that on December 31st our gross deficit will amount to around £39,383. But there is the Suspense Account which contains about £56,000.

I am asking from the Council for 1946 a sum of £89,005 against an anticipated revenue of £92,239. As I have already said these figures are tentative for our future is so vague, but probably by June or sometime in the winter matters will be presented to you more clearly. There is, therefore, very little of change or new or unusual in this budget.

Revenue is expected to remain high for it is thought that the sale of stamps under Head VI. will continue at its present strength for at least another six months. Otherwise there is little one can comment upon.

The expenditure you are being asked to approve can be analysed head by head as follows :-

I. PENSIONS. No comment.

II. GOVERNOR. The increase from £2,652 to £3,247 is due to the return to this Head of the cost of the upkeep of gardens which, so long as the gardens were used for military supplies, had been transferred to Head XVI. Agriculture.

III. COLONIAL SECRETARY. Practically unaltered. In October we lost the Honourable K. G. Bradley who has been transferred to the Gold Coast, and very shortly we shall receive in his place Mr. A. B. Mathews. I think members of the Council will be sorry to have lost Mr. Bradley whose work here has been untiring and would wish him success and happiness in his new post.

IV. TREASURY and V. AUDIT. No comment.

VI. POST OFFICE. The increase of £500 on last year's estimate is that that sum is needed to meet the cost of printing stamps and is invariably set off by receipts.

VII. ELECTRICAL AND TELEGRAPHS. There is an increase under this Head due to usual increments and the increase of costs of maintenance. At present this Department showed a profit over the war years, but in 1945 there is a loss of about £600, but it is hoped that next year this sum will be recovered. In our future development this Department figures and it is hoped to widen the distribution and to reduce very considerably the cost of the unit to the public.

VIII. HARBOUR. You are being asked to supply £500 more than in the past war years. This is the anticipated cost of the upkeep of lights and beacons which will revert to their peace time basis.

IX. LEGAL. A reduction of £395 is to be noted.

X. POLICE AND PRISONS. No comment.

XI. MEDICAL. There is a reduction under this Head as at present it is not possible to fill the relief vacancy among the Medical Officers, and there is a reduction in other charges as we have managed to fill very well indeed the requirements under Dental Drugs and Equipment. The cost of transport of sick persons to Montevideo has been moved to another head. Since Council met the whole of the Staff, recruited abroad, has been changed. The Senior Medical Officer, Dr. Kinneard, has been transferred to Fiji, Dr. Cowan to West Africa, Dr. Dunlop is at home, and Miss Shackle has been married. We wish them good luck and thanks for their service among us. In their place we welcome our new Senior Medical Officer, Dr. Sladen and Drs. Hopwood and Arthur, the new Medical Officers, Dr. Tomlinson our new Dental Surgeon and Miss Triese our present Matron.

XII. EDUCATION. I am asking for £1,000 more than last year. A very full report on the activities of this Department has been published in the Gazette for September last. I am sure you will appreciate the work that has been done and give your approval for the increased expenditure needful for its continuance.

XIII. ECCLESIASTICAL and XIV. NATURALIST remain without change. The trout seem to be doing very well, but it was impossible this year owing to a breakdown in our communications to obtain the ova for which you voted £100 last year. You are being asked to revoke that amount and as stated by me then these trout which will all be brook trout are earmarked for distribution.

XV. MILITARY. The expenditure is being brought back to its peace time level.

XVI. AGRICULTURE. The amount asked for is slightly more than in 1944 due principally to increments. This year you will notice that the expenditure is presented so as to show clearly how it is sub-divided and you can therefore have a better picture. Revenue from this Department totals approximately £3,000 per annum, a figure no longer swollen by military requirements. In the printed report of my address you will see the actual figures, which I have before me, but with your consent I do not propose to read.

XVII. MISCELLANEOUS. Expenditure under this Head seems to be out of relation to its title, but it included £5,000 for investment in the Suspense Account, an increase of £1,000 for passages and a transfer from Head XI., Medical, of £500. This last is considered a better arrangement in order absolutely to divorce the certifying doctor from any thought of the ways and means of the patient.

XVIII. PUBLIC WORKS. The estimate seems to call for no comment.

XIX. PUBLIC WORKS RECURRENT. The extra expenditure asked for is accounted for by the transfer of labour from military duty. But as I have pointed out the future is so far from clear that I cannot foresee for what, labour will be required, neither for what, materials will be needed. Therefore the amount shown in the Estimates is pure guess work.

XX. PUBLIC WORKS EXTRAORDINARY. As any extraordinary works will be part of the development programme, you are for the moment not being asked for supply. The sum of £19 has already been voted for by you last year for the re-conditioning of the jetty at Fox Bay. It is therefore a re-vote.

XXI. WAR EXPENDITURE. The sum of £1,000 is being asked to meet the supplementary pay of our men until they are demobilised.

The Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Dependencies are £20,260 and £15,290 respectively. It is anticipated that there will be a considerable revival in whaling with resultant increase in export duties. A figure of £7,000 has been inserted and this is considered an underestimate. A similar revival took place after the last war.

There is the usual financial resolution to cover excess of payments in 1944 and the Bill to provide for the nett overexpenditure. These are fantastic figures. The gross amount is for £75,729 : 10 : 10 covered by the resolution; savings amounted to £6,118 : 6 : 0, which amount deducted from the former leaves £69,611 : 4 : 10 covered in the Bill.

Of course an explanation is necessary for these phenomenal amounts. It is not difficult to see how these figures are arrived at. The whole of the over-spending under Head VI. was for the printing of the Dependencies stamp issues; Head XVII. Miscellaneous, contained the Revenue Suspense Account £36,127 : 18 : 10 and the expenditure and investment of the insurance money of the Town Hall £19,149 : 9 : 4, which totalled £55,277 : 7 : 2; Public Works Recurrent, Head XIX. requires £9,135 of which £7,719 : 1 : 0 was for the fortunate and unanticipated purchase of stores from the military authorities. These selected items total £64,264 : 8 : 7.

That, Gentlemen, is the business before us. I apologise for having so long detained you but before I close I should like it placed on record how deeply we have felt about this closing year of wonders, the victory in Europe and the victory in Asia - such quick and sudden victories on a scale unprecedented, never before witnessed in the whole history of mankind - the political revolution at home which seems to have astounded everyone both at home and abroad - the final and definite release of atomic energy which might well lead to the destruction of the world, but may just as well guide us to undreamed happiness.

Gentlemen, may God be with us in our deliberations.

4. The Honourable the Senior Medical Officer, by command, laid on the Table the following Papers :

5. The Honourable the Senior Medical Officer moved and Doctor the Honourable J. E. Hamilton seconded the adoption of the following Resolution :

"WHEREAS the revenues of the Dependencies for the year 1944 have not sufficed to meet the expenditure in the sum of EIGHT HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE POUNDS TWO SHILLINGS AND ELEVENPENCE (£861 : 2 : 11).

"NOW, THEREFORE, this Council resolves and it is hereby resolved in pursuance of the provisions of Section 3 of the Dependencies Research and Development Fund (Amendment) Ordinance, 1936, that the aforesaid sum of EIGHT HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE POUNDS TWO SHILLINGS AND ELEVENPENCE (£861 : 2 : 11), being the amount of the excess of the Expenditure over the Revenue of the Dependencies in respect of the year 1944, shall be paid out of the Dependencies Research and Development Fund into the general revenue of the Dependencies".

6. The Honourable the Senior Medical Officer moved the adoption of the following Resolution :

"WHEREAS additional provision is required for the service of the Colony and its Dependencies for the year ended the 31st of December, 1944.

"BE IT RESOLVED -

"This Council hereby sanctions the expenditure from Public Funds of the sum of SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE POUNDS TEN SHILLINGS AND TENPENCE (£75,729 : 10 : 10) to meet the several charges itemised in the accompanying "Schedule".

Lieut.-Colonel the Honourable J. A. Woodgate seconded and the Resolution was adopted.

7. The Honourable the Senior Medical Officer moved and Lieut.-Colonel the Honourable J. A. Woodgate seconded the adoption of the following Resolution :

"BE IT RESOLVED that under the provisions of the Stanley Rating Ordinance, 1928, this Council hereby sanctions the following rate to be charged for the year 1946 on house property in the Town of Stanley, namely, Two shillings for every Twenty shillings of the annual value of such house property".

8. The Honourable the Senior Medical Officer moved the adoption of the following Resolution :

"BE IT RESOLVED this Council, on behalf of the people of the Falkland Islands, wish to convey to the Directors and Board of the Falkland Islands Company, Limited, their great appreciation of and grateful thanks for their most generous gift of land for the purpose of a site for the Public Library and Museum".

The Honourable V. A. H. Biggs seconded and the Resolution was adopted.

9. The Honourable the Senior Medical Officer moved the first reading of the Bill "To legalise certain payments made in the year One thousand Nine hundred and Forty-four in excess of the Expenditure sanctioned by Ordinance No. 6 of 1943".

Doctor the Honourable J. E. Hamilton seconded.

On further motion made and seconded the Standing Orders were suspended and the Bill was read a second time and committed.

Clause 1 was agreed to. On motion made, consideration of Clause 2 was postponed until after consideration of the Schedule. The Schedule was agreed to. Clause 2 was recommitted and agreed to. The Enacting Clause, Preamble and Title were agreed to. The Council resumed. The Bill was then read a third time and passed.

10. On the motion of the Honourable the Senior Medical Officer, seconded by Lieut.-Colonel the Honourable J. A. Woodgate, the Bill "To provide for the service of the year 1946" was read a first time.

On further motion made and seconded the Standing Orders were suspended and the Bill was read a second time and committed.

Clause 1 was agreed to. On motion made, consideration of Clause 2 was postponed until after consideration of the Schedule. The Schedule was considered in conjunction with the Estimates for 1946. The Honourable D. W. Roberts moved that the vote for the Agricultural Department be reduced by £4,000. He expressed the opinion that drastic curtailment of the activities and expenditure of this Department was long overdue. The Honourable V. A. H. Biggs seconded the motion. The Council divided : Ayes - Two. Noes - Three. The motion was therefore lost. The Schedule was agreed to. Clause 2 was recommitted and agreed to. The Enacting Clause and Title were agreed to. The Council resumed. The Bill was then read a third time and passed.

The Council adjourned sine die.

His Majesty the King has been pleased to entrust to the care of the Right Honourable Arthur Creech Jones, M.P., as one of the Principal Secretaries of State, the Seals of the Colonial Department.

M.P. 209/46.

No. 47. 9th October, 1946.

The following telegram has been received from the Right Honourable Arthur Creech Jones, Secretary of State for the Colonies :-

"On the occasion of my assuming office as Secretary of State for the Colonies I wish to send you the following message, begins :-

"I am privileged to follow a distinguished and hardworking Colonial Secretary who never spared himself in your service in an office of such vital importance and responsibility. My deep interest in Colonial progress and welfare is familiar to you, and I know I shall enjoy the friendship, confidence and goodwill of yourself, your staff, advisers, and Councils. I want also to feel that the Colonial Office and myself have the confidence of the Colonial peoples. The British Government and Parliament feel and have shown a deep and sympathetic concern for the happiness and prosperity of the people of the Colonies which is shared more and more widely by their fellow citizens in this country. We are living in an age of great significance in human history, a formative period in which new forces and new ideas wield an ever increasing influence on the lives and destinies of men. Here in London we are fully conscious of these new forces and of the tremendous tasks which face us. We shall do our best to tackle them, and in doing so we offer you, in a spirit of friendship and confidence, the same full and complete co-operation which I hope and believe you will extend to us. I know that much of our work is fraught with difficulty. Results are often despairingly slow. But Colonial Administrations must be bold, imaginative, and energetic, and the peoples interested, active, and understanding as they move - and they are everywhere moving - towards greater responsibilities. The modern world can leave no room for privileged economic domination or social injustice wherever these try to exist, any more than it can tolerate ignorance, disease, malnutrition, and extreme poverty. Our partnership is the privilege of service with friends in the great purpose of achieving for them their responsible place amongst the other peoples of the world. I am honoured to share a greater responsibility in our common task."

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

MINUTES OF MEETING HELD ON THE 23RD DECEMBER, 1946.

1. The Honourable A. B. Mathews, O.B.E., Colonial Secretary, after taking the prescribed Oath, assumed his seat at the Council.

2. The minutes of the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 3rd of December, 1945, were confirmed.

3. His Excellency the Governor delivered to the Council the following address :—

Honourable Members of the Legislative Council,

It has hitherto been the custom at the December Session of Council for the Governor to review the past activities and present policy of his Administration and to combine this review with what might almost be termed a Budget Speech, while before the meeting the Colonial Secretary and Unofficial Members have gone through the Estimates together in order that the non-Government spokesmen might be in the position to take an informed part in the subsequent debate. This procedure has, in general, been adopted again this year but I shall leave it to the Honourable the Colonial Secretary, whose proper business it is, to introduce the Budget.

If however, as I most sincerely hope and will do my utmost to ensure, it should prove possible to introduce before the next Budget Session some measure of constitutional reform combining an element of true representation with increased non-official membership then the procedure which we now follow will be discontinued and I shall refer the Estimates for examination in detail by a Select Committee. This latter will be, in effect, the Finance Committee and will comprise the Colonial Secretary, sitting with all the Unofficial Members, both elected and nominated with the Heads of Government Departments in attendance, upon request, to explain any particular points on which enlightenment may be desired. We shall then be able to count on a proper and responsible examination of the Budget during the Session before it is finally adopted by the Council and I for one shall be a good deal happier when this comes about.

I shall look forward, too, to the day when we can reckon on more active participation in debate by representatives from the Camp and in this connection I particularly regret the unavoidable absence today of the Honourable R. C. Pole Evans, O.B.E. It is indeed unfortunate that the Budget Session should be held at a time when the farmers are necessarily pre-occupied with the urgent business of lamb-marking and shearing and, since these essential processes cannot be deferred I have decided that in future years the Council shall be convened at a date not later than the 15th October. This, it is true, will entail earlier submission of the draft estimates but that is a small matter; the views of representatives of the Camp, coming as they do from men on whose shoulders rests in very great measure our Colonial economy, are entitled to and will always receive from me the fullest respect.

Honourable Members, a review of the year's activities will be laid on the table and you will expect me now to offer some indication of the Government's future policy in relation to the needs of the Colony as — even at this early date — I see them. You may recall that when I assumed office last month, and again in my broadcast address to the Camp, I said in referring to development plans that we must be guided by the old maxim of "first things first" and it is one which I intend that my Administration shall adhere to very closely; to this maxim I add another, "the greatest good for the greatest number", and if we accept these two as our navigation lights we shall not go far astray.

The need for some more representative form of Government I have already referred to and it is so obvious a one that we shall proceed at once with the preliminaries involved but with, of course, the fullest possible measure of consultation before our firm proposals are submitted to the Secretary of State. As a first step I have appointed in their personal capacity two non-officials, Mr. A. G. Barton and Captain D. W. Roberts, O.B.E. to my Executive Council; both are men of proved ability and are widely respected, the one with an intimate knowledge of affairs in the Camp and the other of affairs in Stanley. Both have given frequent evidence of their public spirit and I shall welcome their assistance.

Next in order of importance, in my opinion, come Education and Health and I intend to lay immediate plans for long term improvements in both these services, which are essentially the responsibility of Government.

For Education "the first thing", unquestionably, is Teacher Training for without properly trained teachers such facilities as we can offer to the Camp are of little value. I have however sketched the outline of what I conceive to be our future needs in this field and a fully representative Committee is being appointed to study and report upon it without delay.

For the Medical and Health service "the first things" are improved transport facilities for getting emergency cases to Hospital, or the Doctor to the emergency case, and improved accommodation and service in the Hospital itself. As to the first, I have already sought the assistance of the Secretary of State in obtaining a Motor Fishing Vessel fitted for stretcher cases; these craft, which are sturdily built for rough seas and are easily handled and maintained, were used by the Navy for this purpose (amongst others) in the late war and if we are successful in getting one it will I hope go far toward allaying present anxieties. It will be equipped with a wireless receiving set and when not in use for the purpose I have proposed, it can be made available for other requirements.

As to the second, I have closely examined the plans for modernisation of the King Edward Memorial Hospital which had previously been prepared and have considered them with the Honourable the Senior Medical Officer and the Honourable the Executive Engineer; as the result of these discussions certain modifications have been decided upon and revised plans will be submitted to the Secretary of State as soon as possible. With some experience of such undertakings I can assure you that the buildings, as re-modelled and enlarged, will be a credit to the Colony and will meet all reasonable requirements.

I have not overlooked the question of social amenities as represented by the general, and entirely understandable, desire for a new Town Hall to replace the old one so tragically destroyed by fire in 1944. Here again, I have examined the report and proposals of the Committee appointed to study this question but must inform you that I find myself unable to accept them; the project as submitted is altogether too ambitious for the Colony's pocket and – if I may venture the opinion – quite out of keeping with its natural background. From an aesthetic, as well as from the practical point of view, I find it difficult to conceive anything more pleasing or appropriate than the design of the original building with such modifications as experience of the latter may have dictated and the addition, perhaps, of a solarium on the seaward side. Be that as it may, we must certainly think again and on altogether more realistic lines.

While dwelling on the question of social amenities let us not forget the Camp and here, clearly, one of the first needs – and one which we should have no difficulty in meeting – is the provision of a better broadcasting service: better transmission, better reception and better programmes are needed. I propose therefore to appoint a Committee to investigate and report to me on this important service at the earliest possible date.

Other needs to which we must give early attention are a new Electricity service to provide power at an economic rate to the consumer and to facilitate the use of labour-saving devices so necessary here in Stanley, and a Topographical Survey of the Colony – the latter a long-term commitment.

That I suggest, completes the catalogue of "first things" and from it you will doubtless note that I have excluded my predecessor's East/West motor road project which, for the present certainly, is quite outside the realms of practicability for it would largely if not, indeed, completely exhaust the Colony's resources; nor without feeder roads would it fulfil the purpose for which it was intended. Much as I sympathise with the Camp dwellers in the isolation which is their inevitable lot, an experience which I have shared during many years of my life, this particular amenity – and it is an amenity – must be deferred for the Government cannot jettison other essential developmental measures to provide a service the cost of which could in no way be related to potential traffic. The real solution is, I believe, a helicopter and a report on its suitability for operation in the Islands has been sought.

As to the Stanley roads I can but agree with the critics who have described them as a disgrace for they are nothing less but we must recognise that this is due, and due solely, to their use by heavy military traffic for which they had never been designed. The long-term solution for the Town roads is either tar-macadam or concrete, with the work spread over the full development period; the cost will be high, whichever medium be employed but in the case of concrete, at least, the first cost is the last and we must put an end to uneconomical tinkering.

This brings me to the labour situation and to the policy pursued in fulfilment of some unrecorded commitment of a former Governor which has placed on the Administration the onus of giving work to almost anyone who seeks it, irrespective of other considerations. I venture to suggest to you that the full implications of this policy could never have been appreciated and it has created a very serious problem which we are unlikely to solve by running away from it. What it really means is this: that the Government, by carrying on a system of unplanned and uneconomic relief works which have cost the Colony many thousands of pounds, has laid on its shoulders a load from which it has been unable to free itself and which if unrelieved, may bring it financially to its knees. We face this year, as you will presently hear from the Honourable the Colonial Secretary, a deficit of no less than £27,000 and next year of no less than £35,000; it must be apparent to you that we cannot continue on these lines.

