15. In any area or place where there is no police officer appointed to be in charge of the police stationed therein, the Administrative Officer in charge of that area or place shall, subject to the orders and directions of the Governor, exercise local control over such police in respect of their duties, discipline and well being.

Provided that nothing in this Ordinance shall be deemed to make such Administrative Officer a police officer, but nevertheless any such Administrative Officer shall, subject to any express limitations which may be imposed on him by the Governor, have all powers conferred by law upon police officers.

Police officers to be always on duty.

16. For the purposes of this Ordinance and any law, which is now or may hereafter be in force in the Colony, police officers shall be deemed to be always on duty when required to act as such.

Engaging in trade or business.

17. No member of the Force shall, while he holds such appointment, engage in any private business or trade without the prior consent in writing of the Colonial Secretary.

PART III

MEMBERSHIP OF ASSOCIATIONS, ETC.

Definition of "prohibited association".

18. For the purposes of this Part "prohibited association" means —

- (a) any league or association or body of persons, whether registered or not, which has for its objects or one of its objects, the promotion of feelings of ill-will and hostility between different classes of the community;
- (b) any association, society, club or body of persons, any of the objects of which may be subversive of good discipline on the part of a member of the Force, and which the Governor shall declare to be a prohibited association.

Penalty for offences in connection with prohibited associations.

19. (1) It shall not be lawful for —

- (a) any member of the Force to be or become a member of any prohibited association; or
- (b) any prohibited association to permit any member of the Force to receive any benefit, financial or otherwise, from the association or for any such association to receive money from a member of the Force.

(2) If there shall be any contravention of the provisions of this section, the member of the Force, the association, and every officer of the association who is knowingly a party to such contravention shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £25.

Prohibition against membership of trade unions.

20. (1) Except as regards membership of the Civil Servants Association, it shall not be lawful for a member of the Force to become a member of any trade union, or of any association having for its objects, or one of its objects, the controlling or influencing of the pay, pensions, or conditions of service of the Force and any member of the Force who contravenes this provision shall be disqualified from continuing to be a member of the Force; and if any member of the Force continues to act as such after becoming so disqualified, he shall forfeit all pension or gratuity rights and be disqualified from being thereafter employed in the Force.

(2) If any question arises whether any body is a trade union or an association to which this section applies, the question shall be determined by the Registrar of Trade Unions, whose decision shall be final.

PART IV
GENERAL ADMINISTRATION

21. (1) The Officer in Charge may from time to time issue standing orders, consistent with this Ordinance, for any of the following purposes, that is to say—

Standing orders.

- (a) duties to be performed by members of the Force;
- (b) the description and issue of uniforms, equipment and any other article necessary for the use of the Force;
- (c) the training of the Force;
- (d) the management and good government of all police buildings, accommodation, stores and furniture;
- (e) the posting of all members of the Force and the duties to be performed by them;
- (f) the welfare of members of the Force;
- (g) such other matters as may be necessary for preventing abuse or neglect of duty, for rendering the Force more efficient in the discharge of its duties and for carrying out the objects of this Ordinance.

(2) Every such standing order —

- (a) shall be subject to the approval of the Governor; and
- (b) shall be brought to the notice of every member of the Force, but need not be published in the Gazette.

22. No member of the Force shall be at liberty to resign from the Force until after the expiration of three months at least from the time when he gives to the Officer in Charge notice in writing of his intention to do so:

Resignation from the Force.

Provided that the Governor may in special circumstances allow a member of the Force to resign from the Force at any time between the giving of such notice and the expiration of the said period of three months.

23. Any member of the Force who leaves the Force at any time without the permission of the Governor, or without giving to the Officer in Charge a valid notice of his intention to resign from the Force, or before the expiration of any valid notice, shall be deemed to have illegally resigned from the Force, and shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £100 or to imprisonment not exceeding two months.

Penalty for illegal resignation.

24. It shall be sufficient in any charge or complaint for an offence under section 23 to state that the person proceeded against, being then a member of the Force, did illegally leave the Force, and the onus of proving that his leaving the Force was with the permission of the Governor and that a valid notice was given shall be on the person proceeded against.

Proving resignation with permission.

25. Any magistrate or justice of the peace, on a complaint being made to him on oath by any police officer that any member of the Force has illegally left the Force and that there is reasonable cause to suspect that such member of the Force is concealed in his own premises or on the premises of any other person, or is on board of any vessel within the limits of the Colony, shall grant to such police officer a warrant to search, with proper assistance, the premises or vessel in which such member of the Force is suspected of being concealed and, if found, to arrest him in order that he may be dealt with according to law.

Warrant to arrest police officer illegally leaving the Force.

26. Whenever any member of the Force ceases to belong to the Force he shall deliver over his uniforms and any other equipment which may have been supplied to him at such time and place and to such person as shall be directed by the Officer in Charge. If he fails to produce, or to account satisfactorily for the absence of, such clothing or equipment he shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to pay the value of the same, or in default of payment, to imprisonment not exceeding one month. If such failure to produce or to account satisfactorily be in the opinion of the court wilful, the defaulter shall be guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20.

Return of equipment and clothing.

Prolongation of service in case of war or emergency.

27. Any police officer whose period of service expires during a state of war or state of emergency may be retained in the Force and his service prolonged for such further period as the Governor may direct, but not for more than six months after the ending of such state or time.

PART V — DISCIPLINE

Method of dealing with offences by police officers.

28. (1) (a) Any offence committed by a member of the Force with respect to which criminal proceedings are not instituted in a court of competent jurisdiction shall be dealt with and punished in accordance with the provisions of this Ordinance and any regulations made by the Governor under the powers conferred on him by this Ordinance, and subject to the provisions of section 32 in accordance with Colonial Regulations and the Government General Orders;

(b) Any police officer convicted of a criminal offence by any court of competent jurisdiction may be reduced in rank or dismissed provided that the person so dealt with may within seven days of the notification to him of such reduction or dismissal, as the case may be, appeal to the Governor whose decision on the matter shall be final.

(2) In this Part "offence" means —

- (a) any offence against any other law;
- (b) any offence against, contravention of or failure to comply with this Ordinance;
- (c) any offence against, contravention of or failure to comply with standing orders.

Police officers guilty of offences.

29. (1) Any police officer who shall be guilty of any offence against discipline shall be liable on conviction in such manner and before such person as may be prescribed by Regulations to any of the punishments prescribed in section 30.

(2) Offences against discipline shall be those prescribed by Regulations made under section 38 of this Ordinance.

(3) A police officer shall not be dealt with under this Ordinance where the offence alleged against him is one cognisable under the general law:

Provided that any of the punishments specified in paragraphs (a) to (d) of section 30 shall be subject to the approval of the Governor.

Punishment.

30. When a charge or complaint is made against a subordinate officer for a disciplinary offence under the Regulations, the Officer in Charge may hear and determine the charge or complaint and where he is satisfied that the charge has been proved may recommend the imposition on the offender of any of the following punishments —

- (a) Dismissal;
- (b) Determination of services;
- (c) Reduction in rank;
- (d) Reduction in rate of pay;

- (e) Fine not exceeding £10;
- (f) Extra duty;
- (g) Reprimand;
- (h) Caution;

31. (1) The Officer in Charge shall have power under the preceding section to summon and examine witnesses on oath or affirmation and to require production of all documents relevant to such inquiry and to adjourn any hearing from time to time. In every case the proceedings shall be recorded in writing.

Powers of officers holding inquiry.

(2) Any person summoned as a witness under subsection (1) of this section who fails to attend at the time and place stated in the summons or at the adjournment or refuses to answer any question that is lawfully put to him shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding £5 or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding one month; provided that no such witness shall be obliged to answer any question which may tend to incriminate him or render him liable to any forfeiture or penalty.

32. Any person who is dissatisfied with the decision of the Officer in Charge may appeal to the Governor in accordance with the Regulations relating to appeal made under this Ordinance.

Right of appeal to Governor.

33. Any police officer shall in respect of any matter not provided for in this Ordinance be subject to the provisions of Colonial Regulations and Government General Orders from time to time in force as may be applicable.

Application of Colonial Regulations and General Orders.

PART VI

DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY

34. Where any property has come into the possession of the police in connection with any criminal charge or under section 103 of the Larceny Act, 1861, the Court of Summary Jurisdiction may, on the application either by a member of the Force or by a claimant of the property, make an order for the delivery of the property to the person appearing to the court to be the owner thereof, or, if the owner cannot be ascertained, make such order with respect to the property as the court may think fit.

Power to make orders with respect to property in possession of police.

35. (1) Subject to the provisions of any other Ordinance it shall be the duty of every police officer to take charge of all unclaimed property and to furnish an inventory or description thereof to the Court of Summary Jurisdiction.

Unclaimed property.

(2) The Court of Summary Jurisdiction shall cause a notice to be posted in a conspicuous place at the Court of Summary Jurisdiction and at the Police Station specifying such property and calling upon any person who may have a claim thereto to appear and establish his claim within six months from the date of such notice.

(3) The Court of Summary Jurisdiction may also make such order as to such property as it may deem fit, including an order for detention, sale by auction or private treaty for the benefit of any person who may claim property or for the destruction of such property.

(4) The right to take legal proceedings for the recovery of such property or the proceeds of such sale shall cease if no person shall within six months from the date of the notice aforesaid establish his claim to such property or proceeds thereof.

(5) At the expiration of six months from the date of such notice the property or the proceeds of sale of such property shall, after deduction of any expenses incurred in connection therewith, be paid or returned to the finder of such property, provided he claims the same from the Police Station not later than nine months from the date of such notice.

(6) If at the expiration of three months from the date of expiry of such notice no claim has been made by the finder, the police shall refer the matter to the Court of Summary Jurisdiction who shall be at liberty to order any property other than money to be destroyed or sold by auction or private treaty. The proceeds therefrom and any unclaimed money shall forthwith be paid into the Treasury after deduction of any expense incurred.

Disposal of valueless unclaimed goods or chattels.

36. If goods and chattels of the nature specified in sections 34 and 35 are of no appreciable value or of value so small in the opinion of the Officer in Charge as to render impracticable the sale of such property, the Officer in Charge may order such property to be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as he thinks fit.

Disposal of perishable articles and livestock.

37. Where the property is a perishable article or livestock and the custody of the article or of the livestock involves unreasonable expense or inconvenience, it may be sold at any time but the proceeds of sale shall not be disposed of until they have remained in the possession of the police for a year unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the Officer in Charge that any person laying claim to such article or livestock is in fact the owner of such article or livestock in which case the Officer in Charge may pay the proceeds to the person whose ownership has been so established.

PART VII — MISCELLANEOUS

Regulations.

38. The Governor in Council may make Regulations relating to all or any of the following matters, that is to say —

- (a) the discipline and punishment of members of the Force;
- (b) the conduct of disciplinary proceedings;
- (c) appeals from the decision of the officer holding the inquiry into an offence against discipline;
- (d) the appointment of police officers and the promotion and reduction in rank of police officers;
- (e) the treatment of persons detained or confined in any police building;
- (f) the taking of measurements, photographs, and fingerprint impressions of persons in lawful custody;
- (g) prescribing anything which by this Ordinance is to be or may be prescribed; and
- (h) generally for the good order and government of the Force.

Application of Ordinance to persons already in the Force.

39. All police officers who at the date of commencement of this Ordinance are serving in the Force shall be deemed to have been appointed under and subject to the provisions of this Ordinance.

Repeal of Cap. 51.

40. The Police Ordinance is hereby repealed.

This printed impression has been carefully compared by me with the Bill which has passed the Legislative Council, and is found by me to be a true and correctly printed copy of the said Bill.

The Police Ordinance, 1967.

REGULATIONS

(under section 38 of the Ordinance)

No. 7 of 1967.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Police Regulations, 1967.

Citation.

PART I

RECRUITMENT AND PROBATION

2. The following standard is required for enrolment of recruits for the Police Force —

Physical standard for recruits.

- (a) Age: A minimum of eighteen years.
- (b) Of good physique.
- (c) Eyesight: Normal or fully corrected with spectacles.
- (d) Ears: No undue deafness.
- (e) Feet and legs: Sufficiently developed to cope with long periods of standing.

3. A recruit may, before entry into the Force, be required to pass a written educational examination, to be set and marked by the Superintendent of Education or such other person as the Colonial Secretary may approve.

Examination before entry into Force.

4. A police officer will be on probation for two years after appointment as such, during which period his services may be dispensed with at any time if the Officer in Charge considers that he is not likely to become efficient and well conducted. If his services are so dispensed with, he will receive one month's notice.

Probationary period.

PART II — DISCIPLINE

5. Any member of the Force commits an offence against discipline if he commits one or more of the offences set out below (hereinafter in these Regulations referred to as the disciplinary code) —

Disciplinary code.

(1) Discreditable conduct, that is to say, if he acts in a disorderly manner or any manner prejudicial to discipline or reasonably likely to bring discredit on the reputation of the Force.

(2) Insubordinate or oppressive conduct, that is to say, if he —

- (a) is insubordinate by word, act or demeanour; or
- (b) is guilty of oppressive or tyrannical conduct towards an inferior in rank; or
- (c) uses obscene, abusive or insulting language to any other member of the Force; or
- (d) wilfully or negligently makes any false complaint or statement against any member of the Force; or
- (e) assaults any other member of the Force; or
- (f) improperly withholds any report or allegation against any member of the Force.

(3) Disobedience to orders, that is to say, if he disobeys or without good and sufficient cause omits or neglects to carry out any lawful order, written or otherwise, or any provision of any Standing Order or Routine Order, or contravenes any of the following requirements —

- (a) a police officer shall at all times abstain from activity which is likely to interfere with the impartial discharge of his duties or which is likely to give rise to the impression amongst members of the public that it may so interfere, and in particular a police officer shall not take any active part in politics;

- (b) the place at which a police officer resides shall be subject to the approval of the Officer in Charge;
- (c) a police officer shall not wilfully refuse or neglect to discharge any lawful debt.

(4) Neglect of duty, that is to say, if he —

- (a) neglects or without good and sufficient cause omits promptly and diligently to attend to or carry out anything which is his duty as a police officer; or
- (b) idles or gossips while on duty; or
- (c) fails to work his beat in accordance with orders, or leaves his beat or other place of duty to which he has been ordered without due permission or sufficient cause; or
- (d) by carelessness or neglect permits a prisoner to escape; or
- (e) fails, when knowing where any offender is to be found, to report the same, or to make due exertions for making him amenable to justice; or
- (f) fails to report any matter which it is his duty to report; or
- (g) fails to report anything which he knows concerning a criminal charge, or fails to disclose any evidence which he, or any person within his knowledge, can give for or against any prisoner or defendant to a criminal charge; or
- (h) omits to make any necessary entry in any official document or book; or
- (i) neglects, or without good or sufficient cause omits to carry out, any instructions of a government medical officer, or while absent from duty on account of sickness, is guilty of any act or conduct calculated to retard his return to duty.

(5) Falsehood or prevarication, that is to say, if he —

- (a) knowingly makes or signs any false statement in any official document or book; or
- (b) wilfully or negligently makes any false, misleading or inaccurate statement; or
- (c) without good and sufficient cause destroys or mutilates any official document or record, or alters or erases any entry therein.

(6) Breach of confidence, that is to say, if he —

- (a) divulges any matter which is his duty to keep secret; or
- (b) gives notice directly or indirectly to any person against whom any warrant or summons has been or is about to be issued, except in the lawful execution of such warrant or service of such summons; or
- (c) without proper authority communicates to any person, who is not a member of the Force, any matter connected with the Force; or
- (d) without proper authority shows to any person outside the Force any book or written or printed document the property of the government; or
- (e) makes any anonymous communication to the Governor, any public officer, the Officer in Charge or to any superior officer; or
- (f) canvasses any member of the Legislative Council or any public officer with regard to any matter concerning the Force; or
- (g) signs or circulates any petition or statement with regard to any matter concerning the Force except through the proper channel of correspondence to the Officer in Charge; or

(h) calls or attends any unauthorised meeting to discuss any matter concerning the Force.

(7) Corrupt practice, that is to say, if he —

- (a) receives any bribe; or
- (b) fails to account for or to make a prompt and true return of any money or property received by him in his official capacity; or
- (c) directly or indirectly solicits or receives any gratuity, present, subscription or testimonial, without the consent of the Officer in Charge; or
- (d) places himself under pecuniary obligation to any publican or any person who holds a licence concerning the granting or renewal of which the police may have to report or give advice; or
- (e) improperly uses his character and position as a member of the Force for his private advantage; or
- (f) in his capacity as a member of the Force, writes, signs or gives without the sanction of the Officer in Charge any testimonial or character or other recommendation with the object of obtaining employment for any person or of supporting an application for the grant of a licence of any kind; or
- (g) without the sanction of the Officer in Charge supports an application for the grant of a licence of any kind.

(8) Unlawful or unnecessary exercise of authority, that is to say, if he —

- (a) without good and sufficient cause makes any unlawful or unnecessary arrest; or
- (b) uses any unnecessary violence to any prisoner or other person with whom he may be brought into contact in the execution of his duty; or
- (c) is uncivil to any member of the public.

(9) Malingering, that is to say, if he feigns or exaggerates any sickness or injury with a view to avoiding duty.

(10) Absence without leave or being late for duty, that is to say, if he without reasonable excuse is absent without leave from or is late for parade, court or any other duty.

(11) Uncleanliness, that is to say, if he, while on duty or while off duty in uniform in a public place, is improperly dressed or is dirty or untidy in his person, clothing or accoutrements.

(12) Damage to clothing or other articles supplied, that is to say, if he —

- (a) wilfully or by carelessness causes any waste, loss or damage to any article of clothing or accoutrement, or to any book, document or other government property served out to him or used by him or entrusted to his care; or
- (b) fails to report any loss or damage as in the preceding paragraph however caused.

(13) Drunkenness on duty or soliciting drink, that is to say, if he —

- (a) without the consent of his superior officer, drinks or receives from any person any intoxicating liquor while on duty; or
- (b) demands or endeavours to persuade any other person to give him or to purchase or to obtain from him, any intoxicating liquor while he is on duty.

(14) Entering licensed premises, that is to say, if without permission he enters —

- (a) while on duty any premises where intoxicating liquor is served, sold, stored or distributed when his presence there is not required in the execution of his duty; or
- (b) any such premises in uniform while off duty.

(15) Lending, borrowing or accepting presents, that is to say, if he lends money to any superior in rank or borrows or accepts any present from any inferior in rank.

(16) Conviction for a criminal offence, that is to say, if he has been found guilty by a court of law of any criminal offence.

(17) Being an accessory to a disciplinary offence, that is to say, if he connives at or is knowingly an accessory to any offence against discipline.

PART III — DEFAULTERS

Misconduct report.

6. For any offence against the disciplinary code a police officer will, if considered necessary, be placed on the defaulter's report.

Entries on record.

7. Every punishment will be entered on the defaulter's record sheet.

Defaulter to be served with a copy or report.

8. A defaulter shall, when going off duty or if off duty, as soon as practicable, be supplied with a written copy of the report preferred against him, which must disclose an offence against the disciplinary code with such details of time and place as will leave him under no misapprehension as to the offence for which he is reported.

Defaulter to be afforded access to reports.

9. The defaulter will be afforded access to all reports and statements relevant to the report against him, as soon as they are prepared. If he so desires, he will be permitted to take copies in his own time. Each folio of a report or statement of which a copy is taken must be marked by him "Copy Taken" and initialled by him to show that he has seen it.

Questions to be answered on report form.

10. (1) The defaulter will be invited to state in writing on a report form whether he admits or denies the charge. He will also be invited to state thereon the names and address of any witnesses to relevant facts whose attendance at the hearing of the case he wishes to secure.

(2) He may be present when the statements of his witnesses are being taken.

Trifling irregularities.

11. Police officers are not necessarily to be reported for trifling irregularities which can often be dealt with by immediate verbal reprimand, brief particulars of which should at the time be recorded in the official pocket book of the officer by whom the reprimand is administered. Repeated acts of negligence, although in themselves trifling, must be brought to notice.

Trial of defaulters.

12. Offences against the disciplinary code will be tried by the Officer in Charge.

Other member of Force may assist defaulter.

13. (1) At the trial of an offence against the disciplinary code, the defaulter may be assisted by another member of the Force.

(2) The member of the Force assisting the defaulter or the defaulter may address the Officer in Charge trying the case and examine or cross-examine the witnesses.

(3) The defaulter will be permitted to give evidence on his own behalf.

Absence of defaulter.

14. If a defaulter absconds or refuses or neglects without good and sufficient cause to attend the hearing of the charge at the time and place appointed or is serving a sentence of imprisonment the case may be decided in his absence.

15. When a police officer is reported for rendering himself unfit for duty through drink, whether on or off duty, or for drinking on duty, he shall have the right to require that a medical practitioner shall be called to examine him.

Drunkenness — attendance of doctor.

16. The Officer in Charge, when trying a case against a defaulter, shall record the substance of the evidence in writing.

Recording of evidence.

PART IV

APPEALS AND CONFIRMATION OF PUNISHMENT

17. (1) A police officer who is not satisfied with a decision reached on the trial of any offence against the disciplinary code may, subject to the provisions of this Part, appeal to the Governor, who may vary the decision or allow or reject the appeal.

Conditions to be complied with.

(2) Appeals may only be made on the condition that the officer shall have made his whole defence and called all his available witnesses at the original hearing.

(3) Notice of intention to appeal must be given in writing within forty-eight hours of the award of the punishment, stating whether the appeal is against the finding or the punishment or both.

18. On appeal, the appellant shall, within the prescribed time, give notice of appeal by serving on the Officer in Charge a notice in writing of his intention to appeal and of the general grounds of such appeal.

Notice of appeal.

19. A police officer, if found guilty of an offence by the Officer in Charge, may appeal to the Governor only if he has been sentenced to dismissal, termination of service, reduction in rank or reduction in rate of pay.

Limits of appeal.

20. When a member of the Force appeals to the Governor the Officer in Charge shall forward all records, statements and other papers relevant to the hearing to the Colonial Secretary for onward transmission to the Governor.

Appeals to Governor.

21. Any punishment specified in paragraphs (a) to (d) of section 30 of the Ordinance awarded by the Officer in Charge shall be subject to the approval of the Governor.

Confirmation of punishment.

PART V

COMPLAINTS AGAINST POLICE

22. All complaints against members of the Force shall be investigated without delay

Complaints.

23. (1) When a complaint is lodged against a member of the Force it shall be the duty of the officer receiving it to record it in writing.

Complaints to be recorded in writing.

(2) The officer against whom the complaint is made, will, whenever practicable, be permitted to be present while any statements are being taken from the complainant.

24. In all cases of complaint against a police officer, the Officer in Charge shall enquire into the allegation

Investigating complaints.

25. When the enquiry has been completed the Officer in Charge shall inform the complainant of the result of such enquiry.

Complainant to be informed.

Made by the Governor in Council on the 20th day of October, 1967.

H. L. BOUND,
Clerk of the Executive Council.

The Police Ordinance, 1967

REGULATIONS

No. 8 of 1967.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

Citation.

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Police Reserve Regulations, 1967.

Interpretation.

2. In these regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, "police reservist" means any member of the Police Reserve.

PART I — APPOINTMENT

Eligibility for appointment.

3. The Officer in Charge may, with the approval of the Governor, appoint as a police reservist any person —

- (a) who is not less than eighteen nor more than sixty years of age;
- (b) who is of good character;
- (c) who is of good health and physique; and
- (d) who is likely to become an efficient and well-conducted police reservist.

Application for appointment.

4. Any person wishing to be appointed as a police reservist shall apply to the Officer in Charge and shall supply such information as the Officer in Charge may require to enable him to decide whether or not the applicant should be so appointed.

Duration of appointment.

5. The appointment of a police reservist shall, unless otherwise specified by the Officer in Charge at the time of appointment, be without limitation as to period, subject to the provisions of regulations 8 and 9 and Part IV.

Declaration on appointment.

6. A police reservist shall on his appointment make and sign the declaration required to be made under section 8 of the Ordinance save that for the reference to police officer there shall be substituted reference to reserve police officer.

PART II

DETERMINATION OF SERVICE

7. A police reservist shall retire from his office as such on reaching the age of sixty-five years:

Provided that in any case, the Officer in Charge may permit a police reservist to continue to serve until such age not exceeding sixty-five as he may determine.

8. A police reservist may resign his office at any time upon giving to the Officer in Charge not less than one month's notice in writing:

Provided that the Officer in Charge may in any case allow a police reservist to withdraw from the Reserve at any time between the giving of the notice and the expiration of the said period of one month.

Determination by Officer in Charge.

9. The Officer in Charge may, at his discretion, determine the service of any police reservist by giving him not less than one month's notice in writing.

PART III

DUTIES, PRIVILEGES AND IMMUNITIES

Application of Part II of Ordinance.

10. Part II of the Ordinance shall apply to a police reservist as it applies to a member of the Force.

11. A police reservist shall, subject to the provisions of these Regulations, be subject to and governed by the provisions of any Standing Orders issued under the Ordinance in the same manner as a member of the Force, save in so far as such Standing Orders shall be expressed as not to be applicable to a police reservist.

Standing Orders and section 24 of the Ordinance.

PART IV

RANK AND CONDITIONS OF SERVICE

12. The Police Reserve shall consist of such numbers of the following ranks as the Governor may direct, in order of seniority as shown —

Ranks in Reserve.

- Sergeants
- Constables.

13. Any rank in the Police Reserve other than that of constable may be filled by a member of the Force, appointed to that rank in the Force and seconded for duty with the Police Reserve. Any member of the Force so seconded shall for all purposes be deemed to be still a member of the Force.

Secondment of police officers.

14. Police reservists shall receive such pay and allowances as may be assigned to them by the Governor in Council.

Pay and allowances.

15. The Pensions Ordinance and the Pensions Regulations shall not apply to a police reservist or (subject to regulation 16) to any service as a police reservist.

Service in Police Reserve not pensionable.

16. If a police reservist becomes a member of the Force, having been appointed thereto under the Ordinance, without any break in service, then one-half of his continuous service in the Police Reserve after the age of twenty years shall be deemed to have been service as a police officer for the purposes of the Pensions Ordinance and Pensions Regulations and to have been continuous with the period of his service as a police officer.

When service as police reservist may be pensionable service.

PART V

CONTROL AND DISCIPLINE OF POLICE RESERVE

17. Without prejudice to the powers conferred upon the Officer in Charge by regulation 9, and subject to the provisions of these Regulations —

Application of Police Ordinance and Police Regulations.

- (a) Part V of the Ordinance shall apply to a police reservist as it applies to a member of the Force;
- (b) Parts II, III, IV and V of the Police Regulations, shall apply to a police reservist as they apply to a member of the Force.

18. The Officer in Charge shall have command, superintendence and direction of the Police Reserve and shall be responsible for the efficient administration of the Police Reserve and for the proper expenditure of all public moneys appropriated for the service thereof.

Officer in Charge to command reserve.

Made by the Governor in Council on the 20th day of October, 1967.

H. L. BOUND,
Clerk of the Executive Council.

Ref. 0836/III.

Assented to in Her Majesty's name this 8th day of November 1967.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

LS

No. 10

1967

Colony of the Falkland Islands.

IN THE SIXTEENTH YEAR OF THE REIGN OF

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II.

SIR COSMO HASKARD, K.C.M.G., M.B.E.
Governor.

An Ordinance

Title.

To make further and better provision for the conduct of certain matrimonial proceedings and matters incidental thereto or connected therewith.

Date of commencement.

(1st December 1967)

Enacting clause.

ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Matrimonial Proceedings (Court of Summary Jurisdiction) Ordinance, 1967.

Interpretation.

2. In this Ordinance unless the context otherwise requires —
“child”, in relation to one or both of the parties to a marriage, includes an illegitimate or adopted child of that party or, as the case may be, of both parties, but does not include a child adopted by some other person or persons, and “parent”, in relation to any child, shall be construed accordingly; “adopted” means adopted in pursuance of an adoption order made under the Adoption Act, 1958, or any enactment repealed by that Act or by the Adoption Act, 1950;
“child of the family”, in relation to the parties to a marriage, means —
(a) any child of both parties; and
(b) any other child of either party who has been accepted as one of the family by the other party;

“dependant” means a person—

- (a) who is under the age of sixteen years; or
- (b) who, having attained the age of sixteen but not of twenty-one years, is either receiving full-time instruction at an educational establishment or undergoing training for a trade, profession or vocation in such circumstances that he is required to devote the whole of his time to that training for a period of not less than two years; or
- (c) whose earning capacity is impaired through illness or disability of mind or body and who has not attained the age of twenty-one years;

“drug addict” means a person (not being a mentally disordered person within the meaning of the Mental Treatment Ordinance) who, by reason of the habitual taking or using, otherwise than upon medical advice, of any drug to which any of the provisions of the Dangerous Drugs Ordinance, for the time being applies —

- (a) is at times dangerous to himself or to others, or incapable of managing himself or his affairs; or
- (b) so conducts himself that it would not be reasonable to expect a spouse of ordinary sensibilities to continue to cohabit with him;

“habitual drunkard” means a person (not being a mentally disordered person within the meaning of the Mental Treatment Ordinance) who, by reason of habitual intemperate drinking of intoxicating liquor —

- (a) is at times dangerous to himself or to others, or incapable of managing himself or his affairs; or
- (b) so conducts himself that it would not be reasonable to expect a spouse of ordinary sensibilities to continue to cohabit with him;

“interim order” means an order under section 8 of this Ordinance and includes any order made by virtue of section 10 of this Ordinance varying or reviving an order under the said section 8;

“matrimonial order” means an order under section 4 of this Ordinance and includes any order made by virtue of section 10 of this Ordinance varying or reviving an order under the said section 4.

3. (1) A married woman or married man may apply by way of complaint to a court of summary jurisdiction for an order under this Ordinance against the other party to the marriage on any of the following causes of complaint arising during the subsistence of the marriage, that is to say, that the defendant —

- (a) has deserted the complainant; or
- (b) has been guilty of persistent cruelty to —
 - (i) the complainant; or
 - (ii) an infant child of the complainant; or
 - (iii) an infant child of the defendant who, at the time of the cruelty, was a child of the family; or
- (c) has been found guilty —
 - (i) on indictment, of any offence which involved an assault upon the complainant; or
 - (ii) by a court of summary jurisdiction, of an offence against the complainant under sections 20, 42, 43 or 47 of the Offences against the Person Act, 1861, being, in the case of the said section 42, an offence for which the defendant has been sentenced to imprisonment or any other form of detention for a term of not less than one month; or

Matrimonial proceedings in court of summary jurisdiction.

- (iii) of, or an attempt to commit, an offence under any of sections 1 to 29 of the Sexual Offences Act, 1956, or against an infant child of the complainant, or against an infant child of the defendant who, at the time of the commission of or attempt to commit the offence, was a child of the family; or
- (d) has committed adultery; or
- (e) while knowingly suffering from a venereal disease has insisted on, or has without the complainant being aware of the presence of that disease permitted, sexual intercourse between the complainant and the defendant, or
- (f) is for the time being a habitual drunkard or a drug addict; or
- (g) being the husband, has compelled the wife to submit herself to prostitution or has been guilty of such conduct as was likely to result and has resulted in the wife's submitting herself to prostitution; or
- (h) being the husband, has wilfully neglected to provide reasonable maintenance for the wife or for any child of the family who is, or would but for that neglect have been, a dependant; or
- (i) being the wife, has wilfully neglected to provide, or to make a proper contribution towards, reasonable maintenance for the husband or for any child of the family who is, or would but for that neglect have been, a dependant, in a case where, by reason of the impairment of the husband's earning capacity through age, illness, or disability of mind or body, and having regard to any resources of the husband and the wife respectively which are, or should properly be made, available for the purpose, it is reasonable in all the circumstances to expect the wife so to provide or contribute.

(2) A court of summary jurisdiction shall have jurisdiction to hear a complaint under this section —

- (a) if at the date of the making of the complaint either the complainant or the defendant is resident in the Colony; or
- (b) except in the case of a complaint by virtue of paragraph (c) of the foregoing subsection, if the cause of complaint arose wholly or partly within the Colony; or
- (c) in the case of a complaint by virtue of the said paragraph (c), if the offence or attempt to which the complaint relates occurred within the Colony.

Order by court of summary jurisdiction in matrimonial proceedings.

4. (1) Subject to the provisions of this section and of section 6 of this Ordinance, on hearing a complaint under section 3 by either of the parties to a marriage the court may make an order (in this Ordinance referred to as a "matrimonial order") containing any one or more of the following provisions, namely —

- (a) a provision that the complainant be no longer bound to cohabit with the defendant (which provision while in force shall have effect in all respects as a decree of judicial separation);
- (b) a provision that the husband shall pay to the wife such weekly sum not exceeding £7 10s. 0d. as the court considers reasonable in all the circumstances of the case;
- (c) where, by reason of the impairment of the husband's earning capacity through age, illness, or disability of mind or body, it appears to the court reasonable in all the circumstances so to order, a provision that the wife shall pay to the husband such weekly sum not exceeding £7 10s. 0d. as the court considers reasonable in all the circumstances of the case;
- (d) a provision for the legal custody of any child of the family who is under the age of sixteen years;

- (e) if, in the case of any child committed by the order to the legal custody of any person, it appears to the court that there are exceptional circumstances making it desirable that the child should be under the supervision of an independent person, a provision that the child be under the supervision of a probation officer;
- (f) a provision for access to any child of the family by either of the parties or by any other person who is a parent of that child, in a case where the child is committed by the order to the legal custody of a person other than that party or parent;
- (g) a provision for the making by the defendant or by the complainant or by each of them, for the maintenance of any child of the family, of payments by way of a weekly sum not exceeding in the case of payments by either one of the parties in respect of any one child the sum of £2 10s. 0d., being --
 - (i) if and for so long as the child is under the age of sixteen years, payments to any person to whom the legal custody of the child is for the time being committed by the order, or by any other order made by a court in the Colony and for the time being in force;
 - (ii) if it appears to the court that the child is, or will be, or if such payments were made would be, a dependant though over the age of sixteen years, and that it is expedient that such payments should be made in respect of that child while such a dependant, payments to such person (who may be the child) as may be specified in the order, for such period during which the child is over the age of sixteen years but under the age of twenty-one years as may be so specified.

(2) Where, on a complaint under section 3 of this Ordinance, the court makes a matrimonial order on the ground that the defendant is for the time being a habitual drunkard or a drug addict, and the order contains such a provision as is mentioned in paragraph (a) of the foregoing subsection, then, if in all the circumstances, and after giving each party to the proceedings an opportunity of making representations, the court thinks it proper so to do, the court may include in that order --

- (a) if the complainant is the husband, a provision such as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of the foregoing subsection; or
- (b) if the complainant is the wife, a provision such as is mentioned in paragraph (c) of that subsection;

but save as aforesaid the said paragraphs (b) or (c) shall not authorise the court to require any payment such as is therein mentioned to be made by the complainant.

(3) The court hearing a complaint under section 3 of this Ordinance shall not make a matrimonial order containing a provision such as is mentioned in paragraphs (a), (b) or (c) of subsection (1) of this section --

- (a) on the ground that the defendant has committed an act of adultery, unless the court is satisfied that the complainant has not condoned or connived at, or by wilful neglect or misconduct conducted to, the act of adultery; or
- (b) where the complainant is proved to have committed an act of adultery during the subsistence of the marriage, unless the court is satisfied that the defendant has condoned or connived at, or by wilful neglect or misconduct conducted to, that act of adultery.

(4) The court shall not make an order containing such a provision as is mentioned in paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of this section in respect of any child with respect to whose custody an order made by a court in the Colony is for the time being in force.

(5) In considering whether any, and if so what, provision should be included in a matrimonial order by virtue of paragraph (g) of subsection (1) of this section for payments by one of the parties in respect of a child who is not a child of that party, the court shall have regard to the extent, if any, to which that party had, on or after the acceptance of the child as one of the family, assumed responsibility for the child's maintenance, and to the liability of any person other than a party to the marriage to maintain the child.

Supplementary provisions as to supervision of a child.

5. (1) Where a matrimonial order provides for a child to be under the supervision of a probation officer, that officer shall be selected in like manner as if the order were a probation order.

(2) Any provision of a matrimonial order that a child be under the supervision of a probation officer shall cease to have effect as respects any child when the child attains the age of sixteen years.

Special powers and duties with respect to children.

6. (1) Where the court has begun to hear a complaint —

- (a) under section 3 of this Ordinance; or
- (b) for the variation of a matrimonial order —
 - (i) by the revocation, addition or alteration of provision for the legal custody of a child; or
 - (ii) by the revocation of a provision that a child be under the supervision of a probation officer; or
- (c) for the revocation of a matrimonial order consisting of or including any such provision as aforesaid, then, whether or not the court makes the order for which the complaint is made, but subject to subsections (4) and (5) of section 4 of this Ordinance and subsection (6) of this section, the court may make a matrimonial order, containing, or, as the case may be, vary the matrimonial order so that it contains, any provision such as is mentioned in paragraphs (d) to (g) of subsection (1) of the said section 4 which, after giving each party to the proceedings an opportunity of making representations, the court thinks proper in all the circumstances; and the court shall not dismiss or make its final order on any complaint in a case where the powers conferred on the court by this subsection are or may be exercisable until it has decided whether or not, and if so how, those powers should be exercised.

(2) Where, on hearing such a complaint as aforesaid or a complaint for the variation of a matrimonial order by the revocation, addition or alteration of provision for access to a child, the court, after it has made any decision which falls to be made on the complaint with respect to any provision such as is mentioned in paragraphs (a) to (c) of subsection (1) of section 4 of this Ordinance, is of the opinion that it has not sufficient information to make the decision required by the foregoing subsection or, as the case may be, to make a decision as to access to the child, the court may call for a report, either oral or in writing, by a probation officer, with respect to such matters as the court may specify, being matters appearing to the court to be relevant to that decision.

(3) Any statement which is or purports to be a report in pursuance of the last foregoing subsection shall be made, or if in writing be read aloud, before the court at a hearing of the complaint, and immediately after it has been read aloud the court shall ask whether any party to the proceedings who is present at the hearing objects to anything contained therein; and where objection is made—

- (a) the court shall require the officer by whom the statement was or was purported to be made to give evidence on oath with respect to the matters referred to therein; and
- (b) any party to the proceedings may give or call evidence with respect to any matter referred to in the statement or in any evidence given by the officer.

(4) Subject to the next following subsection, the court may take account of any statement made or read aloud under the last foregoing subsection and of any evidence given under paragraph (a) of that subsection, so far as that statement or evidence relates to the matters specified by the court under subsection (2) of this section, notwithstanding any law relating to the admissibility of evidence.

(5) A report in pursuance of subsection (2) of this section shall not include anything said by either of the parties to a marriage in the course of an interview which took place with, or in the presence of, a probation officer with a view to the reconciliation of those parties, unless both parties have consented to its inclusion; and if anything so said is included without the consent of both those parties as part of any statement made or read aloud under subsection (3) of this section, then, unless both those parties agree otherwise, that part of the statement shall, for the purposes of the giving of evidence under the said subsection (3) and for the purposes of subsection (4) of this section, be deemed not to be contained in the statement.

(6) On the hearing of a complaint under section 3 of this Ordinance in the case of which there is a child of the family who is not a child of both parties, other than a child with respect to whose custody an order made by a court in the Colony is for the time being in force —

- (a) subsections (1) and (3) of this section shall have effect as if any person, who, though not a party to the proceedings, is a parent of that child and who is present at the hearing were a party to the proceedings; and
- (b) if any such person is not so present, the court shall not make a matrimonial order on the complaint unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the court, on oath or in such other manner as may be prescribed, that such steps have been taken as may be so prescribed with a view to giving notice to that person of the making of the complaint and of the time and place appointed for the hearing:

Provided that nothing in paragraph (b) of this subsection shall require notice to be given to any person as the father of an illegitimate child unless that person has been adjudged by a court to be the father of that child.

(7) Where for the purposes of this section the court adjourns the hearing of any complaint, then, subject to subsection (2) of section 46 of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952 (which requires adequate notice of the time and place of the resumption of the hearing to be given to the parties) the court may resume the hearing at the time and place appointed notwithstanding the absence of both or all of the parties.

(8) In any proceedings in which the powers conferred on the court by subsection (1) of this section are or may be exercisable, the question whether or not, and if so how, those powers should be exercised shall be excepted from the issues arising in the proceedings which, under the proviso to subsection (1) of section 60 of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, must be determined by the court before the court may direct a probation officer to make to the court under that section a report on the means of the parties.

7. Where on hearing any complaint under section 3 of this Ordinance a court of summary jurisdiction is of the opinion that any of the matters in question between the parties would be more conveniently dealt with by the Supreme Court, the court of summary jurisdiction may refuse to make a matrimonial order on the complaint, and no appeal shall lie from that refusal; but if in any proceedings in the Supreme Court relating to or comprising the same subject matter as that complaint, the Supreme Court so orders, the complaint shall be re-heard and determined by a court of summary jurisdiction.

Refusal of order in case more suitable for Supreme Court.

Interim order by court of summary jurisdiction or Supreme Court.

8. (1) Where in the case of any complaint made to a court of summary jurisdiction under section 3 of this Ordinance —

- (a) the court of summary jurisdiction, at any time before making its final order on the complaint, adjourns the hearing of the complaint for any period exceeding one week; or
- (b) the court of summary jurisdiction refuses by virtue of section 7 of this Ordinance to make a matrimonial order on the complaint; or
- (c) after such a refusal by the court of summary jurisdiction as aforesaid or on an appeal under section 13 of this Ordinance from, or from the refusal of, a matrimonial order on the complaint, the Supreme Court by virtue of the said section 7 or 13 orders that the complaint shall be reheard by a court of summary jurisdiction, then, in a case falling within paragraphs (a) or (b) of this subsection the court of summary jurisdiction, or in a case falling within paragraph (c) thereof the Supreme Court, may make an order under this section (in this Ordinance referred to as an "interim order").

(2) An interim order may contain —

- (a) any such provision as is mentioned in paragraphs (b), (c) or (g) of subsection (1) of section 4 of this Ordinance; and
- (b) where by reason of special circumstances the court thinks it proper, but subject to subsection (4) of the said section 4, any provision such as is mentioned in paragraphs (d) or (f) of that subsection; and for the purposes of paragraph (a) of this subsection the reference in sub-paragraph (i) of the said paragraph (g) to any person to whom the legal custody of a child is for the time being committed by an order shall be construed as including a reference to any person, being one of the parties or a parent of the child, who for the time being has the care of the child, and an appeal against an interim order shall not lie if the appeal relates only to such a provision of the order as is mentioned in paragraph (a) of this subsection.

(3) Without prejudice to sections 9, 10 and 13 of this Ordinance, an interim order in connection with any complaint shall cease to be in force on whichever of the following dates occurs first, that is to say —

- (a) the date, if any, specified for the purpose in the interim order;
- (b) the date of the expiration of the period of three months beginning with the date of —
 - (i) the making of the interim order; or
 - (ii) if the interim order is one of two or more such orders made with respect to the same complaint by virtue of the same paragraph of subsection (1) of this section, the making of the first of those interim orders;
- (c) the date of the making of a final order on, or the dismissal of, the complaint by a court of summary jurisdiction.

(4) An interim order made by the Supreme Court under this section on ordering that a complaint be reheard by a court of summary jurisdiction shall, for the purposes of its enforcement and for the purposes of section 10 of this Ordinance, be treated as if it were an order of that court of summary jurisdiction and not of the Supreme Court.

(5) The powers conferred on the Supreme Court by this section shall be without prejudice to the powers of that court on an appeal under section 13 of this Ordinance from the refusal of an interim order by a court of summary jurisdiction.

9. (1) Where a matrimonial or interim order is made while the parties to the marriage in question are cohabiting —

Suspension or cessation of order.

- (a) the order shall not be enforceable and no liability shall accrue thereunder until they have ceased to cohabit; and
- (b) if in the case of a matrimonial order they continue to cohabit for the period of three months beginning with the date of the making of the order, the order shall cease to have effect at the expiration of that period:

Provided that, unless the court in making the order directs otherwise, this subsection shall not apply to any provision of the order —

- (i) committing a child to the legal custody of a person other than one of the parties, or for access to that child by either of the parties or by any other person who is a parent of the child; or
- (ii) providing for a child to be under the supervision of a probation officer; or
- (iii) for the making by either or each of the parties to a person other than one of the parties of payments for the maintenance of a child.

(2) Without prejudice to section 10 of this Ordinance, any provision of a matrimonial or interim order other than such a provision as is referred to in the proviso to the foregoing subsection shall cease to have effect upon the parties to the marriage in question resuming cohabitation.

(3) Where after the making by a court of summary jurisdiction of —

- (a) a matrimonial order consisting of or including a provision such as is mentioned in paragraphs (b), (c) or (g) of subsection (1) of section 4 of this Ordinance; or
- (b) an interim order, proceedings between, and relating to the marriage of, the parties to the proceedings in which that order was made have been commenced in the Supreme Court, the Supreme Court may, if it thinks fit, direct that the said provision or, as the case may be, the interim order shall cease to have effect on such date as the Supreme Court may specify.

10. (1) Subject to section 6 of this Ordinance, section 53 of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952 (which provides for the revocation, revival or variation, by order on complaint, of an order of a court of summary jurisdiction for the periodical payment of money) and the proviso to subsection (1) of section 55 of that Act (which relates to costs on the hearing of such a complaint) shall apply for the purpose of the revocation, revival or variation of any matrimonial or interim order as if that order were an order for the periodical payment of money, whether or not it is in fact such an order; and a complaint for the said purpose may be heard whatever the time at which it is made; and for the avoidance of doubt it is hereby declared that for the purposes of this Ordinance the expression "variation" in relation to any order includes the addition to that order of any provision authorised by this Ordinance to be included in such an order:

Revocation, revival and variation of orders.

Provided that, without prejudice to the powers and duties of the court under section 6 of this Ordinance, nothing in this section shall authorise the making of a complaint —

- (a) for the variation of an order by the addition of a provision that a child be under the supervision of a probation officer; or
- (b) for the revival of any such provision as aforesaid which has ceased to be in force.

(2) Where on a complaint for the revocation of a matrimonial order it is proved that the parties to the marriage in question have resumed cohabitation or that the party on whose complaint the order was made has during the subsistence of the marriage committed an act of adultery, the court shall revoke the order:

Provided that —

- (a) the court shall not be bound by reason of such a resumption of cohabitation to revoke any provision of the order such as is mentioned in the proviso to subsection (1) of section 9 of this Ordinance;
- (b) the court shall not revoke the order by reason of such an act of adultery as aforesaid —
 - (i) except at the request of the person who was the defendant to the proceedings in which the order was made; or
 - (ii) if the court is of the opinion that the person aforesaid has condoned or connived at, or by wilful neglect or misconduct conduced to, that act of adultery, and shall not be bound by reason of that act of adultery to revoke any provision of the order included therein by virtue of paragraphs (d) to (g) of subsection (1) of section 4 of this Ordinance.

(3) The court before which there fall to be heard any proceedings for the variation of a provision for the payment of money contained in a matrimonial or interim order may, if it thinks fit, order that those proceedings and any other proceedings being heard therewith shall be treated for the purposes of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, as domestic proceedings; and that Act shall thereupon have effect accordingly notwithstanding anything in subsection (1) of section 56 thereof; and no appeal shall lie from, or from the refusal of, an order under this subsection.

Complaint for variation, etc., by or against person outside the Colony.

11. (1) It is hereby declared that any jurisdiction conferred on a court by virtue of section 10 of this Ordinance is exercisable notwithstanding that the proceedings are brought by or against a person residing outside the Colony:

Provided that a matrimonial order shall not be varied by the addition of such a provision as is mentioned in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section 4 of this Ordinance if the defendant to the complaint for the variation resides outside the Colony.

(2) Where, at the time and place appointed for the hearing of a complaint by virtue of section 10 of this Ordinance, the defendant does not appear but —

- (a) the court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that the defendant has been outside the Colony during the whole of the period beginning one month before the making of the complaint and ending with the date of the hearing; and
- (b) it is proved to the satisfaction of the court, on oath, or in such other manner as may be prescribed, that such steps have been taken as may be prescribed with a view to giving notice to the defendant of the making of the complaint and of the time and place aforesaid, the court may, if it thinks it reasonable in all the circumstances so to do, proceed to hear and determine the complaint at the time and place appointed for the hearing or for any adjourned hearing in like manner as if the defendant had appeared at that time and place.

(3) Where a complaint for the revocation or variation of any provision for the making of payments by the complainant to the defendant is heard by virtue of subsection (2) of this section in the absence of the defendant, and the court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that during the period of six months immediately preceding the making of the complaint the defendant was continuously outside the Colony or was not in the Colony on more than thirty days, then, if in all the circumstances, and having regard to any communication to the court in writing purporting to be from the defendant, the court thinks it reasonable so to do, the court may make the order for which the complaint is made or make such variation in that provision by way of reducing the amount of the payments as the court thinks fit.

(4) For the purposes of the hearing by virtue of subsection (2) of this section, in the absence of the defendant, of a complaint for the revocation or variation of a matrimonial order under which payments fall to be made by the complainant to the defendant through a court of summary jurisdiction, a certificate in writing by an officer of the court dated not earlier than ten days before the date of the hearing and stating that, during the period mentioned in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section (or so much as precedes the date of the certificate) or, as the case may be, during the period mentioned in subsection (3) of this section —

- (a) every payment made under the order has been forwarded by the court collecting officer to an address outside the Colony; and
- (b) the defendant has not to the knowledge of the court collecting officer been in the Colony at any time or, in the case of the period mentioned in the said subsection (3), on more than thirty days, shall be sufficient evidence that there is reason to believe as mentioned in paragraph (a) of the said subsection (2) or, as the case may be, in the said subsection (3).

(5) Nothing in this section shall be construed as authorising the making of an order by virtue of section 10 of this Ordinance against a person residing outside the Colony for the inclusion in a matrimonial or interim order of any provision requiring payments to be made by that person exceeding in amount those, if any, required to be made by him under the order sought to be varied, unless the order by virtue of the said section 10 is made at a hearing at which either that person appears or the requirements of subsection (3) of section 47 of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, with respect to proof of service of summons or appearance on a previous occasion are satisfied in respect of that person.

12. (1) A complaint by virtue of section 10 of this Ordinance for the revocation, revival or variation of a matrimonial or interim order may be made in the following cases by the following persons in addition to the parties to the marriage in question, that is to say —

Parties to complaint for variation etc.