Relief works are justifiable, and indeed necessary, in an era of unemployment and it is proper, even in normal times, that older men for whom no measure of social security exists should be able, for their own self-respect, to obtain work so long as they are capable of giving effective service; but to extend this principle to every youth as soon as he leaves school, to every man irrespective of the fact that work is available elsewhere and labour desperately needed, is to set a most dangerous precedent. To this I would add that the proper provision for men who are past active work is a social security fund on a contributory basis and that is the solution towards which Government, Employers and Workers must turn their thoughts. I have put the problem before you in plain terms and should be failing in my duty had I neglected to do so; I shall look to Honourable Members for an expression of their views during the debate on the second reading.

One final word. Of the steps in development which I have commended to your attention this morning – and there is not one which we can in my opinion afford to set aside – two at least, Education and Health, will bring increased recurrent expenditure in their train. It is obvious therefore that we must, on the one hand, increase our revenue and on the other, bend all our energies towards a more effective utilisation of our natural resources; it is here that industry and Government must march together.

APPENDIX.

DEPARTMENTAL REVIEW, 1946.

(Laid on the Table)

The following is a review which I have caused to be prepared of the activities of the Departments of Government for the year 1946, and to be laid on the table by the Colonial Secretary; though this is apparently an innovation in the Falkland Islands, it is normal procedure in other Colonies. I hope that it will serve a useful purpose in outlining the achievements of the Administration during the year under review so that these may be related to the statement of policy which is generally the subject of the Governor's Address at the Budget Meeting for the previous year.

AGRICULTURE. Dr. Gibbs left the Colony at the end of July. He had given six years of devoted and patient work in this Colony, without leave, and his report which will be published in abridged form goes far to substantiate that the policy advocated by Mr. Munro and Professor Davies with regard to the improvement of pastures was the only right one. As a successor to Dr. Gibbs, I have asked for a practical Hill-Farmer who can talk the Farmers' language and speak too, with the authority of experience and who will work in close and friendly co-operation with the farming community. I am glad to know that the qualifications which I have felt desirable for this post have been endorsed by the Chairman of the Sheep-Owners' Association.

Since Dr. Gibbs's departure on leave the Department has been in the charge of Mr. H. R. Evans. I should like to take this opportunity of congratulating Mr. Evans on the success with which he has carried out his duties, and to wish him good fortune and prosperity in his new post at the West African Cocoa Research Institute in the Gold Coast for which he leaves in a few days' time.

Fodder and pasture improvement: fifty acres of land about Stanley have been cultivated for fodder (hay and oats) with a view to pasture improvement; the whole of this area was formerly covered with white grass and diddle-dee.

Thirty-two tons of grass and oaten hay have been produced this year, of which eight were sold to local dairies.

As hay becomes scarce during the year, it was decided to close the Rookery Bay plantation and reserve the tussac there to guard against future shortage of fodder.

Six acres of clover were sown in the Eliza Cove area, the experiment being designed to ascertain if clover could be successfully established in the native pastures without pre-cultivation of the soil.

Dairying: every effort has been made to encourage local dairymen to increase milk production. The Government herd produced 13,200 gallons of milk during the year.

As production costs have considerably increased, a subsidy of £12 per month to each local dairy was approved as from the 1st of May, 1946, which has served to keep the price of milk down. I attach particular importance to the availability of cheap milk for children and the sick, and have for this reason decided to retain the Government herd so as to ensure that whatever may befall there shall be a minimum supply to meet these needs.

Vegetable production: 49,399 pounds of mixed vegetables were grown in the course of the year and six acres have been replanted, an increase of one acre over 1945.

Animal health: No serious outbreaks of disease have been reported. All milk cows were tested for tuberculosis during August and all were reported sound.

Sylviculture: Some four hundred young trees of various species were planted out in the Experimental Plantation. All the four hundred were transplanted during the year in an area which was formerly Common land, the soil being composed of shallow peat with a clay subsoil. It is not yet possible to give any indication of successful establishment, but experience of an experiment with the same species three years ago may be of interest:—

SPECIES.	REMARKS.
Cupressus macrocarpa.	This species establishes quickly with an average annual growth of 8". Of the many species under trial Cupressus macrocarpa is outstanding and may be utilized successfully in the provision of shelter belts.
Pinus contorta.	Establishes quickly during the first year following transplanting, but as the roots penetrate the subsoil, a distinct growth check is observed with chlorosis. The species appears to withstand considerable buffeting without injury. Annual growth rate 6".
Picea sitchensis.	Establishes quickly during the first season following transplantation but, as the roots penetrate the subsoil, growth rate is reduced. No chlorosis has been recorded. Withstands wind well, but growth is yet to be awaited on the windward side. Annual growth rate 4½".
Pinus laricio.	Gives little promise at the moment, but it does not follow that establishment is impossible. Some tree species are very slow in adapting themselves to soil and climatic conditions on transplantation; a majority of the plants are healthy. Wind injury very slight.
Populus alba.	Establishment very slow, as the wind causes considerable injury to terminal growths. Though the species gives excellent results in sheltered gardens, it cannot be recommended for planting in exposed situations under forest conditions.

NOTE: The number of each species planted out during 1946 was as follows:—

Cupressus macrocarpa	...	100
Pinus contorta	...	100
Picea sitchensis	...	100
Pinus laricio	...	50
Populus alba	...	50

Fencing: Much needed repairs and renewals of many sections of the Common fences have been effected.

CUSTOMS. The total value of Imports to November, 1946, amounted to approximately £184,000. Import duties collected were as follows :-

Beer, Malt	£ 490
Wines	458
Spirits	5,358
Tobacco	2,679
Matches	1,734
Total	£10,719

The totals for 1945 were £164,487 and £14,964 respectively.

The total value of goods exported amounted to £248,700, which included a figure of £28,000 being the value of the Falkland Islands Company's Dry Dock which was sold to Uruguay.

Export Duty collected on wool was £9,881.

Staff: The Customs Officer, Mr. A. R. Carr, left the Colony on the 5th of October, 1946, to take up an appointment in the Customs Department of Mauritius. Mr. Carr had served in the Falkland Islands for seven years without leave and had acted in addition as Commissioner of Income Tax and Chairman of the Labour Advisory Board; he was latterly a Member of the Executive Council. He at all times placed his services at the disposal of Government and is to be congratulated on his well earned promotion; I much regret the loss of this energetic and efficient officer.

Mr. B. N. Biggs, Assistant Customs Officer, was appointed to act as Customs Officer. The duties of Shipping Master and Competent Authority (Supplies) are performed by the Acting Customs Officer.

Shipping: 17 vessels entered the port during the year with a total net tonnage of 6,088 tons.

Rationing: Tea and clothing continued to be rationed throughout the year, but the rationing of matches, which had been in operation for nine months, was discontinued on the 27th of March, 1946. A sugar ration of 4 lbs. per head per month was imposed in Stanley on the 3rd of September, 1946.

Food parcels: Any person over the age of 18 years is permitted to send a parcel of 5 lbs. gross weight to the United Kingdom each quarter; an additional scheme permitting 22 lbs. food parcels (confined exclusively to surplus ex-Army stores) was instituted on the 23rd of October, 1946.

Import licencing: Import Licencing continues for all items.

Foodstuffs continue to be rigidly controlled by the International Food Council in the United Kingdom.

EDUCATION. Mr. H. L. Baker, M.A., Superintendent of Education, has been in charge throughout the year. The work of the Government School has been handicapped, especially in the early part of the year, by the shortage of qualified teachers.

Among important events were the holding of a School Concert and the establishment of a House system designed, incidentally, to foster and develop the corporate life of the School. The winners of the first two scholarships to Montevideo were both successful in the School Certificate Examination, which they sat at the end of last year.

In the Camp, the Government has supported six Travelling Teachers and five part-time Settlement Teachers during most of the year. The full-time School at Charters closed in March, but a new one was established at Roy Cove in September. Here I should like to record my appreciation of the enthusiastic assistance of Mr. S. Miller in erecting and fitting out what is now an excellent school room.

ELECTRICAL AND TELEGRAPHS. Mr. A. Mercer has continued his effective superintendence of this Department and I look forward to its development and expansion in 1947.

The existing plant has largely outgrown its usefulness and cannot with its present off-take provide power at an economic rate. The fact that it has been maintained in good order, with never a serious breakdown, reflects great credit on Mr. Mercer and his staff.

The Department is responsible for the maintenance of the W/T Station at Fox Bay; handling of telegrams in the Telegraph Office together with the accounts for both local and foreign telegrams. Regular services exist with the United Kingdom, Norway, Uruguay, Argentine and Chile, as well as with local stations within the Islands and the Dependencies. Traffic is worked at the Naval W/T Station with the assistance of four civilian operators.

A magneto Telephone Exchange System operating 142 lines extends for Government service 7 miles beyond Stanley.

Broadcasting Services consist of a re-diffusion system supplying 230 loud-speakers. A very low-powered Radio Broadcasting Transmitter is used during the week for Educational services; a musical programme is provided on Sundays.

The Electric Lighting System consists of a 220 volt single-phase 50 cycle alternating current. Over 380 metered users, including Government establishments, are supplied on overhead lines and by underground cable. The service is continuous.

FALKLAND ISLANDS DEFENCE FORCE. The Falkland Islands Defence Force, representatives of which had the honour of marching in the Victory Parade, is one of the most distinguished features of the Colony. Defence Force Rules were promulgated in May to provide for efficient instruction of the members of the Force, and Infantry Training was conducted indoors throughout the winter months. There is, I am aware, the greatest keenness amongst all ranks of this Force and that the high reputation for marksmanship which this Colony enjoys shows no sign of waning was evidenced by the fine score of 103 out of 105 made by Mr. G. W. J. Bowles in winning the Stanley Cup in a difficult cross wind. Honourable Members will see that there is a token provision for Bisley in 1947; I earnestly hope that we shall be able to expand that provision and send a team to Bisley which will rival the Colony's exploits there in the past.

HARBOUR. The main task of the Harbour Department during the year 1946 has been the re-conditioning and re-lighting of the lights and beacons in the Colony; this has proved a somewhat heavy task for the lights, having been out of commission for so long, had suffered badly from the weather. Spares are still awaited from England before they can be rendered really efficient and the light at Cape Meredith is still unoperative.

A new derrick-cum-crane has been erected at the Dockyard Jetty with a safe lift of 5 tons. It was fabricated from scrap material from the Army Camp with the exception of the winch.

The surface of the Jetty has been repaired and new guard rails and posts erected.

The question of obtaining an engine for the Government launch "Penguin" is at present under consideration; the hull is said to be in good condition and if re-powered it will, no doubt, be capable of rendering useful service.

MEDICAL. Dr. F. J. Sladen has been in charge of the Department throughout the year.

Statistics for 1946 (up to 30th November) are as under:—

Total number of In-Patients treated	215
Total number of Out-Patients treated	1,110
Total District Patients	179
Surgical Operations - Major	15
Minor	75
X-Ray Examinations	81
Patients evacuated to Montevideo for treatment	3
Patients sent in from Camp	31
Cost of transport of Camp Patients	£433
Cost of Overseas treatment	£542

In August the Senior Medical Officer carried out Camp Tours to:—

Port San Carlos, Port Howard, Fox Bay, Speedwell Island, Sea Lion Island, North Arm, Lively Island and Darwin.

In November the Medical Officer visited - Berkeley Sound, and in December - Salvador Waters.

Special trips were made by the Senior Medical Officer and a Nursing-Sister to San Carlos in March, and to Port San Carlos in September.

The total number of In-Patients has decreased, while there has been a greater number of admissions. This is due to a number of "long-term" ailments, as well as three senile chronics. The shortage of beds has presented a difficult problem.

A widespread epidemic of mumps occurred in the early part of the year, with an unusual percentage of serious cases.

In November the Colony was threatened with an outbreak of measles which necessitated early closing of the schools; the epidemic has fortunately been averted.

It is of interest to record that one patient was operated upon in his house at San Carlos; and another at Port San Carlos, after the Senior Medical Officer and Nursing-Sister had journeyed there overland for the purpose. This was necessitated by the lack of shipping.

POLICE. The Chief Constable, Captain C. F. Sheppard, after seven years' service in the Colony as Drill Instructor to the Falkland Islands Defence Force, and latterly as Chief Constable, went on leave on the 30th of August, 1946; his duties have been carried out since that date by Sergeant J. Norris.

43 prosecutions were taken to the Court of Summary Jurisdiction; of this total 7 were against juveniles. There were 36 convictions, 2 sentences to imprisonment and 7 cases were dismissed.

55 motor cars and lorries, and 45 motor cycles were registered during the year, and 155 driving permits issued. 94 dogs were licenced.

The Chief Constable acts also as Sanitary Inspector and in this capacity renders monthly reports to the Board of Health.

POST OFFICE. The year has been remarkable for the issue of a definitive set of Dependencies stamps, in values from 1/-, which have excited much interest among collectors. From this issue, and from the overprinted issue which preceded it, a net sum of no less than £103,000 has accrued to Dependencies' Revenue, of which £55,000 were paid to His Majesty's Treasury on the instructions of the Secretary of State to meet the expenditure of the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey up to the end of the present season. The balance has been placed to the credit of the Research and Development Fund. In addition, there has been a Colony and Dependencies issue of Victory Stamps of 1d. and 3d. denominations, and these were placed on sale on the 7th of October. The first day sales of Victory Stamps realised £650, while on the 11th of December the new airmail stamp, designed by Mr. K. V. Lellman, was placed on sale. Some indication of the interest taken by philatelists in the Falkland Islands may be gained by the fact that £384 worth of these stamps was posted on that day alone on First Day Covers.

Since January, 1946, mails comprising 1,704 parcels, 21,017 letters and 3,744 papers have been despatched from the Colony, and mails comprising 1,225 parcels and 96,000 letters have been received.

Stamp letter orders averaged 50 and Paid Postal Orders and Money Orders about 60 per month.

The Postal and Money Orders sold throughout this period (January to date) numbered 895 to a value of £2,123.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT. Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Woodgate, O.B.E., A.R.I.B.A., is not only Executive Engineer, but combines such other functions such as that of Harbour Master and of Officer Commanding the Falkland Islands Defence Force.

No major works have been attempted during the period under review as all available labour has been engaged in trying to make good the neglect of the war years.

Roads generally have been repaired by patching and the road through "Little Italy" and the sea-wall footpath have been completed. Ross Road from the Gymnasium west to "Little Italy" has been scarified and re-surfaced and two experimental strips, one in concrete and one with special binding, have been laid. The concrete has proved highly satisfactory, but the "special binding" has worn very badly and is clearly of no use without subsequent treatment by tar or bitumastic medium.

A new collecting tank at the Mullet Creek water station has been erected, and work has commenced on the new high level tank at Sapper Hill. The former has resulted in the water being less stained and the latter will provide adequate pressure to the upper part of the town.

The new workshop attached to the garage has been completed, and a welding plant installed.

A Ladies' Room has been added to the Gymnasium and the approach to the Ladies' lavatories improved. The lavatory at the Public Jetty has been reconstructed.

A new by-pass road has been cut at Rookery Bay Corner. In anticipation of the extensive road work ahead the crushing plant at Eliza Cove has been extended and an additional crusher set up at Rookery Bay in readiness for work in this area.

The main store at the Falkland Islands Defence Force Headquarters has been re-roofed. The remaining defensive barbed wire belts have been removed.

TREASURY. Mr. E. F. Lellman has been in charge of the Treasury throughout 1946.

The year commenced with a balance in hand of £12,738 : 1 : 7; in the Vault £13,523; at South Georgia £346 : 11 : 11; and £2,427 : 5 : 6 in the hand of the Crown Agents, who also held £11,000 in the Joint Colonial Fund.

Staff. One temporary clerk has been engaged. The Assistant Treasurer was appointed Officer-in-Charge until the arrival of the Colonial Secretary in May, 1946, and again when the Colonial Secretary was Acting Governor from the 26th of July to the 25th of November, 1946. The Assistant Treasurer assumed the duties of Commissioner of Income Tax in October, when Mr. Carr left the Colony.

Provident Fund. During the year 50 new accounts were opened and 15 accounts were closed. The monthly average of contributions was £129.

Savings Bank. The fund stands at present at £421,500 with a reserve of £47,328. Average monthly deposits were £7,628 and average monthly withdrawals were £7,751. There was an average of seven monthly new accounts while seven monthly accounts were closed.

Currency Note Security Fund. During the year £5,296 : 10 : 0 was withdrawn from circulation and a like amount was invested in the Colony's Reserve Fund. The Note issue stands at £49,000.

A considerable amount of work fell on the Department in connection with the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey. £3,045 : 16 : 6 was charged in connection with advances made locally for purchase of stores and payment of wages on behalf of the Imperial Government; this sum is subsequently recovered through the Crown Agents.

Foreign Exchange. £41,603 : 10 : 3 was approved for payment in the following countries, representing imports and the personal expenses of passengers to and from the Colony :-

Uruguay	£34,095	:	9	:	8
Argentina	6,615	:	2	:	0
Switzerland	200	:	0	:	0
Brazil	82	:	0	:	4
U. S. A.	530	:	18	:	3
Canada	80	:	0	:	0

Audit. Correspondence was exchanged between the Department and the Director of Colonial Audit, including queries covering most Departmental accounts. These latter have for the most part been satisfactorily settled.

SOUTH GEORGIA. No public works of importance were carried out during the year. A new accumulator bank was installed at the Wireless Station, which dealt with 10,097 telegrams.

Export duties from whale-oil, seal-oil and other products amounting to £8,761. Three Companies were operating - Salvesen and Company, Tonsberg Company, and the Compania Argentina de Pesca.

Experiments are being carried out by them in dehydration of whale meat and the production of meat extracts, as well as glue.

Import duties totalled £2,168.

Report on Education in the Colony for the year 1945.

PART I.

Preface.

1. The population of the Falkland Islands is almost entirely British. It totals only about 2,300, and has been decreasing slowly in recent years. About half of the people live in the one town of Stanley, the rest being scattered either in small settlements or in isolated shepherds' houses over an area about the size of Yorkshire. The whole country outside Stanley is called the "Camp".

2. On account of the small population, the wide area over which it is scattered, and the poor communications, the provision of a good education for all children is a difficult problem, not yet fully solved. Education is compulsory between the ages of five and fourteen, but it is not easy to enforce this in the Camp.

3. The Educational facilities fall into four groups :

- (a) Schools in Stanley.
- (b) Small schools in a few of the Camp settlements.
- (c) Tuition by itinerant teachers in the rest of the Camp.
- (d) Further education.

Stanley.

4. A Government School is maintained from Public Funds. The curriculum and time-table of this school, catering for children between the ages of 5 and 14, are much the same as in a similar all-age school in England; a full-time Continuation Class offers a two-year course beyond Standard 6. A scheme of boarding allowances, to assist Camp parents to send their children to Stanley for schooling, has been in operation for many years. Until the evacuation of the Stanley children in 1942 there was also a Convent School in Stanley, taught by Roman Catholic Sisters.

Settlement Schools.

5. There are not many settlements with enough children to justify the establishment of full-time schools there. At the beginning of 1945 there were however small schools, conducted by part-time teachers, at San Carlos and Teal Inlet, and during the year settlement schools were set up at Chartres and Salvador also; the organization of these schools varies according to local circumstances, but in all cases the Government maintains or assists them financially, and supervises the work done in them. The Falkland Islands Company also maintains two part-time schools, one at Darwin and the other at North Arm, for the children of its employees; these schools are not assisted or inspected by the Government.

Tuition in the rest of the Camp.