- (a) where a child of the family is not a child of both the parties to the marriage, a complaint relating to any provision with respect to the child such as is mentioned in paragraphs (d) or (f) of subsection (1) of section 4 of this Ordinance may be made by any person who, though not one of the parties to the marriage, is a parent of the child;
- (b) a complaint relating to payments under the order such as are mentioned in paragraph (g) of the said subsection (1) may be made by any person to whom such payments fall, or upon the making of the order for which the complaint is made would fall, to be made;
- (c) where under the order a child is for the time being committed to the legal custody of some person other than one of the parents, a complaint relating to any provision with respect to the child such as is mentioned in the said paragraphs (d) or (f) may be made by any person to whose legal custody the child is committed by the order or who seeks the legal custody of the child by the complaint;
- (d) where under the order a child is for the time being under the supervision of a probation officer, the probation officer may make a complaint relating to any provision with respect to the child such as is mentioned in the said paragraphs (d), (f) and (g);

- (e) a complaint for the variation or revocation of a provision of the order that a child be under the supervision of a probation officer, may be made by a probation officer, or by any person to whose legal custody the child is for the time being committed by the order or who by the same complaint also seeks the legal custody of the child.

(2) Provision may be made by rules as to what persons shall be made defendants to any such complaint as aforesaid; and where in the case of any such complaint there are two or more defendants, the powers of the court under subsection (1) of section 55 of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, shall be deemed to include power, whatever adjudication the court makes on the complaint, to order any of the parties to pay the whole or part of the costs of all or any of the other parties.

Appeals.

13. (1) Subject to section 7, subsection (2) of section 8 and subsection (3) of section 10 of this Ordinance, an appeal shall lie to the Supreme Court from, and from the refusal or revocation of, or a refusal to revoke, a matrimonial or interim order by a court of summary jurisdiction.

(2) Subject to subsection (3) of this section, any order of the Supreme Court on an appeal under this section shall for the purposes of the enforcement of the order and for the purposes of section 10 of this Ordinance be treated as if it were an order of the court of summary jurisdiction from which the appeal was brought and not of the Supreme Court.

(3) The last foregoing subsection shall not apply to an order directing that a complaint shall be re-heard by a court of summary jurisdiction or, without prejudice to the provisions of subsection (4) of section 8 of this Ordinance, to an order to which the said subsection (4) applies.

Time limit for complaint on ground of adultery.

14. (1) A complaint under section 3 of this Ordinance on the ground of the commission of an act of adultery by the defendant may be heard if it is made within six months of the date when that act of adultery first became known to the complainant.

(2) Such a complaint as aforesaid shall not be dismissed by reason only that it was not made within the six months allowed by the foregoing subsection if the court is satisfied that the complainant, on the date of the making of the complaint, had not been in the Colony for a continuous period of three months since the date of his return to the Colony after the expiration of the six said months or, if he was in the Colony at the expiration of those six months, the date of his last return to the Colony during those six months.

Enforcement etc.

15. (1) Without prejudice to section 52 of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, the court making an order by virtue of this Ordinance for payment of a periodical sum by one person to another may direct that it shall be paid through the court or to some third party on that other person's behalf instead of directly to that other person; and, for the purposes of any order made by virtue of this Ordinance, the said section 52 shall have effect as if, in subsection (2) thereof, for the words "the applicant for the order" in the first place where those words occur there were substituted the words "the person to whom the payments under the order fall to be made".

(2) Where an order made by virtue of this Ordinance contains a provision committing a child to the legal custody of any person, a copy of the order may be served on any other person in whose actual custody the child for the time being is; and thereupon that provision without prejudice to any other remedy which may be available, be enforced under subsection (3) of section 54 of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, as if it were an order of the court requiring that other person to give up the child to the person to whom the legal custody of the child is committed.

(3) Any person for the time being under an obligation to make payments under any order made in proceedings brought by virtue of this Ordinance shall give notice to such persons, if any, as may be specified in the order of any change of address; and any person who without reasonable excuse fails to comply with this subsection shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £5.

16. The Governor in Council may make Rules —

Rules.

- (a) prescribing the manner of, and the practice and procedure to be followed in, appeals to the Supreme Court under this Ordinance;
- (b) prescribing anything which may be prescribed;
- (c) generally for the better carrying out of the purposes and provisions of this Ordinance.

17. The Imperial enactments set out in the first column of the Schedule shall, to the extent specified in the second column thereof, cease to apply in the Colony.

Cessation of application.

The Fugitive Offenders (Extension) Order 1967

Made - - - 31st August 1967
Laid before Parliament 1st September 1967
Coming into Operation 2nd September 1967

At the Court at Balmoral, the 31st day of August 1967

Present,

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council

Her Majesty, in exercise of the powers conferred upon Her by sections 17 and 20 of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 (a), is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows—

1. (1) This Order may be cited as the Fugitive Offenders (Extension) Order 1967.

Citation, commencement and application.

(2) This Order shall come into operation on 2nd September 1967.

(3) In its application to the New Hebrides and Swaziland this Order shall have effect to the extent only of Her Majesty's jurisdiction.

2. (1) In this Order—

Interpretation.

“Act” means the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967;

“country” includes any territory;

“dealt with” means tried or returned or surrendered to any country or detained with a view to trial or with a view to such return or surrender;

“Governor” in relation to any country other than a country mentioned in subsection (2) of this section means the person or persons administering the government of that country;

“Schedule 2” means Schedule 2 to this Order;

“United Kingdom dependency” means—

- (a) any colony (not being a colony for whose external relations a country other than the United Kingdom is responsible);
- (b) any associated state within the meaning of the West Indies Act 1967 (b); and
- (c) any country outside Her Majesty's dominions (being a country in which Her Majesty has jurisdiction, or over which She extends protection, in right of Her Government in the United Kingdom) to which Her Majesty has by Order in Council, whether before or after the commencement of this Order, applied section 2 (2) of the Act, not being in any case a country which is or forms part of a designated Commonwealth country.

(b) 1967 c. 4.

(2) In this Order references to Governor shall be construed—

- (a) in relation to the New Hebrides as references to Her Majesty's High Commissioner for the Western Pacific and, to the extent that authority to perform functions under Schedule 1 to this Order may be assigned by the High Commissioner to the Resident Commissioner for the New Hebrides, to the Resident Commissioner;
- (b) in relation to Swaziland as references to Her Majesty's Commissioner for Swaziland.

(3) Where Her Majesty has by Order in Council, whether before or after the commencement of this Order, designated for the purposes of section 1 of the Act any country for the time being mentioned in section 1 (3) of the British Nationality Act 1948 (a) (countries having separate citizenship), or any other country within the Commonwealth, that country shall, unless it is otherwise provided by order of the Governor, be a designated Commonwealth country for the purposes of this Order; and any country so designated is in this Order referred to as a designated Commonwealth country.

(4) The Interpretation Act 1889 (b) shall apply, with the necessary adaptations, for the purpose of interpreting this Order and otherwise in relation thereto as it applies for the purpose of interpreting, and in relation to, Acts of Parliament.

Extension of section 14 of Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 to certain territories.

3. Section 14 of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 as modified and adapted in Schedule 1 hereto shall extend to the territories specified in Schedule 2.

W. G. Agnew.

Section 3.

SCHEDULE 1

Restriction upon proceedings for other offences.

14. (1) This section applies to any person accused or convicted of an offence under the law of or of any part of any territory specified in Schedule 2 who is returned to the territory—

- (a) from the United Kingdom, under the Act;
- (b) from any designated Commonwealth country or from the Republic of Ireland under any law of that country corresponding with the Act;
- (c) from any United Kingdom dependency, under the Act as extended to that dependency or under any corresponding law of that dependency.

(2) A person to whom this section applies shall not, during the period described in subsection (3) of this section, be dealt with in the territory for or in respect of any offence committed before he was returned to the territory other than—

- (a) the offence in respect of which he was returned;
- (b) any lesser offence proved by the facts proved for the purposes of securing his return; or
- (c) any other offence in respect of which the Government of the country or Governor of the dependency from which he was returned may consent to his being dealt with.

(3) The period referred to in subsection (2) of this section in relation to a person to whom this section applies is the period beginning with the day of his arrival in the territory on his return as mentioned in subsection (1) of this section and ending ninety days after the first subsequent day on which he has the opportunity to leave the territory.

(a) 1948 c. 56.

(b) 1889 c. 63.

K.C.M.G., M.B.E.) presiding.

Present

The Honourable the Colonial Secretary, (Mr. W.H. Thompson, M.B.E.)
The Honourable the Colonial Treasurer, (Mr. L.C. Gleadell, J.P.)
The Honourable Mr. R.V. Goss, M.L.C., (First Elected Member for Stanley)
The Honourable Mr. G.C.R. Bonner, M.L.C., J.P., (Nominated Independent Member for East Falkland)
The Honourable Mr. S. Miller, M.L.C., J.P., (Elected Member for West Falkland)
The Honourable Mr. F.J. Cheek, M.L.C., (Second Elected Member for Stanley)
The Honourable Mrs. M. Vinson, M.L.C., (Elected Member for East Falkland)

Prayer

The prayer was read by the Reverend P.J. Millan.

Confirmation of Minutes

The Minutes of the meeting of Legislative Council held on 4th, 5th, 6th and 8th May 1967 were confirmed.

Address by the President

Honourable Members:

I should like to welcome you to this meeting of Council, the last, I am sorry to say, in the life of the present legislature. As Honourable Members are aware, it is proposed to hold our general elections in March and although that is still some months ahead I feel that on this present occasion it is appropriate for me to thank all present members of Council who have so generously given of their time in the public interest.

I sometimes wonder to what extent it is realized that elected and nominated independent members undertake a considerable amount of work, all of it voluntary, on behalf of their constituents and for the good of the Colony in general. We are indeed fortunate that the tradition of public service is well established in the Falkland Islands.

I understand that perhaps some members may not be standing again for election but, until such time as the date for nominations has passed, it would be inappropriate for me to refer to this specifically. We do however know that we shall with regret miss, when next we meet, the Honourable Nominated Independent Member for East Falkland, Mr. Bonner, and I should like in this Chamber formally to thank him for the public spirited service which he has given to this Council over the past seven years.

The principal function of the Legislative Council, as its name implies, is to legislate and I think that this Council can look back over the past $3\frac{1}{2}$ years with a degree of satisfaction in that, not only has a great deal of amending legislation been enacted to bring our laws up to date but a number of really important measures have been passed. I would like here to thank those who have spent much time and care in attending to the drafting of this legislation.

This Council also acts as a very necessary watchdog over the public purse, by virtue of its essential role in approving the annual estimates and scrutinizing applications for supplementary expenditure through its Standing Finance Committee.

Another important function of the Council is that it is in debate in this Chamber that it can express its agreement or disagreement with various propositions concerning topics of public importance which are placed before it in the form of motions, or which are raised by individual members as questions, or in debate upon the motion for the adjournment of the Council.

In all these ways within the House and in many others outside, Honourable Members can rightly feel that they make an essential contribution to the government of the Colony.

Turning now to another subject, Honourable Members will have received copies of the report by Mr. Guillebaud, whose terms of reference were "to conduct an economic survey of the Falkland Islands". I feel that his report provides us with an authoritative statement of facts as seen through the eyes of an experienced - indeed an eminent - man who is completely independent and thus free to speak and write as he wishes. Mr. Guillebaud has commented on a number of aspects of the farming industry in the Colony, the fertility of the soil, and the prospects for diversification of the economy. He has examined the national income and the balance of payments and he has made observations regarding the standard of living, levels of remuneration, the public finances and the state of the population.

In addition to conducting an economic survey, Mr. Guillebaud was asked to make any recommendations which in his view would be in the interests of the economy of the Islands and their inhabitants, and his recommendations concern a variety of subjects, including particularly incentives for agricultural improvement.

A foreword has been included in each copy of the report stating that publication by the Government is not to be taken to imply agreement or acceptance by the Government of all or any part of the report or of any of the recommendations made in it. The views expressed are Mr. Guillebaud's own. However, I hope that the report will be studied seriously. Every aspect of it will most certainly be closely examined by the Government and will form the basis of action to the extent that is appropriate to our needs.

A limited number of unbound copies of the report have been received from London and will be available to members of the public after binding.

When I addressed Council in May, I mentioned our hope to improve the facilities offered by the Savings Bank; our Legal Adviser, Sir Hubert Flaxman, whom I had the pleasure of meeting in London, has provided us with his suggestions for legislation. These are being studied and are likely to form a subject for discussion at the first meeting of Council next year.

Beyond our borders, talks between the British and Argentine Governments have continued on a confidential basis and are still continuing. As I said in May, restoration of communications and freedom of movement between Argentina and the Falkland Islands seems a necessary first step to a relaxation of tension. Until this can be achieved, I do not see very much chance of progress. I spoke at length on this subject at our last meeting and I have nothing today to add to what I said then.

I would end my remarks by referring to a subject which is much in our minds, namely, the comparatively poor prices which have been realized at recent wool sales and the tendency for world wool prices to drop. This tendency I fear, if unchecked, must have a serious effect on the economy of the Colony. Although we hope that the effect will not be felt immediately here, we can predict with some accuracy that, as far as the Government is concerned, internal revenue is likely to be reduced in 1969 and 1970. It must therefore be our endeavour to take every possible step which common sense dictates to cushion the effect of this disagreeable trend in wool prices.

At our last meeting I said that because of our comparatively satisfactory financial position we have a little time in hand in which to plan. The value of time, as I reminded Council, depends on how intelligently it is employed and it will certainly be the endeavour of the Government - as indeed of the Colony as a whole - to meet this situation, of which we have due warning, with sane and sensible measures. In achieving success, the deliberations of this Council will play a most important role.

QUESTION FOR ORAL REPLY

The Nominated Independent Member for West Falkland: Is it the intention of Government that the valuation of allowances in kind shall remain at those figures acceptable for the year of assessment ending 31st December 1966? Further, that this valuation shall not be changed until the Income Tax Ordinance has been amended to allow Legislative Council to fix these levels?

The Colonial Secretary: It is intended that for the purposes of income tax assessment for the year 1967, based on the earnings for 1966, the value of allowances in kind shall remain unchanged. Honourable Members will appreciate that the re-examination of the whole ordinance is a matter of considerable complexity. The Commissioner of Income Tax undoubtedly needs clear instructions, in the form of legislation, as to what he is required to do.

Naturally I cannot commit the Members of the next Council to any particular course of action, but in the interim period I cannot envisage a situation arising that will involve any change.

RESOLUTION

The Colonial Treasurer moved the adoption of the following Resolution:

"BE IT RESOLVED that the Report of the Standing Finance Committee for the period May 1967 to September 1967 be adopted."

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the motion was put and carried.

BILLS

The Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Bill

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, this Bill is now up for the second reading and I shall do no more than outline the proposals. They are very simple and they are these:

That the special rate of contributions by and on behalf of contributors between the ages of 18 and 21 years be abolished. That the contribution required of every employed person between the ages of 18 and 60 years be increased to 5/3d per week. That the contribution required of every employer of an employed contributor between the ages of 18 and 60 years be increased to 6/9d per week. That every self employed person between the ages of 18 and 60 years be required to contribute at the rate of 12/- per week and that pensions be increased from 52/- per week to 93/- per week for a married man and from 26/- per week to 46/- per week for unmarried men and other persons considered for the purposes of the ordinance to be unmarried.

One other factor that goes with this but is not part of the Bill is that existing pensioners and fully paid-up contributors will receive the increased pensions with effect from the date on which the ordinance comes into force and that the cost of these increases shall be borne by the public revenue. The Old Age Pensions Equalization Fund will only bear the cost of increased pensions where the contributor has in fact paid at these proposed higher rates.

I beg to move the second reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded the motion

Mr. Goss: Your Excellency, at the end of May 1967 by courtesy of the Union, I issued a circular on the proposed amendments in old age pensions contributions and the object of this circular was to assist in presenting the facts of the proposed amendments to enable each individual to quietly study them and comment on them accordingly if they so desired. I have received quite a response from members in the camp and the response is favourable towards the proposed amendments. I have heard no dissenting voice at all. There is, however, one point which was brought out throughout this correspondence and that is a request that Government consider reducing the pensionable age from 65 to 60 years, it being considered rather unfair to life in the Colony - the rather hard working life that people have - that on reaching the age of 60 years that persons should have to wait a further five years before receiving a pension. This arises from members in the camp, from the members of the National Progressive Party and lastly but by no means leastly from the members of the Stanley Benefit Club. I would therefore suggest, Sir, in support of these requests that I have received that our next move in improving the old age pension scheme should be with this particular request in mind.

The President: Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak? (pause)
In the absence of any further speakers the Bill will now be read a second time.

The Bill was read accordingly and passed through all its committee stages without amendment.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill was read a third time and passed. (see continuation on page 12)

The Police Bill

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, a very well know citizen said in my hearing the other day that he was astounded the Government should waste its time writing long unnecessary laws such as "this new thing for the Police".

How wrong that person was and how necessary it is that we have adequate legislation for our Police Force. How far can the police go in dealing with the public? What rights have the public in respect of the police? What protection has the poor policeman from a sometimes unreasonable public? These and many other points are answered in this Bill wherein the objects of our Police Force are laid down: and what important objects they are. The preservation of the peace; the maintenance of law and order; the prevention and detection of crime; the apprehension and guarding of offenders; and the protection of all property.

Powers of the Officer in Charge: the status, duties, privileges and immunities of the force are laid down. Police officers are for the first time under our law fully protected when they perform duties in obedience to warrants issued to them.

Under clause 13 of the Bill duties are set out in full and the Officer in Charge of the force given adequate powers to see that these duties are carried out.

The Bill envisages impartiality and neutrality of force members in matters of association.

The Officer in Charge is given clear direction as to the orders he may issue.

In clauses 22 to 27 police officers are shown the conditions under which they serve.

Matters of discipline are fully explained.

In Part 4 the disposal of public property is laid down. Hitherto this has not been covered in our law.

Whenever a new Bill, to which Regulations are attached, is published, those Regulations appear in the Official Gazette at the same time. The object of this is to make it clear to everyone concerned what the intentions of Government are in respect of the Bill. Although this House does not approve Regulations, Members are perfectly at liberty to draw the attention of Government to any or all of the Regulations which they may consider to be wrong or unsuitable in any way. Honourable Members will, I know, already have studied the Regulations as printed and I think they will agree that they are comprehensive. I am particularly pleased to be able to draw attention to Part 5 of the Regulations, which deals with complaints against the police. So far we have had no such legislation. This is not to say that complaints have not been dealt with, but life is always easier if guidance is provided when unpleasant matters are raised (and complaints are nearly always unpleasant matters).

Honourable Members have already approved comprehensive prisons' legislation and if they will approve this Bill they will be providing matching law in respect of the police.

Within the last year we have had the case of a Mr. Napier who on return to England gave us a very bad press, suggesting that the Falkland Islands are a jackboot police state. This shows how necessary it is to have everything down in black and white. Just in case anyone should think Mr. Napier had a case, let me say that there was not one grain of truth in his accusations.

Earlier this year it gave all Members of this House great pleasure to provide the wherewithal for the appointment of a Falkland Islander to head our Police Force. We wish him well and may he find in this new legislation support and guidance.

I would like to draw attention to the regrettable fact that over the last year there has been a disturbing amount of theft, much of it on a large scale. The Police Force have acted commendably and several persons connected with theft and the receiving of stolen property have appeared before the courts. In a community as small as this, this does not make the Police Force particularly popular in some quarters. However, to safeguard the public these unpleasant jobs have to be done, and, in doing them, the police need our reasonable protection.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time. On further motion made and seconded the Bill was read a second time.

During the committee stage the following amendment was agreed to:-

Clause 31(2) line 4 - amend the words "liable to conviction" to read "liable on conviction"

The Bill was then read a third time and passed.

The Matrimonial Proceedings (Court of Summary Jurisdiction) Bill

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, in the quiet and unheralded working of our courts matrimonial causes take up a lot of time. Hitherto we have not had our own legislation and we have relied upon Imperial enactments. No less than six of these enactments apply and anyone who is not a skilled lawyer and used to reading complicated law, is, to use a non parliamentary phrase, in a hell of a mess.

This Bill, which is based on the latest available British legislation, supersedes the offending enactments and brings together in one folio provision for the conduct of matrimonial proceedings and connecting matters.

The principal points are -

Firstly; the relief available to a husband is made substantially the same as that available to a wife. It used to be that a wife could claim relief from a husband but not a husband from a wife. Those who support the equality of women should note this major victory; we men now smile contentedly at the thought of being maintained by our erring wives.

Secondly; Courts are given power to order wives to pay maintenance for children and in certain circumstances for the husband. It might interest Members to know that we have had cases here where mothers have virtually abandoned their children and refused to take cognizance of them.

Thirdly; an important addition is the inclusion of a child as one of the family when the child of one party to a marriage has been accepted by the other party.

Fourthly; the court's powers and duties in the interests of children are widened and I would like it stressed just how important this is in the local context.

Fifthly; where an order is made while the parties are living together under the same roof, the order is to be suspended and will ultimately cease to have effect only if they continue to cohabit (and not merely if they continue so to live).

Sixthly; the court is in certain circumstances given power to revoke or vary an order for maintenance if the party in whose favour it is made is living abroad.

Seventhly; increases in the weekly maintenance payments from £5 to £7. 10. 0d. in respect of a spouse and from £1. 10. 0d. to £2. 10. 0d. in respect of any one child. These increases represent the limits of award and are in line with the present cost of living.

If Honourable Members should reject this Bill we shall continue to operate under the applied Acts which are listed on the last page of the Bill, but they are not up to date nor do they give our courts the freedom and powers we consider necessary.

Matrimonial proceedings are never nice and nearly always very painful and we should have at our finger tips the best available law and I am sure that this Bill is the best available law.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded the motion and the Bill was read accordingly.

On further motion made and seconded, the Bill received its second reading.

The Bill then passed through its committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

The Non - Contributory Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Bill

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, this is the ordinance that provides small pensions for those persons who are excluded from the benefits of the contributory scheme. From time to time we come across people in various categories who are new to us and for whom there is no provision and this Bill is no exception to that trend. The people we are now wishing to extend the benefits of the Non-Contributory Ordinance to are these: spinsters who have attained the age of 65 years before the 1st July 1970 and widows whose husbands were alive at the time of the introduction of the contributory scheme but who died and whose contributions were refunded, so that these widows are now without benefits from either scheme. The intention is to give them the benefits of the non-contributory scheme.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded the motion and the Bill was read a first time.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill received its second reading and entered its committee stage.

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, I could add perhaps that the reason for stipulating the date 1st July 1970 for spinsters who should reach the age of 65 years before that date is simply that any spinster who reaches 65 years of age after that date, will of course benefit from the contributory scheme.

The Bill then proceeded to pass through all its committee stages and was subsequently read a third time and committed.

The Immigration (Amendment) Bill

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, Honourable Members will recall the passing of the Immigration Ordinance, 1965 and the debate in this Chamber. It is a pleasure to report that the ordinance has worked well in all but one respect. I am referring to a defect which has become apparent with the passage of time. It concerns the issue of employment permits. As the law stands an employment permit may be issued to any immigrant who has entered into a contract of service with an employer to be performed in the Colony, and it entitles the holder thereof to enter the Colony and remain herein for such period as shall be stated on the permit. This appears to be clear enough but unfortunately the next sub-paragraph in the original ordinance was so drafted as to make it appear that if an immigrant had not had his permit cancelled within one month of landing he could stay here for ever. This was never our intention. Obviously we must have a hold over persons who break their contracts or who make themselves undesirable.

This Bill makes our intention clear. If a person fails to enter the job for which a permit has been granted, or if he leaves the employment in respect of which it was issued, we reserve our right to insist that the person concerned should make a new application.

Naturally if the circumstances should arise where an application is refused it must become an offence to employ the person, and an amendment to the list of offences has been included.

There is also one minor amendment which puts right an original drafting error which is of no legal importance whatsoever.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

Mr. Goss seconded the motion and the Bill was read accordingly.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill received its second reading.

The Bill then passed through committee and was read a third time and passed.

The Supplementary Appropriation (1966/67) Bill

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, there is a schedule to this Bill in which the heads of expenditure are set out where the amounts of expenditure exceeded the amount provided by the Appropriation Ordinance which was passed for the year of account 1966/67. The total is £44,413 but that does not mean of course that we spent £44,413 more than we intended. Other heads showed savings and the net expenditure over the original estimate was only £4,307. All of this expenditure has been examined quite closely by the Standing Finance Committee and reported to Council at various times.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded. The Bill was read a first time and on further motion made and seconded, was read a second time.

The Bill passed its committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and committed.

The Education Bill

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, it is my pleasure to present for the approval of this House a new Education Bill. When I first arrived here I made up my mind that something needed to be done about the very scanty, un-informative and out-of date legislation then standing.

The Bill now submitted is entirely home-grown and does, I feel, take into account all that is needed to give us a modern legal framework on which to base our educational system.

The Bill and Regulations have been examined by our legal adviser and the legal and educational advisers of the Commonwealth Office. It might interest Honourable Members to know that the Commonwealth Office consider them to be fully comprehensive and well suited to our needs.

What is more important, all members of the education committee of this Legislature have discussed them and had access to drafts and re-drafts for some time now. They have all given their blessing. When we were last in committee no member could think of anything more to add or take away from the versions published in the Gazette.

This, I think, is an appropriate moment to say that our education committee has been a great success. Although the committee will die on the dissolution of this House, a new one will be formed when the new Legislature meets and I hope the members of it will be as interested and as diligent as the members of the present one have been. The driving force provided by the committee and the fact that the Superintendent of Education knows that he can seek and receive positive guidance from this House has done much good. There is still a long way to go, but I am sure we are on the right road and that this Bill is one of the signposts along that road.

The first part of the Bill is an improved version of the existing ordinance and does not appear to require any particular explanation.

The second part, which deals with scholarships and bursaries, makes legal and emphasises the continuing need for a board of persons to make recommendations in respect of scholarships and bursaries which, as most people know, mainly concern education overseas. However, members of your education committee feel it is high time we started thinking about providing competitive scholarships to Darwin Boarding School for those children in camp who have wide awake parents. It is distressing that in camp there are still a few parents who do not appear to care sufficiently for education and who refuse to let their children go to the Darwin Boarding School. Let me say in a loud voice that even our little world is not standing still and any parent who fails to encourage his or her child to the maximum effort in the field of education is doing the child a gross disservice. When tucked away in a remote camp house it may seem that education is unnecessary but believe me it is vitally necessary. The Falklands cannot stay still. The past, whether we like it or not, has gone; it is but a memory. The present is but a fleeting breath and only the future counts. Unless there are skills, the skills developed by the consciousness of an educated society, no person will be able to last the course.

Before I leave scholarships and bursaries I would like to pay tribute to three people who have served willingly and without publicity on the hitherto almost unknown scholarships' board. They are Mrs. Volma Malcolm, Mrs. Connie Luxton (I am sure she will not mind me referring to her as Mrs. Connie) and Monsignor James Ireland. It has been my pleasure to sit with them and take their advice. Over the years they have taken their task very seriously, extremely efficiently and with absolute fairness. I hope that we shall continue to have the benefit of their invaluable assistance.

The third part of the Bill lays down penalties and lists the Regulations which the Governor in Council may make. This list is comprehensive and requires no explanation.

One major change is that the power to raise the school leaving age no longer rests with the Governor in Council. You will see in the second clause of the Bill that a "child" is defined as "any person who has attained the age of five years and has not attained the age of fifteen years". A change of school age means a change of that definition; a process which must be the subject of consideration in this Chamber.

Comprehensive Regulations will be promulgated as soon as the Bill becomes law and, in accordance with custom, the intended Regulations have appeared in the Official Gazette for all to see.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded the motion and the Bill was read accordingly.

The Colonial Secretary seconded by the Colonial Treasurer, moved the second reading.

Mrs. Vinson: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, I have looked over this Bill at great length as it has been one of my biggest interests in the Falklands.

I notice in Part I, the Boarding School at Darwin should be entered after attaining the age of seven years. Now, I may be a little ahead of time here, but it has been suggested that the age should be nine years. I wonder if that could be altered to "nine years or not less than seven if vacancies exist". There has been a lot of thought and time given to education lately and the camp has been very much in everybody's thoughts, especially as this seminar we've had where the young people attending gave a great deal of help over camp education. Stanley, I am not dealing with because it has a more straight forward school and has regular hours every day.

That brings me to the Regulations and the hours of attendance. Darwin Boarding School at the moment has a period from 9 till 12.45 with a half hour break for their 'smoko'. I don't really feel that that should be altered. Also they do a Saturday morning period from 9 till 10.45. The children have longer holidays and they are in the building. It seems over the period of ten years in which the school has been in existence that those hours are very suitable. I feel it is as well to voice this opinion in Council.

The school year at Darwin Boarding School has been divided into periods of twelve, eleven and fourteen weeks. I know this has been thought about quite a lot, but it is suggested that twelve, twelve and thirteen weeks might be better. A fourteen week term seems very long.

I hope the Colonial Secretary doesn't feel that I am too much of a nuisance over this, but feel that we might settle these small problems now rather than bring them up later.

Mr. Miller: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, one of the points my Honourable Friend has raised is the school hours which she brought to my notice this morning. Unfortunately by an oversight, I do not appear to have been issued with a copy of the Regulations and so I had not noticed the hours. Although I have no objection to the school hours as they stand, it would seem to me a little odd and perhaps a little dangerous if the hours are going to be laid down in the Regulations that they should be different for Darwin Boarding School. I don't think I am exaggerating, if there is an irate or an annoyed mother at Darwin that goes striding across the green at Darwin to the Boarding School where they go on much longer, wrenches the door open, holds out a watch and says "Five past twelve. My kids out!" I don't know what the teacher could do except let them go out. On the other hand the teacher may have the same views. He may bang on his desk and say "Well it's twelve o'clock, you can go." I think it's something we should be careful about Sir, because somebody might be feeling a little annoyed and cause a lot of trouble. I'm only suggesting that these Regulations should be carefully scrutinized so that there are no loopholes.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, straight away let me say that Mrs. Vinson is never a nuisance. What has been said both by the Honourable Mrs. Vinson and the Honourable Mr. Miller is common sense and I will take these reasonable points as they come up.

The education committee feels very strongly, and I agree with my fellow members of the committee, that the time has come to alter the age qualifications for Darwin Boarding School but it requires a certain amount of planning. The Superintendent of Education, who has just returned from leave, has been told that he has to plan for a change. He is convinced that within a year he can make the necessary arrangements for an alteration of the age for Darwin Boarding School. If I remember some of our early discussions in committee correctly, I think we agreed with either the Superintendent of Education or during his absence, the Acting Superintendent of Education, that a period of grace should be given. We also felt, and I stand to be corrected by the Honourable Member, that we would have to prepare public opinion for a change of this nature. But we certainly think that the ages for entry to Darwin Boarding School should be altered. This ties up with basic camp education and the seminar, when all the camp teachers came together at Darwin Boarding School for three days of talking over their problems. All camp education must now be angled to Darwin Boarding School. The declared aim of camp education is to prepare children to go to boarding school. This will take time to work out but I provisionally accept a change in the entry age to Darwin Boarding School. I would ask that as far as this particular Bill be concerned, we do not attempt an amendment at this stage. It needs to come forward with all the pros and cons laid down and go through the process, (tiresome as it may be) of a short amending Bill. I would ask the Honourable Member whether she would accept that having declared the aim to change the entry age of pupils to Darwin Boarding School she would be content to leave it there for the time being. She has my assurance that we are pressing on with the practical study of this problem.

The seminar was a success and there will now be an annual meeting for camp teachers and I hope there will come a time when we can have a get-together of all teachers. But never let it be said, if we do have a get-together of all teachers, that Stanley educational matters have swamped those of camp. We are convinced that the camp seminar must remain a separate entity.

In my very first draft, I omitted times because they change so much. But for some reason which I cannot now remember, we came back to stating times and I accept that Part I of the Regulations, where they deal with times and terms, should be re-drafted. If we do have to insert times we will provide variation clauses, but it may not be necessary to state any times at all. We may be able to make provision for administrative direction which might get around the problem. I agree with Honourable Members that the Regulations as drafted now appear to be clumsy.

I hope that dispenses the clouds.

I have an apology to make to the Honourable Elected Member for the West Falkland in that he did not receive his copy of the Regulations. I am very sorry.

The President: In view of the fact that the Honourable Elected Member for East Falkland raised a particular point, before we proceed might I enquire whether the Honourable Member is content to accept the Honourable Colonial Secretary's assurance in that particular matter.

Mrs. Vinson: Your Excellency, yes this does clear the point, thank you. I thought it was better to bring it up now, in case we passed it and put into law something which would have to be changed by the new Council.

The Colonial Secretary: I am most grateful to the Honourable Member for raising the matter and we can now follow it along. I am extremely grateful and you know how much I support you in this particular subject.

The Bill was then read a second time.

In committee the Bill passed through all its stages without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

The Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Bill

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, may I rise on a point of order? When the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer introduced the Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Bill, he omitted to refer to the date on which the increased contributions and increased pensions would take effect and in the Bill as printed there is a blank in clause 1 sub section (2) which reads "This Ordinance shall come into force on the" but no date is named.

The Colonial Treasurer explained that the intention was to introduce the new contribution and pension rates on 1st January 1968. After full consideration had been given the Honourable the Colonial Secretary moved the following motion:-

"That the Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Ordinance, 1967 shall come into force on the first day of January 1968"

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the motion was carried.

Motion for Adjournment

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, in rising to move the adjournment of this House, I would like to thank Your Excellency and all Honourable Members for the courtesy, help and goodwill of the last four years and I hope that our next Council will be as pleasant and as helpful as this one has been.

I beg to move that this House stands adjourned.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the motion was put and carried.

The Honourable,
The Colonial Secretary,
Stanley.

Colonial Treasury,
Stanley, Falkland Islands.
23rd September 1967.

Sir,

I have the honour to submit a report on the Government Employees' Provident Fund for the period 1st July 1966, to 30th June 1967, together with the following accounts and statements —

1. Revenue and Expenditure Account.
2. Deposits and Withdrawals Account.
3. Investments Adjustment Account.
4. Reserve Account.
5. Statement of Assets and Liabilities at 30th June 1967.
6. Statement of Investments held at 30th June 1967.

2. Expenditure again exceeded revenue : the deficit was £18 : 8 : 0.

3. One account was closed during the year leaving a total of eighteen active accounts at 30th June 1967. The total amount due to these depositors at 30th June 1967 was £8,449 : 4 : 6.

4. Following a substantial appreciation in the market value of investments when revalued at 30th June 1967 the assets exceed liabilities by the satisfactory margin of £566 : 16 : 5.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

L. GLEADELL,

Intimation has been received from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for Commonwealth Affairs to the effect that Her Majesty will not be advised to exercise her power of disallowance in respect of the following Ordinance of the Colony —

No.	Title	Ref.
1/67	The Employment of Women, Young Persons and Children Ordinance, 1967	2381

PROCLAMATION

No. 1 of 1968.

IN THE NAME of Her Majesty ELIZABETH II., by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith.

W. H. THOMPSON — By His Excellency WILLOUGHBY HARRY THOMPSON,
LS
Esquire, Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, Acting Governor of the Colony of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies.

WHEREAS by the seventh clause of the Letters Patent passed under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom, dated the 13th December, 1948, constituting the office of Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies, it is provided that "whenever the Office of Governor is vacant, or the Governor is absent from the Colony or is from any cause prevented from, or incapable of, acting in the duties of his Office, then such other person as We may appoint under Our Sign Manual and Signet, or if there is no such person in the Colony so appointed and capable of discharging the duties of the administration, the Senior Member of the Executive Council then in the Colony and so capable, shall, during Our pleasure, administer the Government of the Colony".

AND WHEREAS HIS EXCELLENCY SIR COSMO HASKARD, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, has this day left the Colony for the purpose of visiting the United Kingdom.

AND WHEREAS no person has been appointed under the Royal Sign Manual and Signet to administer the Government of this Colony in the absence of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLOUGHBY HARRY THOMPSON, Colonial Secretary of the Falkland Islands, the Senior Member of the Executive Council aforesaid, do hereby proclaim and make known that, in pursuance of the said clause of the said Royal Letters Patent and having taken the oaths prescribed by law, have this day assumed the Administration of the Government of this Colony and its Dependencies.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN

Given at Government House, Stanley, this 24th day of January, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand Nine hundred and Sixty-eight.

By Command of the Acting Governor,

H. L. BOUND,

Assistant Colonial Secretary.

Assented to in Her Majesty's name this 26th day of January 1968.

W. H. THOMPSON,
Acting Governor.

INDEX OF LEGISLATION

The following items appearing in this issue should be entered in the Index of Supplementary Legislation —

- Order No. 4 of 1967. Old Age Pensions (No. 2) Order 1967.
- Dependencies Ordinance No. 1 of 1967. Application of Colony Laws Ordinance 1967.

WAGES AGREEMENT

The following agreement has been reached between the Government, the Falkland Islands Company, Ltd., and the General Employees Union. The agreement shall be effective for a period of one year from the 1st of January, 1968, and shall apply to hourly paid employees in Stanley.

1. Basis of Wage Rates.

Wages shall be adjustable by negotiation except that any changes arising from fluctuations in the cost of living, except as provided below, shall be automatic and date from the first day of the month following the quarter to which a review relates.

In measuring the cost of living for the purpose of wage adjustments an average of the findings of the last four preceding quarters shall be used. Provided this average shall not take into account any changes in the level of taxation already imposed.

(a) CRAFTSMEN.

All Craftsmen shall be paid at the full basic rate and the following trades shall be recognised:—

Carpenters and Joiners	Masons
Blacksmiths	Plumbers
Painters	Electricians
Motor Mechanics

The normal entry to a trade shall be by a full term of apprenticeship, but special arrangements shall be made for the absorption of men already practising trades without previously serving apprenticeships. These arrangements are laid down in the apprenticeship regulations.

(b) HANDYMEN.

This term includes those employees doing skilled or semi-skilled work in one or more trades, but who have not served an apprenticeship nor have been recognised by the Apprenticeship Board. The minimum rate for Handymen shall be three pence more than the Labourer's rate and the maximum three pence less than the Craftsmen's rate.

(c) SLAUGHTERMEN AND LORRY DRIVERS.

Slaughtermen shall be paid one penny more than the Labourer's rate and shall be provided with suitable protective clothing and footwear.

All drivers of petrol, steam or diesel engines, whether stationary or mobile, shall be paid 4d. per hour more than the Labourer's rate. This rate shall be paid for all working hours of the day on which the employee drives, irrespective of the period during which he is actually driving.

2. Prevailing Rates.

Class	Hourly Rate.
1. Tradesmen	5/11d.
2. *Apprentices	1st year 3/2 2nd year 3/6 3rd year 3/10 4th year 4/4 5th year 4/10
3. Handymen	5/- to 5/8 according to ability.
4. Slaughtermen and tradesmen's mates	4/10
5. Lorry Drivers, including men tending stationary engines or boilers	5/1
6. Labourers	Hourly Rate. Age 14-15 2/1d. 15-16 2/6½ 16-17 3/3 17-18 3/10½ 18 and over 4/9

The above hourly rates are minimum and employers may, if they so wish, offer higher rates, incentive bonuses, etc.

Cost of living awards, when authorised, should be paid in full to apprentices and young labourers.

CASUAL LABOUR. There is now no work which justifies a casual labour rate.

* An apprenticeship should not commence before the 15th birthday.

3. Extra Payments.

(a) "DIRT" MONEY.

As a general guide, "Dirt" money should only be paid when the work in hand is substantially dirtier than the work which an employee is normally called upon to do. The normal rate is 4d. per hour, but the precise rate for each job shall be agreed between Employer and Employees.

(b) HAZARDOUS WORK.

Employees working on isolated structures, such as masts, at heights over 20 feet from the ground or where the structure joins the main roof of a building, shall be paid from 9d. to 1/6 per hour according to the risk involved. This does not apply to work on properly erected scaffolding or on roofs where the work can be carried out from a position where the workman's feet are on a secured ladder.

(c) INCONVENIENCE PAY.

Employees required, by the employer, to carry their midday meal shall receive 2/- per day. Employees required to sleep away from home in a recognised camp house or cook-house shall have their board and lodgings paid for by their employer.

(d) EXTRA SKILL OR RESPONSIBILITY.

(i) Any employee specifically detailed to supervise the work of three or more other employees shall receive 3d. per hour extra while taking this responsibility.

(ii) Any labourer employed on semi-skilled work which would normally fall to a Handyman (e.g. painting, fencing, concrete laying) shall receive pay as a Handyman (i.e. a minimum of 3d. per hour extra) while engaged on this work. The precise rate shall be fixed by the employer according to the nature of the work and the skill of the particular labourer so employed.

(e) PAINT SPRAYING.

Employees engaged on paint spraying shall be paid 6d. per hour extra and no other allowance.

4. Working Hours.

The normal working hours shall be 45 hours per week made up as follows :-

Monday to Friday - 7.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. with Dinner break from noon till 1 p.m.

Saturday - 7.30 a.m. to 12.30 p.m.

A refreshment break of fifteen minutes shall be allowed between 08.30 and 09.30 a.m., the precise time being laid down by the employer.

Other hours of work may be laid down by mutual agreement between employers and employees, provided that the total number of hours does not exceed 45 per week.

5. Overtime.

- (a) Overtime shall be paid for all hours worked outside normal working hours and overtime rates shall be as follows :-

TIME AND A HALF.

- (i) Between the end of the normal day and midnight.
- (ii) From 6 a.m. to the start of the normal working day, provided that work did not start before 6 a.m.

DOUBLE TIME.

- (i) Between midnight and 6 a.m.
 - (ii) From 6 a.m. to the start of the normal working day, if work commenced before 6 a.m.
 - (iii) On Sundays and recognised Public Holidays.
 - (iv) For meal hours or parts thereof, if work continues through the normal working day without a full meal-hour break.
 - (v) Double time rates shall also be paid during normal working hours if, exceptionally, an employee starts work before midnight and continues without a break into normal working hours. Double time rates shall then continue to apply until there is an (unpaid) break from work exceeding four hours, after which the normal rates will again apply.
- (b) An unpaid meal hour shall be allowed at a reasonable time if overtime is expected to continue for more than two hours beyond normal finishing time, and a paid refreshment break of not more than fifteen minutes shall be allowed in each subsequent 4-hour period.
- (c) Overtime is voluntary and an employee shall not be dismissed if he objects to working outside normal working hours. However, certain jobs may require attendance at times outside the normal hours and in these cases employees shall be given the option of a 45-hour week by allowing time off during normal working hours, at a time to be agreed with the employer.

6. Holidays.

(a) ANNUAL HOLIDAYS.

All employees shall be entitled to a paid holiday of 40 hours after the completion of the first six months of continuous service and thereafter at the rate of 8 hours for each month of continuous service. Paid holidays may be accumulated without limit and taken at a time to be mutually agreed upon.

(b) PUBLIC HOLIDAYS.

These are days on which Government Offices are closed by notification in the Gazette and the following seven days shall be paid holidays for all employees :-

Good Friday, The Queen's Birthday, October Bank Holiday, December 8th, Christmas Day, Boxing Day, and one other day to coincide with the Annual Stanley Sports Meeting.

(c) Any allowance or special rates earned on both the working day preceding and the working day following the holiday shall be paid for the holiday.

(d) When a dated holiday falls on a Sunday the next working day shall be the holiday.

7. Sick Pay.

(a) Employees who have not completed one year's service with their employer shall not be entitled to sick pay.

(b) The following rules apply to employees who have completed one year's service with their employer.

(i) There shall be no entitlement to sick pay for the first week of absence caused by sickness, but if sickness lasts for more than one week, an employee shall be entitled to half pay for the second, third and fourth weeks. While off work through illness an employee shall have the option of taking part or the whole of any annual leave due to him.

(ii) Full pay shall be paid for any Public Holiday which falls during the first four weeks of sickness, provided that the employee, when he has recovered, returns to work for the same employer.

(c) An employer may demand a medical certificate before applying any of the rules 7 (b) (i), (ii).

(d) The Workmen's Compensation Ordinance shall apply in cases of sickness resulting from accidents at work.

8. General.

(a) Employment is normally terminated, either by employer or employee, at the end of the working week, but employment may be terminated at the end of any working day. A minimum of two hours' notice shall be given, except in the case of misdemeanour, when an employee may be summarily dismissed.

(b) When a party of employees are required to carry meals to their work, one employee shall be allowed reasonable time to heat meals for the rest of the party.

(c) Individual employers may lay down the times when employees shall appear for their wages, provided that the payment is completed within ten minutes of the end of the normal working day.

(d) An official or delegation of a recognised union may, with the employer's consent, attend at a job or shop at any time to interview workmen, but no meeting shall take place in working hours without the express permission of the employer. If a dispute arises, the employer or his nominee shall interview, by appointment, any official representative of his employees.

(e) All employers shall display for the benefit of their employees copies of Regulations and Rules pertaining to wages and conditions of service of workers.

L. GLEADELL,

Colonial Treasurer.

8th September 1967.

Report on the working of the Government Savings Bank for the year 1966/67.

The Honourable,
The Colonial Secretary,
Stanley.

Colonial Treasury,
Stanley, Falkland Islands.
25th September 1967.

Sir,

I have the honour to submit the following report on the Savings Bank for the year ending 30th June 1967, together with the following accounts and statements —

1. Revenue and Expenditure Account.
2. Deposits and Withdrawals Account.
3. Investments Adjustment Account.
4. Reserve Account.
5. Statement of Assets and Liabilities.
6. Statement of Investments.

2. Revenue for the year totalled £64,681 : 1 : 8 and came solely from interest on investments. Expenditure totalled £29,668 : 18 : 10 (interest on deposits £27,582 : 2 : 7, administration charge £2,000, stationery £86 : 16 : 3) leaving a revenue surplus of £35,012 : 2 : 10.

3. Deposits during the year totalled £339,932 : 0 : 9 and withdrawals £350,305 : 10 : 1.

4. The total amount due to depositors (who numbered 1,869) at 30th June 1967 was £1,182,005 : 1 : 10 compared with £1,164,796 : 8 : 7 a year earlier.

5. The assets of the bank at 30th June 1967 exceeded liabilities by £198,274 : 9 : 3 compared with £153,795 : 19 : 8 at 30th June 1966. During the year 1966/67 a sum of £37,316 was transferred from the Bank reserve to Colony revenue under the authority of section 13 (2) of the Savings Bank Ordinance. The reserve at 30th June 1967 is £80,073 : 19 : 3 more than is required by section 13 (2). This favourable situation arises from the appreciation of investments when revalued at 30th June, £46,782 : 6 : 9, in addition to the revenue surplus referred to in paragraph 2.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

L. GLEADELL,
Colonial Treasurer.

FALKLAND ISLANDS

SEAL FISHERY ORDINANCE (Cap. 62)

A licence under section 5 of the Seal Fishery Ordinance (Cap. 62), is hereby granted to the Falkland Islands Company Limited, of Stanley, Falkland Islands (hereinafter referred to as the licensee) to take seal mentioned herein and subject to the following terms and conditions —

1. This licence shall be in force from the 1st day of March 1968 to the 30th day of December 1968, and shall be an exclusive licence for Emily Island and Blind Island as long as it remains valid.
2. This licence shall be issued free of charge. A sub-licence under this licence may be issued to Robert John Christian Bundes of Stanley, Falkland Islands, but to no other person.
3. This licence shall be valid for the taking of male Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) only: no other seal shall be taken.
4. The killing or capturing of female Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) must be avoided as far as possible.
5. The licensee must ensure that Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) are killed in the most humane way practicable.
6. All killing shall be done on beaches and the intestines and carcasses disposed of into the sea.
7. The licensee shall not later than the 1st day of January 1969 render an accurate account of all sea lions taken and report where such sea lions were found in large numbers or rookeries or where others were observed.
8. This licence is not transferable.
9. In the case of a breach of any of the conditions of this Licence, or any of the provisions of the Seal Fishery Ordinance (Cap. 62) or of any regulations made thereunder or any Ordinance or regulations amending or replacing the said Ordinance or regulations, the Governor may, by notice in writing, summarily revoke this licence, and thereupon all rights conferred hereby or enjoyed hereunder shall cease as from the date mentioned in such notice.

Dated this 19th day of February 1968.

W. H. THOMPSON,
Colonial Secretary.

FALKLAND ISLANDS

SEAL FISHERY ORDINANCE (Cap. 62)

A licence under section 5 of the Seal Fishery Ordinance (Cap. 62), is hereby granted to Robert John Christian Bundes, of Stanley, Falkland Islands (hereinafter referred to as the licensee) to take seal mentioned herein and subject to the following terms and conditions —

1. This licence shall be in force from the 1st day of March 1968 to the 30th day of December 1968, and shall be an exclusive licence for the areas named in the Schedule hereto, so long as it remains valid.
2. This licence shall be issued free of charge.
3. This licence shall be valid for the taking of male Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) only: no other seal shall be taken.
4. The number of male Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) taken shall not exceed 900 in the aggregate.

5. Unless otherwise agreed between the licence holder and the licensing authority at least 15% of male Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) shall be left alive at each rookery: the take of pups shall not exceed 40% at each rookery.

Provided that the number of male Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) so left alive at the first killing shall not be progressively reduced on any subsequent visit or visits to the same rookery.

6. The killing or capturing of female Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) must be avoided as far as possible.

7. The licensee must ensure that Sea Lions (Otaria Byronia) are not driven long distances and killed in the most humane way practicable.

8. All killing shall be done on beaches and the intestines and carcasses disposed of into the sea.

9. The licensee shall not later than the 1st day of January 1969 render an accurate account of all sea lions taken and report where such sea lions were found in large numbers or rookeries or where others were observed.

10. This licence is not transferable.

11. This licence does not authorise the holder to enter upon any land mentioned in the schedule nor does it abrogate any existing rights in respect of which the holder must obtain a sub-licence from the existing right-holders.

12. In the case of a breach of any of the conditions of this licence, or any of the provisions of the Seal Fishery Ordinance (Cap. 62) or of any regulations made thereunder or any Ordinance or regulations amending or replacing the said Ordinance or regulations, the Governor may, by notice in writing, summarily revoke this Licence, and thereupon all rights conferred hereby or enjoyed hereunder shall cease as from the date mentioned in such notice.

Dated this 19th day of February 1968.

W. H. THOMPSON,
Colonial Secretary.

The Honourable,
The Colonial Secretary,
Stanley.

Colonial Treasury,
Stanley, Falkland Islands.
29th February 1968.

Sir,

In accordance with the requirements of Section 12 (1) of the Currency Notes Ordinance I have the honour to make the following report on the state of the Currency Note Security Fund at 31st December 1967.