6. The Government provides a number of itinerant teachers on the East and West Falklands. These teachers travel from house to house, mainly on horseback but sometimes by boat, and teach the children in their homes; they usually stay a fortnight or a month at each house. The houses are often isolated, and the teacher usually has to travel for several hours before reaching the next place where there are children to be taught. Each teacher has a "beat" which he covers at least four times a year. At the conclusion of his stay at each place, he sends in a report to the Supervisor of Camp Education, giving a detailed account of work done, progress made by the children, and so on.

7. Since 1944, the Government has employed, in addition to the travelling teachers, a full-time Supervisor of Camp Education who travels round the Camp, supervising and organizing the work of the Government travelling teachers and of the schools assisted or maintained by the Government in the Camp. The Superintendent of Education also makes periodic tours of inspection in the Camp.

8. A system of educational broadcasts to the children in the Camp was instituted, as an experiment, in 1944, and was continued during 1945.

9. The Falkland Islands Company also maintains a few travelling teachers (four during the greater part of 1945) for work on its extensive farms on the East Falklands; as with the Company's schools at Darwin and North Arm, the work of these teachers is not subject to Government inspection, nor is any financial assistance given by the Government.

Further Education.

10. Further Education is provided by a system of scholarships to the British School in Montevideo, and also, to a limited extent, by winter evening classes in Stanley.

PART II.

Administration and Staffing.

11. The authorised establishment of the Education Department at the beginning of 1945 was as follows :

Superintendent of Education & Headmaster, Govt. School	} Qualified teachers, recruited in United Kingdom.
Two Assistant Masters
Two Assistant Mistresses
(one for infants, one for seniors)
One Assistant Master	} Recruited and trained locally.
Five Assistant Teachers
Two Temporary Teachers
Three Pupil Teachers
Supervisor of Camp Education	Uncertificated, with experience in United Kingdom.
Teacher for Educational Broadcasts	Qualified teacher, recruited in United Kingdom.
Six Travelling Teachers	Recruited and trained locally.
One Clerk.
One School Caretaker.

12. The list given above (par. 11) shows a number of additions to the staff provided for in 1944. Of these the Supervisor of Camp Education and the teacher for educational broadcasts were added in 1944, to improve Camp education (see paragraphs 7, 35 and 36 of the Report on Education for 1944); the extra assistant master, temporary teacher, and pupil teacher were intended to replace teachers due to go on leave, and to provide for extra children in the Infants' Department. (The apparent increase from three assistant teachers to five assistant teachers is not real; "three" in par. 8 of the 1944 Report should read "five.")

13. The work of the Education Department, and particularly of the Government School, was seriously upset all through the year by difficulties and delays experienced in obtaining qualified staff from overseas. The two assistant mistresses whose contracts had expired in 1944 had returned to the United Kingdom, one in December 1944, the other in February 1945; their successors, although selected in England in good time, had difficulty in obtaining passages, and did not arrive in the Falklands until May 1945. A qualified assistant master, needed to allow the Superintendent of Education to go on leave, had been asked for from the United Kingdom but not obtained. The post of Senior Assistant Master, which had become vacant in 1944, was filled temporarily by an unqualified master educated in the United Kingdom and recruited in the Falkland Islands. At the beginning of the school year in February, therefore, there were altogether on the staff of the Education Department only two qualified teachers (the Superintendent of Education and the teacher in charge of educational broadcasts).

14. The position was improved when the two assistant mistresses, Miss E. Bosworthick and Miss M. Downs, arrived from England in May, but the school was still without a qualified assistant master. The temporary unqualified assistant master referred to above did not make a success of his work, and his appointment came to an end in April. In the same month an extra assistant mistress, recruited locally, was appointed temporarily in the place of one of the required assistant masters; she had high academic qualifications, and worked hard; but a woman cannot take the place of the Senior Assistant Master completely, and in this particular case her state of health affected her work adversely during a large part of the time; for the last two months of the year, ill-health obliged her to remain away from work altogether.

15. While the work of the school was thus being carried on as well as possible with the help of temporary appointments of people already in the Falklands, the Department had still been trying to obtain a qualified assistant master from the United Kingdom; finally, when it seemed out of the question for the time being to obtain a master, an extra mistress, Miss H. Gray, was selected for appointment; but although selected in July 1945, shipping delays prevented her from arriving in the Falklands until May 1946.

16. These shortages of qualified staff made 1945 a very different year from 1944. Whereas in 1944, in spite of a number of changes in staff (mostly transfers from one branch of work to another), a fair measure of progress had been possible, 1945 was largely one long struggle simply to keep going. The time available for training of teachers, developmental work, and general directive and administrative work, was far less than what was needed. Teaching and discipline inevitably suffered, particularly in the highest classes and when adequate help and supervision could not be given to young, inexperienced teachers. Except for 1942, the year of the evacuation, it is probably the year in which education in the Government School has been most affected by the war.

17. At the beginning of the year, three pupil teachers were appointed for training in the Government School. Two had just left school, after completing three years in the Continuation Class; the third had had two years in the Continuation Class and one year as clerk in the Education Department. The aim was to give these pupil teachers two or three years of training, which was to include further improvement of their own education, a study of principles and methods of education, observation of the whole work of the school from the Infants' Department to the Continuation Class, and a gradually increasing amount of supervised teaching practice. This work was mainly in the hands of the qualified teachers from overseas, although the locally trained teachers also gave help.

18. The pupil teachers began their work in the Infants' Department (before she left the Falklands, Miss Brown, the retiring infant mistress, was able to give them an outline of the principles on which infant teaching is based). From the Infants' Department they went on to work in the junior school, and then (for observation only) to the senior school. Having gained a comprehensive view of the work of the school as a whole, they then settled down to more intensive work in the junior school, where they would later be teaching. During the winter they attended evening classes in various subjects, as part of their work.

19. The shortage of qualified teachers referred to in paragraphs 13-16 above limited what could be achieved in the training of the pupil teachers in this one year. By the end of the year, however, they had acquired a fair understanding of the main principles in education, were taking certain lessons regularly on their own, and, on the whole, managing their classes fairly well. Just after the end of the school year, one of the pupil teachers resigned in order to go to England with her parents.

20. In the Camp there were a few changes in staff during the year. On the West Falklands, an additional travelling teacher was appointed in May, but one resigned in November to go to Montevideo. On the East Falklands the one travelling teacher employed resigned in June, and no successor could be obtained until November; in the meantime, however, an extra teacher had begun work in the settlement at Salvador (in Sept.); and in November another teacher began work, on a part-time basis, at Port San Carlos. By the end of the year, therefore, the number of teachers at work in the Camp had increased by two; adequate staffing still remained, however, one of the major difficulties of Camp education. For further details, see paragraphs 38, 40, 54, 55 and 56.

21. The following members of the staff of the Education Department went overseas on leave during 1945: in February, Miss H. Brown (Infant Mistress - see par. 13); in September, Mr. D. J. Draycott (Supervisor of Camp Education), Mrs. A. R. Draycott and Miss B. E. Braxton (Assistant Teachers in the Government School). Some other members of the staff were entitled to leave, but on account of shortage of staff could not be spared from their work in 1945.

23. The above figures do not include a few children who were receiving private tuition - usually Camp children being taught by their parents, with or without help from the Education Department. The three boys and one girl attending the school at Salvador in the latter part of the year are included in the figures given for Government Travelling Teachers, as these children were included in the Travelling Teacher's beat for the greater part of the year. The figures given for the school at Chartres include one girl who did not actually attend the school, but who was taught by the teacher of the school, during short periodical visits made by the teacher to the girl's home (see par. 41).

Finance.

24. The expenditure under Head XII. Education of the annual estimates of expenditure was £6,523 : 6 : 7, as compared with £4,772 : 0 : 3 in 1944. The revenue collected in 1945 amounted to £174 : 8 : 4, as against £202 : 11 : 11 in 1944.

Government School, Stanley.

25. The year in the Government School was a difficult and unsettled one. On account of an epidemic of whooping cough, the opening of the school at the beginning of the year was delayed a fortnight, until February 26th, and it was not possible to regain this lost time by shortening the holidays during the rest of the year, as the two regular holidays during the year are of only one week's duration each. Even after school had started, many children, who had difficulty in throwing off the whooping cough completely, were unusually irregular in attendance; and further time was lost through extra holidays for victory celebrations. Some of the difficulties caused by the shortage of qualified teachers from overseas have already been mentioned (pars. 13-16). The changes necessitated by the arrival and departure of teachers at various times during the year also disturbed the life of the school, so that it never seemed to settle down properly.

26. The school continued to use the same premises as in 1944 - the buildings of the Government School itself being used by the classes from Standard 1 upwards, the Infants' Department meeting in its temporary accommodation in the former St. Mary's School, and the physical training classes being held, by kind permission of the Falkland Islands Defence Force, in the Defence Force Drill Hall. Premises for domestic science are referred to in par. 30 below.

27. The curriculum of the school was in most points similar to that followed in previous years. There was a slight improvement in the variety and quantity of school materials obtainable from England, but shortages of materials still hampered some of the work. A good piano, bought cheaply from the Army garrison when it withdrew, was a valuable acquisition.

28. In the Infants' Department the three locally trained teachers, under Mrs. Osborne's leadership, and with the help of schemes prepared by Miss Brown before her departure, carried on the work very capably in the interval before the arrival of the new infant mistress, Miss M. Downs; when she arrived, the Infants' Department was once again fully staffed. Among the noteworthy features of the life of the Infants' Department during the year were the parties held at the end of each term and skilfully organised so as to fit in with the ordinary school work and to have the maximum educational value.

29. In the junior school, the most important alteration in the work was the addition of art to the girls' curriculum; it had been included in the boys' curriculum for many years, and was extended to the senior girls in 1944; but until 1945, the junior girls' opportunities for artistic expression had been extremely limited.

30. The senior school started the year under great difficulties, with Standard 6 and the Continuation Class combined, for most work, under an unqualified assistant master; it was not until April that the two classes could be separated. The senior boys' woodwork classes, which had formerly been taken by a carpenter from the Public Works Department, could not be started at the beginning of the year, because the Public Works Department could not spare a carpenter at the time; but when the school staffing position improved towards the middle of the year, the classes were taken by Mr. Lellman, an assistant master who is also a trained carpenter. The senior boys' work in gardening and agricultural science was kept up throughout the year, under officers of the Agricultural Department. The senior girls' cookery classes, which had been suspended since the evacuation in 1942 on account of lack of suitable facilities, were at last started again, under Miss Bosworthick, soon after her arrival; Church House, the former domestic science centre, was still occupied by naval personnel, but other premises became available in the Church Hall - premises which, while not suitable for all the work which should be included in a good domestic science course, were nevertheless able to be made fairly satisfactory for cookery. For games, the girls played hockey and netball, and the boys played association and a little rugby football; in addition to the regular games in sports periods, a number of games were again organized, at the children's request, out of school hours - some between teams from the school, and some against outside teams. The children of the senior classes naturally took a keen interest in the plans made during the year for a new Library, Town Hall and Civic Centre; they had their share in the discussion of plans when, after being invited by the Executive Engineer to examine the models of the proposed new buildings and to ask questions of him, their impressions and suggestions were written down in school and sent to him for his consideration.

31. In order to give the children more training in leadership and a greater share in managing the affairs of the school, a new system of prefects was introduced early in the year. Previously there had been a rudimentary system of cloakroom monitors, but this was now enlarged to provide for four girl and four boy prefects. The prefects were to have various duties and privileges, particularly in connection with play-times and the organization of games, and were to be the recognized leaders of the school and the normal representatives of the children in any matters that they wished to bring to the notice of the staff. The prefects were chosen largely on the results of a secret ballot held in the three senior classes. Although such a busy, unsettled year was not the best of times for introducing new schemes like this, the system worked fairly well. The prefects, on the whole, carried out their duties with commendable conscientiousness; some however (understandably enough) were inclined to be diffident about using their new powers.

32. All the pupils were examined medically and dentally in December; follow-up work was carried out during the school summer holidays.

33. In the course of the year His Excellency the Governor made three much-appreciated visits to the school, one on the occasion of the Open Day and Show of Work and the other two in connection with St. George's Day and Trafalgar Day. On his St. George's Day and Trafalgar Day visits he addressed the senior pupils and granted holidays in honour of these occasions.

34. The annual Open Day and Show of Work was held in December. The number of parents and friends of the children who came to see the work was greater than usual, so that although the largest room in the school was used for the display of work, at times it was overcrowded. In addition to the usual variety of handwork, needlework, woodwork and art, there was once again an exhibit of cookery done by the senior girls; and for the first time, a selection of handwork and needlework done by children in the Camp was displayed.

35. At the prize-giving ceremony held in the Gymnasium on the last day of term, His Excellency the Governor presented the prizes, and addressed the large gathering of children and their parents and friends on possible future developments in education in the Falklands.

36. The Old Pupils' Association again had a successful winter season, providing its members with a varied programme of social and cultural activities, including talks, cinema shows, dances and whist drives; as in previous years, many of its meetings were held in the school.

The Camp.

37. The Education Department's policy in the Camp in 1945 was a continuation and development of that followed in 1944. The teaching was done mainly by travelling teachers, although efforts were made to develop settlement schools wherever the number of children justified it and there was a teacher available. The travelling teachers' beats were kept as small as possible, so as to avoid long intervals between the teachers' visits to any one place. The work of the Camp teachers was supplemented by daily wireless broadcasts from Stanley. The details of organization and the supervision of the work done in the Camp were largely in the hands of the recently-appointed Supervisor of Camp Education.

38. On the West Falklands, at the beginning of 1945, there were five travelling teachers, teaching altogether 59 children in 21 different places. Four of the teachers' beats were satisfactory in size, but one was too large; attempts had been made in 1944 to get an extra teacher to split up this beat, but it was not until May 1945 that the extra teacher was finally obtained. From May until November the number of teachers on the West remained the same (quite a satisfactory number); but at the end of November, one of the teachers resigned, and could not be replaced immediately.

39. During the year a good many families moved from one part of the West to another; in some cases this resulted in the concentration of larger numbers of children in settlements, and it became possible to start a regular settlement school at Chartres, under one of the six travelling teachers, in May (see par. 41), and to keep another of the travelling teachers permanently on Saunders Island, teaching seven children, from August onwards.

40. On the East Falkland, at the beginning of 1945, there was one travelling teacher, teaching altogether 9 children in 5 different places. There were in addition settlement schools at San Carlos and Teal Inlet, with 8 and 7 children respectively. These arrangements for the teaching on the East were fairly satisfactory as long as they lasted. In June, however, the travelling teacher resigned, and it was five months before another teacher could be obtained. In the meantime the travelling teacher's beat had altered considerably; a settlement school had been started at Salvador, while the children from two other houses on the beat were now being catered for by the school at Teal Inlet; but new children in other places had started school, so that the beat now consisted of 3 places (with 7 children) on one side of the island, and 3 places (with 5 children, some of whom had attended school in Stanley for part of the year) on the other side - a most awkward beat, which would have been much better split into two beats, in spite of the small numbers of children, if the necessary extra teacher had been available. The extra teacher, however, could not be obtained. Various arrangements to improve the situation were attempted; at Port San Carlos, for instance, help was given by a part-time teacher during the travelling teacher's absence; but in spite of all that could be done, the position remained unsatisfactory.

41. Some reference has already been made (paragraph 39) to the settlement school started at Chartres in May. Plans for a full-time school there were made when all but one of the children on the former Chartres travelling teacher's beat came in to the settlement to live. It was expected at that time that there would be nine children attending school in the settlement, and although the number dropped to six about the time the school started, it was decided to carry on with the arrangements. The teacher was Miss June Myles, the travelling teacher who had been in charge of the Chartres beat. It was hoped at first that the one child from her former beat still remaining outside the settlement would come in to the settlement for her schooling, but eventually it was arranged that the teacher should make periodical short visits to the child's home. The school at Chartres met in the manager's house, in a room generously lent and fitted up as a schoolroom by the manager and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. K. Luxton. Mr. and Mrs. Luxton also provided accommodation for the teacher while she was in Chartres and gave invaluable help with the school in many other ways. At the end of the year, a boy from this school won one of the Government Scholarships to Montevideo.

42. The part-time school at San Carlos carried on its work during 1945 on much the same lines as in previous years, with Mrs. Bonner (the wife of the manager of San Carlos Station) teaching for two hours a day. In previous years, however, as a travelling teacher also had visited San Carlos, Mrs. Bonner had taught only during the travelling teacher's absence; this year, in view of the many other calls on the travelling teacher's time, her visits were discontinued, and Mrs. Bonner took over the whole of the teaching. Some of Mrs. Bonner's pupils live in San Carlos settlement; others walk in daily from their home at the Head of the Bay (a walk of about an hour). The school meets in Mrs. Bonner's house, in a room that she has equipped extremely well. She goes about her teaching with great energy and enthusiasm, and the good progress made by her pupils, and their interest in their work, are a credit to her. It was a fitting reward for her efforts that one of her pupils gained first place in the 1945 scholarship examination.

43. The school at Teal Inlet was established towards the end of 1944, with Mr. O. McPhee, the resident teacher-storekeeper, in charge (for details of the arrangement, see paragraph 32 of the Education Department's Report for 1944). The school carried on its work most successfully during 1945, Mr. McPhee proving himself a thoroughly capable and popular teacher, with a definite place in the life of the community. The children made good progress in their work; the extent to which the school is appreciated and supported by the children and parents at Teal Inlet is shown by its attendance figures (97.6% for the whole year; in one quarter the school maintained a 100% attendance throughout the whole quarter).

44. One important development during the year was that the school began to cater not only for the children in the settlement at Teal Inlet but also for those living in shepherds' houses away from the settlement. With the help of the boarding allowances mentioned in paragraph 53, these children started coming in to board in the settlement to attend school for a few weeks at a time, with spells at home (doing homework) in between their visits to the settlement. Travelling teachers no longer needed to visit the homes of these children and the school at Teal Inlet became a central school for all the children on the station. In this development, as in many other things, the help and co-operation of Mr. A. G. Barton, manager of Teal Inlet Station, have been of the greatest value.

45. A new full-time school was started at Salvador in September. After the resignation in June of the travelling teacher for that beat, Miss N. Pitaluga, a daughter of the manager, began doing a little teaching for the children in the settlement. In September this work was put on a definite full-time basis, with Miss Pitaluga drawing an allowance proportionate to the number of children taught - not a full Camp teacher's salary, because that expense would have been out of proportion to the small number of children taught (four). The school met at first in the station manager's office, but later the manager generously fitted up a schoolroom in one end of a Nissen hut.

46. The broader range of studies and activities developed in the Camp in 1944 was carried on, without important change, in 1945. While the travelling teachers still had to give most of their time to arithmetic and the various branches of English, the general tendency towards smaller beats and more settlement schools allowed many of the Camp teachers to give more attention than before to subjects such as geography, history, nature study and handwork. The educational broadcasts also helped in providing this wider range of studies. As has already been mentioned, a selection of handwork and needlework done in the Camp during the year was exhibited in the display of work on the Open Day at the Government School in Stanley.

47. A scheme of educational broadcasts to the Camp had been started as an experiment, towards the end of 1944. The two chief aims of the scheme were to encourage and help the children with their homework in the intervals between the teachers' visits, and to supplement the teachers' work by talks on a wide range of topics. Although it was found that, on account of various difficulties, rather less than half the total number of children in the Camp could hear the broadcasts clearly and regularly, the scheme was considered to be sufficiently successful to be worth continuing.