The total face value of notes in circulation on 31st December 1967, was £128,400, made up as follows —

Series	Denomination	No.	Value
C	£5	18,767	93,835 : 0 : 0
C	£1	737	737 : 0 : 0
D	£1	9,136	9,136 : 0 : 0
E	£1	19,860	19,860 : 0 : 0
			£ 128,400 : 0 : 0

At 31st December 1967, the Fund stood at £139,802 : 4 : 0. This sum was represented by investments totalling £108,014 : 11 : 4 (market valuation as at 30th June 1967 or cost price if purchased later) and by cash held by the Colonial Treasurer amounting to £31,787 : 12 : 8. Remittances awaiting clearance totalled £2357. The General Reserve over the face value of the notes in circulation was £9,045 : 4 : 0 (7% approximately).

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

L. GLEADELL,

Colonial Treasurer.

The Income Tax Ordinance (Cap. 32)

ORDER

(under section 49 of the Ordinance)

No. 1 of 1968.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 49 of the Income Tax Ordinance, the Governor in Council has made the following Order —

Cap. 49.

1. This Order may be cited as the Double Taxation Relief (Taxes on Income) (United Kingdom) (Amendment) Order, 1968.

Citation.

2. The Arrangement made in 1949 between His Majesty's Government and the Government of the Falkland Islands for the avoidance of double taxation and the prevention of fiscal evasion with respect to taxes on income (hereinafter referred to as "the existing Arrangement") is amended —

Amendment to Schedule
No. 1 of 1949.

(a) by the deletion of paragraph 13 (1) (a) and the substitution therefor of the following —

"13. (1) Subject to the provisions of the law of the United Kingdom regarding the allowance as a credit against United Kingdom tax of tax payable in a territory outside the United Kingdom (which shall not affect the general principle hereof) —

(a) Colonial tax payable under the laws of the Colony, and in accordance with this Arrangement whether directly or by deduction, on profits or income from sources within the Colony shall be allowed as a credit against any United Kingdom tax computed by reference to the same profits or income by reference to which the Colonial tax is computed:

Provided that in the case of a dividend the credit shall only take into account such tax in respect thereof as is additional to any tax payable by the company on the profits out of which the dividend is paid and is ultimately borne by the recipient without reference to any tax so payable;" and

(b) by the deletion of paragraph 13 (2) (a) and the substitution therefor of the following —

"(2) Subject to the provisions of the law of the Colony regarding the allowance as a credit against Colonial tax of tax payable in a territory outside the Colony (which shall not affect the general principle hereof) —

(a) United Kingdom tax payable under the laws of the United Kingdom and in accordance with this Arrangement, whether directly or by deduction, on profits or income from sources within the United Kingdom shall be allowed as a credit against any Colonial tax computed by reference to the same profits or income by reference to which the United Kingdom tax is computed:

Provided that in the case of a dividend the credit shall only take into account such tax in respect thereof as is additional to any tax payable by the company on the profits out of which the dividend is paid and is ultimately borne by the recipient without reference to any tax so payable;"

Travelling and Subsistence Allowance Rules, 1968.

No. 1 of 1968.

The Governor in Council has made the following Rules —

PART I.

Travelling and Subsistence Allowances while on duty within the limits of the Colony, including the Dependencies.

- (c) Officers in Classes A, B & C of the Leave and Passage Regulations 30/-.
- (d) All other officers £1.

3. These allowances shall not be paid to an officer —

- (a) Whose salary is fixed on such a basis as to include an allowance for the cost of travelling on duty;
- (b) in respect of any night —
 - (i) on which the officer is the guest of a resident of the Colony;
 - (ii) when the officer is in receipt of a passage at public expense on board any vessel.

PART II.

Travelling and Subsistence Allowances while on duty in the United Kingdom.

TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE

4. Officers attending conferences or engaged in other official business in the United Kingdom will be afforded travel facilities in the following scale —

First class by rail in the case of Executive Council members.

Second class by rail in the case of other officers.

Payment should normally be made by the officer in the first instance and a claim for refund presented to the Crown Agents.

SUBSISTENCE ALLOWANCE

5. The following rate shall be payable in respect of each night necessarily spent away from the officer's usual place of residence —

- (i) Members of Executive Council £4 0s. 0d.
- (ii) Other Officers ... £3 9s. 0d.

or

6. Where the officer resides within easy reach of the centre where the conference etc., is held and spends eight or more hours away from his usual place of residence the following daily rates shall be payable —

- (i) Members of Executive Council 12/-.
- (ii) Other Officers ... 10/9d.

7. The Travelling and Subsistence Allowance Rules, 1967, are revoked.

Made by the Governor in Council on the 21st day of February, 1968.

R. BROWNING,
Acting Clerk of the Executive Council.

STANLEY TOWN COUNCIL
Accounts for the year ended 31st December 1967.

AUDIT CERTIFICATE

The attached Annual Abstract Account and Statement of Assets and Liabilities have been examined as required by section 97 of the Stanley Town Council Ordinance (Cap. 68). I have obtained all the information and explanations that I have required and I certify, as a result of this audit, that in my opinion the Account and Statement are correct.

2. The Comptroller and Auditor General's certificate covering the investments held on behalf of the Cemetery Fund and the amount on deposit in the Crown Agents Joint Miscellaneous Fund has not yet been received.

3. The cash balance held on 31st December 1967, was not verified. A cash survey was carried out on 26th February 1968, during the audit inspection, when the cash held agreed with the Cash Book.

FUGITIVE CRIMINAL

 The Fugitive Offenders (Falkland Islands and Dependencies) Order 1968

Made - - - - - 26th January 1968

Laid before Parliament 1st February 1968

Coming into Operation 2nd February 1968

At the Court at Sandringham, the 26th day of January 1968

Present,

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council

Her Majesty, in exercise of the powers conferred upon Her by sections 17 and 20 of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 (a), is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows —

Citation and commencement.

1. (1) This Order may be cited as the Fugitive Offenders (Falkland Islands and Dependencies) Order 1968.

(2) This Order shall come into operation on 2nd February 1968.

Interpretation.

2. The Interpretation Act 1889 (b) shall apply, with the necessary adaptations, for the purpose of interpreting this Order and otherwise in relation thereto as it applies for the purpose of interpreting, and in relation to, Acts of Parliament.

Extension of Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 to Falkland Islands and Dependencies.

3. Sections 1 to 15, inclusive, 19, 21 and 22 of, and Schedules 1 and 2 to, the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967, modified and adapted as in the Schedule hereto, shall extend to the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies:

Provided that nothing in those sections and schedules shall apply in relation to Southern Rhodesia.

Revocation.

4. On the coming into force of section 14 in the Schedule hereto in relation to any country the Fugitive Offenders (Extension) Order 1967 (c) shall be revoked in relation to that country in so far as it forms part of the law of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies.

W. G. Agnew.

Article 3.

SCHEDULE TO THE ORDER

 PROVISIONS OF FUGITIVE OFFENDERS ACT 1967 AS EXTENDED TO THE FALKLAND ISLANDS AND DEPENDENCIES

Return of offenders to the United Kingdom, Commonwealth countries, the Republic of Ireland and dependencies

Persons liable to be returned

1. Subject to the provisions of this Act, a person found in the Colony who is accused of a relevant offence in any other country being —

(a) the United Kingdom; or

(a) 1967 c. 68. (b) 1889 c. 63. (c) S.I. 1967/1303 (1967 II, p. 3772).

- (b) a Commonwealth country designated for the purposes of this section under section 2 (1) of this Act, or the Republic of Ireland; or
- (c) a United Kingdom dependency as defined by section 2 (2) of this Act, or who is alleged to be unlawfully at large after conviction of such an offence in any such country, may be arrested and returned to that country as provided by this Act.

2. (1) The Governor may, with the approval of the Secretary of State, by order designate for the purposes of section 1 of this Act any country for the time being mentioned in section 1 (3) of the British Nationality Act 1948 (a) (countries having separate citizenship), or any other country within the Commonwealth; and any country so designated is in this Act referred to as a designated Commonwealth country.

Designated Commonwealth countries and United Kingdom dependencies.

(2) In this Act the expression "United Kingdom dependency" means —

- (a) any colony (not being a colony for whose external relations a country other than the United Kingdom is responsible);
- (b) any associated state within the meaning of the West Indies Act 1967 (b); and
- (c) any country outside Her Majesty's dominions (being a country in which Her Majesty has jurisdiction, or over which She extends protection, in right of Her Government in the United Kingdom) to which the Governor may, with the approval of the Secretary of State, by order apply this subsection, not being in any case a country which is or forms part of a designated Commonwealth country.

(3) The Governor may, with the approval of the Secretary of State, by order direct that this Act shall have effect in relation to the return of persons to, or in relation to persons returned from, the United Kingdom, any designated Commonwealth country, the Republic of Ireland or any United Kingdom dependency subject to such exceptions, adaptations or modifications as may be specified in the order.

(4) For the purposes of any order under subsection (1) of this section, any territory for the external relations of which a Commonwealth country is responsible may be treated as part of that country or, if the Government of that country so requests, as a separate country.

3. (1) For the purposes of this Act an offence of which a person is accused or has been convicted in the United Kingdom or a designated Commonwealth country or the Republic of Ireland or a United Kingdom dependency is a relevant offence if —

Relevant offences

- (a) in the case of an offence against the law of a designated Commonwealth country or the Republic of Ireland, it is an offence which, however described in that law, falls within any of the descriptions set out in Schedule 1 to this Act, and is punishable under that law with imprisonment for a term of twelve months or any greater punishment;
- (b) in the case of an offence against the law of the United Kingdom or a United Kingdom dependency, it is punishable under that law, on conviction by or before a superior court, with imprisonment for a term of twelve months or any greater punishment; and

(a) 1948 c. 56.

(b) 1967 c. 4.

(c) in any case, the act or omission constituting the offence, or the equivalent act or omission, would constitute an offence against the law of the Colony if it took place within the Colony or, in the case of an extra-territorial offence, in corresponding circumstances outside the Colony.

(2) In determining for the purposes of this section whether an offence against the law of a designated Commonwealth country or the Republic of Ireland falls within a description set out in Schedule 1 to this Act, any special intent or state of mind or special circumstances of aggravation which may be necessary to constitute that offence under the law shall be disregarded.

(3) The descriptions set out in Schedule 1 to this Act include in each case offences of attempting or conspiring to commit, of assisting, counselling or procuring the commission of or being accessory before or after the fact to the offences therein described, and of impeding the apprehension or prosecution of persons guilty of those offences.

(4) References in this section to the law of any country (including the Colony) include references to the law of any part of that country.

General restrictions on return.

4. (1) A person shall not be returned under this Act to a designated Commonwealth country or the Republic of Ireland, or committed to or kept in custody for the purposes of such return, if it appears to the Governor, to the court of committal or to the Supreme Court on an application for habeas corpus —

- (a) that the offence of which that person is accused or was convicted is an offence of a political character;
- (b) that the request for his return (though purporting to be made on account of a relevant offence) is in fact made for the purpose of prosecuting or punishing him on account of his race, religion, nationality or political opinions; or
- (c) that he might, if returned, be prejudiced at his trial or punished, detained or restricted in his personal liberty by reason of his race, religion, nationality or political opinions.

(2) A person accused of an offence shall not be returned under this Act to any country, or committed to or kept in custody for the purposes of such return, if it appears as aforesaid that if charged with that offence in the Colony he would be entitled to be discharged under any rule of law relating to previous acquittal or conviction.

(3) A person shall not be returned under this Act to any country, or committed to or kept in custody for the purposes of such return, unless provision is made by the law of that country, or by an arrangement made with that country, for securing that he will not, unless he has first been restored or had an opportunity of returning to the Colony, be dealt with in that country for or in respect of any offence committed before his return under this Act other than —

- (a) the offence in respect of which his return under this Act is requested;
- (b) any lesser offence proved by the facts proved before the court of committal; or
- (c) any other offence being a relevant offence in respect of which the Governor may consent to his being so dealt with.

(4) Any such arrangement as is mentioned in subsection (3) of this section may be an arrangement made for the particular case or an arrangement of a more general nature; and for the purposes of that subsection a certificate issued by or under the authority of the Governor confirming the existence of an arrangement with any country and stating its terms shall be conclusive evidence of the matters contained in the certificate.

(5) The reference in this section to an offence of a political character does not include an offence against the life or person of the Head of the Commonwealth or any related offence described in section 3 (3) of this Act.

Proceedings for return

5. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act relating to provisional warrants, a person shall not be dealt with thereunder except in pursuance of an order of the Governor (in this Act referred to as an authority to proceed), issued in pursuance of a request made to the Governor by or on behalf of the Government of the United Kingdom, or of the Republic of Ireland, or of the designated Commonwealth country, or by the Governor of the United Kingdom dependency, in which the person to be returned is accused or was convicted.

Authority to proceed.

(2) There shall be furnished with any request made for the purposes of this section on behalf of any country —

- (a) in the case of a person accused of an offence, a warrant for his arrest issued in that country;
- (b) in the case of a person unlawfully at large after conviction of an offence, a certificate of the conviction and sentence in that country, and a statement of the amount if any of that sentence which has been served, together (in each case) with particulars of the person whose return is requested and of the facts upon which and the law under which he is accused or was convicted, and evidence sufficient to justify the issue of a warrant for his arrest under section 6 of this Act.

(3) On receipt of such a request the Governor may issue an authority to proceed unless it appears to him that an order for the return of the person concerned could not lawfully be made, or would not in fact be made, in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

6. (1) A warrant for the arrest of a person accused of a relevant offence, or alleged to be unlawfully at large after conviction of such an offence, may be issued —

Arrest for purposes of committal.

- (a) on the receipt of an authority to proceed, by a magistrate in any part of the Colony;
- (b) without such an authority, by a magistrate in any part of the Colony, upon information that the said person is or is believed to be in or on his way to the Colony; and any warrant issued by virtue of paragraph (b) above is in this Act referred to as a provisional warrant.

(2) A warrant of arrest under this section may be issued upon such evidence as would, in the opinion of the magistrate, authorise the issue of a warrant for the arrest of a person accused of committing a corresponding offence or, as the case may be, of a person alleged to be unlawfully at large after conviction of an offence, within the jurisdiction of the magistrate.

(3) Where a provisional warrant is issued under this section, the authority by whom it is issued shall forthwith give notice to the Governor, and transmit to him the information and evidence, or certified copies of the information and evidence, upon which it was issued; and the Governor may in any case, and shall if he decides not to issue an authority to proceed in respect of the person to whom the warrant relates, by order cancel the warrant and, if that person has been arrested thereunder, discharge him from custody.

(4) A warrant of arrest issued under this section may, without being backed, be executed in any part of the Colony and may be so executed by any person to whom it is directed or by any police officer.

(5) Where a warrant is issued under this section for the arrest of a person accused of an offence of stealing or receiving stolen property or any other offence in respect of property, a magistrate or justice of the peace in any part of the Colony shall have the like power to issue a warrant to search for the property as if the offence had been committed within the jurisdiction of the magistrate or justice.

Proceedings for committal.

7. (1) A person arrested in pursuance of a warrant under section 6 of this Act shall (unless previously discharged under subsection (3) of that section) be brought as soon as practicable before a court (in this Act referred to as the court of committal) consisting of a magistrate.

(2) For the purposes of proceedings under this section a court of committal consisting of a magistrate shall have the like jurisdiction and powers, as nearly as may be, including power to remand in custody or on bail, as a magistrate inquiring into a charge of an indictable offence.

(3) Where the person arrested is in custody by virtue of a provisional warrant and no authority to proceed has been received in respect of him, the court of committal may fix a reasonable period (of which the court shall give notice to the Governor) after which he will be discharged from custody unless such an authority has been received.

(4) Where an authority to proceed has been issued in respect of the person arrested and the court of committal is satisfied, after hearing any evidence tendered in support of the request for the return of that person or on behalf of that person, that the offence to which the authority relates is a relevant offence and is further satisfied —

- (a) where that person is accused of the offence, that the evidence would be sufficient to warrant his trial for that offence if it had been committed within the jurisdiction of the court;
- (b) where that person is alleged to be unlawfully at large after conviction of the offence, that he has been so convicted and appears to be so at large,

the court shall, unless his committal is prohibited by any other provision of this Act, commit him to custody to await his return thereunder; but if the court is not so satisfied or if the committal of that person is so prohibited, the court shall discharge him from custody.

Application for habeas corpus, etc.

8. (1) Where a person is committed to custody under section 7 of this Act, the court shall inform him in ordinary language of his right to make an application for habeas corpus, and shall forthwith give notice of the committal to the Governor.

(2) A person committed to custody under the said section 7 shall not be returned under this Act —

- (a) in any case, until the expiration of the period of fifteen days beginning with the day on which the order for his committal is made;
- (b) if an application for habeas corpus is made in his case, so long as proceedings on that application are pending.

(3) On any such application the Supreme Court may, without prejudice to any other jurisdiction of the court, order the person committed to be discharged from custody if it appears to the court that —

- (a) by reason of the trivial nature of the offence of which he is accused or was convicted; or
- (b) by reason of the passage of time since he is alleged to have committed it or to have become unlawfully at large, as the case may be; or
- (c) because the accusation against him is not made in good faith in the interests of justice, it would, having regard to all the circumstances, be unjust or oppressive to return him.

(4) On any such application the Supreme Court may receive additional evidence relevant to the exercise of their jurisdiction under section 4 of this Act or under subsection (3) of this section.

(5) For the purposes of this section proceedings on an application for habeas corpus shall be treated as pending until any appeal in those proceedings to the Court of Appeal for the Falkland Islands is disposed of; and an appeal shall be treated as disposed of at the expiration of the time within which the appeal may be brought or, where leave to appeal is required, within which the application for leave may be made, if the appeal is not brought or the application made within that time.

9. (1) Where a person is committed to await his return and is not discharged by order of the Supreme Court, the Governor may by warrant order him to be returned to the country by which the request for his return was made unless the return of that person is prohibited, or prohibited for the time being, by section 4 of this Act or this section, or the Governor decides under this section to make no such order in his case.

Order for return to requesting country.

(2) An order shall not be made under this section in the case of a person who is serving a sentence of imprisonment or detention, or is charged with an offence, in the Colony —

- (a) in the case of a person serving such a sentence, until the sentence has been served;
- (b) in the case of a person charged with an offence, until the charge is disposed of or withdrawn and, if it results in a sentence of imprisonment (not being a suspended sentence), until the sentence has been served.

(3) The Governor shall not make an order under this section in the case of any person if it appears to the Governor, on the grounds mentioned in section 8(3) of this Act, that it would be unjust or oppressive to return that person, and may decide to make no order under this section in the case of a person accused or convicted of an offence in the United Kingdom or a United Kingdom dependency if he considers, on any such grounds as are mentioned in paragraphs (a) to (c) of section 4(1) of this Act, that the order ought not to be made.

(4) The Governor may decide to make no order under this section in the case of a person accused or convicted of a relevant offence not punishable with death in the Colony if that person could be or has been sentenced to death for that offence in the country by which the request for his return is made.

(5) The Governor may decide to make no order under this section for the return of a person committed in consequence of a request made on behalf of any country if another request for his return under this Act, or a requisition for his surrender under the Extradition Act 1870 (a), has been made on behalf of another country and it appears to the Governor, having regard to all the circumstances of the case and in particular —

- (a) the relative seriousness of the offences in question;
- (b) the date on which each such request or requisition was made; and
- (c) the nationality or citizenship of the person concerned and his ordinary residence, that preference should be given to the other request or requisition.

(6) Notice of the issue of a warrant under this section shall forthwith be given to the person to be returned thereunder.

(a) 1870 c. 52.

Discharge in case of delay in returning.

10. (1) If any person committed to await his return is in custody in the Colony under this Act after the expiration of the following period, that is to say —

- (a) in any case, the period of two months beginning with the first day on which, having regard to section 8 (2) of this Act, he could have been returned;
- (b) where a warrant for his return has been issued under section 9 of this Act, the period of one month beginning with the day on which that warrant was issued,

he may apply to the Supreme Court for his discharge.

(2) If upon any such application the court is satisfied that reasonable notice of the proposed application has been given to the Governor, the court may, unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary, by order direct the applicant to be discharged from custody and, if a warrant for his return has been issued under the said section 9, quash that warrant.

Evidence.

11. (1) In any proceedings under this Act, including proceedings on an application for habeas corpus in respect of a person in custody thereunder —

- (a) a document, duly authenticated, which purports to set out evidence given on oath in the United Kingdom or a designated Commonwealth country or the Republic of Ireland or a United Kingdom dependency (other than the Colony) shall be admissible as evidence of the matters stated therein;
- (b) a document, duly authenticated, which purports to have been received in evidence, or to be a copy of a document so received, in any proceeding in any such country or dependency shall be admissible in evidence;
- (c) a document, duly authenticated, which certifies that a person was convicted on a date specified in the document of an offence against the law of, or of part of, any such country or dependency shall be admissible as evidence of the fact and date of the conviction.

(2) A document shall be deemed to be duly authenticated for the purposes of this section —

- (a) in the case of a document purporting to set out evidence given as aforesaid, if the document purports to be certified by a judge or magistrate or officer in or of the country or dependency in question to be the original document containing or recording that evidence or a true copy of such document;
- (b) in the case of a document which purports to have been received in evidence as aforesaid or to be a copy of a document so received, if the document purports to be certified as aforesaid to have been, or to be a true copy of a document which has been, so received;
- (c) in the case of a document which certifies that a person was convicted as aforesaid, if the document purports to be certified as aforesaid, and in any such case the document is authenticated either by the oath of a witness or by the official seal of the Secretary of State or of a Minister of the designated Commonwealth country or of the Republic of Ireland or of the Governor or a Minister, secretary or other officer administering a department of the Government of the dependency, as the case may be.

(3) In this section "oath" includes affirmation or declaration; and nothing in this section shall prejudice the admission in evidence of any document which is admissible in evidence apart from this section.

12. (1) Any person remanded or committed to custody under section 7 of this Act shall be committed to the like institution as a person charged with an offence before the court of committal.

Custody.

(2) If any person who is in custody by virtue of a warrant under this Act escapes out of custody, he may be retaken in any part of the Colony in like manner as a person escaping from custody under a warrant for his arrest issued in that part in respect of an offence committed therein —

(3) Where a person, being in custody in any part of the Colony whether under this Act or otherwise, is required to be removed in custody under this Act to another part of the Colony and is so removed by sea or by air, he shall be deemed to continue in legal custody until he reaches the place to which he is required to be removed.

(4) A warrant under section 9 of this Act for the return of any person to any country shall be sufficient authority for all persons to whom it is directed and all police officers to receive that person, keep him in custody and convey him into the jurisdiction of that country.

13. (1) Any warrant or order to be issued or made by the Governor under any of the foregoing provisions of this Act shall be given under the hand of the Governor or the Colonial Secretary.

Form of warrants and orders.

(2) The Governor may by order prescribe the form of any warrant or order to be issued or made under the foregoing provisions of this Act.

Treatment of persons returned from the United Kingdom, Commonwealth countries, the Republic of Ireland and United Kingdom dependencies

14. (1) This section applies to any person accused or convicted of an offence under the law of or of any part of the Colony who is returned to the Colony —

Restriction upon proceedings for other offences.

- (a) from the United Kingdom, under the Act;
- (b) from any designated Commonwealth country or from the Republic of Ireland under any law of that country corresponding with the Act;
- (c) from any United Kingdom dependency, under the Act or under any corresponding law of that dependency.

(2) A person to whom this section applies shall not, during the period described in subsection (3) of this section, be dealt with in the Colony for or in respect of any offence committed before he was returned to the Colony other than —

- (a) the offence in respect of which he was returned;
- (b) any lesser offence proved by the facts proved for the purposes of securing his return; or
- (c) any other offence in respect of which the Government of the country or Governor of the dependency from which he was returned may consent to his being dealt with.

(3) The period referred to in subsection (2) of this section in relation to a person to whom this section applies is the period beginning with the day of his arrival in the Colony on his return as mentioned in subsection (1) of this section and ending forty-five days after the first subsequent day on which he has the opportunity to leave the Colony.

15. (1) This section applies to any person accused of an offence under the law of or of any part of the Colony who is returned to the Colony as mentioned in section 14 (1) of this Act.

Restoration of persons not tried or acquitted.

(2) If in the case of a person to whom this section applies, either —

- (a) proceedings against him for the offence for which he was returned are not begun within the period of six months beginning with the day of his arrival in the Colony on being returned; or
- (b) on his trial for that offence, he is acquitted or discharged absolutely or conditionally, the Governor may, if he thinks fit, on the request of that person, arrange for him to be sent back free of charge and with as little delay as possible to the country from which he was returned.

Supplemental

Interpretation.

19. (1) In this Act the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them that is to say —

- “Act” means, in relation to the United Kingdom, the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 and, in relation to the Colony or to any other United Kingdom dependency, that Act as extended to the Colony or, as the case may be, to that other dependency;
- “application for habeas corpus” means an application for a writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum;
- “the Colony” means the Colony of the Falkland Islands and includes its Dependencies;
- “country” includes any territory;
- “dealt with” means tried or returned or surrendered to any country or detained with a view to trial or with a view to such return or surrender;
- “designated Commonwealth country” and “United Kingdom dependency” have the meanings assigned by section 2 of this Act;
- “Governor”, in relation to any country other than the Colony or a country mentioned in subsection (2) of this section, means the person or persons administering the government of that country;
- “Governor”, in relation to the Colony, means the Governor of the Colony and includes any person or persons administering the government of the Colony;
- “imprisonment” includes detention of any description;
- “race” includes tribe;
- “Supreme Court” means the Supreme Court of the Colony;
- “United Kingdom” includes the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man.