48. Mr. R. Rice, the former Government Travelling Teacher who had conducted the broadcasts in 1944, was put in charge of them for the next three years. They were given for an hour each afternoon, five days a week. The scheme of lessons and methods of approach adopted in 1944 had been found generally satisfactory, and were continued, with minor alterations, in 1945 (for details, see paragraph 36 of the Education Department's Report for 1944). On the opening day of the 1945 session, His Excellency the Governor came to the studio and spoke to the children. After the arrival of a new chaplain for Christ Church (Anglican) Cathedral, the religious talks were given sometimes by him and sometimes (as in 1944) by the Non-conformist minister, the Reverend W. F. McWhan. As in 1944, summaries of most of the broadcast talks were sent out to all the Camp teachers. Damage to the transmitting aerial in a storm unfortunately suspended the broadcasts for two months between April and June.

49. Efforts to increase the circle of listeners were partially successful. In the almost complete absence of new sets on the market, little could be done for those families who had no sets, or poor sets, or sets without the necessary 83 metre band; nor could difficulties over repairs and re-charging of accumulators be eliminated; but at the transmitting station a new and higher aerial was erected, and various other improvements were made, so that the lessons could now reach more than half the children quite well. The untiring assistance given with the broadcasting by the Supervisor of the Electrical and Telegraphs Department is much appreciated.

50. The Supervisor of Camp Education, Mr. D. J. Draycott, made three tours in the Camp during 1945. The first was on the East Falkland (in January and February), the second on the West (March to June), and the third on the East again (August to September). At the end of September he left for England to take the leave due to him from his former contract. He is energetic, and well-liked in the Camp, and his appointment is proving of great value in the attempt to improve Camp education. On his tours he aims at visiting all the children receiving tuition from Government teachers (transport difficulties and other reasons sometimes prevent him from seeing a few of the children); he examines all their work, and discusses it thoroughly with the teachers. His regular visits help to sustain the interest of the children and their teachers in their work, and to keep them doing their best. His time in Stanley in the intervals between tours is spent in going through the reports and filled exercise books sent in by the teachers and in planning their work.

51. In addition to the tours carried out by the Supervisor of Camp Education, a tour was made on the East Falkland by the Superintendent of Education in October and November.

52. The boarding allowances granted by the Government for Camp children coming in to school in Stanley were continued during 1945 at the rate of £2 a month. The total number of Camp children who attended school in Stanley and received this assistance during 1945 was 27, as against 31 in 1944; 22 out of the 27 (as compared with 16 in 1944) attended for periods of more than six months. The above figures include three children whose parents were in South Georgia, where there are no educational facilities.

53. Towards the end of the year, a new scheme was introduced to provide boarding allowances for Camp children who boarded in settlements in order to attend settlement schools. The scheme was intended to further the general policy of providing education in settlement schools, rather than by travelling teachers, wherever possible. The rate of the allowance was fixed at 1/3 a day – slightly less than the Stanley boarding allowance, because the cost of living is considered to be slightly less in the Camp. The scheme was confined (to begin with) to children attending Government-assisted schools. By the end of the year, one child was already attending the school at Teal Inlet as a boarder under this scheme, and two others had made arrangements to do so in the New Year.

54. Paragraphs 38 and 40 show that satisfactory staffing still remains one of the great difficulties of Camp education. More than once no replies have been received to advertisements for travelling teachers; often months have passed before it has been possible to obtain the extra teachers needed either to replace teachers who have left the service, or to increase the total staff and so reduce the sizes of beats. This scarcity of applicants for posts has sometimes meant that out of necessity candidates have been accepted whose qualifications were not as high as could have been desired. It has of course been a period of expansion, with a larger demand than usual for new teachers; and the number of teachers employed in the Camp has increased during the last two years; but with a more plentiful supply of teachers, much greater progress could be made.

55. Efforts were continued to give the Camp teachers more training, and to help them to improve their own standard of education in cases where this was desirable. It had been hoped to assemble most of the travelling teachers in Stanley for a short period of training in the winter, but various difficulties prevented them from coming in to Stanley together. Most came in to Stanley on leave at some time during the year, and, as in 1944, advantage was taken of these visits to give them periods of observation and training in the Government School, as well as to give them any help they needed with their own studies. The two new travelling teachers appointed during the year were both given some training, in one case before starting teaching, and in the other case a few months later, (in this latter case it was inconvenient for the teacher to come in to Stanley from her home in the Camp at the time when she was appointed; the Supervisor of Camp Education gave her some preliminary guidance in the Camp before she started work). The Camp teachers' coming in one at a time at intervals throughout the year, instead of all together, was wasteful of the time of the Stanley teachers who helped in training them, and the shortage of qualified staff in Stanley limited what could be done for them. Although most of the Camp teachers are doing good work – and some are doing excellent work – much still remains to be done to raise the standard everywhere to a satisfactory level.

56. At the end of the year, chiefly with the object of improving the supply of good Camp teachers, the Education Department introduced a scheme of Bursaries for Camp children who wanted to become Camp teachers. The first of these Bursaries were to be awarded early in 1946. Normally, two of these Bursaries will be awarded each year. They are intended mainly, though not exclusively, for children between the ages of 14 and 15½ at the time of the award (that is, for children who have completed the period of compulsory education). They offer a year's schooling in the Government School, to round off the child's education, and then a period of from three to six months' intensive training in Stanley for work as a Camp teacher. During all the time the child is in Stanley, he (or she) will receive not the ordinary Camp boarding allowance, but a larger maintenance allowance at the rate of £50 per annum, with free passages to and from Stanley. On the satisfactory completion of the period of schooling and training, the winners of these Bursaries will be appointed to posts as Government Camp teachers, and in return for the financial assistance given them under the terms of the Bursaries, they will be expected to serve as teachers for at least four years.

Government Scholarships to Montevideo.

57. The scheme for granting scholarships to enable chosen pupils from the Falkland Islands to attend the British School in Montevideo for three years' study there reached its full expansion in 1945, with six Falkland Islands children in Montevideo (two in their first year, two in their second year, and two in their final year).

58. Some difficulties were experienced during the year over arrangements for the children's board in Montevideo. The boarding-house in which the children had lived very happily ever since the scholarship scheme was introduced closed down. The Board of Governors of the British Schools Society went to considerable trouble to find another place where the children could still all live together, and eventually succeeded, but by the end of the year it was becoming clear that the place was not completely satisfactory.

59. On the recommendation of the Board of Governors of the British Schools Society, it was decided in September to appoint a guardian for the children in Montevideo (Mrs. Graves, the landlady who had boarded the children during their first two-and-a-half years in Montevideo, had acted unofficially as their guardian during that time, but had now left the country). The matter was put in the hands of the British Consul in Montevideo and when approached, Mrs. Norman Leslie, wife of the British Vice-Consul, kindly consented to act as the children's guardian.

60. At school, the six pupils did very satisfactory work on the whole during the year. In some cases progress was hampered by frequent absence due to illness; especially in their first year, the children seem to have difficulty in adjusting themselves to the different climate. The children took their place well in school sports; the four girls played hockey for the First XI, two of them winning their colours; one of the boys played football for the First XI, and gained a prize in the School's annual athletic sports contest. The pupils also took part with enthusiasm in various out-of-school activities, such as the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts. The broadening of outlook and increase in self-confidence brought about by these varied activities and by new experiences are not the least valuable of the benefits given to the children by the scholarships. The great care and attention given to the pupils in Montevideo by the Board of Governors, Mrs. Leslie and the teaching staff contribute much towards making the scheme a success, and are deeply appreciated.

61. In December 1945, the first two children to go to Montevideo under the scholarship scheme sat and passed the Cambridge School Certificate Examination. This is the first time that Falkland Islanders, receiving their education under provision made by the Falkland Islands Government, have passed the examination.

62. At the end of October an examination in English, Mathematics, and General Intelligence was held for all candidates for the two scholarships for 1946; while Stanley was the main examination centre, five candidates sat the examination in the Camp – two at San Carlos, two at Port Howard, and one at Chartres. After considering the results of this examination and the school record, general ability and character of the candidates, the Scholarship Selection Committee awarded the scholarships to a girl and a boy, from San Carlos and Chartres respectively. Upon the girl's parents declining the scholarship, however, the funds thus made available were used to enable another girl, who had also done very well in the scholarship examination, to go to Montevideo in the place of the original scholarship winner.

63. As in 1944, three Falkland Prizes were awarded in connection with the scholarship examination.

Evening Classes.

64. A series of evening classes was again arranged for the winter months. In some ways the classes were an experiment; it was known that the military garrison, which had provided the chief support for the evening classes in previous years, was to be withdrawn early in the winter and the classes were therefore planned entirely to meet the requirements of the local population. Particular attention was given to the case of junior employees in Government Departments and to encouraging their attendance; at a conference of Heads of Departments a scheme was agreed upon, whereby employees under 18 years of age would be allowed time off from work equivalent to time spent at evening classes, and all boys and girls entering the Civil Service in salaried posts or as apprentices would be required, as part of the terms of their employment, to attend such classes as were considered desirable.

65. The classes, which were free of charge, were held in the Government School. The subjects studied included English, mathematics, dressmaking, and shorthand; there was also a class in "General Subjects" (a mixture of English, arithmetic, geography, general knowledge, etc.), and a series of four talks on "Science and the Scientific Outlook". Difficulties over equipment or instructors prevented the formation of certain other classes which would have met a definite need.

66. The response to the classes was quite good. Attendances remained fairly steady throughout the winter, with the smallest classes averaging more than ten students (quite a satisfactory number, considering the smallness of the population). The most popular classes were "General Subjects" and dressmaking. The "General Subjects" class had an average attendance of over twenty students (although not all worked seriously); the dressmaking class became so unwieldy in size that it had to be divided into two classes, and eventually further admissions to the classes had to be refused. Although the classes were intended only for the winter and early spring, and most stopped before the beginning of summer, a small group of shorthand students carried on right through the summer. The successes, difficulties and failures of the classes provided useful data for the planning of future classes.

LABOUR POLICY.

His Excellency the Governor in his Address to Members of the Legislative Council on the 23rd of December, 1946, dealing with the Labour situation in the Colony, said :-

"This brings me to the labour situation and to the policy pursued in fulfilment of some unrecorded commitment of a former Governor which has placed on the Administration the onus of giving work to almost anyone who seeks it, irrespective of other considerations. I venture to suggest to you that the full implications of this policy could never have been appreciated and it has created a very serious problem which we are unlikely to solve by running away from it. What it really means is this : that the Government, by carrying on a system of unplanned and uneconomic relief works which have cost the Colony many thousands of pounds has laid on its shoulders a load from which it has been unable to free itself and which, if unrelieved, may bring it financially to its knees. We face this year, as you will presently hear from the Honourable the Colonial Secretary, a deficit of no less than £27,000 and next year of no less than £35,000; it must be apparent to you that we cannot continue on these lines.

"Relief works are justifiable, and indeed necessary, in an era of unemployment and it is proper, even in normal times, that older men for whom no measure of social security exists should be able, for their own self-respect, to obtain work so long as they are capable of giving effective service; but to extend this principle to every youth as soon as he leaves school, to every man irrespective of the fact that work is available elsewhere and labour desperately needed, is to set a most dangerous precedent. To this I would add that the proper provision for men who are past active work is a social security fund on a contributory basis and that is the solution towards which Government, Employers and workers must turn their thoughts."

2. The matter was referred to the Secretary of State for the Colonies for consideration : and approval has been given for the termination of the present policy with regard to the employment of labour by Government, whereby it has been the custom to employ all men asking for work irrespective of their age or fitness, or of the necessity for their services.

3. Men now employed by Government, who are physically unfit through age or disability, or those who by age or infirmity are no longer able to work on the Camp, will be provided for by :-

- (a) Public Assistance if they are unfit for any work.
- (b) Employment on Task Work at a weekly wage, as recommended by the Labour

Advisory Board, where only fit for light duties.

Details of this scheme are now under consideration by the Falkland Islands Labour Federation and the Government, and such cases mentioned will be so provided for until the introduction of a Social Security Scheme.

4. If alternative work exists for a man applying for employment by Government whether in the Camp or elsewhere, no obligation rests on Government to provide relief work.

5. The new policy may be summarised thus :-

- (a) Government will provide casual work only to those who are unable either by age or other infirmity to work in the Camp, each such application being judged on its merits, and special rates of pay devised therefor. It will do this in recognition of the fact that there is no social security scheme and will cease to do it as soon as one can be introduced. Even so, this can only apply, where the worker is capable of doing a day's work and when he ceases to be able to do so it becomes a question of poor relief.
- (b) If work is offered whether in the Camp or elsewhere within the Colony and declined, no obligation will rest upon the Government to provide relief work.

The above does not affect those in regular employment by Government on essential works under the Public Works Department or other Departments, and refers specifically to the assumption of fresh liabilities.

6. The new policy will take effect forthwith.

31st July, 1947.

The Leave and Passage Regulations have recently been reviewed by the Secretary of State for the Colonies, who has reached the conclusion that they go beyond what was contemplated when they were framed or what is the general practice elsewhere.

2. Colonial practice the principle that

A Colonial Government officers recruited them fair facilities for home countries; and the interest for Government to provide facilities for overseas leave for certain classes or grades of local officers whose home is in the Colonies, but whose work and responsibility is on all fours with that of imported officials.

3. In the circumstances, and in view of the present financial position, the Secretary of State has agreed that the existing privileges regarding free passages for officers below the Special Grade (£400-10-£500) should be suspended.

4. Revised Regulations regarding Leave and Passages and other conditions of service are under consideration.

(3) The returning officer shall give notice to the candidates of the time and place for counting the votes.

(4) Where an equality of votes is found to exist between any candidates on a final count and the addition of a vote would entitle any of those candidates to be declared elected the returning officer shall make a special return of the results of the election and the Council duly assembled shall choose one of such candidates to be a member of the Council.

Course to be pursued with respect to rejected ballot papers.

38. The presiding officer shall endorse the word "rejected" on any ballot paper which he may reject as invalid, and shall add to such endorsement the words "rejection objected to" if any objection be in fact made by any candidate, or a person nominated by him to be present at the count of the votes, to the decision of the presiding officer. 41. The papers required by Section 40 of this Ordinance to be sealed by the presiding officer shall be sealed up by him in the presence of the candidates, or any other person nominated by them for the purpose in attendance, and by no other person except with the sanction of the presiding officer.

Rejected ballot papers not to be inspected except under order of the Supreme Court.

42. No person shall be allowed to inspect any rejected ballot papers in the custody of the Colonial Secretary except upon the order of the Supreme Court to be granted only where it is satisfied by evidence on oath that the inspection or production of such ballot papers is required for the purpose of instituting or maintaining a prosecution for an offence in relation to ballot papers or for the purpose of a petition questioning an election or a return; and any such order for the inspection or production of ballot papers may be made subject to such conditions as to persons, time, place and mode of inspection or production as the Supreme Court may think expedient and shall be obeyed by the Colonial Secretary, and the power given to the Court by this Section may be exercised by the Judge in chambers.

43. No person shall, except by order of the Supreme Court, open any election papers relating to the election of members of the Council so returned to the Colonial Secretary and in his custody; such order may be subject to such conditions as to person, time, place and mode of opening or inspection as the Court may think expedient. Provided that in making and carrying into effect any such order care shall be taken that the mode in which any particular elector has voted shall not be discovered until he has been proved to have voted and his vote has been declared by competent authority to be invalid. Such papers shall be resealed at such time and in such manner as the Court may from time to time direct.

Election papers in the custody of the Colonial Secretary not to be opened except under an order of the Supreme Court.

44. When an order is made for the production by the Colonial Secretary of any document in his possession relating to any specified election, the production by the Colonial Secretary of the documents ordered by the Supreme Court in such manner as may be directed by rule shall be conclusive evidence that such document relates to the specified election; and any endorsement appearing on any packet of papers produced by the Colonial Secretary shall be evidence of such papers being what they are stated to be by the endorsement. The production from proper custody of a ballot paper purporting to have been used at any election and of a counterfoil marked with the same printed number and having a number marked thereon in writing shall be prima facie evidence that the person who voted by such ballot paper was the person who at the time of such election had annexed to his name in the register at such election the same number as the number written on such counterfoil.

with respect to rejected ballot papers.

The production from proper custody of a ballot paper purporting to have been used at any election and of a counterfoil marked with the same printed number and having a number marked thereon in writing shall be prima facie evidence that the person who voted by such ballot paper was the person who at the time of such election had annexed to his name in the register at such election the same number as the number written on such counterfoil.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

MINUTES OF MEETING HELD ON THE 26TH NOVEMBER, 1947.

1. The Honourable Mr. A. G. Barton after taking the prescribed Oath, assumed his seat at the Council.

2. The minutes of the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 23rd of December, 1946, were confirmed.

3. His Excellency the Governor delivered to the Council the following address :—

Honourable Members of the Legislative Council,

By a happy coincidence today marks the first anniversary of my arrival in The Falklands and is for me therefore an appropriate occasion for taking stock. While the year has been notable for investigations and planning rather than for achievement the ground in that former respect has, I suggest, been well covered and I will travel over it with you in a moment.

I wish first of all to say how disappointed I am that the recent epidemic should have defeated my intention to pay an initial visit to all Camp stations during my first year of office. As it is, however, I have visited all but four and all our Bases in the Antarctic except one; from that, as from South Georgia I was turned back by bad weather very late in the season but I hope to make good all these deficiencies during the next few months. Meanwhile I have met most of the Farm Managers either on my travels or here in Stanley, and recall with pleasure my informal discussions with the Sheep Owners' Association in March.

Some changes have occurred in Legislative Council since it was last assembled; we have lost the services of Colonel Woodgate on his transfer to Tanganyika, whither he carries our very good wishes, and on the non-official side the Hon. Mr. A. G. Barton has been appointed, provisionally, in the absence on leave of the Hon. Mr. D. W. Roberts and I extend to him a most cordial welcome. Once again I have to record my regret at the absence of the Hon. Mr. R. C. Pole Evans — the improvement in our communications to which we can now look forward will facilitate the attendance of representatives from the Camp in the absence of which our discussions are robbed of much of their value.

Honourable Members, a review of Departmental activities will, as last year, be laid on the table and I wish at this point to pay a tribute to the Civil Service in which term, for present purposes, I include both clerical and manual workers and those in temporary employment as well as those on the permanent establishment. Shortage of staff, aggravated by illness, has created burdens which, in the case of the Secretariat have been rendered heavier by my own thirst for information — these burdens have been most cheerfully carried; on the technical side the same adverse circumstances have operated with the additional handicap of shortage of materials, but the same good spirit has been shown and I have on more than one occasion been compelled to admiration by the ingenuity and initiative displayed in overcoming these difficulties. In my general enquiry into the Colony's affairs I have not overlooked the need for more stable conditions in the Civil Service and a Committee will be set up almost immediately to consider certain proposals on which I have been working for some time past: Government servants will, of course, be represented on that Committee. The Administration should ever, in my view, be the best employer as it must also in my view be the most exacting; the two requirements are inseparable and are equally in the public interest.

I will embark now on the main theme of my address to you today which concerns Development in all its aspects, and in doing so will deal first with a question which I have much at heart and that is a more effective representation of the people in the affairs of Government.

You will recall that my first step, and one which I have found most useful, was the appointment of two non-officials to my Executive Council; the second, which appeared to find favour with an informal Committee and with others whom I discussed it with, is an equally obvious one — and that is provision of local government for our capital, Stanley, through the establishment of a Town Council. The advantages of this proposal, long overdue, are so manifest, so real that one would suppose they needed no further emphasis but since I am informed that there is some apprehension and misunderstanding in certain quarters, I will elaborate :

First It is safe to say that Stanley is the only capital in the Empire which has not its own Council and which is not, in greater or lesser degree, responsible for its own affairs.

Second It is essential to the well-being and self-respect of any community — especially an all-British one such as this — that it should exercise these powers which are its right; size does not diminish that right and Stanley is certainly large enough.

Third It is for the people and not for the Government to determine such domestic matters as rating; where, when and in what order urban roads should be improved; street lighting; water supply and bathing establishments; use and management of the Town Hall; sanitary regulations and by-laws; licencing; poor relief; maintenance of the cemetery and a score of such considerations which are not the proper business of Government.

Fourth It will provide a much-needed outlet for civic leadership and is the only sure means of acquiring political wisdom and administrative experience.

Fifth It will furnish an authoritative link between the people of Stanley and the Administration where, at present, none exists; popular institutions come and go, as is their habit — yesterday it was the Reform League, today the Labour Federation, tomorrow it may be some other. Who can tell? Admirable as such institutions are, useful as is the purpose they serve, nothing – I repeat nothing – can replace or indeed approach that knowledge and authority which is conferred on representatives of the people, elected by the people to serve their common purpose. This is the first principle of Democracy.

Sixth

Stanley will thus be able to send to the Legislature representatives chosen by itself, in whom the majority have confidence, who will be able to speak authoritatively and acceptably because, being responsible for the day-to-day affairs and problems of the Town, they will know what they are talking about; who will be able to participate effectively in debate through experience gained in Town Council proceedings and who will, for the same reason, be able to pull their weight in Committee.

I could dwell longer on this theme but will not for I think it must be clear to you that in no other way can the interests of Stanley be so well cared for or so well represented. Are we, then, to look in vain for half-a-dozen men and women of good-will and public spirit who, seeing this as clearly as we do and believing as we do that the time for emancipation from leading-strings is here and now will be prepared to step forward and play their part?

In commending this measure to you, let me add that the Government is in no sense seeking to rid itself of responsibilities; in homely words it has no other object in view than to give his own latch-key and his own banking account to a son who came of age long since and who, unless he learns to fend for himself, will soon lose both the will and the ability to do so.

The third step, which I wish to see following on the heels of the second, is an enlarged Legislative Council with popularly elected representatives from the East and West Falklands, as from Stanley; the requisite Ordinance has been prepared in outline and will be put before you, I hope, at an emergency meeting in the Autumn.

The final step is a further revision of the new Legislative Council conferring upon it a non-official majority. But here let me sound a note of caution and introduce again a homely illustration. When a man suffering from starvation is brought to Hospital, the prudent physician will graduate his food intake for if he were at once to allow him to eat all that he wanted to the last state of that patient would be a good deal worse than the first. Let us remember, always, that to build slowly is to build surely.

Let me turn now to the more material aspects of Development, in my review of which I shall include both those schemes which have been approved by the Secretary of State as well as those which are projected; those which are to be financed from the Colony's allocation under the Colonial Development and Welfare Act as well as those which we hope to provide from our own resources. Our allocation from the Fund is, as you know, £150,000 and I must remind you that in planning for its disposal we got off to rather a late start as my predecessor's Development proposals had been rejected by the authorities and I have had, therefore, to begin again at the beginning.

In considering my own proposals for the future I have been greatly handicapped by the lack of that help and advice which I might have obtained from a Town Council and from readier access to the Sheep Owners' Association: the one, alas, did not exist and present difficulties of communication have precluded the other. In default I adopted the novel, but I think none the less useful, expedient of discussing our problems and their proposed solution over the local broadcasting system so that every man and woman in the Colony would know exactly what was afoot and be able to offer advice, criticism or comment which they were pressed most earnestly to do. No messages of this nature having reached me I could only conclude that the proposed solutions were acceptable to my listeners and a provisional Development Plan, based on them, was submitted to the Secretary of State in August. Let us now examine it.

I. AGRICULTURE: I lay no claim to any direct knowledge of the mysteries of sheep-farming and in the absence of an independent and qualified adviser, I have gone no further than to formulate certain broad principles which are in close accord with and indeed based upon the recommendations of Mr. Munro except for one important addition to which I will refer later. I can lay claim, however, to have read almost everything of consequence that has been written on the subject here and have no intention of becoming involved in past controversies; I hold it as an article of faith that Government and the Industry must work together as partners for the common good and shall devote my energies to that end.

II. COMMUNICATIONS: This is a matter of such fundamental importance that I have accorded it the highest priority and I propose to deal with the problem in three ways:—

Project A. All sheep stations which are not at present in communication with Stanley to be provided with Radio Telephone and a twice-daily 'trans-ceiving' schedule. Equipment has been ordered at an estimated cost of from £1,200 to £1,500 and we hope to have the work completed before the end of next year. As their own contribution to the problem, Station Managers have been asked to undertake responsibility for communications with their shepherds' houses and Government will assist them in this by obtaining and supplying the necessary materials at landed cost. Medical calls will have first priority on the 'trans-ceiving' schedules which will otherwise be available for urgent messages of a general nature.

Project B provides for the purchase of a 75 foot Motor Fishing Vessel for inter-island use but its first task is to facilitate hospitalisation from the Camp or the despatch of medical aid to the Camp. This vessel is equipped with Radio Telephone and adapted for the purpose required. The cost is approximately £10,000 delivered and I hope she will be here by the end of the year.

Project C is concerned with the purchase of a Miles "Gemini" ambulance 'plane, employment of Pilot and Mechanic and erection of hangar and construction of run-way at Stanley. Arrangements are in train for expert reconnaissance of Camp landing fields and subject to the co-operation of Farm Managers it is hoped to inaugurate the service (which will not necessarily be complete) next summer or thereabouts. While the primary purpose of this project is to meet emergency medical needs it is designed also to accelerate communications with the Camp generally, including delivery of mails. I have no doubt that the ultimate solution will be, as I have consistently maintained, a Helicopter or Auto-Gyro but the Sikorski machine is not yet sufficiently proved to justify the substantially greater capital investment nor indeed is it in commercial production; it should be by the time the Gemini has served its turn. Data are not yet sufficiently complete for me to give you any firm estimate of the cost of this undertaking but as a reasonable guess, I would be disposed to put it at £9,000.

With the completion of these three projects we shall at long last be able to turn our backs on the isolation which has been so great a handicap and hardship and this should make an enormous difference in the lives of all of us.

As to Roads, which come under this same heading, it is my intention to re-lay the main road in permanent material as a long-term commitment; that is to say, over the operative life of the present Colonial Development and Welfare Act. Government will also, during this same period and beyond it, give assistance when required – either by direct subsidy or through the purchase and loan to Farm Managers of road-making plant for the construction or improvement of simple inter-station tracks for vehicles of the "Jeep" type: it would be folly to contemplate anything more ambitious.

III. EDUCATION: This, as you will remember, is one of those "first things" to which I gave particular prominence in my address last year. The Department is costing approximately 12½ per cent of current revenue and while I do not quarrel with that figure, and should not if it were even higher, I do quarrel with the poor return we are getting for our money. This applies with particular emphasis to the Camp where – and I say this with a full knowledge of the complexities of the problem – educational facilities are lamentably inadequate; and that is putting it very mildly. In March, I appointed a fully representative Committee to study and discuss a statement of the problem as I saw it and what appeared to me to be the proper solution: the findings of this Committee which sat under the Honourable the Colonial Secretary, differed in no material particular from my own and at its final meeting, attended by additional representatives from the Camp, these proposals were unanimously endorsed. I will not go into them in detail today as there are implications of the new policy which I still wish to discuss with Camp parents in whose behalf, especially, it has been devised: I will take an early opportunity of doing this.

Broadly speaking, the new educational system, which will take some years to put into full effect, rests on the following basic principles:—

- (i) Equal opportunity for all children, irrespective of where they may be living or of the parents' means
- (ii) Facilities for "further education" for the brilliant child of either sex irrespective again of the means of the parents and
- (iii) Closer correlation of the curriculum with the natural economic status of the Colony; there is little value in a course of study which fits young people for careers in which there are necessarily few openings but which fails to fit them for enjoyment of the way of life on which our whole economic structure depends. I use the term "enjoyment" advisedly for provided young people are taught how to make the most of it and are imbued with an interest in country pursuits at an early age, there is no finer life.

I do not propose to hold matters up while these further discussions are proceeding and there will be "first fruits" in the form of imported teachers for the Camp, provision for teacher-training locally and a new and up-to-date Infant School in Stanley to replace the present buildings which are as squalid and unhealthy as they are inconvenient and neither children nor teachers can be expected to work properly in such surroundings. The cost of importing Teachers for the Camp is put, tentatively, at £7,500 spread over three years and this will allow of local teachers being brought in for training; plans for the new Infant School have been prepared and submitted for approval with a provisional estimate of £10,000. Both projects will be found from the CDW allocation.

IV. MEDICAL & HEALTH: The first requirement under this heading is the enlargement and modernisation of the King Edward VII. Memorial Hospital. While this institution has given good service over a long period, it is now obsolete and inefficient and the work of our Doctors and Nurses is greatly hampered; moreover, it is at present quite impossible to segregate the several types of admission as they should be segregated and this, in itself, has dangerous possibilities. New plans had been drawn up prior to my arrival but these were unsatisfactory in many respects and have therefore been recast to provide accommodation for clean and septic surgical cases, for medical cases, TB and other infectious cases and for a better maternity wing while there will be special provision also for bed-ridden incurables and senile invalids who cannot be properly cared for in their own homes. The plans include a new operating theatre, dental surgery and new X ray plant and the whole scheme when completed should meet all reasonable needs for as far ahead as it is possible to foresee. The plans and project have been approved by the Secretary of State and the cost, overall, has been estimated at £37,000.

A further scheme provides for the employment, in Stanley, of a Queen's Nurse whose business it will be to attend in their homes persons who are not ill enough to be admitted to, or retained in, Hospital; she will also be employed at need for emergency visits to the Camp. This proposal has been approved, too, and a grant sufficient to support it for three years has been made from the Fund. I am expecting, any day, to hear that a Nurse is on her way. If the experiment is the success that I anticipate, the post will be incorporated in the Medical establishment and an additional Queen's Nurse will be appointed for service in the Camp.

Medical administration will be further and very greatly benefited by the improvement in communications to which we can now look forward and once these are secured, it should not be necessary to maintain resident Doctors at Darwin and Fox Bay.

The Medical & Health programme provides also for completion of the water-borne sewage system in Stanley, the greater part of the cost of which will be recoverable from householders, and for the engagement of a certificated Sanitary Inspector.

- V. PUBLIC UTILITIES: The present electric power installation, expanded piecemeal from amateur beginnings, is nearing the end of its useful life and must needs be replaced. Following negotiations started some time ago, the Admiralty have most generously placed at the Government's disposal, on loan, three Blackstone generators which arrived in the Colony last year and were intended for the Naval Wireless Station; these will furnish all the power we are likely to require and leave a margin for commercial development or other demands. An excellent site for a new Power House is available and the Consulting Engineers to the Crown Agents will be asked to prepare plans with a view to putting the work in hand next year for completion in 1949. Every effort will be made to reduce the unit cost of power, as opposed to lighting, so as to encourage the use of labour-saving appliances in the home and the new service will, of course, be metred. No estimate of the cost of this undertaking is yet possible but, initially at least, it will be substantially less than was at first contemplated.

Improvement of the Town water supply is also needed; the task is mainly confined to the provision of new filter beds and this will be undertaken next year from Government funds – the sum of £1,000 has been earmarked for the purpose.

A new Wireless Station for the Colony is in course of construction, a commitment forced upon us at short notice by a recent decision to close down the Naval station at the end of the year; this task is scheduled for completion during the first quarter of 1948. The initial capital cost is not expected to exceed £2,000 an economy made possible only through the loan of two Dorman generators from the War Department and of W. T. equipment from the Admiralty. The Administration is much indebted for their help to both Services and Honourable Members will share my regret at the impending departure of the Naval detachment which will be sadly missed in Stanley.

- VI. SOCIAL AMENITIES: The destruction of the old Town Hall by fire, in 1944, was a major disaster; it had been the very hub of the social life of the community and its replacement is a first necessity. The form which this building should take was decided upon at a public meeting in July; plans have been prepared to give effect to that decision as nearly as possible and the initial task of clearing the site and laying the foundations is already complete. Rebuilding will commence in the New Year, with the arrival of additional artisans from England, and if the supply position is satisfactory I shall hope to be present at the first dance sometime towards the end of 1949. The new building will include a Dance Hall and Stage, Public Library and Museum, Town Council Offices, Court House and Post Office. The estimated cost is £35,000 of which £19,500 is available from insurance on the old Hall and the balance will be sought as a free grant from the CD & W Fund.

What the Town Hall is to Stanley so is Broadcasting to the Camp and the Dependencies; a new Transmitter and Studio are to be provided and a Committee has been appointed to make recommendations for furnishing a more attractive programme. The present installation is too feeble for consistent reception and the Studio quite inadequate for its purpose. Subsequently, the Government intends to import, and re-sell at landed cost to listeners in the Camp, a standard type of receiving set for operation with 6 volt car-type accumulator and wind charger; the Electrical Department will carry spares for this set and will undertake repairs until such time as this service can be provided by private enterprise which, of course, it should be. The cost of the new Broadcasting service will be in the neighbourhood of £5,000.

For the Camp, also, I have obtained through the generosity of the British Council a 16mm Cinema projector with sound apparatus, and a supply of films will be arranged; this set will be put on board ships visiting Island ports and will, I hope, give pleasure.

For Stanley, in the absence of a daily newspaper, I have obtained through the good offices of Reuters a tele-news printer which records automatically a 24 hour service of headline news and this, too, should prove a boon.

For the children of Stanley the King George V. Playing Field is at long last to be enclosed and furnished with appropriate playing ground equipment, swings, see-saws, giant-strides and the like and with the completion of the Town Hall it is proposed to convert the Gymnasium for use as a Swimming Bath during the summer months. Lest this proposal should appear strange to some (it has, incidentally, been repeated recently in the Weekly News), it is well to remember that many of our people are compelled from time to time to use small boats in treacherous waters and since sea temperatures around these coasts are not exactly conducive to bathing as a pastime, it is safe to say that the percentage of the population which can swim is very small indeed. That important consideration apart, it will provide for our young folk a further opportunity for healthy recreation. The cost has been estimated, tentatively, at £1,000 and there will presumably be a small charge for use of the bath.

Thusfar, admittedly, the programme has a strong bias towards welfare and it recalls to me a remark made at my meeting with the Sheep Owners' Association to the effect that my proposals seemed to be more concerned with Welfare than Development; for that I offer no apology nor is it always easy to distinguish one from the other. There need be no anxiety, however, lest the purely developmental aspect has been overlooked; nothing could be further from the truth.

I was early convinced – and recent experience has underlined that conviction – that sheep-ranching must always remain as our basic industry and that while it is incumbent upon us to welcome, and where we can assist, other developments we must not forsake the substance for the shadow. It is of the first importance that we should do everything that is humanly possible to improve our agricultural economy. From that consideration my mind turned naturally to the possibilities of a Freezer and although this project had been considered and rejected in the past I felt unable to accept this as the last word. From what had been written on the subject it was clear that such a venture must run at a loss initially since the Colony cannot, as yet, produce a sufficient number of exportable carcasses to support the venture. But it did appear to me that the establishment of a Freezer, if it were practicable, might of itself provide the stimulus to that re-orientation of farming policy for which the critics have been clamouring, and give new life to the industry. The announcement, some time ago of the setting up by His Majesty's Government of the Colonial Development Corporation gave me new hope and I awaited only an unanimous verdict from the Sheep Owners' Association – their indecision had been my first hurdle – and on receipt of this I addressed the Secretary of State, officially, commending the project for his approval in principle and for subsequent assistance from the Corporation. Preliminary discussions have taken place in London between representative farmers and the Secretary of State's adviser in these matters and all I can say at this stage is that we are assured of sympathetic consideration. It is for us to show that the scheme is workable and to this end I have asked Farm Managers for an estimate of production and for their considered views as to where, if it is sanctioned, the Freezer should be erected having regard to the two important considerations of accessibility and overhead charges. There, for the moment, we must leave it but I hope the Managers will let me have their replies with as little delay as possible.

Another new departure which I have in mind is the establishment of an Agricultural Bank, run on a co-operative basis with the Government as one of the co-operators, for the purpose of furnishing loans at a low rate of interest for capital development.

The failure of the British American Kelp Company's venture has been a sad disappointment since it would have provided an alternative channel of employment and a further and much-needed source of revenue. In acquainting me of his Company's decision, which is linked directly to the present economic crisis, Mr. Merton held out strong hopes that when times are better the undertaking may be resumed. He assures me that the total quantity of weed available is quite adequate and remarks that if the Alginate industry is to be established on a world basis the potential raw material supplies of the Falklands cannot be disregarded. We must be ready, therefore to assist this enterprise should BAKC return to the Colony.

There are welcome signs, too, of a renewal of interest – I will not put it more strongly than that – in whaling and sealing in the Falklands and should this materialise our revenues will benefit substantially from the increased duties on oil and by-products which I have recently introduced and which will be presented to you in a Bill this morning. In the present state of the market this development is not surprising and here again we must be ready to encourage any responsible undertaking.

The Government is also anxious to foster purely local enterprise and proposes to set aside a sum of £5,000 for the assistance of minor industries which will pass muster as to soundness and lack only the capital required to launch them. A committee will be appointed to examine such schemes with a view to assisting them wherever possible.

The development of weaving as a cottage industry in the Camp – in Stanley too, for that matter – has more than once commended itself but has got no further. It is proposed, therefore, to bring out a professional weaver from Harris or other suitable locality next year and send him round the Camp to demonstrate his craft. If he is satisfied as to the possibilities and if sufficient interest is awakened, suitable looms will be imported for sale on easy terms and, later, a small spinning mill will be installed from which yarn will be supplied at cost to the weavers. I am assured that there will be no difficulty in finding a market and there is no reason why we should not in time, build up a profitable little co-operative venture. Weaving will be one of the handicraft subjects for girls in the new school syllabus.

Finally, fishing. Here we are living on an island, complaining of the monotony of and deficiencies in our diet and yet it is with the utmost difficulty that one can get just one fish meal a month. Is it not ridiculous? A Fishery scheme has been prepared and submitted to the Secretary of State for assistance from the Development and Welfare Fund; it will provide for the employment of a Master Fisherman from the United Kingdom and two locally recruited assistants – a man and an apprentice – for three years and for the acquisition of a suitable boat and the necessary gear. Through this means it is hoped to establish a fish-eating habit and an assured supply of both fresh and smoked fish and to investigate the possibilities of developing a fishery on a commercial scale. The purchase of the Motor Fishing Vessel, which will be less in demand once the air service is running properly, was entered into with one eye on this possibility. On this same subject I am glad to tell you that our trout-breeding experiment shows encouraging signs and I recently had the pleasure of taking – and of course putting back – two American Brook Trout of $1\frac{1}{2}$ and $1\frac{1}{4}$ lbs from the Moody Brook. We have made a beginning by transferring from this year's hatch 1500 fry to the Murrel, 1100 to the Cave Arroyo, 1000 to the Pony Pass stream and 1000 into the Moody Brook and we shall go further and further afield each year. In course of time there seems to be no reason why all our better rivers and streams should not be stocked with American Brook Trout and Brown Trout thus endowing us with a welcome addition to the table and a fine pastime for the local angler.