(2) In this Act references to the Governor shall be construed —

- (a) in relation to Abu Dhabi, Bahrain, the Northern Trucial States and Qatar as references to Her Majesty's Political Resident in the Persian Gulf and includes any person authorised to act for him;
- (b) in relation to Brunei as references to the Government of Brunei;
- (c) in relation to the New Hebrides as references to Her Majesty's High Commissioner for the Western Pacific and, to the extent that authority to perform functions under this Act may be assigned by the High Commissioner to the Resident Commissioner for the New Hebrides, to the Resident Commissioner;
- (d) in relation to Swaziland as references to Her Majesty's Commissioner for Swaziland;
- (e) in relation to Tonga as references to the Premier of Tonga.

(3) For the purposes of this Act a person convicted of an offence in his absence shall be treated as a person accused of that offence.

21. (1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the enactments described in Schedule 2 to this Act are hereby repealed as respects the Colony to the extent specified in the third column of that Schedule.

Repeals and transitional provisions.

(2) The repeals effected by subsection (1) of this section shall not affect the operation of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1881 (a) in any case where, before the date on which that subsection comes into force, a warrant endorsed under section 3 of that Act, or a provisional warrant issued under section 4 of that Act, has been executed in the Colony.

Provided that for the purposes of proceedings under that Act—

- (i) in respect of a fugitive from a designated Commonwealth country or from the Republic of Ireland, section 4 (1) of this Act shall apply as if—
 - (a) for the reference to this Act there were substituted a reference to that Act; and
 - (b) for references to the court of committal and the order of committal there were substituted references to the magistrate before whom that person is brought under section 5 of that Act and the order of that magistrate;
- (ii) in respect of a fugitive from the United Kingdom or a United Kingdom dependency, the Governor shall have the same discretion to make no order for return if he considers, on any such grounds as are mentioned in paragraphs (a) to (c) of section 4 (1) of this Act that the order ought not to be made, as he would have under section 9 (3) of this Act in proceedings under this Act.

(3) Without prejudice to subsection (2) of this section, this Act applies to offences committed before as well as after the coming into force of this Act.

22. (1) The provisions of this Act other than this section shall come into force on such date as the Governor may by order appoint.

Commencement.

(2) Different dates may be appointed under this section for different provisions of this Act, and different dates may be so appointed for any such provision or provisions in relation to different countries.

ORDER

(under section 22 of the Act)

No. 2 of 1968.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

1967 c. 68.
 S.I. 113 of 1968.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 22 of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 and the Fugitive Offenders (Falkland Islands and Dependencies) Order 1968, the Governor has made the following Order —

1. This Order may be cited as the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 (Commencement) Order 1968.
2. Subject to the next following Article the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 shall come into force —
 - (a) on the 31st May 1968, for the purposes of any provision thereof conferring power on the Governor to make an Order, and
 - (b) on 15th June 1968, for the purposes of any other provision thereof.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Order.)

This Order designates certain Commonwealth countries for the purposes of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 which provides for the return of offenders from the Colony to other parts of the Commonwealth.

Ref. 1464.

Provisional warrant of arrest*(Fugitive Offenders Act 1967, s. 6 (1) (b).)*

To each and all of the constables of the Falkland Islands Police Force.

There being evidence that A.B. (hereinafter called the defendant) is accused (or is alleged to be unlawfully at large after conviction) of the offence(s) of _____ against the law of _____, and that the offence(s) is/are (a) relevant offence(s) as defined in section 3 of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967:

And there being in my opinion such evidence as would justify the issue of a warrant for the arrest of a person accused of committing (a) corresponding offence(s) (or alleged to be unlawfully at large after conviction of an offence) in the Colony:

And there being information that the defendant is or is believed to be in or on his/her way to the Colony:

You are hereby commanded to arrest the defendant and to bring him/her before a magistrate sitting at the court of summary jurisdiction, Stanley.

Dated the _____ day of _____, 19 _____

X.Y.,
Magistrate.

4.

Warrant of commitment*(Fugitive Offenders Act 1967, s. 7 (5).)*

To each and all of the constables of the Falkland Islands Police Force and to the Officer in Charge of Stanley Prison.

A. B. (hereinafter called the defendant) having been brought this day before me, a magistrate sitting at _____, pursuant to a warrant for his/her arrest issued under section 6 of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967:

And an authority to proceed having been issued by the Governor under section 5 of that Act in respect of the defendant:

And I being satisfied that the following offence(s) (of which the defendant is accused in _____), namely _____, being (an) offence(s) to which the authority to proceed relates, is/are (a) relevant offence(s) as defined in section 3 of that Act, namely, (here describe the appropriate relevant offence(s) as set out in Schedule I of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967) (and that the evidence given before me would be sufficient to warrant the defendant's trial for that/those offence(s) if it/they had been committed in the Colony) (or that the defendant has been convicted of the offence(s) and appears to be unlawfully at large):

You the said constables, are hereby commanded to convey the defendant to the said prison and there deliver him/her to the Officer in Charge thereof, together with this warrant; and you, the Officer in Charge of the said prison, to receive him/her into your custody and keep him/her until he/she is delivered in accordance with a warrant issued by the Governor under section 9 of that Act or he/she is otherwise delivered in due course of law.

Dated the _____ day of _____, 19 _____

X.Y.,
Magistrate.

5.

Warrant for return to requesting country*(Fugitive Offenders Act 1967, s. 9 (1).)*

To the Officer in Charge of Stanley Prison and to each and all of the constables of the Falkland Islands Police Force.

Whereas a request has been made to the Governor by or on behalf of _____ for the return to that country of A. B. (hereinafter called the prisoner) who is accused (or alleged to be unlawfully at large after conviction) of the offence(s) of _____:

And whereas a magistrate, being satisfied that the evidence given before him would be sufficient to warrant the prisoner's trial for that/those offence(s) (or the offence(s) of _____) if it/they had been committed in the Colony (or that the prisoner had been convicted of that/those offence(s) (or the offence(s) of) and appeared to be unlawfully at large), committed the prisoner to Stanley Prison on the day of , 19 , to await his/her return to :

And whereas the prisoner has not been discharged from custody by order of the Supreme Court:

Now, therefore, the Governor hereby orders that the prisoner be returned to in respect of the offence(s) for which he/she was committed to custody by a magistrate.

Dated the day of , 19 .

(Governor.
Colonial Secretary.)

R.W. Hills duly took their seats as Members of Council.

Confirmation of Minutes.

The Minutes of the meeting of Legislative Council held on the 18th October, 1967, were confirmed.

Address by the President

Honourable Members of Council,

I should like to begin my address by welcoming back to this chamber those Honourable Members who have sat here before; their experience will stand us in good stead. I should also like to extend a very warm welcome to those who have just taken their seats in Council for the first time. I am sure that there is general satisfaction that we again have a lady Member.

The general election saw no less than 10 candidates contesting 4 seats and the high polls in each constituency demonstrated that the electorate now takes a vital interest in matters of public concern.

In welcoming and congratulating the successful candidates, I should like also to commend the other contestants for their public spirit in standing for election.

Some familiar faces are absent today and I would like to pay tribute this morning to the work of four former members, Mr Bonner, Mr Blake, Mr Cheek and Mrs Vinson and I should like formally to thank them for their past services to Council. Mr Bonner we shall with regret soon be losing from the Colony; I referred to his past services at the last meeting of Council. Mrs Vinson and Mr Blake are at present on leave but we look forward to their return and we hope that, in various capacities, they and Mr Cheek will continue to give the Colony the benefit of their interest and advice for many years to come.

In welcoming Honourable Members to this meeting I feel that it is appropriate to mention that this Legislative Council has an unbroken record of regular meetings dating back one hundred and twenty three years. It is fit and proper that we should recollect this fact, lest anyone should be under the impression that representative institutions in the Falkland Islands are a recent innovation.

I hope that this meeting of Council will mark the beginning of a period in which the Honourable Unofficial Members of Council will play an increased part in the conduct of affairs in the Colony. Governors come out from the United Kingdom and Colonial Secretaries do the same and they have an essential contribution to make but, when all is said and done, it is in the future going to be upon the wisdom and ability of the unofficial members of the Legislative and Executive Councils that the well being of this Colony is going to depend in a very large degree - much larger in the future than has ever been the case in the past.

Since I addressed Council at the last budget meeting, progress in the Colony's development has continued.

Another successful grassland conference demonstrated that many farms have made considerable headway in pasture improvement and there is undoubtedly a growing awareness of the possibilities of increased production. The new Government cargo vessel was commissioned; a number of new houses were completed in Stanley, mainly in connection with the Space Research Station and its ancillary services; $2\frac{3}{4}$ miles of concrete roadway have been laid down in Stanley town and to the west of it.

These are encouraging developments in our small community but they took place against a background of falling wool prices. Later during this meeting Honourable Members will be considering the extent to which we can continue to provide funds for development work and I trust that, despite financial problems, a robust and forward looking view will be taken, because if we do not advance the alternative is stagnation. And here I would draw attention to the fact that in 1966/...

1966-67 the Colony received nearly £37,000 from the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund to assist us with our development programme. We are grateful to Her Majesty's Government for this supplement to our development budget.

Honourable Members, I do not propose this year to mention in detail the work of every department of Government and I shall content myself with a reference to a few of the more important or interesting events of the year. Copies of the script of the Colony biennial report have been sent to Honourable Members and this report, containing facts and figures about the departments of Government, may be read at leisure.

But I do wish at this stage to thank all those who in their different spheres have contributed to the work of the Government and of the Colony as a whole. Some occupy positions in the public eye, others are less well known. All can take pride in a job well done. We are indeed fortunate that in this Colony common sense usually prevails and that there is a sense of community which stimulates everyone to do his or her fair share for the common good.

Transport is a vital element in the life of the Colony and it is satisfactory that throughout the year R.M.S. "Darwin" has continued efficiently to fill her essential role as our main carrier of passengers and mails. Indeed, the ship has frequently been booked to capacity.

It is interesting to note that the number of ships using Port Stanley has increased. In 1964 29 ships entered, in 1967 the number had risen to 45. Some of these ships are Russian fishery vessels but there has been an increase in the number of opportunities for carrying passengers and mails and Port Stanley on occasion has presented an animated spectacle.

In 1967 the Government cargo vessel "Philomel" was withdrawn from service after a long and useful career and was replaced by the Colony's new motor coaster, M.V. "Forrest", named after the late Dr. Forrest McWhan, who was held in such high regard throughout the islands. "Forrest" was built by the firm of James W. Cooke and Company of Wivenhoe and came out under her own steam, with a largely Falkland Islands crew, arriving on 8th November last. Since then "Forrest" has been actively engaged in work among the islands and has made a voyage to Punta Arenas.

While on the subject of shipping, I feel that it would be appropriate to recall that on 25th November we said a reluctant farewell to the four-masted schooner "Fennia" which for 40 years had graced Stanley Harbour.

Her Majesty's Ships Lynx and Protector have been in these waters and it was a sad occasion on 12th March when Protector sailed on her last northbound voyage, having visited Falkland Island waters every summer for some 15 years.

We have had two unusual arrivals - a hovercraft of the Royal Navy and the 25 foot yacht Sundowner of Mr Tom Harrison, whose voyage from Australia via South Africa to the Falkland Islands and beyond has created so much interest.

The Air Service has maintained its high reputation for efficiency and helpfulness. Once again, a record number of passengers was carried. In 1967 the number was no less than 3,182 together with over 10,000 lbs of excess luggage and 8,500 lbs of freight.

In the department of Posts and Telecommunications, probably the achievement which most struck the popular imagination was the inauguration of the first public telephone service between Stanley and the United Kingdom on 4th December last. This service has subsequently been extended to include a number of other countries. The innovation marks another stage in the improvement of our communications.

An organisation which has expanded in the past year is the Radio and Space Research Station. The Science Research Council, the body controlling the station, now has some 20 technical staff working in Stanley. This is the only ESRO station south of the equator and it therefore has an important role to fill. The manager of the station, Mr Johnston, would be glad to show Honourable Members round, should they wish to see the new installations.

A decision was taken last year by the British Antarctic Survey to reduce the number of its meteorological staff working in Stanley and it thus fell to the Colony to make financial provision for the employment of a forecaster, instead of contributing to the Survey's funds. The Colony's own forecaster, Mr Borland, is now operating at the Stanley Meteorological Station where the Chief Meteorological Officer is Mr. Blackie of the British Antarctic Meteorological Service.

The pattern of education in the Falkland Islands does not change greatly from year to year but there are developments on which to report. The school leaving age was raised to 15 in December last; the arrangement whereby children may be sent overseas for secondary education was extended to include schools in Uruguay; a seminar was organised at Darwin School for all camp teachers and this, the first of its kind, allowed teachers from all parts of the islands to meet together and discuss their common problems; preliminary work was started for building a new wing for the junior school in Stanley.

Recruitment of qualified teachers from the United Kingdom was satisfactory and staffing was easier than it has been for a number of years. I would like here to commend the work done by those ladies in Stanley who from time to time have stepped into the breach and have undertaken teaching work when we have been short-handed.

The Medical Department continued to maintain its high standard of service. The general health of the Colony remained good, as can be expected in a community where an abundance of basic essential foodstuffs is easily available and where the climate is bracing and the air pure.

In February we were sorry to say goodbye to Matron Smith who, in her comparatively short time here, had set a high standard of service.

Very soon we shall regretfully be saying goodbye to Dr Slessor, the Senior Medical Officer, who has worked in the Colony for close on 20 years following upon service in the Royal Navy and in the Antarctic. Inevitably he is going to be sadly missed, not only as a doctor but as a wise counsellor and trusted friend.

Dr Slessor was for many years a member of this Council and the Executive Council and has on occasion acted as Governor. I should like publicly to thank him for his services to the Colony and to wish him well for the future.

Another officer whom we are about to lose is Mr Gough, the Superintendent of Works. His comparatively short stay in the Colony has covered the period of reconstruction of many of Stanley's roads and for the efficient supervision of this task and much else we have to thank him.

During the year the Colony has maintained its close links with the Dependency of South Georgia where botanists under Dr Stanley Greene and a geodetic survey party under Major Nott-Bower have been carrying out programmes of investigation.

Stanley continued as the advance base of the British Antarctic Survey for its operations further south. The close and friendly liaison between the Colony and the British Antarctic Territory has been to the advantage of both.

I should now like to say a word about the Colony's finances. Taxation has remained unchanged for three years. The cost of living however has continued to rise and indeed to rise at a somewhat accelerated rate, almost entirely due to circumstances beyond the control of the Colony.

The Honourable the Acting Colonial Treasurer will be explaining to Council in detail the state of our finances. For this year - the financial year of 1967/68 - the picture is reasonably satisfactory, and we expect to balance our budget at the end of the financial year on the 30th June. But in the forthcoming year of 1968/69 we anticipate a substantial deficit. This deficit will be due almost entirely to greatly decreased revenue from taxation within the Colony, because of the tendency of the world price of wool to drop.

What can we do about this? Well, we can economise; we can spend less on ourselves. But the whole range of Government expenditure from first to last is constantly being scrutinised and there is a limit to what one can cut without damage to the fabric. One can certainly save comparatively small sums of money here and there and the aggregate may add up to some thousands of pounds. But, as the Treasurer will be explaining to us, the deficit we anticipate is indeed substantial, for Honourable Members will have seen from their papers that we can expect a deficit next financial year of the order of £136,000 - a large sum of money by our standards and in an economy as delicately balanced as ours.

However, this is not the time to hold up our hands in despair. The Guillebaud report, published in October last year, has an interesting chapter on diversification of the economy but Honourable Members will recollect that Mr Guillebaud came to the conclusion that so long as it is profitable to export wool, the best policy for the Falkland Islands is to concentrate on improving its existing industry.

Mr Guillebaud listed the various attempts which have been made to diversify: the shipping of sheep carcasses by refrigerated vessel; the mutton canning factories which operated at Goose Green and Port San Carlos; the idea of a soap factory using tallow; of a glass factory using the fine sand found in so many places round the shores of these islands; the extraction of alginates from kelp; mink; and the freezing plant at Ajax Bay. For one reason or another, none of these succeeded.

So long therefore as it is profitable to export wool, there would seem to be every advantage in concentrating on the improvement of the one and only industry of the Colony and for the Government to do everything in its power to help and not to hinder the industry. The Government derives its revenue very largely from the industry and the two must be geared to work together. This is one reason why I am particularly anxious that unofficial members of Legislative Council should play an increasingly large part in the affairs of the Government.

But, although the Colony concentrates on the raising of sheep for wool production, surely we should always keep an eye open for any other way whereby the Colony can be developed.

I expect Honourable Members have read in the Monthly Review about the interest being taken once more in kelp. We are told that it will be five or ten years before there is any likelihood of development of our kelp resources. Such development does however seem to be a distinct possibility even if it is rather far ahead in time, though personally I would not be surprised if something on a small scale were started in the not too distant future.

And then there is oil. This is something which we have often talked of and hitherto investigations have been uniformly disappointing, but the New Zealand Petroleum Exploration Company is sufficiently interested in the Falkland Islands to send a geologist who is due to arrive this week in R.M.S. "Darwin", to conduct further investigations here. This could merely be a form of insurance by a company which has the/...

the initiative to look into areas where oil prospecting has not taken place to any large degree but it is encouraging, and it is something which is actually happening.

And then there is the question of a tourist industry. Certainly Mr Guillebaud was not optimistic that the tourist trade would prove of any considerable economic importance for the Colony. And yet, we have experienced the enthusiasm with which those few tourists who do come here greet the prospect of seeing at close quarters wild life which can be found in few other parts of the world. Nowadays, when the habit of travel for pleasure is growing, is it just a pipe dream that we should have a profitable tourist industry for the Falklands?

But what of our communications? How are people going to get here? Must they rely purely on our shipping services? Well, as everyone here knows, we have made preliminary plans for an airfield in the Cape Pembroke peninsula and we have recently asked the British Government if they would send out an expert to advise on the feasibility of construction. On that expert's report we hope that we may be able to base an application for funds from Her Majesty's Government because we are unlikely to obtain funds unless we are able to base our application on the recommendation of an acknowledged authority on the subject.

It may be difficult raising funds for airfield construction but, if we concentrate on the essentials and do not get led into attempting to provide anything more than minimum facilities, we will have taken another step in improving our communications with the outside world and other desirable developments may well follow thereafter.

Meanwhile, what else can we be doing to raise revenue? One thing which can be done is to take advantage of the high reputation enjoyed by Falkland Islands stamps and to issue more commemorative sets than we have done in the past. Later this year, as Hon. Members know, the new definitive set will be placed on sale and prior to that we shall be having the short set of four stamps commemorating Human Rights Year. We hope that the Human Rights stamp issue will prove popular; certainly the subject is significantly appropriate to the Falkland Islands today.

We do not want to debase our stamp issues but, provided we live up to our reputation for high quality, the revenues of the Government can usefully be augmented in this way.

There may well be other ways in which we can raise revenue, to help us through the years when wool prices are poor. I would ask Hon. Members to join together in thinking very hard on this subject. This is the time for new ideas and I sincerely hope they will be put forward.

Meanwhile, I would mention that I think Hon. Members may consider it prudent to carry out in October a review of the estimates which are to be considered this week.

Last October when I addressed Council I referred to the considerable amount of work, all of it voluntary, undertaken by Hon. Members of this Council on behalf of their constituents and for the good of the Colony in general. I felt that we were indeed fortunate that the tradition of public service is so well established in the Falkland Islands.

I would repeat what I said on that occasion regarding the functions of this Council. As its name implies, one of its most important activities is to legislate and last year a considerable amount of new legislation was put on our statute book.

In 1967 fourteen Ordinances were enacted by this Council; among them the Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Ordinance which made provision for increased pensions in return for increased contributions; the Road Traffic/...

Traffic (Amendment) Ordinance; the Police Ordinance, which provides comprehensive legislation for the control and management of the Police Force; the Matrimonial Proceedings (Court of Summary Jurisdiction) Ordinance which consolidated and improved laws relating to matrimonial proceedings in courts of summary jurisdiction and the Education Ordinance which provides up to date legislation in respect of education in the Colony.

At this meeting of Council Hon. Members are not being asked to consider controversial legislation; this will be reserved for the October meeting.

But, in addition to its legislative function, the Council has an essential role in approving the annual estimates and through its Standing Finance Committee scrutinising applications for supplementary expenditure. And of course it is in debate that the Council can express agreement or disagreement with propositions on topics of public importance which are placed before it in the form of motions or which are raised by individual members as questions.

The Council has several committees; one of these, the Select Committee on the Estimates, is formed each time the budget is considered and functions only for that one purpose; its life comes to an end when it has gone through all the details of the annual budget.

Then there is the Standing Finance Committee in which unofficial members play a most important part. Hitherto, meetings of the Standing Finance Committee have sometimes had to be fitted in rather towards the end of a busy series of meetings. I cannot help feeling that it is important that the date selected for each meeting of the Standing Finance Committee should take into account the need for adequate time for completion of business. With more Hon. Members resident in Stanley, meetings of this Committee could perhaps take place more regularly.

We have the Education Committee and I think that this has done an extremely good job of work in its two years of existence. I hope that before long it will have an Hon. Unofficial Member in the chair.

And then we have the Natural Resources Committee. The work here has varied in interest but, having been chairman of it, I have felt that our agenda was sometimes too thin and that we could improve upon the arrangements. It has been suggested by a former Hon. Member of this Council that a way in which this might be done is to widen the scope of its interest and expand the Natural Resources Committee into a Development Committee.

If Hon. Members come to the conclusion that such a committee could serve a useful purpose, then I hope that it too would have an Hon. Unofficial Member in the chair. For this committee and for the Education Committee the Government would provide a civil servant to act as secretary and Government officers would be glad to be invited to attend meetings as required.

And now I should like to refer to another idea which may commend itself to Members, namely, the establishment of a small Public Accounts Committee. It is not something which I would wish to see inaugurated if members doubt whether it would serve a useful purpose but we are entering upon a period when economy and wise spending will be of increasing importance. I believe that hitherto our system has worked very reasonably but, if Legislative Council is to fill the important role I think it should, the members should be more closely concerned with the day to day spending activities of the government and with its revenue raising activities too.

It would be the duty of a Public Accounts Committee - and this is a duty which falls to such a committee in most colonies - to examine the accounts showing how the sums granted by the Council to meet public expenditure have been spent, and the Committee would study the Director of Audit's report on such accounts.

The job of a Public Accounts Committee is not to harry civil servants, nor is it to give the impression that government officers are not doing their jobs. Rather, it is to associate with the government machine unofficial members of the legislature who can supplement the watchdog role of the Treasurer and can also bring their experience of the conduct of affairs to the aid of the Government. It is most important, not only that the Government should be a careful spender and an intelligent raiser of revenue, but that the general taxpaying public should see that this is so.

Now, it may be that members will feel that all that is required is to extend the terms of reference of the existing Standing Finance Committee. This could be so but the two committees would in fact have different purposes. In broad terms it can be said that the Standing Finance Committee concerns itself with present and future expenditure while a public accounts committee concerns itself solely with past expenditure and revenue and seeks to provide guide lines for the future from the lessons of the past.

I would commend the idea of a Public Accounts Committee to Hon. Members and ask them to reach a decision after due thought.

And now I should like to refer to the question of the relationship of the Colony of the Falkland Islands to our large neighbour on the South American continent, Argentina.

I am sure that all Hon. Members are as glad as I am that it is now possible to discuss in a completely open way this subject, which is of such great importance to the future of the Falkland Islands. The unhealthy atmosphere of concealment is, I trust, now a thing of the past and we are nearer to reality.

As Hon. Members are aware, I decided towards the end of January that I must go to London and I certainly have no regrets whatever in having done so. On my return to Stanley I broadcast on 22nd February a message explaining why I had gone to London and what I thought had been achieved by going. There was a meeting of Executive Council at that time and, after I had reported very fully on the results of my visit, the unofficial members of Executive Council decided on the course of action which is now familiar to everyone in the Colony and indeed to a great many people outside.

The manifesto produced by the four unofficial members of Executive Council had very wide distribution and, as far as the Falkland Islands are concerned, it came at exactly the right time.

We were then again extremely fortunate in that it so happened that Mr Barton, the Senior Unofficial Member of Executive Council, was going on leave to England in March. This meant that Mr Barton, ably supported by Mr Cameron, was in London when the manifesto of the four unofficial members of Executive Council was having such an impact there.

I cannot think of a better representative of the Falkland Islands point of view to have had in London at that time and I am quite certain I am expressing the views of all Hon. Members when I say how grateful everyone in this Colony must be to Mr Barton for the action which he took on our behalf.

In those hectic weeks at the end of March and early April, the Falkland Islands probably received more publicity than has ever come in its way before. The affairs of the Colony were discussed at length and indeed with some heat in the House of Commons and the House of Lords, on the radio and television, and in the newspapers. And I think that we can be satisfied that the coverage was so extensive that many people who had the vaguest idea about this Colony do now know more about it. Interest has been stimulated and we are indeed grateful to those who have supported the Falkland Islands cause so vigorously.

We shall certainly need that interest in the years to come. We shall need all the sympathetic interest that we can muster, because we must not expect the future to be easy. We are going to have to continue living with the problem of our relationship with Argentina.