This, Honourable Members, brings me to the end of my review of the Government's Development Plan which, I think you will agree, covers a wide field; it has, too, the sovereign virtue of leaving little in the way of additional recurrent liabilities behind it. You will note that most of the projects are represented by direct capital commitments while of the remainder the majority will either bring in compensating revenue, directly or indirectly, or secure some other long-term economic advantage. Education is, and I warned you of this last year, an exception but it lies at the root of all progress and is a true investment which will in due season return handsome, if less immediately tangible, dividends.

Two other subjects and I will have done. The first is Labour. It must be apparent to you that if we are to get the sheep-farming industry established on a fully productive basis we must import labour for until shortages are made good – and they can only be made good now by overseas recruitment – improved conditions for labour in the Camp are not possible nor, indeed, can we cope with the present arrears of maintenance; nor, while the ratio of sheep to shepherd is so high can we stem the distressingly high mortality. It is a vicious circle. The Government will do everything in its power to assist and it is to the rural areas of Scotland that we should, in my opinion, look for recruitment; that country, as we all know, breeds a hardy and resourceful people who are more likely than most to fit into local conditions. I have considered the importation of foreign labour to the Camp as essentially a last resort but one which must be contemplated if we cannot obtain suitable recruits elsewhere; from the recent success of the Falkland Islands Company and others it would seem that the difficulties have been exaggerated.

I should like here to pay tribute to the manner in which the Labour Federation and the Sheep Owners' Association have handled their negotiations and to the sensible and constructive attitude displayed by the Federation in such of its dealings with Government as have been brought to my notice; a healthy and responsible labour organisation, here as elsewhere, has everything to recommend it and will always enjoy the sympathetic interest of this Government.

Finally, let me dwell for a moment on the financial outlook. You will doubtless recall that at the last meeting of Council we were confronted with a shortfall of £27,000 in respect of 1946 and of no less than £35,000 for the present financial year; in the result the gross deficit for 1946 was £23,500 and on the revised estimate for this year £25,600 which is better than we had feared.

This is not a situation which could be permitted to continue and in the Budget which will be presented to you by the Honourable the Colonial Secretary in a few minutes certain increases in direct and in indirect taxation will be proposed with the object of narrowing the gap between revenue and ordinary expenditure. These increases are such as the Colony can afford to bear and in applying them the interests of the lower income groups have been scrupulously safeguarded. The community will still stand as one of the most lightly burdened in the Empire and will still enjoy a higher standard of living than most.

The Government can at least claim for this Budget that it is a strictly honest one – I have never been a party to disguising the unpalatable – and the picture would appear a good deal brighter but for the fact that I have rejected a former practice of debiting Dependencies votes with charges which, however convenient it may be to saddle them with, are not rightly theirs; I will mention only one item, a little matter of £5,000 for carriage of mails. Having returned to the paths of budgetary virtue, I have sought the approval of the Secretary of State for a re-adjustment of the Dependencies contribution to the Central Government – which it can well afford – expressed in terms of a fixed percentage (I have suggested ten) of the ordinary expenditure of the Colony. This would be a much more logical arrangement for the sum of £4,000 agreed upon in 1936 bears no relation to the present cost of administration.

The estimated deficit between revenue and expenditure for 1948 is of the order of £13,000 which will be reduced to £7,500 if, as I most sincerely hope, the adjustment in the contribution from the Dependencies is approved.

Although I am not happy over the financial position as reflected in the Estimates I do not take too black a view of it and believe, on the contrary, that we are justified in looking to the future with sober confidence.

APPENDIX.

DEPARTMENTAL REVIEW, 1947.

(Laid on the Table)

The following is a review which I have caused to be prepared of work of the Departments during the year 1947; it will be laid on the table by the Colonial Secretary. I hope that it will serve a useful purpose in outlining the achievements of the Administration during the year under review so that these may be related to the statement of policy which was the subject of my Address at the last Budget meeting in December, 1946.

AGRICULTURE. The Secretary of State has been unable as yet, to find a successor to Dr. Gibbs; although there is reason to hope that he will do so shortly. I had intimated that I would prefer to wait until a candidate who exactly fills our requirements is available.

Early in January Mr. H. R. Evans, who had been in charge of the Department since Dr. Gibbs's departure in 1946, left the islands to take up work in the Gold Coast. Mr. Evans was succeeded by Mr. J. B. Browning as Officer-in-Charge.

Fodder and pasture improvement: Sixty acres of hay and oats were harvested yielding 35 tons of fodder, of which seven and a half tons were sold to local farmers. Twenty-five acres have been grassed down.

The Rookery Point tussac plantation was closed for grazing purposes in 1946, and the tussac had not recovered sufficiently to allow cutting this year. If kept closed for a few years it will become a valuable source of winter fodder. The ground immediately outside the fence is not considered to be worth planting, but the point to the south of it has good prospects, and consideration will be given to further extension of the tussac plantation here.

Vegetable Production: 29,707 pounds of mixed vegetables were grown in the course of the year and six acres have been replanted. The reduction in the output of vegetables was due to the severe weather experienced last summer.

Dairying: Local dairymen are encouraged to increase milk production and the Government herd in the first eight months of the year produced 7,596 gallons of milk.

Common Fences: Half the West Common boundary fence adjoining Moody Valley Farm has been renewed, and most of the fences have been repaired.

Tree Experiments: Two hundred and fifty young trees were planted in February, and although a few have died, the remainder appear to be comparatively healthy, if somewhat "starved"; cupressus macrocarpa grows more rapidly than any of the other species. Two hundred and ten young plants were planted in September, and nine hundred more will be ready for planting next February, should it be considered justifiable to continue with the experiment.

AUDIT: Mr. R. S. Bounphrey assumed duty as Auditor on the 9th of July, 1947. Since that date a clerk has been appointed, the Audit of Treasury accounts for 1945 has been completed, and a report submitted; it is most helpful. Assistance has also been rendered by the Auditor on certain aspects of the Treasury accounting system, and useful advice has been given on financial matters generally.

CUSTOMS. The total value of Imports to November, 1947, amounted to £192,383. Import Duties were as follows :-

Malt liquour	320
Wines	218
Spirits	4,952
Tobacco	6,253
Matches	1,251
	12,994

The totals for the same period in 1946 were £184,000 and £10,719 respectively.

The total value of Exports amounted to £237,839. Export duty on Wool amounted to £9,304.

For the same period in 1946 the figures were £248,700 and £9,881 respectively.

Staff: Captain L. W. Aldridge, M.B.E., Assistant Colonial Secretary, acted as Collector of Customs until his departure, on leave, on the 15th of February, 1947. Mr. B. N. Biggs was appointed Acting Collector of Customs on the 13th of June, 1947. The duties of Competent Authority, Shipping Master and Chairman of the Disposals Board, are carried out by the Acting Collector of Customs.

Rationing: Sugar, tea and clothing continued to be rationed throughout the year. During May it was found necessary to control sales of flour and butter, but restrictions were lifted upon the arrival of fresh supplies.

Gift parcels: The 5lb. quarterly Gift Parcel Scheme which had been in operation since the 24th of September, 1945, was discontinued on the 20th of June, 1947. Government had reached the conclusion that a continuance of this concession amounted to an evasion of the United Kingdom Exchange Regulations inasmuch as most of the items contained in the Gift Parcels were purchased through the expenditure of foreign exchange. If on the other hand they came from a source within the sterling area they were required for the Colony's consumption and were imported under licence for that purpose. An exception was made however in respect of garments which had been hand-knitted from imported or locally produced wool, and certain surplus ex-Army foodstuffs were also exempted. All articles of local produce may be freely exported.

Import Licencing: Import Licencing continues for all items and although there has been a general "tightening up" in the granting of licences for goods from hard currency areas a result of the economic crisis in the United Kingdom, practically all the Colony's food, drapery, footwear and petrol requirements must still be purchased from South America. Steps are now being taken to increase the imports of essential goods from the sterling area.

Shipping: Up to August, 31st, 12 vessels had entered the port with a total nett tonnage of 16,826.

EDUCATION. Mr. H. L. Baker, M.A., Superintendent of Education, has been in charge throughout the year.

In the Government School, in spite of many absences of both children and teachers through illness, 1947 has on the whole been a more settled year than the last few years. The staffing position is better than it has been for some time, although it is still not satisfactory; in particular it has still not been possible to obtain a qualified assistant master from overseas, or to give the junior teachers all the training and supervision needed. Additional teachers are being sought in England and it is hoped that their arrival will not be long delayed.

In the Camp, the year has been a disappointing one. Work has been greatly handicapped by the dearth of suitable teachers and although some centres have been quite well provided for, in others the position has been far from satisfactory. For a considerable part of the year, reception of the wireless lessons has been poorer than at any time since the scheme was introduced; recent alterations at the transmitting station have however made considerable improvement. Nissen huts have been sent out to serve as temporary schoolrooms in three settlements (Fox Bay, Port San Carlos, and Chartres).

The Government has accepted in principle the responsibility for supervision of educational activities in centres at present served by the Falkland Islands Company.

The two scholarship pupils who completed their three years in Montevideo at the end of last year gained respectively a First Grade and a Second Grade pass in the School Certificate Examination - a creditable achievement. Only one new pupil was sent to Montevideo under the scholarship scheme this year, one of the two scholarships offered having been declined; this pupil had subsequently to return to her home on account of illness.

The winter evening classes in Stanley have not been so well supported this year as last, due possibly to the greater number of alternative attractions available to young people.

The educational year has been disappointing generally but with the arrival of additional staff from overseas, and with the implementation of a revised educational policy, better progress is to be expected.

ELECTRICAL AND TELEGRAPHS. Mr. A. Mercer was in charge throughout the year.

The existing plant is obsolescent and has largely outgrown its usefulness; it cannot with its present off-take provide power at an economic rate and it has therefore been decided to erect a new station within the next two years.

The Department is responsible for the maintenance of the W/T. Station at Fox Bay and of the Telegraph Office in Stanley where telegrams are accepted for internal and external services, together with the accounts for both local and foreign telegrams. 600-700 telegrams are handed in to the Telegraph Office by the Public each month. Regular services exist with the United Kingdom, Norway, Uruguay, Argentina and Chile, as well as with local stations within the Islands and the Dependencies. Traffic is at present worked at the Naval W/T Station with the assistance of six civilian operators, one of whom is at present serving with F.I.D.S.

A Magneto Telephone exchange system operates 156 lines and has an immediate capacity up to 180 lines with a final capacity of 240 lines.

Broadcasting Services consist of a re-diffusion system supplying 228 loud-speakers. A low-powered Radio Broadcasting Transmitter operates on 3440 k/cs., Monday to Friday afternoons, 2 p.m. to 3.15 p.m. for the Education Department, and a musical programme is provided each Sunday for 1½ hours. A Committee has been appointed to consider and advise upon improvement of this service.

FALKLAND ISLANDS DEFENCE FORCE. The Hon. A. B. Mathews, O.B.E., was appointed Honorary Commandant on the 14th of August, 1947, on the departure of the Hon. Lt. Col. J. A. Woodgate, O.B.E., who left the Colony in transfer to Tanganyika after nearly 9 years in command of the Force. Small arms and Ceremonial training were carried out indoors during the winter months and the outdoor musketry classification course nears completion.

Coast artillery weapons and Searchlight equipment have been kept in a state of preservation.

Rifle shooting successes have been gained during the year. Both the Junior Mackinnon and the Junior Kolapore Trophies were won at Bisley, and second place was gained in the Overseas .303 Postal Match. A very creditable score was also registered in the .22 Overseas Postal Match, the result of which is not yet known.

HARBOUR. Lights and beacons in the Colony have been maintained and reconditioned and extensive repairs have been made to the framework of the Mangeary Light.

Transport has been provided for workers going to and from Charles Point; for Naval Personnel when the Royal Naval barge was out of order; and also for the Falkland Islands Defence Force, and Agricultural and Medical Departments.

Rock for the sea-wall and stone from Charles Point have been transported to Stanley for the Public Works Department.

Harbour personnel have also been responsible for repairs and maintenance of boats and flagstuffs and some work has been carried out for the Meteorological Station.

MAGISTRATE AND REGISTRAR GENERAL. Mr. H. Bennett acted as Magistrate and Registrar until the return from leave in March, of the Hon. Dr. J. E. Hamilton, D.Sc.

In the Court of Summary Jurisdiction 35 cases were brought before the Court, 3 being juveniles. 4 civil cases were dealt with.

In the Supreme Court one Divorce suit was heard and a decree nisi was granted, one divorce suit pending and Probate of Wills and Letters of Administration were granted.

Registrar-General: Births, Deaths, Marriages, Companies, Trade Marks, Conveyances and Wills, etc., were registered. Crown Grants and Leases were prepared, marriages solemnised, and Crown Grant Indexes which were destroyed in the Town Hall fire were replaced; this work nears completion.

Notes of Protest and Legal Documents were dealt with by the Notary Public, and the Official Administrator dealt with one Estate.

MEDICAL. Dr. F. J. Sladen, Senior Medical Officer, has remained in charge of the Department. Statistics for 1947, (up to 31st August) are as under :-

Total number of in-patients treated	134
Total number of out-patients treated	761
Total number of operations (Major 14, Minor 37)	51
X-Ray examinations	80
Patients sent to Montevideo	5
Patients sent in from Camp	17
Cost of transport of Camp patients	£394 : 7 : 7
Cost of treatment Overseas	£315 : 0 : 0

The Senior Medical Officer paid a request visit to New House in Douglas Camp in January, and was diverted on the way back to the Malo for a case of Broncho-Pneumonia, to which a Nurse was also sent out from Stanley.

The Senior Medical Officer made a round trip to Hill Cove, Fox Bay, Speedwell Island, North Arm, and Darwin in January, and carried out a complete tour of the North Camp in April-May.

The cost of transport of Camp patients has been high due mainly to one very expensive diversion; several other urgent cases have occurred but in these cases a Falkland Islands Company vessel has been available, and diversionary charges have been avoided.

A scheme has been approved by the Secretary of State for the extension and improvement of the King Edward VII. Memorial Hospital, and a motor fishing vessel has been purchased for the purpose, primarily, of bringing sick patients in from the Camp.

A widespread epidemic of measles accompanied by Rubella (German measles) occurred in September, despite all efforts to check it, and Stanley and all suburban districts have been quarantined, together with one or two Camp settlements.

NATURALIST DEPARTMENT: At present this Department is engaged in the hatching of trout ova of which 2 consignments have been received; the experiment has shown good signs of success.

Other work handled during the year has been in connection with Whaling and Sealing in the Falklands and a 3 year fishery-plan has been prepared under the Colonial Development and Research Scheme.

POLICE: Captain C. F. Sheppard, Chief Constable returned to the Colony in July from leave, but resigned immediately for domestic reasons. His duties were carried out in his absence by Sergeant J. Norris.

26 cases were taken to the Court of Summary Jurisdiction. There were 25 convictions, and Juvenile was dismissed.

Of three search parties organised to search for lost persons two were successful.

60 Motor cars and lorries, and 42 motor cycles were registered during the year, and 193 driving permits issued. 93 dogs were licensed.

The Chief Constable whose duties include those of Sanitary Inspector has rendered monthly reports to the Board of Health.

POST OFFICE. Since January, 1947, mails comprising 1,663 parcels, 11,588 letters, 2,516 papers and 1,628 registered packets have been despatched from the Colony, and mails comprising 974 parcels, 70,000 letters and 35,000 papers have been received.

304 Stamp Letter Orders were executed.

The Postal and Money Orders paid throughout this period (January to August, 31st) numbered 1,129 to a value of £1,145 : 5 : 0.

374 Money Orders amounting to £2,484 : 2 : 8 and 1,171 Postal Orders amounting to £2,963 : 6 : 8 were issued.

5,431 Air Letter forms, 901 Ordinary Air Letters and 919 Registered Air Letters have been despatched.

On the 31st of March, 1947, the Colony and Dependency Peace Stamps were withdrawn and replaced by the current 1d. and 3d. issue.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT. Lt. Col. J. A. Woodgate, O.B.E., A.R.I.B.A., Executive Engineer, who combined with this office the functions of Harbour Master and Officer Commanding the Falkland Islands Defence Force, left the Colony in August, on transfer to Tanganyika. Mr. D. Lees acted as Officer-in-Charge, Public Works Department and Harbour Department until the arrival of the new Engineer, Mr. E. F. Bunting, B. Eng. (Hons.).

Roads generally have been repaired by patching, while several new roads have been made.

A concrete bungalow (originally intended for the British American Kelp Company staff) has been erected to skeleton roof stage; a second concrete block bungalow has reached the ground floor level. Both buildings are urgently needed for staff accommodation. Work completed at the Meteorological Station includes the erecting of a concrete block building as a balloon filling station, two radar sheds, and a concrete foundation for masts at the site of the Ionospheric Station. The site of the new Town Hall has been cleaned up and the foundation walls and concrete floor partly completed.

A water storage tank has been installed at Sapper Hill but is not yet operating. Work on this commenced last year.

Alterations to Government House and the Secretariat have been undertaken. The sea-wall in the Dockyard has been partly built, and central heating has been installed in the Printing Office.

Improvements to the Government Station at Fox Bay have been executed mainly by contract.

TREASURY. Mr. E. F. Lellman has been in charge of the Treasury throughout 1947.

The year opened with a balance of £19,599 : 12 : 1 (in the Vault £12,953; in the hands of the Treasurer £6,646 : 12 : 1). South Georgia held a balance of £157 : 2 : 9 while the Crown Agents balance stood at £553 : 1 : 9 in hand and £33,000 in the Joint Colonial Fund. Report on Education in the Colony for the year 1946.

PART I.

Preface.

1. The population of the Falkland Islands is almost entirely British, and of European descent. It totals less than 2,300, and has been decreasing slowly in recent years. About half of the people live in the one town of Stanley, the rest being scattered either in small settlements or in isolated shepherds' houses over an area about the size of Yorkshire. The whole country outside Stanley is called the "Camp".

2. On account of the small population, the wide area over which it is scattered, and the poor communications, the provision of a good education for all children is a difficult problem, not yet solved. Education is compulsory between the ages of five and fourteen, but it is not possible to enforce this in the Camp.

3. The Educational facilities fall into four groups :

- (a) Schools in Stanley.
- (b) Small schools in a few of the Camp settlements.
- (c) Tuition by itinerant teachers in the rest of the Camp.
- (d) Further education.

Stanley.

4. A Government School is maintained from Public Funds. The curriculum and time-table of this school, catering for children between the ages of 5 and 14, are much the same as in a similar all-age school in England; a full-time Continuation Class offers a two-year course beyond Standard 6. A scheme of boarding allowances, to assist Camp parents to send their children to Stanley for schooling, has been in operation for many years.

Settlement Schools.

5. Wherever possible, full-time or part-time schools are maintained in Camp settlements; the establishment and closure of these schools depend at present partly on the number of children in the settlement (there are few settlements with as many as six children), and partly on the availability of teachers. During 1946 the Government supported small full-time schools at Teal Inlet and Salvador, and part-time schools at San Carlos and Fox Bay; there was also a full-time school at Chartres for the first few months of the year, and an almost full-time school at Roy Cove during the latter part of the year. The organisation of these schools varied according to local circumstances, but in all cases, besides providing financial support, the Government supervised the work done in them. The Falkland Islands Company also maintains two part-time schools, one at Darwin and the other at North Arm, for the children of its employees: up till the present these schools have not been assisted or inspected by the Government.

Tuition in the rest of the Camp.

6. The Government provides a number of itinerant teachers on the East and West Falklands. These teachers travel from house to house, mainly on horseback but sometimes by boat, and teach the children in their homes; they usually stay a fortnight or a month at each house. The houses are often isolated, and the teacher usually has to travel for several hours before reaching the next place where there are children to be taught. Each teacher has a "beat" which he or she normally covers at least four times a year. At the conclusion of his stay at each place, the teacher sends in a report to the Supervisor of Camp Education, giving a detailed account of work done, progress made by the children, and so on.

7. The work of the Camp teachers is supplemented by daily educational broadcasts from Stanley.

8. In addition to the Camp teachers, the Government employs a full-time Supervisor of Camp Education who travels round the Camp, supervising and organizing the work of the Government travelling teachers and of the settlement schools supported by the Government. The Superintendent of Education also makes periodic tours of inspection in the Camp.

9. The Falkland Islands Company also maintains a few travelling teachers (four during 1946) for work on its extensive farms on the East Falklands. As with the Company's schools at Darwin and North Arm, the work of these teachers has not so far been subject to Government inspection, nor has any financial assistance been given by the Government.

Further Education.

10. Further Education is provided by a system of scholarships to the British School in Montevideo, and also, to a limited extent, by winter evening classes in Stanley.

PART II.

Administration and Staffing.

11. The authorised establishment of the Education Department at the beginning of 1946 was as follows:

Superintendent of Education & Headmaster, Govt. School	} Qualified teachers from overseas.
One Assistant Master
Three Assistant Mistresses (one for infants, two for seniors)
One Temporary Assistant Mistress
One Assistant Master	} Recruited and trained locally.
Five Assistant Teachers
Two Temporary Teachers
Four Pupil Teachers
Supervisor of Camp Education	Uncertificated, with experience in United Kingdom.
Teacher for Educational Broadcasts	Qualified teacher, recruited in United Kingdom.
Eight Camp Teachers	Recruited and trained locally.
One Clerk.
One School Caretaker.

12. In addition to the above (par. 11), provision was made for assistance in the Camp from teachers (four at the beginning of the year) who, while not regular members of the staff of the Education Department, helped with the teaching in varying degrees; in Stanley part-time teachers gave assistance with gardening and evening classes.

13. Of the authorised establishment, some teachers were overseas during the greater part of the year, while others could not be obtained; so although the provision for staff appears quite good, in reality shortages and changes of staff proved a severe handicap to the work of the Department throughout 1946.

14. Of five qualified assistant masters or mistresses from overseas provided for on the staff of the Government School, there were at the beginning of 1946 only three (an assistant mistress in the Infant Department and an assistant mistress and a temporary assistant mistress in the senior school) actually at work in the Colony; and of these the temporary assistant mistress resigned at the end of January on account of ill-health. Another assistant mistress for the senior school arrived in May (Miss H. Page Gray, selected in England in July 1945 to take the place of one of the two qualified assistant masters who were provided for in 1945, but who could not be obtained). The efforts that were continued during 1946 to obtain a qualified assistant master from the United Kingdom or elsewhere met with no success, so that throughout 1946 the school still remained without a qualified assistant master.

15. Of the five locally-recruited assistant teachers on the staff of the Government School, two were on leave in the United Kingdom for the greater part of the year.

16. Four pupil teachers were employed in the Government School in 1946. Two of these had already worked as pupil teachers in 1945; the other two were appointed early in 1946. The two who had already had one year's training now took a much larger share in the actual teaching; between them they took over most of the work of one class. The work of the two new pupil teachers was planned on lines broadly similar to those followed for the new pupil teachers in 1945 (see pars. 17-19 of the Report for 1945). As in 1945, the shortage of qualified teachers in the Government School limited what could be done in the way of training the pupil teachers.

17. One of the pupil teachers spent the last few months of the year as teacher in the settlement school at Roy Cove. Her going there was part of the inception of a general plan to encourage Stanley teachers to serve for a time in the Camp, the plan having the double object of improving the staffing position in the Camp and giving Stanley teachers a better understanding of the life and needs of the Islands as a whole.

18. In the Camp there were a number of changes in staff during the year. At the beginning of the year there were six travelling teachers in the Government service (provision had been made for eight); in the course of the year one of the travelling teachers went overseas on leave, three resigned, and three new ones were appointed (the pupil teacher who went out from Stanley to Roy Cove is not included among these). At the beginning of the year there were also four full-time or part-time teachers who, while not on the regular permanent staff of the Education Department, helped with the teaching in their own settlements; in the course of the year one of these stopped work, but three new teachers started work on similar lines in three other settlements. By the end of the year, therefore, the number of teachers at work in the sections of the Camp provided for by the Government had increased by two; the staffing position was still however by no means entirely satisfactory; in particular, the quality of some of the teachers left much to be desired. For further details, see pars. 39, 42, 44, 54.

19. The Supervisor of Camp Education was on leave from the beginning of the year until August.

20. Changes occurred also in the non-teaching staff of the Department and added to the administrative difficulties of the year.

22. The above figures do not include a few Camp children who were being taught privately by their parents, with or without help from the Education Department. The five children attending the school at Chartres during the early part of the year and the eight attending the school at Roy Cove during the latter part of the year are included in the figures given for Government travelling teachers, as they were included in travelling teachers' beats for the greater part of the year.

23. The expenditure under Head XII. Education of the annual estimates of expenditure was £7,159 : 7 : 1, as compared with £6,523 : 6 : 7 in 1945. The revenue collected in 1946 amounted to £181 : 12 : 0, as against £174 : 8 : 4 in 1945.

Government School, Stanley.

24. The year in the Government School was again a difficult and unsettled one. An outbreak of mumps occurred in April and lasted for several months, affecting not only nearly all the children (a number of whom had more than one attack), but also some of the teachers. The school began to settle down better towards the end of the year, after the arrival of Miss Gray and the return from leave of Mr. Draycott (Supervisor of Camp Education) and Mrs. Draycott (Assistant Teacher). Unfortunately a further interruption to the work of the school was caused when, in order to avert a threatened outbreak of measles, it was considered advisable to close the school for the summer holidays three weeks earlier than usual.

25. The Infant Department continued to meet in its temporary accommodation in the former St. Mary's School. Some improvements were made to the paths and playground, but the premises remain in a number of respects far from satisfactory. End-of-term parties were organised as in the preceding year, great credit being due to Miss Downs and the staff of the Infants' Department for all they did to make the parties so successful. For the first half of the year, in order to ease staffing difficulties in the junior school, the Standard 1 children continued to be taught in the Infants' Department by the teacher who had taught them the previous year.

26. The work in the junior and senior classes was carried on in most respects on lines similar to those followed during the past few years. Shortages of materials due to conditions in the United Kingdom still caused some difficulty. A good gramophone and some good records (including the Columbia History of Music series) were acquired locally and will form the basis of a collection useful for musical appreciation. The classes in woodwork and domestic science were continued as in 1945 — the domestic science classes still being held in temporary premises in the Church Hall, as the former domestic science rooms in Church House were still occupied by Royal Naval personnel. The former classes in agricultural science for the senior boys had to be allowed to lapse for the time being, on account of staff shortages in both the Education Department and the Agricultural Department; their place was partly taken by a series of gardening talks given by the Government House gardener. As the public gymnasium was still in use for other purposes, the physical training classes continued to be held, by kind permission of the Falkland Islands Defence Force, in the Defence Force Drill Hall. For outdoor games, the girls played hockey and netball; the boys played mainly association football, but also some rugby and hockey, with a few games of rounders on occasions when the playing fields could not be used for other games.

An innovation introduced during the year, as an experiment, was a weekly "Hobbies Period" for the seniors: the idea of this period was to offer the seniors some choice in activities that had both recreational and educational value, and might provide or strengthen interests that would be of value to them in their leisure time now and in later years. For this period the ordinary class divisions were abandoned, and the children chose the activity they wished to pursue. The choice offered to them depended partly on what were known to be their interests, and partly on the particular abilities of the teachers who would be directing the groups: the groups finally organized were Folk Dancing, Music and Plays, Woodwork, and "Indoor Activities" (a miscellaneous group including such things as painting, knitting, and educational games).

27. Towards the end of the year a House system was introduced into the junior and senior schools, with the aims of improving the corporate life of the school, giving the children further opportunities for bearing responsibility, and bringing healthy competition into some aspects of the school life where, partly from the nature of the place, the lack of competition was particularly felt. Some of the children had previously expressed a desire to have a House system introduced, and the scheme was discussed thoroughly with them before being brought into operation. Although it was realized that with regard to games some difficulty would be caused by the smallness of the numbers of children in each House in each section of the school, it was decided, for the sake of better competition, to have four Houses. These were named after the Dependencies of the Falkland Islands - Georgia, Graham, Orkney, and Shetland Houses. The system was linked with the system of prefects developed in 1945, the Prefects being the House Captains. In each class there were also four Class Captains, each responsible for the affairs of his House in that class. Marks in the inter-House competition were awarded (or deducted) for classwork, games, smartness and general conduct. It was hoped to obtain badges and a House Cup and Shield in 1947.

28. In November the children produced a concert. This was intended in the first place as part of the internal life of the school, and was produced on two Friday afternoons in the Church Hall, adjacent to the school: later however, in response to numerous requests, a public performance (considerably abridged) was given in the Gymnasium. The items, based as much as possible on the ordinary work being done in the school, included plays, songs, recitations, and various types of physical training. Every class, from the youngest infant class upwards, contributed items.

29. When H.M.C.S. "Uganda" visited Stanley in March, the school-children spent a very interesting and enjoyable afternoon on board, as guests of the Ship's Company. For many of the children this was their first visit to a warship.

30. On Sunday, November 10th, a large group of children from the school attended the Remembrance Day Ceremony at the Cross of Sacrifice. One of the prefects placed a wreath on behalf of the school.

31. The children took part with keen interest in the ceremonies connected with the change of Governor during the year. They lined the jetty to bid farewell to the retiring Governor, Sir Allan Cardinall, K.B.E., C.M.G., and again to greet the new Governor, Mr. G. M. Clifford, C.M.G., O.B.E., E.D. The senior classes, and many of the younger children as well, attended the swearing-in ceremonies for the Acting Governor, Mr. A. B. Mathews, O.B.E., and later for the new Governor. At this latter ceremony, as a token of the welcome extended to His Excellency and Mrs. Clifford by the school-children, a child from one of the infant classes presented Mrs. Clifford with a bouquet.

32. During the year His Excellency Sir Allan Cardinall paid two visits to the school, - his usual one on St. George's Day, and another to bid good-bye to the children shortly before his departure for the United Kingdom. On this second occasion he was accompanied by the Colonial Secretary, Mr. A. B. Mathews, who also made two other visits in the course of the year, - an informal one soon after his arrival, and a more formal one, as Acting Governor, on Trafalgar Day.

33. All the school-children were examined medically and dentally in the middle of the year. A second medical and dental examination was started towards the end of the year, but was interrupted by the early closure of the school.

34. In co-operation with the Medical and Agricultural Departments, a scheme was started for providing free milk at school for children who were considered by the Senior Medical Officer to need extra milk. From October onwards, in order to encourage the drinking of milk and to support the dairymen in maintaining a high level of production, a certain amount of surplus milk was sold at the school at half-price. Apart from any direct physical benefit these schemes may have conferred, they seem to have been useful in drawing attention to the nutritional value of milk.

35. On account of the early closure of the school at the end of the year, the usual Open Day and Display of Work, planned for the third week in December, had to be abandoned.

36. At first it was planned to hold over the Prize-Giving too until the school re-opened in 1947; but when the threat of measles passed before Christmas, it was decided to hold an informal ceremony to present such prizes as could be awarded while the teachers and children were dispersed for holidays. His Excellency the Governor presented the prizes.

37. The Old Pupils' Association carried on its activities on the same lines as in previous years, providing its members with a varied programme of talks, cinema shows, dances and whist drives throughout the winter months.

The Camp.

38. Pending a decision on the reorganization scheme submitted by Mr. T. D. Evans in 1943, the Education Department carried on in the Camp with the policy followed in 1945, of keeping the travelling teachers' beats as small as possible and developing settlement schools wherever the number of children justified it and a teacher was available. Apart from the difficulty of concentrating the children in convenient centres, the greatest obstacle to the success of this policy was the difficulty of obtaining enough good teachers.

39. On the West Falklands, at the beginning of 1947, there were 53 children to be taught, in 16 different places. Five travelling teachers were working on the West at the beginning of the year, and a sixth was appointed in February to fill a vacancy caused by a resignation in November 1945. Of the five teachers at work at the beginning of the year, one was stationed permanently on Saunders Island teaching the seven children in the settlement; another was teaching in the full-time school at Chartres and paying occasional visits to one child in a shepherd's house not far away.

During the year the situation outlined above changed considerably. As in 1945, there were many posts vacant on the farms; in consequence of this, men moved frequently from one job to another; and the resulting fluctuations in child population, as families moved from one place to another, were a continual source of difficulty in the provision of educational facilities. The difficulties caused by these movements of population were accentuated by the many changes in the teaching staff that occurred during the year (see par. 18).

At the end of the year, there were 49 children under tuition on the West Falklands, in 15 different places. In place of the five travelling teachers at work at the beginning of the year, there were four travelling teachers (including the Roy Cove teacher - see par. 43), one full-time settlement teacher (spending her time evenly between the two settlements at Port Howard), and two part-time settlement teachers (see pars. 40 and 41); one more travelling teacher was still needed.

40. The number of children attending the school at Chartres dropped to five at the beginning of the year. In March the teacher resigned to get married; and when efforts to replace her were unsuccessful, Chartres was included with Roy Cove and Hill Cove in a travelling teacher's beat. Later in the year the work at Chartres was taken over by a part-time teacher.

41. A part-time school was established at Fox Bay East in January, meeting at first for two hours a day, and later for three hours a day. The teacher was Mrs. E. Smith, the wife of the wireless operator, and a former teacher in the Government School in Stanley. The school met in her house; Mrs. Smith went to considerable trouble to make the school a success, and some very good work was done there. The number of children attending increased from 3 in January to 6 (including one boarder) by the end of the year.

42. Early in the year, as there were 8 children in the settlement at Hill Cove, an attempt was made to obtain an extra teacher to start a full-time school there; it was however not possible to get the extra teacher, so Hill Cove had to remain as part of a travelling teacher's beat (later the number of children dwindled to 4).

43. Towards the middle of the year, with 8 children in the settlement at Roy Cove, arrangements were made to establish a settlement school there. Although a permanent school building could not be provided then, a Nissen hut sent out by the Government and erected by the men on the station made a comfortable temporary schoolroom. As already mentioned (par. 17), the teacher was one of the pupil-teachers from the Government School in Stanley. By the time the school opened in September one of the eight children from the settlement had gone to live at a shepherd's house a short distance away. Efforts to arrange for him to board in the settlement from Monday to Friday were unsuccessful, so it was arranged that the teacher should visit him once a week (spending every Saturday morning and every second Friday with him). When in the settlement, the teacher lived in the home of the manager and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Miller. In this and all other arrangements necessary for the establishment and running of the school, the generous help given by Mr. and Mrs. Miller was invaluable.

44. On the East Falkland, at the beginning of 1946, there were 35 children under tuition in the part of the Island where educational services were provided by the Government. Of these children 22 were taught by settlement teachers at San Carlos, Teal Inlet and Salvador (see pars. 45-47), one was taught privately by her mother (with the help of materials supplied by the Education Department), and the remaining 12, living in 6 different places, were taught by a travelling teacher. The travelling teacher's beat was very awkward, as three of the places were on one side of the island and three on the other side, and transport difficulties made it necessary for the teacher to spend several months on one side of the island and then several months on the other. For the first half of the year, a part-time teacher at Port San Carlos, where there were 3 children, helped a little during the travelling teacher's absence. Efforts to obtain another travelling teacher had been begun in 1945, but it was not until September 1946 that the extra teacher was finally obtained. From this time until the end of the year, the number of teachers at work on the East Falkland was satisfactory.

45. The part-time school at San Carlos was carried on throughout 1946 on the same lines as in 1945, under the capable management of Mrs. J. Bonner, the wife of the manager of San Carlos Station. The school met for two hours daily, the children doing homework in addition. Five children attended regularly - three from the settlement and two who walked in daily from the Head of the Bay (a walk of about an hour). Two other smaller children at the Head of the Bay worked under Mrs. Bonner's direction, sending their work in each week and receiving periodical visits from her; one of them came in to the school sometimes in good weather. Two more children living in the settlement started school towards the end of the year. At the end of the year one of the San Carlos children won a Government scholarship to Montevideo, this being the second year in succession that one of Mrs. Bonner's pupils had achieved this distinction.

46. Good work was again done at the school conducted at Teal Inlet by the resident teacher-storekeeper. Except for a few weeks when the teacher was ill, the children received full-time schooling throughout the school year. The school provided for all the children on Teal Inlet Station; eight children living in the settlement attended all the time, and three others living in outside houses came in as boarders for periods of several weeks at a time, with spells at home (doing homework) in between. The regular Teal Inlet teacher-storekeeper, Mr. O. McPhee, was overseas for four months in the middle of the year, as a member of the contingent representing the Falkland Islands Defence Force at the Victory Parade in London: during his absence his work at Teal Inlet was carried on by a temporary teacher-storekeeper.

47. The school at Salvador was carried on as in 1945, the children being taught for four hours a day, and the teacher receiving an allowance proportionate to the number of children taught. At the beginning of the year four children, all living in the settlement, were in attendance: this number however soon dropped to three.

48. The daily wireless broadcasts, designed to supplement the work of the teachers in the Camp, were continued during 1946 on broadly the same lines as in 1945. At the opening session of the year, His Excellency the Governor spoke to the children. The year began well: interest among the children was high, and as a result of improvements made at the transmitting station in 1945, reception was much better than it had been when the scheme was first started. Unfortunately, as the year wore on, deteriorating reception and other factors caused some decline in the number of children listening regularly. An investigation towards the end of the year revealed that the transmitting aerial had been damaged, and when this was put right, reception improved again. The shortage of suitable wireless receivers, and difficulties over charging accumulators and replacing damaged parts, remained a serious handicap, greatly limiting the number of listeners. Cyclo-styled notes for many of the lessons were sent to the teachers and children. Some of the teachers made excellent use of the wireless lessons: others could have made much more use of them than they did.

49. During the year five portable projectors for film-strips were obtained by the Information Officer (the Rev. W. F. McWhan) from the Ministry of Information in England and sent out to the Camp in the care of the Camp teachers. Films were provided from the Education Department stock, which was augmented during the year by gifts from the Information Officer. The projectors should be a valuable asset in the Camp in the winter months; although the winter was nearly over when the projectors first reached the Camp, some much-appreciated performances (for both old and young) were given in 1946. In this and other matters the Information Officer has given much generous help.

50. On the return of the Supervisor of Camp Education from leave he made a tour on the West Falklands first (his last tour in 1945 having been on the East); then a little before Christmas he began a tour on the East.

51. The Superintendent of Education made a tour on the West Falklands in January and February and a visit to Johnson's Harbour on the East Falkland in November.

52. The boarding allowances granted by the Government for Camp children coming in to school in Stanley were continued during 1946 at the rate of £2 a month. The total number of Camp children who received assistance under this scheme during 1946 was 33, as against 27 in 1945; 24 out of the 33 (as compared with 22 in 1945) attended the school in Stanley for periods of more than six months. The above figures include three children whose parents were in South Georgia, where there are no educational facilities. The rest of the children came (as usual) mainly from the East Falklands.