May I draw attention of Hon. Members to the words of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, speaking in the House of Commons on 27th March. He said in the course of that early morning debate - "Our object in conducting these talks is to secure a lasting and satisfactory modus vivendi between these islands and Argentina because we believe this to be a necessary long term aim of policy. In this way we are carrying out what Lord Caradon said in the United Nations". And here he quoted the words of Lord Caradon: "There are two basic principles we cannot betray: first, the principle that the interests of the people must be paramount and, second, that the people have the right freely to express their own wishes as to their future". Those were the words of Lord Caradon. And the Foreign Secretary went on to say: "I endorse and confirm what Lord Caradon said on that occasion".

Hon. Members may have heard the extracts from Hansard which were recently read over the Falkland Islands broadcasting system. Those Hansards are available should any Hon. Member wish to consult them.

Last week I passed by the fort at Port Louis which de Bougainville established there in 1763. As I looked down Berkeley Sound, I imagined that those early French settlers saw a view which has scarcely changed in the two succeeding centuries. Thinking over the stirring stories of those early days, I could not help feeling that the wrangles of the historians are merely a side issue in the case of the Falkland Islands. What we have here is a human problem, a problem of the men and women who live in the Falkland Islands today and many of whose ancestors have lived here since 1833. It is a human problem, which involves the well-being of men and women, some of whom may never have been outside these islands.

In this small community it is individuals who count. During the $3\frac{1}{2}$ years that I have had the privilege of living here, I have detected little variation in outlook. The people of this Colony are very British; their origin, their family ties, their education, their form of government, all have bound them closely to the mother country. A natural absence of interest in South America has been intensified by restrictions on movement to Argentina. But we have to remember that outside our borders the world is not static and the certainties of yesterday are not necessarily the certainties of today.

And so, what of the future? We have our twin problems - the political and the economic. It is certainly no time for gloom. With a newly constituted Council it is the time for the Government - which includes every Hon. Member present here today - it is the time for the Government to take the measure of our problems, to face them squarely and seriously and then, God willing, to take decisions which will stand the test of time. May we be given the strength and wisdom to do our duty.

Papers laid on the Table by the Colonial Secretary.

- (i) Financial Report 1966/67.
- (ii) Report on the Working of the Government Employees' Provident Fund 1966/67.
- (iii) Report on the Working of the Government Savings Bank 1966/67.
- (iv) Report on the Working of the Currency Note Security Fund 1966/67.
- (v) Report on the Working of the Old Age Pensions Equalisation Fund 1966/67.
- (vi) Copies of subsidiary legislation made or approved by the Governor in Executive Council since May, 1967.

QUESTIONS FOR ORAL ANSWER

1. Mr Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary whether it is a fact that comparatively little advantage has been taken of the camp tracks grant scheme and, if so, will Government give consideration to appointing a camp tracks advisory committee which would plan annual improvements to be carried out by tender, for which finance would, when possible, be provided in the estimates?

The Colonial Secretary: The response to the camp track scheme initiated by this Council in 1965 has been less keen than had been hoped. The following grants have been made:

1965-66 financial year - three grants totalling £744. 14. 11d.
1966-67 financial year - three grants totalling £1,644. 17. 4d.
1967-68 financial year - one grant of £34. 14. 2d.

The question has been noted for discussion by a committee of this Council when, it is hoped, a better system or, perhaps, some means of persuading farmers to make a greater use of the existing scheme, can be worked out.

2. Mr. Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary what are Government's plans for the examination and improvement of the camp mail service, with particular regard to the delivery and collection of letter mails by the Air Service?

The Colonial Secretary: Arrangements have been made for the question of the delivery and collection of letter mails to be looked into during the Select Committee on the Estimates.

3. Mr. Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary what, if any, are Government's plans for the examination and improvement of the camp medical service, with particular regard to the northern area of the East Falklands which does not have a doctor especially assigned to it?

The Colonial Secretary: It has been the policy for many years that, subject to the availability of doctors, the administration of the medical services of the Colony are on the basis of a medical officer for the West Falkland; a medical officer for Darwin and Lafonia; and the North Camp being looked after from Stanley.

Government is always ready to entertain suggestions for improvement of services and it is hoped that during the course of this week the Hon. Member will be able to have discussions with the Medical Department about the camp medical service.

4. Mrs. King asked the Colonial Secretary whether, as there are plans to erect a new school building, it would be possible to provide accommodation in part of it for a nursery school?

The Colonial Secretary: The new school building, which is to be erected adjacent to the Junior School, has been specifically designed to relieve pressure on accommodation in the existing schools. Preliminary work is now far advanced and most of the materials have been ordered and are on their way to the Colony. However, there is no doubt that the provision of nursery school facilities should be looked into and the matter will be referred to the Education Committee of Council for detailed consideration and report.

5. Mr Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary whether it is a fact that Russian ships visit New Island without customs and medical supervision and, if so, is it Government's intention to allow such visits to continue?

The Colonial Secretary: A practical statement of the law in regard to calls made by ships is that Port Stanley and Fox Bay are ports of entry and any ship wishing to discharge cargo or persons must call at one of these two places. If a ship does not take on or discharge cargo subject to customs examination, or persons subject to immigration control, it is not required to call at Port Stanley or Fox Bay. It is a matter of courtesy only that ships should ask permission to call at ports of refuge. However, Governments can make any laws they wish to enforce particular action at any place.

So far, in the Falkland Islands, it has not been thought necessary to do more than ask Russian ships to explain the reasons for their requests to call at other than ports of entry.

Any ship which has not been at sea for a long period or which has come from the coast or any other foreign area would not be permitted to enter other than at Port Stanley or Fox Bay. On 22nd October 1966 an East German ship was refused permission to enter at Fanning Harbour and was directed to Port Stanley.

Over the last three years the following Russian ships have asked for and been granted permission to call at places other than Port Stanley and Fox Bay:

22nd May 1965, One whale chaser No. 33 to New Island to collect penguins under licence for the Moscow Academy of Science. In this instance all movement between ship and shore was by helicopter.

18th April 1966, The Soviet whaling fleet flagship Sovietskaya Ukraina off Pebble Island during bunkering.

21st April 1966, One whale catcher to New Island and to take five penguins.

2nd January 1967, A catcher to New Island to effect immediate repairs caused by heavy seas and to rest a seaman who was critically ill from the movement of a small ship in big seas.

2nd May 1967/...

2nd May 1967, Research Chaser No. 24 to New Island. Permission was asked to collect penguins but this was refused.

15th April 1968, Vessel S.R.T.M. 1255 at New Island for emergency engine repairs.

It is proposed to continue the process of dealing with each application as it arises.

There is no record over the last few years of any ship having called at New Island without permission. I would point out that for something like 150 years, and perhaps even more, the South American Pilot has reported New Island as an exceptionally good anchorage for the Southern Atlantic fishing grounds with good shelter from adverse seas.

MOTIONS.

Suspension of Standing Orders.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, this is a last minute Motion, but one which I discussed with Hon. Members this morning. My Motion is that Standing Order 11, sub sections 16 (b) and 16 (c) be suspended for the duration of this meeting in terms of Standing Order No. 47.

Your Excellency, Standing Order 11 (16) states that no Member should refer to another Member by name but it lays down that the Elected Members for Stanley must be referred to as the Hon. the First Elected Member for Stanley and the Second Elected Member for Stanley. It also lays down that the Elected Members for the Camp must be referred to by their full titles and there is also the rather complicated title of Nominated Independent Member. Now, Standing Order 47 states that any of these Standing Rules and Orders may be suspended with the consent of the President and the majority of Members present. The practice of refraining from referring to an Hon. Member by name has its origin in the practice of the House of Commons and there is much to commend it but in a very small Council like this and with our extremely formal titles it has become rather difficult. It has therefore been suggested that as an experiment during this meeting of Council it would make for freedom of discussion if in the case of an Hon. Unofficial Member a Member were addressed for example as the Hon. Member, Mr Hills, The Hon. Member, Mr Miller, or the Hon. Member, Mrs. King and so on.

I beg to move that Standing Order 11 (16)(b) and (16)(c) be suspended for the duration of this meeting.

Mr Goss seconded the Motion and the question was put and carried.

Sovereignty of the Falkland Islands.

Mr Goss: I beg to move that concerning the future sovereignty of these Islands this Council welcomes that portion of the statement made by Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in the House of Commons on the 1st April 1968, when he said that the wishes of the Islanders are an absolute condition; and this Council with the full support of the Falkland Islands electorate, recently demonstrated in the Colony's general election, re-states the desire of the Falkland Islanders to remain British, under the British Crown and ever closely linked to the homeland of the United Kingdom.

Your/...

Your Excellency, I sincerely trust that the Motion before Council is clear and precise in its meaning. I also trust that my Hon. Colleagues will extend to the Motion their full approval and support. The words by Mr Michael Stewart which we welcome in regard to the future sovereignty of these Islands are "that the wishes of the Islanders are an absolute condition". These words are clear and easily understood. However, we are all aware that in the course of general debate on the future sovereignty of our beloved Island home, much has been said - both in the House of Commons, the House of Lords and perhaps elsewhere - which is not so clear to us or so easily understood. Such words as "a change of sovereignty is not imminent", "no immediate change", "not at the moment" and so on, have a somewhat ominous ring about them and are certainly very cold comfort to us Islanders.

It appears to me that in the House of Lords the interests of our people were accepted as paramount but there was considerable reluctance, and indeed skilful avoidance, of accepting that the wishes of the Islanders were equally paramount. With reference to this point, and of course others to which I seek to refer, may I have Your Excellency's permission to quote a two-paragraph extract from a lengthy but excellent address presented in 1965 by the United Kingdom representative, Mr. Francis Brown, repeat Mr. Francis Brown, to the United Nations Fourth Committee:

"There is, however, one point of special importance to which inadequate attention was given in the statement of the Argentine representative. I refer to the interests and wishes - because the two are inseparable - of the inhabitants of those Islands. My delegation has already, in the Committee of 24 and its Sub-Committee, provided full and detailed information about the Falkland Islanders. We have shown that these are genuine, permanent inhabitants who have no other home but the Falkland Islands. They have shown, in their messages to the Committee of 24 and in the formal declaration by their elected representatives, that they do not wish for anything other than normal friendly relations with Argentina, but that they do not wish to sever their connexions with the United Kingdom.

This is a small but prosperous community, enjoying a high standard of living, a people of great character and vitality. There is no ground whatever for suggesting that their wishes in the question of their own future should simply be set aside. And yet that is the tenor of some of the speeches in this debate. It has been suggested that this population is somehow irrelevant and that it has not claimed to have its wishes taken into account. Some surprising arguments have been advanced in support of this: that the people are transient, that there are no births or deaths in the Islands, that the people have been planted there by Britain rather than being of indigenous stock, and that many of them are employed by the Falkland Islands Company. It has even been suggested that because the people's economy depends on sheep farming, therefore, somehow, their wishes need not be regarded as important".

Let me now go back and draw specific attention to Mr. Brown's words to the effect that our interests and wishes are inseparable. Therefore, and certainly in the words of Mr. Brown, if our interests are paramount our wishes must also be paramount.

May I also refer to some of the ludicrous arguments with which the gentleman had to contend; namely that the people here are transient and/...

and that there are no births or deaths in these Islands. My answers will include brief reference to my own family. Within the past seven years my wife has produced four children, and so have very many other wives produced many, many other bonnie babies over the past 135 years or more, and I swear on my solemn oath they did not produce them out of thin air. I believe 24 children is the record for parenthood in these Islands. This then quickly disposes of the downright lie that there are no births in these Islands and may also give some support to Mr. Brown's mention of our vitality.

Family documents in my possession state that the great, great, great grandfather of my children passed away peacefully in Port Stanley 100 years ago come the 14th September next, at the age of 77 years. Your Excellency, on my paternal side alone the cemetery of Port Stanley has become the last resting place of my father, grandfather, great-grandfather and great-great-grandfather, and some 1,900 other citizens or residents of this Colony have been laid to rest there. May they all continue to rest in peace. Sir, it is true to say that death walks with us all no matter what we do or where we live. I also trust that what I have said, and certainly what can be confirmed by many others, will leave no doubt whatever as to just how firmly we are established in these Islands, and will also indicate how proud we are of our heritage.

Under my military hat, I have certain duties and responsibilities in connection with our defences. The Falkland Islands Defence Force is a purely voluntary unit and all training is undertaken mainly outside normal working hours. Accepting all the difficulties involved in maintaining the Defence Force and the standard one can reasonably expect to attain from a voluntary military unit within our small community, I consider all active members do a very good job and I am proud of my 30 years association with the Force. However, it has its limits, in time, weapons, and manpower. The response to the manifesto from the unofficial members of our Executive Council of the 27th February, which was despatched to all Members of Parliament and the U.K. Press proved somewhat overwhelming and we are exceedingly grateful to all concerned. In a reply to a question on our defences put by Mr. Clark Hutchison, M.P. in the House of Commons, the Minister for Defence, Mr. Healey, made a statement to the effect that at present our forces consisted of a Royal Marine detachment supported as necessary by H.M.S. Protector and that there is also a small Defence Force and together these are considered adequate to deal with any situation foreseen at the present time. On learning of this reply I despatched a telegram to London drawing attention to the fact that H.M.S. Protector had left our area. A later question in the House of Commons produced a reply to the effect that our defences consisted of a Royal Marine detachment and a small local Defence Force but again the word "adequate" was used, although it was very clear that the major link in our defences - H.M.S. Protector - was no longer available to us. Thus, one is left to conclude that the results achieved by our manifesto in exposing our worries and asking for help lessened the need for our protection. It appears to me that the other way around would be more logical and I ask, in the general well being of our community and industry, that the position relating to our defences be reconsidered forthwith.

The question has also been put to me as to what part, apart from local defence duties, the Falklands played in the last war and thus a very brief mention may be of interest. The 14-18 War was before my time but many Falkland Islanders served in the armed forces and the war effort in general, my own father among them. He served in King Edward's Horse and was taken prisoner in the latter part of the War. With regard to the 39-45 War, I have made the following notes from a short article written in "To-day", victory issue, under a photograph of the Falkland Islands Defence Force victory parade contingent.

"The people of the Falkland Islands made a magnificent contribution to the Empire's war effort. Despite its limited manpower resources, over 150 of the Colony's fighting men and women, of pure British stock, left their Island home to fight and serve in the armed forces, the Merchant Navy, nursing services, and the Land Army of the United Kingdom. The Government and people made gifts totalling £71,656 to the United Kingdom as a war contribution, including £16,492 to war charities such as the Red Cross. Ten spitfires were bought with £50,000 of this total, which was voted by the Legislative Council for this purpose in 1940. These aircraft flew into action bearing the name "Falkland Islands". In addition, the people of the Colony lent £2,199 to His Majesty's Government, free of interest, and several thousands of pounds, also free of interest, were lent to the U.K. Government by private individuals".

Your Excellency, one could go on and on, there are many aspects to be raised and considered but I hope I have conveyed something of the trend of public thought and point of view. No doubt my colleagues will also have points on which they will be addressing this Council. The Motion before Council re-states the desire of Falkland Islanders to remain British. Furthermore, I ask that Her Majesty's Government completely dispel people's fears of take-over bids, sell-outs, and general mistrust or misunderstanding and to put into effect all assurances and duties which have been stated on our behalf and to take immediate, adequate and appropriate action to relieve us all from the tension and general state of apprehension under which we are forced to live, a situation on which we have yet to be fully consulted, a situation certainly not of our own making, a situation created purely by the basic hard fact that we were born British.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, this Motion of course is a Motion that is necessary because it is an opportunity to place things on record.

In your address earlier this morning, Sir, you talked about continuous Legislative Councils, I forget the exact number, for over 120 years. I would like to expand on that. I was first elected to Council 12 years ago. It was not then 100 per cent Falkland Islands born and every Council since has not been 100 per cent Falkland Islands born but in actual fact, Sir, the Council that is now in front of you is, in fact, Falkland Islands history. Every single one. It is fortunate I think in the next four years that it actually happens to be so. There are two members whose ancestry goes back to the Port Louis days when this was just an empty place full of logger ducks and I think it is important that Council now for the next four years is 100 per cent Falkland Islands bred and born, every single Member of it. Every single Member has a history that goes back 100 years and more. I know that is going to be a great deal of use to us in the next four years.

My Hon. Friend Mr Goss referred to the Foreign Secretary's speech in the House of Commons in the early hours of the morning (I am glad we don't adopt all the habits of the House of Commons and start debating at five or six in the morning, although I expect we could take it) but Mr Stewart's remarks to the House of Commons then were good, as far as I am concerned. It was a Briton speaking - it does not matter which party it was - to the world and he said we are under Britian's sovereignty and as we are under Britian's sovereignty, then it is the duty of Britain to protect us. But, at the same time, a colleague of his, Lord Chalfont, Minister of State in the House of Lords./...

Lords, also said, and I will quote referring to the talks between the Argentine Ambassador and the Foreign Office:

"It would not be in the interest of either Britain or the Islanders to disclose the nature of the discussions".

Well, all of us immediately say "Why?" In great big letters "WHY?" Well, in actual fact we do know why. Because the present Government in Britain unfortunately started these discussions, without thinking very far ahead, about three years ago. Now they are finding it exceedingly difficult to stop them. There is not the type of person in Her Majesty's present Government at home who has quite the right calibre suddenly to stop them. I am a student of history because it interests me and I can think back the 200 years that this Colony has lasted, and I can think of some Britons to whom it would have been no trouble at all to stop these talks and to say so with a loud voice. To go back about the time that the Falklands were discovered and settled on Saunders Island, think of the Pitts, the elder and the younger, magnificent statesmen. The younger was Prime Minister of Britain at the age of 24 and he steered Britain through the early dangerous years of the Napoleonic wars and following him I can think of Palmerston, Disraeli, Joseph Chamberlain and, of course, in very recent times the incomparable Winston Churchill. None of these people would have had any difficulty in breaking off talks. They were of the calibre who could have stood up and said to the Argentine Ambassador - "I am sorry, we made a mistake three years ago. From this morning, although we like you very much, the talks are out". I also am quite certain that that sort of person will appear again in Britain because it is just one of those inevitable things. I have said this to you before, Sir, actually, in Executive Council, that Britain has been going 2,000 years and in that 2,000 years the spirit of Britain was developing and of course the spirit is a thing that is never buried by wars, floods, politicians, ideologies, anything, and it will come up again, but, unfortunately, at the moment, Her Majesty's Government and part of the opposition are apparently smothered under a socialist blanket which I think will lift, in fact I know it will lift.

I do not know whether Hon. Members noticed last Friday night in the B.B.C. news that our old friends, at least not our friends, but the Committee of 24, the United Nations, had asked Britain, told Britain, that they wanted to send members to the forthcoming Bermuda elections. Utter piece of impertinence and the Socialists said "No that there was just nothing doing" and that was the sort of answer that cheered me up. With that sort of answer that we are getting, the tide is turning and I believe, Sir, that a draught has started down in this area which is blowing a bit of that blanket aside in Britain and I am sure, I do not think that is wishful thinking, that the old lion's mouth has come unstuck and long let it last. That bit of news that I heard last Friday put a different complexion on things altogether. They have more or less told the United Nations where they can go and that is as it should be.

Referring to immediate things that have been happening at home in the last two months. We have a lot of good friends at home and they have formed an Emergency Committee which is looking after our interests at the moment, but I do think it is important, in fact I know it is, that this Council must guide that Emergency Committee. We must not leave them to do the work. That Emergency Committee has its Headquarters in 120 Pall Mall and although in this particular case I don't want anyone to get me wrong - there is no question of 120 Pall Mall thinking of anything but the Falkland Islanders - but it does not take a frightfully astute Labour politician to say "Oh, this racket from the Falklands is coming from big business." We have got to avoid that, we have got to be careful of that. That Emergency/...

Emergency Committee has got to be guided from this end by this Falkland Islands Council. They are good friends, the lot of them, including the 120 Pall Mall people there, but we have not to give any Labour Party or Tory Government - I do not want to rub it in about the Labour Party, but government people, politicians if you like - a chance to say "This is big business talking, not Falkland Islanders." This is an important thing and we have got to be careful about it and so it means that this Council, to use a hackneyed phrase, must leave no stone unturned and I am quite sure we won't. I think you have got the right Council to look after that. So, in concluding I would certainly second the Hon. Member Mr Goss's Motion.

Mr Hills: Your Excellency, without question I give the Motion before Council my full support and I would also like to associate myself with the expressions put by both elected members, Mr Goss and Mr Miller. But I consider it is of the utmost importance to ascertain all factors involved in the future sovereignty of the Falkland Islands. For many years there has been an obvious reluctance to invest in a long term basis on the development of our sheep farming industry as a whole. This situation is now further aggravated, no doubt due to the secrecy and the uncertainty which prevails regarding negotiations between British and Argentine officials. The situation is further complicated by the reluctance of Her Majesty's Government to adequately clarify the issue in respect of these negotiations. If the Falklands hold a future for us, and I feel sure that they do, it is the duty of those responsible to prove by deeds and action that our future is secure.

Your Excellency, I respectfully draw your attention to the fact that recently there have been efforts of help from an association and a special committee formed in the United Kingdom and self appointed to save the Falklands. Assistance in our cause is both encouraging and welcome but expressions of satisfaction from one and of dissatisfaction from the other have been and are being circulated throughout these Islands and to authorities connected with our affairs in the United Kingdom. Here I foresee a danger. We have recently held an election and a very large number of our citizens cast their vote. Their choice to handle all the affairs of this Colony are in this chamber at the moment along with the ex officio and nominated members. This then is the official body and where the authority and indeed the responsibility lies. We are the body to represent and to negotiate on the people's behalf. Within this Colony we have a direct approach to Her Majesty's Minister and an official channel to follow. There are, without doubt, some difficult days ahead and I feel very strongly that the issues must be faced by this Council as a body. We must all be advised as to what is going on and indicate our satisfaction or dis-satisfaction accordingly. We now have the means of daily communications with London and I anticipate you have in mind, Sir, should the need arise, to send a deputation, elected from this Council. I view the problem as being very serious indeed and we can expect to achieve very little in our programme of future progress until the point of future sovereignty is settled. Let me make it quite plain that it is my earnest intention to play whatever part I can towards a clear cut solution, Sir.

Mr. Pitaluga: Your Excellency, I welcome this Motion. Irrespective of what has been said in the British Parliament I feel that our future sovereignty is still very much in doubt and we must not relax for a moment until we have full, firm and final assurances from the British Government that we will never be handed over in any circumstances. They have not yet given us this full assurance and, as all Hon. Members are aware, I have said publicly before and I say it again, we cannot trust the British Government and I have not yet seen any reason to start doing so. The Hon. Member, Mr Hills, has/...

has touched on one point which I think is important. There is little we can do in this Colony until we know where we stand once and for all and all sorts of people are going to think about this. Those who wonder whether they should stay here - it might not so much now depend on how much better off they will be in another country, it is whether it is just going to be worth staying here under, well, a government which they cannot yet see. People coming to the Islands for Government, for the farms, may tend to think "What is the point of going to that place? We may just get out there, having sold up everything here in England" or wherever they are coming from "given up our jobs; it is handed over to some other country, we do not like the way it is run, then we have to pack up and come back". All of these things will have to be taken into account and frankly I do not really see yet what the future holds for us.

I am worried too about the activities of a certain association in England and I think the Falkland Islands Emergency Committee, it is a very good one, but I do agree also that it must take its directions from this end. It can of course act independently on some things I suppose, but I do feel that they must never take on too much without consulting the Councils of these Islands. Your Excellency, this Motion has my full support.

The Acting Col. Treas. (Mr H.T. Rowlands): Your Excellency, although an official member of this Council, I feel well qualified to support the Motion. I was born in the Falkland Islands, I live in the Falkland Islands, I am a Falkland Islander and I am certain that all Falkland Islanders in the Civil Service will wish me to commend this Motion. Sir, I commend the Motion.

Colonial Secretary: People unfriendly to the Falkland Islands, Your Excellency, will say when they read of this debate "that was a British official talking" and so I am going to shut up and just vote in favour of the Motion.

Mr Clement: Your Excellency, I shall certainly support the Motion.

Mrs. King: I would like to say that I support the Motion.

The Question was put and carried.

Medical Insurance Scheme.

Mr Pitaluga: I beg to move that this Council notes the desirability for an insurance or similar scheme to cover the cost of overseas medical treatment and the necessity for an early investigation into its introduction and working. Your Excellency, the Motion which I have introduced is of major importance to everyone living in these Islands, whether on a temporary or permanent basis and I think it is a great pity that some form of medical insurance was not initiated years ago. I understand that the idea is not new, but for various reasons it has never progressed beyond the idea stage. Things have changed considerably in the last few years and the number of/...

of medical cases sent overseas is on the increase as I will show later on in this speech and this fact, coupled with the uncertainty of our economic future, makes it essential that we now investigate such a scheme to the fullest possible extent to decide whether we can implement it. If we decide to do so, then no time must be lost in launching the scheme.

Our doctors are, and can only be, general practitioners under the Falkland Islands conditions, but they take on far more than any G.P. in England is expected, or even prepared, to do and most of us I think are inclined to take them for granted. It is never likely to be possible for our Medical Department to provide complete treatment for all cases of serious illness or injury but we must be grateful that, because of the high standard of Medical Officers recruited over the years, many really serious cases have been successfully treated here in Stanley. However, no matter how good our doctors, there will always be a limit to what can be treated here and we must face it, there is nothing to be ashamed of, seriously ill or injured people will have to go overseas for specialist treatment. Indeed, we should be grateful that they can, but I feel that the burden of expense should not have to be borne by the person concerned alone or by any possible combination of person, of employer or Government. The load needs to be spread more widely, hence my idea of an Insurance Scheme which I first put forward in my election speech two months ago, an idea which has had much support and for which I have not heard one serious criticism.