53. The scheme of boarding allowances instituted in 1945 to encourage children from outside houses to attend settlement schools as boarders was continued during 1946. In the parts of the Camp where the Government is responsible for providing education, four children attended settlement schools under this scheme - three at Teal Inlet (see par. 46), and one at Fox Bay (from August to December). When first introduced, the scheme was confined to Government-controlled schools; but during 1946 it was extended, subject to Government approval in each case, to children attending the Falkland Islands Company's schools; allowances were granted for one child who attended the school in Darwin for between three and four months, and for another who began attending the school at North Arm shortly before the end of the year.

54. Some mention has already been made of one of the greatest difficulties of Camp education at the present time, namely that of building up a teaching staff adequate in both numbers and quality. Frequently no answers have been received to advertisements for Camp teachers. At the beginning of the year, in spite of most strenuous efforts to obtain teachers, the number of teachers employed was two less than the number desired; by the end of the year it had been possible only to reduce the deficiency from two to one. One result of the shortage has been that the qualifications of many of the teachers employed fall short of what is desired.

55. All the new travelling teachers appointed during the year (but not all the new settlement teachers) were given some training in Stanley before they started their work in the Camp; the amount of training that they could be given was however limited by the urgent need to have them at work in the Camp and by the difficulty of freeing qualified teachers to give them the training required. The travelling teachers already serving in the Camp (except those who left the service or left the Colony early in the year) were also given short refresher courses when they came in to Stanley for their annual holiday. It was planned to have some of the less-qualified teachers in for long periods of further education and training, but the staff in the Camp was not strong enough numerically to do this in 1946.

56. At the end of 1945, a scheme of Bursaries was introduced, to give Camp children who wished to become Camp teachers an extra year's schooling in Stanley (see par. 56 in the 1945 Report). The first two of these Bursaries were to have been awarded in 1946. The scheme, however, evoked little response. No applications were received when they were invited at the beginning of the year. About the middle of the year a candidate applied, and was given a two months' trial; but she did not show sufficient promise during the two months to justify the continuance of the assistance to her. One of the main reasons for the poor response to the scheme seems to have been the reluctance of parents to send their children away from home.

57. Raising the standard of education to a thoroughly satisfactory level throughout the Camp is naturally a process that will take some time. The improvement made in English and arithmetic in the three years between 1943 and 1946 is indicated in the table below, where the children under tuition at 31st December 1943 and 31st December 1946 are classified according to their ability in these two subjects; most of the children who were under tuition during the full period have risen three classes (and some more than three classes) in the three years. Alongside the improvement in English and arithmetic there has also been an increase between 1943 and 1946 in the work done in other subjects. Progress has not been equally good in all parts of the Camp, and further improvement is still needed.

Government Scholarships to Montevideo.

58. Under the Government Scholarship scheme, six pupils from the Falkland Islands again attended the British School in Montevideo.

59. Towards the end of 1945 difficulties had arisen over the board of the children in Montevideo. For 1946, Mrs. N. Leslie (the wife of the British Vice-Consul, and the children's guardian in Montevideo) went to considerable trouble to make fresh arrangements for the children's board; she finally arranged for the three boys to live in a boarding-house with some other boys attending the British School, while the girls boarded in private homes. The pupils were very comfortable in their new lodgings.

60. On the whole, the pupils did very satisfactory work at school during the year. Frequent absence caused by illness again hampered progress in some cases, however; especially in their first year. The children seem to have some difficulty in adjusting themselves to the different climate. The children joined fully in the athletic and general life of the school; one of the girls was elected by her fellow-pupils as a prefect; several of the children gained honourable places in the school sports teams or in the annual athletic sports contest (one of the Falkland Islands boys broke the school record in the throwing-the-cricket-ball event). All six pupils took part with enthusiasm in various out-of-school activities, such as the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts. All these varied activities, and the new experiences gained in Montevideo, have a noticeable effect in broadening the children's outlook and increasing their self-confidence. The great care and attention given to the pupils in Montevideo by the Board of Governors, Mrs. Leslie, the teaching staff, and the people with whom the children live contribute much towards the success of the scheme, and are warmly appreciated.

61. During the year the children were visited in Montevideo by the new Colonial Secretary, Mr. A. B. Mathews, by the retiring Governor, Sir Allan Cardinall, and by the new Governor, Mr. G. M. Clifford.

62. In December, the two third-year pupils sat and passed the Cambridge School Certificate Examination, one obtaining a Grade I pass and the other a Grade II pass.

63. In November an examination in English, Mathematics, General Intelligence and General Knowledge was held for all candidates for the two scholarships for 1947. Stanley was the main examination centre, but four candidates sat the examination in the Camp - one at San Carlos, one at Port Howard and two on Pebble Island. Accepting the recommendations of the Scholarship Selection Committee (which had considered each candidate's school record, general ability and character as well as the examination results), His Excellency the Governor awarded the two scholarships this year to two girls, one from Stanley and one from San Carlos. One of the girls declined the scholarship and no further award was made.

64. As in 1945, three Falkland Prizes were awarded in connection with the scholarship examination.

65. The first two pupils to go to Montevideo under the scholarship scheme completed their three years there in 1945, and took up posts in Stanley early in 1946, one as a clerk in the Treasury and the other as a pupil teacher in the Government School.

Evening Classes.

66. A series of evening classes was again arranged for the winter months. A shorthand class which had first been formed in 1945 and had carried on through the summer of 1945-6 continued to meet throughout the winter. After several delays, new classes in needlework, mathematics, and "English and general subjects" were formed in the first week of June; a Spanish class began to meet in the following week; and in answer to numerous requests, a class on internal combustion engines was started in July. The classes met in the Government School.

67. The special arrangements agreed upon in 1945 for encouraging the attendance of Government employees under 18 years of age were continued, equivalent time off from work being allowed, and boys and girls entering the Civil Service in salaried posts or as apprentices being required to attend such classes as were considered desirable.

68. This year fees were charged for the classes, at the following rates:—

- (a) For young persons (under 20 years of age) a single enrolment fee of 2/6, to cover attendance at classes in as many subjects as the student wished.
- (b) For adults (20 years of age or more) a fee of 2/6 for a course in a single subject, and 4/- for courses in two or more subjects.

Young Government employees who were directed to attend particular classes were excused from paying fees for those classes. Pupils of the Government School were also granted exemption. Exercise books were supplied free of charge.

69. Attendances at the classes remained fairly steady throughout the session and only one class, the shorthand class, had an average attendance of less than ten students (an average attendance of ten is quite good for so small a place). The most popular classes were needlework and Spanish; on account of the large numbers attending, the needlework class had to be divided into two classes and, finally, further admissions had to be refused.

70. The class on internal combustion engines finished at the end of August, and most of the rest stopped work at the end of September (the usual finishing time): two carried on into the beginning of October. At the end of the session the needlework students staged an attractive display of their work.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

MINUTES OF MEETING HELD ON THE 12TH MAY, 1948.

1. The Honourable Mr. R. W. S. Winter, after taking the prescribed Oaths, assumed his seat at the Council.

2. The minutes of the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 20th of November, 1947, were confirmed.

3. His Excellency the Governor delivered to the Council the following address :—

Honourable Members of Council,

You will be asked this morning to assent to legislation which has been framed to give effect to your decision at the last Budget session to raise additional revenue. That decision is reflected in the printed Estimates for the year and the measures to give effect to it will be explained in detail during the course of the debate; I will confine myself therefore to a few general observations.

The measures include an Order under the Customs Ordinance designed to increase the duty on wines and spirits — not, you will note, on beer which still remains at a penny a bottle — to increase, though to a lesser degree, the duty on tobacco and cigarettes and to place an ad valorem duty on a range of items which cannot be classified as "necessities" and the duty on which ranges from 10% to 50%. Some of these rates will be subject to modification where good cause is shown for it is no purpose of the Administration to add to the cost of living though you will understand that that term can only include necessities. For purposes of comparison, a bottle of whiskey will in future cost 18/- against 31/6 or more (that is supposing one is fortunate enough to be able to get a bottle) in the United Kingdom and a Pound or more in most other Colonies. Cigarettes will, in future, cost about 3/- for 50 as against 3/6 or more for 20 in the United Kingdom and proportionately high rates elsewhere.

The Customs Ordinance is expected to produce, in a full year, additional revenue of approximately £6,000 which is a little less than £3 per annum per head of the adult population, a little less than five shillings a month or barely twopence a day. A substantial part of this increase will derive from the sale of spirits of which it is estimated that some 4,500 gallons are consumed annually. It may be appropriate to refer at this point to the Medical and Sanitary Report for 1945 in which the Senior Medical Officer speaks of the excessive quantity of spirits drunk in the Colony and their prejudicial effect on health, concluding with the reasonable comment that were less consumed more money would be available to spend on other things.

A second principal revenue measure raises the upper limit of income tax for the higher income group to 3/6 in the £1 on a fraction only of such incomes, while affording further relief to the married man in the lower income groups and to the widower with children, or those having dependent relatives. Company Tax is also increased by one shilling.

On the subject of Income Tax I would remark that it was paid last year by only 212 individuals in the Colony and that the new rates are substantially lower than those obtaining today in any Colony of which I have knowledge.

Taxation the world over has ever been an unpopular institution and it was not to be supposed that the measures to which the Government has been compelled would be received with any enthusiasm: they have been met, as I anticipated with considerable dissatisfaction and with the request by a section of the community for my removal from office.

Let me say at once that no such action – no personal attack from whatever quarter, or whatever its nature – will deflect me by so much as one hair's breadth from what I conceive to be my duty as head of this Administration subject, of course, to the advice and consent of my Executive Council. But do not, I beg you, read into my use of that constitutional term any attempt on my part to shift the responsibility for these measures from my shoulders to theirs. I accept it in full.

I was confronted on my arrival here, as Honourable members are aware, with an anticipated deficit of £27,000 in respect of the year 1946 and of no less than £35,000 for 1947 – reduced, in the result, to £21,000 and £15,000 respectively but, as I pointed out to you, this was not a position which could be permitted to continue. There were two alternatives open to me – to continue the shifts and devices of previous Budgets and play for time, or to face the issue squarely; I decided, as any honest man of business would, to do the latter and I make no apology for the decision. Other considerations apart, it will be clear to you that a succession of annual deficits must eat into the Colony's reserves, thereby reducing its revenue from investments and so adding to its dilemma.

The Secretary of State was of course informed of this situation and he shared my misgivings and approved the steps which I have proposed to remedy this dangerous position. It will be as well if, at this stage, I quote to you from a directive issued by him to my predecessor and all other Colonial Governors in July 1946: it is very relevant.

" . . . the objective should be to secure increases in rates of income tax as a permanent feature of the fiscal system."

" . . . It is indeed, as has already been indicated in previous communications, an implied condition of assistance from His Majesty's Government (he is referring here to the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund) that a contribution to development programmes will be made from local revenue. Moreover, in practically all Colonies the standard of social services falls far short of what is desirable. The provision of adequate social services must clearly depend upon a substantial and permanent increase in Government revenue."

" . . . today, bearing in mind the shortage of goods available for purchase, it may be wise to make considerable use of indirect tax on luxuries, semi-luxuries and even for the time being on articles of wider consumption in the same way as indirect tax in the form of purchase tax is being retained in the United Kingdom. In Colonies taxes of that kind naturally take the form of customs duties."

I think it possible that the present reaction to the introduction of an ad valorem tariff is, to some extent, one of sentiment – the fact that the Colony has not hitherto been burdened with such legislation, albeit the general rule elsewhere. I understand and I sympathise with that point of view but must observe that sentiment and economics make uneasy bedfellows.

It is true that nothing of the sort may have appeared necessary before, more particularly during the War by which the Colony was, as my Falkland Island friends have been the first to volunteer, little affected but the fact remains that a Colony which depends for a substantial part of its requirements, whether in supplies or personnel, on overseas markets where prices and wages have soared was bound to be affected in due course. Apart from the first cost of materials – and particularly of building materials – which have increased enormously, freight and passages alone represent a most formidable item.

I will turn now to some of the criticisms which have been levelled at the Government.

The first of these is as to the high cost of administration for a Colony of this size and here I am disposed to agree with the critics; indeed, for that very reason I appointed a Committee last year to examine this phenomenon and to make recommendations as to possible economies. That Committee, Honourable Members, sat for some weeks and was unable to suggest any to me, or rather only one which I subsequently abandoned on representations from the public. Certain economies have in fact been proposed subsequently but they are of a long-term order and will be offset initially by overdue improvements in the conditions of locally recruited Government employees, of all categories. For the rest, if any Member of Council or any member of the public can suggest to me any direction in which worthwhile economies can be secured, such suggestions will be most gratefully received and most carefully considered. I am very willing to appoint a further committee, including one or more non-officials, to re-examine the problem for every pound that can be saved is as much of a help to the Government as it is to the public. I must, however, remind you that size alone does not determine the costs of administration and that we have problems here which many larger Colonies are spared; to mention only three, there is our appalling lack of communications which not only adds greatly to expense but complicates still further most of our other problems; there is the absence of any system of social security, which has compelled the Government to give paid employment to men who are really incapable of doing useful work; there is, too, the generally poor standard of education – in no way the fault of the people – which has compelled the Government to recruit overseas for posts which it should be possible to fill at home. Had more money been devoted in the past to improvement of the educational system and the provision of training facilities we should be a great deal more self-sufficient to-day.

The second criticism is to the effect that wages, fixed only in February of last year, have already been overtaken by the cost of living but there is no concrete evidence to support that view and I recall that when, recently, on a report from the Hon. Mr. A. G. Barton, I suggested subsidising the importation of potatoes that suggestion was very firmly rejected by the West Falklands. It should, perhaps, be noted that the Savings Bank deposits which in 1938 stood at £200,000 amount to-day to no less than £467,000 in the names of over 1800 depositors which is a most gratifying increase and the trend is still upwards. Nor is it possible to ignore the fact that consignments of goods to local stores are sold out, often, within a few days of receipt and with little regard to price so that here, as elsewhere in this unsettled world, we have the familiar signs of "too much money chasing too few goods": in other words, and on however small a scale, we have inflation. This is not to say that I dismiss the contention to which I have referred and it is my intention to have this question examined far more closely than was the case in 1946. I might mention here that as a result of representations to the Secretary of State, the Board of Trade has been persuaded to arrange for the supply of utility clothing for the Colony which is of excellent quality and reasonable price.

These considerations apart, I have long been conscious that the married man with two or more children might be feeling the pinch and need some measure of assistance which until the Budgetary outlook could be improved it was quite impossible to afford; but I shall present to Council at the next Budget session - that is, in October - proposals for a non-contributory scheme of childrens' allowances which these new revenue measures will permit me to finance. That is to say that the Government will pay a weekly allowance in respect of all children except the first from birth to school-leaving age without exacting any contribution from the parent: in the case of a parent unfortunate enough to be on poor relief, the allowance will be paid also in respect of the first child. This should go some way towards easing the difficulties of the family man.

I have been a good deal exercised, also, at the lack of any true provision for old age and you may remember my reference to this during my first address to this House. A Provident Fund scheme which permits a subscriber to withdraw, and if he will to squander, his savings whenever he changes his employment or which upon change of employment denies to him the opportunity of continued participation, is no real security against the day when he is too old to work. I am in correspondence with an actuary to ascertain whether it would be feasible to introduce a contributory scheme for all employed persons in the Colony: I refer here, of course, to Falkland Islanders.

I turn now to consideration of other possible sources of additional revenue. First, there is the question of an increased contribution from the Dependencies in regard to which I addressed the Secretary of State more than a year ago: this question is bound up with the Research and Discovery legislation, involves to some extent H.M. Treasury and is still under consideration. I can make no forecast as to the outcome of these representations but am reasonably confident that it will not be to our disadvantage.

Secondly, there is the possibility - and I took care to warn Honourable Members that it was nothing more - of a resumption of whaling activities in the Colony. As to this I note that anxiety is expressed in the Weekly News on the effect of the proposed export duties on whale and seal products. These duties are on a sliding scale in accordance with the market value of oil, which stands today at £90 per ton. Pelagic whaling, that is whaling from factory ships on the high seas is, as you may know, controlled by international agreement which limits the total catch to 16,000 Blue Whale units and with the number of ships now engaged there is not a great deal of room left for further profitable participation in that field. Shore stations, on the other hand, are, for the present at least, unaffected by such limitation and so long as the world shortage of fats persists the venture will continue to be worthwhile; as the price of oil drops so will the duty which, as revised, is a fraction under 3% - in face of the very substantial profits which are being made this is no great matter to the industry but it means a great deal to us.

A new stamp issue was also suggested to me from one source and had, in fact, already been contemplated but it is a device which does not bear too frequent repetition. It will be considered when the Colony's new arms are approved.

But the measures which the critics of Government have chiefly in mind point to a further cess on the wool industry, either by way of increased export duty or of a separate tax on the income of the "absentee" shareholder. Now I do not suppose that the farmer, who is traditionally hard to please, will in fact find much cause to complain about his profits during recent years; throughout the War he enjoyed a stable market thanks to the Ministry of Supply and prices have risen encouragingly since the wool control came to an end. It could perhaps be argued that the industry might contribute more generously to revenue but there is another side to the picture to which I invite attention. From 1939 onwards there has been a serious shortage of labour in the Camp and a virtual cessation in the flow of essential maintenance supplies: farm properties have in consequence been subject to progressive deterioration which can only be made good now at very inflated costs. Further, I have recently sponsored a proposal for the setting up of a Freezer in the Colony and if this is to be a success the farms will need to plough back a substantial part of their profits into improvements, fencing, drainage and the like. Sheepfarming is the Colony's only industry and it is a short-sighted policy indeed that would embarrass future development to meet present need. The farms will, of course, be making their additional contribution in the form of increased Company Tax, while as to the "absentee" shareholder let it not be forgotten that he is subject, also, to United Kingdom income tax which makes anything that is paid here look relatively insignificant.

Behind all this lies one fundamental economic factor and that is that one half of the community - Stanley, including 330 Government and F. I. Co. employees, drawing between them some £60,000 a year - lives on the productivity of the other half, the Camp. This is a truism but needs, nevertheless, to be continuously born in mind; the wellbeing of the one rests, indissolubly, on the prosperity of the other.

In conclusion let me refer to the vexed question of representation. I can well understand, having been in precisely the same position for most of my life, that people do not appreciate being taxed when they have little or no say in the disposal of the proceeds but it necessarily takes some time to remedy a state of affairs which has persisted for so many years. It is, I can assure you, no pleasure to me to preside at the head of an Administration on which the voice of the people is not properly heard and I give it as my conviction that a Governor can be saddled with no greater handicap and no more thankless task. But may I remind Honourable Members, and the public, that my first action immediately after my arrival here was to appoint two non-officials to my Executive Council, by which all legislation is considered in the first instance; my next to provide Stanley with what it should have had years and years ago, a Town Council of its own, while proposals to give effect to the third step, an enlarged legislature with popular representation, have long since been submitted to the Colonial Office where the necessary instruments are being prepared. I venture to suggest to you that this is not bad going in something under eighteen months and when I consider also the wide field of future planning which has been covered in this same period I see no reason why this Administration should hang its head. The new constitution will hold the balance fairly as between Stanley and the Camp and I can only hope that the elections in the latter will excite more interest and enthusiasm than was the case in Stanley last year. Let me hasten to add that I have no doubt whatever that the Town Council, now that it has come into being, will develop into a most useful institution. I have as little doubt that the new Legislative Assembly will prove equally useful; it will certainly take a deal of the weight off my shoulders and I look forward to that day as eagerly as any of you.

"BE IT RESOLVED -