In the last five financial years the cost of overseas medical treatment comes to some £17,500 a figure which, under existing agreements, will be mainly shared by the patient, employer and Government. Also in the last five years the number of patients referred overseas comes to 89, beginning with 12 in 1963 and reaching 29 in 1967. I am indebted to the Colonial Treasurer and the S.M.O. for these figures which I have quoted. The figures are considerable. Government cannot afford to carry the whole cost. We have no guarantee that patients and employers will always be able to pay their share. An insurance scheme seems to be the obvious answer and had one been started years ago the difficult working up period would now be behind us and in these uncertain times our sick and injured people and those related to or responsible for them would be free of the additional worry about expense. Apart from the benefits it would bring to our permanent population, the scheme could possibly be a useful carrot to dangle when recruiting people overseas.

Planning such a scheme will pose many problems, some of which may seem insurmountable but if it goes forward, as I sincerely hope it will, I am sure that the planners will deal with every one very thoroughly. The old age pension scheme must have got under way along these lines and at times the whole idea probably seemed impossible but the people responsible got it going and it has been improved in detail almost every year. In our present economic circumstances medical insurance with all the possibilities it offers is just as important to our social welfare as the Old Age Pensions Fund. Your Excellency, that is all I wish to say at this stage and I commit this Motion to Council with expectation.

The Colonial Secretary: There is no question as to the desirability of this scheme. It is a question of practicability, what is practicable, and much will have to be investigated. What type of scheme? Is it going to be Government paying the lot? Do we envisage a contributory scheme on the lines of the O.A.P.? Do we perhaps even think of aided insurance policies where Government would help people to take on their own medical insurance policies? There are many combinations and permutations that will have to be examined.

Of course it will be a very expensive scheme because the moment people have a state medical scheme they will start saying "But I have paid up, so I am going to have my medical treatment willy nilly." The proof of that is the aspirin issue in the United Kingdom under the National Health Scheme. So more people, more and more, will demand medical treatment overseas and we shall have the enormous problem of trying to work out some system whereby these people can be filtered through and given the treatment they really desire without feeling that they have been defrauded of any contributions they may have paid.

One subtle difference between an O.A.P. Scheme and a medical scheme is virtually that an old age pension scheme is based on heads of household, but a medical scheme would be all embracing, so therefore a man with a wife and six children might have to pay eight contributions and I am quite sure that the cost of a scheme overall might well go up to something in the region of £12,000 per annum. This is a complete shot in the dark. I am merely warning of difficulties, I am not shouting this Motion down. In fact I support it, but I do not want people to think it can be easy to bring in a Medical Scheme and if we do have to spend up to £12,000 a year it might be worth noting that one has to invest £200,000 to produce that per annum. Also, when we last looked at the British Hospital scheme we came across a very interesting clause and that was that no one can join the British Hospital scheme in Montevideo - because I know some people are looking in that direction - unless they are declared to be absolutely fit in the first place, which would rule out people who are not absolutely fit.

These are complications, these are problems. They will take time to study and I merely warn of the necessity for time and the necessity for study, but I started off by saying that I think it is desirable. I beg to second the Motion.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I would entirely agree with the Hon. Colonial Secretary. I would support this scheme as well, but I am also well aware - because this has been discussed before in Council - of the difficulties of this scheme. I do not wish to oppose the Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga's Motion. We have got to look into it but it is obviously going to be an expensive one, quite apart from the probable costs that the Hon. Colonial Secretary has referred to. I think it is going to be another Government department or another clerk in the Treasury, because there is going to be an awful lot of book work attached to it. It is going to be an exceedingly difficult one and I do not mind betting it is not concluded at the end of this Council, but I would like to support it entirely because it is fundamentally a good scheme.

I would also like to take this advantage now, Sir, during your address you paid a fine tribute with which the whole Colony would like to be associated, to the outgoing S.M.O., Dr. Slessor. It has been suggested to me that I should also pay a similar tribute for this Council, Sir, and so I would like to record a tribute for the splendid work that has been done by the outgoing S.M.O. in the last 20 years.

Mr Goss: I would like to support the Hon. Member Mr Miller's last remarks with regard to the departure of our S.M.O. and I would also like to support the Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga's Motion with regard to this scheme, subject very much to the Colonial Secretary's remarks that the whole thing requires very close study.

The Question was put and carried.

Reconstitution of Standing Committee on Education.

The Colonial Secretary moved that the Standing Committee of Council, known as the Education Committee, be reconstituted in accordance with Rule 40A (1) of Standing Rules and Orders. The acting Colonial Treasurer seconded, the question was put and the resolution was carried.

Standing Committee on Education : Membership.

The Colonial Secretary moved that the following Hon. Members of Council be appointed to the Standing Committee on Education:

The Hon. Mr R.V. Goss
The Hon. Mrs. N. King
The Hon. Mr R.M. Pitaluga
The Hon. Mr W.H. Clement

and that the quorum shall be one half of the total membership.

The acting Colonial Treasurer seconded, the question was put and the resolution was carried.

Constitution of Standing Committee on Development.

The Colonial Secretary moved that a Standing Committee of Council, to be known as the Development Committee, be constituted in accordance with Rule 40A (1) of the Standing Rules and Orders with the following terms of reference: "The Committee is required to consider and report on any matter concerning the development and natural resources of the Falkland Islands which may be referred to it by Government; the Committee may also make of its own initiative recommendations regarding the development and natural resources of the Colony".

The acting Colonial Treasurer seconded, the question was put and the resolution was carried.

Standing Committee on Development : Membership.

The Colonial Secretary moved that the following Hon. Members of Council be appointed to the Development Committee:

The Hon. Mr S. Miller
The Hon. Mrs. N. King
The Hon. Mr R.M. Pitaluga
The Hon. Mr W.H. Clement
The Hon. Mr R.W. Hills

and that the quorum shall be one half of the total membership.

The acting Colonial Treasurer seconded, the question was put and the resolution was carried.

Standing Committee on Finance : Report for the period October to December 1967.

The acting Colonial Treasurer moved that the Report of the Standing Committee on Finance for the period October to December 1967 be adopted.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, the question was put and

BILLS

The Income Tax (Amendment) Bill 1968

The Colonial Secretary: It is my honour to introduce this the first Bill of the new legislative session.

It is based on the recommendations made by Mr. Guillebaud, the economist, which will be found in paragraphs 94 and 95 of his report.

Any amendment of law dealing with taxation is bound to cause considerable interest and Government does not propose that this Bill should be rushed through with any unseemly haste. It is my duty, therefore, to place this Bill before Council and to move only that it be read a first time. Hon. Members, their constituents and other persons affected by it will have until October to study it and work out its implications and their consequent attitude towards it. Then this Council will be asked to take the Bill through its remaining stages.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The acting Colonial Treasurer seconded and no Hon. Member desiring to speak to the motion the Bill was read a first time.

Appropriation (1968-69) Bill 1968.

The acting Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, this Bill is to appropriate a sum not exceeding £578,590 for the service of the year 1968-69. I shall refer to the ordinary section of the budget first. On account of an improved market price of investments at the end of June 1967, the current year's revenue has been increased by a Savings Bank transfer. The original transfer anticipated from the Savings Bank was only £28,000 but the actual transfer amounted to £80,000. This is not the only contributing factor but it is the main one. Not only has it offset the anticipated deficit of £33,000, it has resulted in producing a surplus of £15,000. That is in the ordinary revenue and expenditure for the current year, 1967-68. The reserves supporting the ordinary revenue and expenditure are now forecast to exceed £200,000 at the commencement of the new financial year on 1st July 1968.

And now 1968-69. With expenditure estimated at £476,000 and revenue at £340,000 the ordinary budget for 1968-69 is not a balanced one and a deficit of £136,000 will have to be met from reserves. No single item is responsible for this very large deficit although the poor selling price - 40.8 pence per pound - of the 1966-67 wool clip, is the major single factor contributing to it.

Investment income is £38,000 less than in 1967-68. There are two reasons for this. First, it is not expected that the market value for Savings Bank investments will improve before the 30th June 1968 to allow a transfer from the Savings Bank to Colony revenue in 1968-69. Second, the reductions in our reserves automatically reduces the interest from investments. This has been influenced to a large extent by expenditure on the development programme, for instance, the purchase of aircraft and a cargo vessel.

Expenditure/...

Expenditure increases are recorded in most Departments' expenditure heads and not attributed to any single factor but such items as conditions of service, improved conditions of service, de-valuation of the pound, have influenced the expenditure, in particular passage costs. Improvements in social welfare is also a contributory factor. £5,000 has been inserted for repairs to the tarmacadam roads. The subsidisation of the "Darwin" is expected to cost £24,000 instead of £16,500.

The deficit would be greater had it not been for the estimated initial sales of postage stamps. After allowing for the printing costs and other charges, it is expected that the initial sales of the proposed new issues will produce about £30,000 more than the normal annual revenue for postage stamps.

Turning to the development side of the estimates, the following new schemes are proposed for 1968-69: Re-surfacing of Stanley roads which will include King Street, Halkett's Hill and part of Snake Street, is estimated at £12,000; the extension and improvement of our post office £16,800; road to the wireless station £10,000; a fire engine £3,000; and stage 1 of construction of the airfield £11,000. It is hoped that we will be granted money from the Colonial Development and Welfare fund to cover about 80% of this expenditure.

The revised estimated expenditure from the Colony's development fund during 1967-68 is expected to be £61,000. For the 1968-69 financial year it is estimated that expenditure to be borne by the Colony's fund will be £17,164 for development and after allowing for estimated further commitments the balance of the fund at the 30th June 1969, is estimated at approximately £157,000.

I am afraid the 1968-69 budget is gloomy. There are no revenue raising proposals or expenditure cuts proposed at this stage. Reserves are available to meet the deficit but I must add a note of warning that the economic position of the Colony is critical and some remedial action must be taken soon if the prospects do not brighten.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

The acting Colonial Treasurer, seconded by the Colonial Secretary, moved that the Bill be read a second time.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I do think my Hon. Friend the acting Colonial Treasurer sounded a frightful note of gloom and we do not want the press sending out the sort of message that the Falklands are just about broke and their pockets will be inside out by about the end of August, or something like that. I know this Council, the Select Committee, has got a lot of hard thinking to do this next few days and we are obviously not going to balance that budget. We just haven't got it and I do not think we can make any big deductions from it either. Even the sort of ways we could increase indirect taxation will probably hurt a few people's feelings but it will not produce much cash and I do think it is wrong to have too much gloom about these things. We read in last mail's papers that the Seychelles, which is a pretty small unit also, were given three million just to build an airfield. I know we are not asking for three million, or even thinking about it, but I do not think it is going to be so terribly difficult in the future, to sound/...

sound a note of optimism, when we are completely broke, as we will probably be this time next year as far as reserves go, to expect some help from Britain. In fact, in that connection, though this is probably a little ^{bit} out of place, in the earlier Motion of the Hon. Member on my left about the Foreign Secretary, he referred to the Colony's war effort towards the old country. It was a magnificent effort but it was the effort of all Britons overseas who went to help the mother country when she was in difficulties. They have done that for hundreds of years. But it is also reciprocal. If we are in difficulties, as we could be any moment now, we expect the mother country immediately to rush out here and do something about it and I think it is the same thing financially and I do not think we need be as gloomy as my Hon. Friend, who is very correct in his figures, suggests.

Mr Goss: Well, Sir, I would like neither to agree specifically with the Hon. the Colonial Treasurer or specifically with the Hon. Member Mr Miller, but I would like to talk to this particular point on the Motion for the adjournment.

The Colonial Secretary: I would like to rise to support my Hon. Friend the acting Colonial Treasurer, Sir, because he is sounding what I call the note of official gloom and he has a duty to sound this note of official gloom because there is a big deficit in the Estimates. But I do not see collapse tomorrow at all and you know my feelings, Sir, and I tend to think that we can remain afloat on our own resources for a considerable time to come. But this note must be sounded and people must start thinking about it and so I support my Hon. Friend's official gloom with a happy smile on my face.

The Bill was read a second time.

The Colonial Secretary moved that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee of the House. The acting Colonial Treasurer seconded. The question was put and the resolution carried and the President appointed a Select Committee in terms of Rule 43 of Standing Rules and Orders.

Council adjourned at 12:30 p.m.

Council resumed at 11:30 a.m. on Friday 24th May.

The prayer was read by the Reverend P.J. Millan.

NOTIONS

Constitution of Committee on Public Accounts.

The Colonial Secretary moved that a Standing Committee of Council, to be known as the Public Accounts Committee, be constituted in accordance with Rule 40A(1) of the Standing Rules and/...

and Orders with the following terms of reference. "The Committee is required to examine and report on the public accounts of the Colony. The Committee shall make examination of the accounts on its own initiative or in response to an invitation to do so by the Governor or the Colonial Secretary."

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, all Hon. Members have discussed the formation of a Public Accounts Committee during the Select Committee on the Estimates and they are in favour and, accordingly, I beg to move that a Standing Committee of this Council be appointed with the terms of reference read out by the Clerk.

Mr Goss seconded, the question was put and the resolution was carried.

Head XIV - Power and Electrical - Delete Item 16 - Improvements to Power Station - £1,425; Insert new Item - Gantry and Lighting - £425; Head XV - Public Works - Reduce Item 1 (vii) - Four carpenters from £3,560 to £2,820; Head XVII - Public Works Special - Delete Item 5 - car park Police Station £450; Head XVIII - Secretariat and Treasury - Delete Item 16 - Office Furniture - £50. Head XX - Social Welfare - decrease Item 2 - Family Allowances from £5,200 to £3,900.

The effect of these amendments will be explained when the Bill comes to the Committee Stage.

In the Committee Stage clause 1, the enacting clause and title were agreed and consideration of clause 2 was deferred until after consideration of the schedule.

The acting Colonial Treasurer, seconded by the Colonial Secretary, moved that the schedule should stand part of the Bill subject to the following amendments:

Head	Delete £	Insert £
I The Governor	11,493	11,559
II Agriculture	4,968	4,643
VI Education	65,058	61,778
VII Medical	47,468	47,568
VIII Meteorological	1,780	1,760
IX Military	4,370	4,180
XIII Posts and Telecommunications	65,738	65,883
XIV Power and Electrical	26,265	25,265
XV Public Works	24,243	23,503
XVII Public Works Special	6,800	6,350

XX Social Welfare	16,100	14,800
Total Ordinary Expenditure	475,546	468,502
Total Expenditure	578,590	571,546

It was agreed that the schedule, as amended, should stand part of the Bill and that clause 2 be subject to the following amendment:

Delete the figures £578,590 and insert £571,546.

The Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Family Allowances (Amendment) Bill 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, Hon. Members of this Council have considered the proposition put to them by the Governor in Council that family allowances should be raised and accordingly I introduce this Bill which makes provision for the amendment of the Family Allowances Ordinance. It is proposed that the increase shall be in respect of the third and subsequent children in a family. That is to say, that the older children in the family, the first two, shall still retain the usual family allowance of 10/- but that in respect of children after that, the third and subsequent ones, the allowance shall be at the rate of one pound. I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

Mr Goss/...

Mr Goss seconded the Motion and the Bill was read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary: I beg to move that the Bill be read a second time.

Mr Goss: I beg to second the Motion. Your Excellency, I very much welcome this Bill and the attention that Council has given to it. All I would like to draw attention to at this stage is that there is a possibility, I say a possibility, that family allowances may become taxable in the future.

The Bill was read a second time, passed through the Committee stage without amendment and, on further motion made and seconded, was read a third time and passed.

Motion for adjournment.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, I beg to move that this House stands adjourned sine die.

Mr Goss: Your Excellency, in rising to second the Motion I seek your permission to say a few words with regard to our Colony. From your own remarks in your address to Council and from those of the Hon. acting Colonial Treasurer in presenting the estimates for the 1968/69 financial year, it is very obvious that our economy is a very long way from being as buoyant as we require it to be to meet our increasingly heavy financial commitments.

The Hon. Member, Mr Hills, has also mentioned difficulties affecting our economy. The fall in wool prices is already having an effect on our revenue as our total economy is based solely on the wool industry. The Guillebaud report states that the present level of expenditure can be financed so long as wool commands a price which is over 50 pence per pound - see paragraph 85. The average Colony wool sales for 1966 produced a figure of 49.21 pence per pound. The same sales in 1967 fell to 40.38 pence. The 1968 sales are yet any man's guess but I am advised that the early April sales of this year are indicative of a par with those for 1967 in so far that they can be said to indicate anything at all.

I know it has been said that we have managed in the past when wool prices were exceedingly low and these prices are very much higher now, but so are our standards, our living conditions, the things we eat, clothes we wear, general maintenance, the cost of machinery, etc. etc., salaries and so on. We have progressed and let there be no mistake that we aim for further progress. Surely our future is not to be a see-saw, so to speak, on the present rate of wool production.

Your Excellency, our industry has been slowly developing over the years, much more so with particular reference to certain sheep farming industries or interests, but it seems to me that our industry requires further overall and much more rapid development if we are to have the slightest hope of maintaining our present standards of services in competition with falling wool prices. A large initial capital investment is essential towards achieving this aim and I suggest that a suitable injection or induction of cash/...

cash be sought from Her Majesty's Government at an early date to aid the further development of our sheep farming industry and to show confirmation of Britain's continued support and belief in the future of these Islands.

Also, in view of our urgent problems in connection with claims on our sovereignty and the difficulties we are facing economically with regard to raising revenue, I ask that you, Sir, prevail upon Her Majesty's Government to send a Minister to these Islands at an early date.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I would like to support the Motion that we have just heard from my Hon. Friend on my left. There is nothing particular that I want to refer to in his speech but I would, before I go any further, like to take this opportunity of showing the appreciation of this Council, for the work done by the administration in this Colony. We have just been sitting for several days over a budget which has been an unpleasant one to look at but in all these Departments, standing out so clearly, is the efficiency and paring with which the estimates have been done. We have found that we could take very little off it to help the Colony's economy. In fact, what we have taken off, in better times would have no business to come off. I am quite sure the rest of Council would join with me in a record of our appreciation of the efficient administration on the financial side of our Government.

Further to that, Sir, the Hon. Member, Mr Goss, put the picture quite well. The Hon. acting Colonial Treasurer put it even more clearly, although I know I criticised what I called the gloom of his speech but he was quite right. But there is quite a bit in us yet, at least financially, we are not quite broke yet and even when we have balanced this budget we won't be broke. We have this very efficient acting Colonial Treasurer not being able to put even token figures on the revenue side that we would have liked to get but we stand a good chance of getting next year. So it is not quite as gloomy as that.

But on Britain's record, oh as far back as one likes to think, she has not been slow in coming forward with money in respect of any part, to any Colony anywhere. We are in a strong position of never having asked for a grant in aid yet, a very strong position. We have had help from Colonial Development and Welfare for development work and we found Britain willing to help. I know one does not want to base the economy on optimism but optimism does help and if we look back through Britain's record we should feel fairly comfortable. It has been stressed as well that the Falkland Islands are in a difficult position, having a single economy, but it is not the only part of what was the British Empire with a single economy. Mauritius, which has just become an independent state, nation, within the British Commonwealth, has a single economy, absolutely and entirely single economy. In fact I do not think we can really say that our economy is 100 per cent wool, it is probably about 95 per cent. Mauritius is 100 per cent dependent upon sugar. Mauritius has now become independent. The sugar market may become difficult but I am quite sure in the case of Mauritius Her Majesty's Government will help, although Mauritius is now an independent nation. I would still like to sound that note of optimism.

Referring to the last thing that my Hon. Friend on my left said about the Minister, Sir. It is absolutely imperative that we get one, we not only ask you to prevail upon Her Majesty's Government to/...

to send one, we ask you, as far as you can, to keep a finger on the button with whatever department is needed. We must have a man, we want a man as senior as we can get, because if we are going to start asking for things we want Her Majesty's Government to know a lot more about us. They know a certain amount but there is an awful lot they do not know. It is not a question of asking for a visit. We have virtually got to demand a visit from a fairly senior visitor and fairly soon, within the next few months. I am quite sure, knowing Your Excellency's actions in the past and present with this Colony, that you will keep your finger on the button.

Mr Pitaluga: In rising to give the Hon. Member, Mr Goss, full support for this Motion which he has introduced, there is just one small point on which I would like to challenge him and that is he said that the economy of the Colony see-saws on the production of wool. I think it is rather better to say that it see-saws on the sale of that wool. Production is fairly constant. However, I do fully support this Motion and I think it is an excellent one. We must pocket our pride sooner or later, I think, if that is the expression to use, and ask for assistance other than that which we get under C.D. and W. grants and I do feel it is much better to ask now before we really need it.

I welcome too the Hon. Member's suggestion that a Minister comes and visits these Islands and sees things at first hand. This is absolutely essential. That is all I have to say. Thank you, Sir.

The President: The Motion is that this house stands adjourned sine die.

Before our meeting comes to a close I would like to thank Hon. Members for the part they have played in the very interesting debates which we have heard during this meeting of Council. The Hon. Member, Mr Miller, was kind enough to comment favourably on the standard of work done by the civil servants in this Colony. I certainly would completely endorse what the Hon. Member has said. It is rarely that we have the opportunity to say that our Heads of Departments and all who work under them do in fact do an extremely good job of work here and I think that the Falkland Islands is particularly lucky in the people we have. We are going to have then, many of them, for several years to come but of course the time will come when some Heads of Departments will be reaching retirement age. We hope that some may continue on after retirement age in one capacity or another but the training of their successors is something which also is occupying the attention of your Government and we always have to keep an eye open for opportunities to give a chance to those who are in the middle grades as well. I think throughout the service we can be satisfied that the standard of work and of devotion to duty is very high.

I have noted the point made by the Hon. Member, Mr Goss, and by the Hon. Member, Mr Miller, regarding inviting a Minister from Her Majesty's Government to visit the Falkland Islands. I am quite certain that this is an excellent suggestion and one which I will certainly do my best to see comes about. I think it is extremely important that those in positions of authority in Whitehall and Westminster should be fully aware at first hand of our problems here.

I/...

I would like, before we close, just also to comment on the fact that it was encouraging, I think Hon. Members will have found it encouraging, that on Monday last we had a full gallery at the debates which took place that morning and this is something one would like to see repeated on future occasions. The Legislative Council has got a very vital role to play in the affairs of the Colony and it is right and proper that the general public should be encouraged to see what in fact does go on and should take a full interest in everything which is done in this Council.

The Motion is that this House stands adjourned sine die. Any objection to the Motion? No objection. The House stands adjourned accordingly.

Title.

(, 1968)

Date of commencement.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Enacting clause.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Pensions (Amendment) Ordinance, 1968.

Short title.

2. Section 6 of the Pensions Ordinance, 1965, is amended by the deletion, in paragraph (a) of subsection (1), of sub-paragraph (i) and the substitution therefor of the following —

Amendment of section 6. 6 of 1965.

“(i) on attaining the age of sixty years, or, with the approval of the Governor in Council, on or after attaining the age of fifty-five years, or in special cases, with the approval of the Secretary of State, on or after attaining the age of fifty years;”.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

The provision of this Bill requires an officer to retire from the public service under the Government of the Colony on attaining the age of sixty years.

Ref. 0829/IV.

A Bill for An Ordinance

To amend the Lotteries Ordinance.

Title.

(, 1968)

Date of commencement.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Enacting clause.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Lotteries (Amendment) Ordinance, 1968.

Short title.

2. The Lotteries Ordinance, is amended by the addition, after section 8 of the following new sections —

Addition of new sections 8A., 8B., and 8C. Cap. 41.

“Exemption of small lotteries incidental to certain entertainments.

8A. (1) Where a lottery is promoted as an incident of an entertainment to which this section applies, that lottery shall not be unlawful but the conditions set out in subsection (2) of this section shall be observed in connection with its promotion and conduct and, if any of those conditions is contravened, every person concerned in the promotion or conduct of the lottery shall be guilty of an offence unless he proves that the contravention occurred without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all due diligence to prevent it.

(2) The conditions referred to in the foregoing subsection are that —

- (a) the whole proceeds of the entertainment (including the proceeds of the lottery) after deducting —
 - (i) the expenses of the entertainment, excluding expenses incurred in connection with the lottery; and
 - (ii) the expenses incurred in printing tickets in the lottery; and
 - (iii) such sum, if any, as the promoters of the lottery think fit to appropriate on account of any expense incurred by them in purchasing prizes in the lottery, shall be devoted to purposes other than private gain;

- (b) none of the prizes in the lottery shall be money prizes; and
- (c) the facilities afforded for participating in lotteries shall not be the only, or the only substantial, inducement to persons to attend the entertainment.

(3) The entertainments to which this section applies are bazaars, sales of work, fetes, dinners, dances, sporting or athletic events and other entertainments of a similar character, whether limited to one day or extending over two or more days.

(4) Any person guilty of an offence under this section shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £50 and in the case of a second or any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £100 or imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such fine and imprisonment.

Exemption of private lotteries.

8B. (1) In this section, the expression "private lottery" means a lottery in the Colony which is promoted for, and in which the sale of tickets or chances by the promoters is confined to, either —

- (a) members of one society established and conducted for purposes not connected with gaming, betting or lotteries; or
- (b) persons all of whom work on the same premises; or
- (c) persons all of whom reside on the same premises,

and which is promoted by persons each of whom is a person to whom under the foregoing provisions of this subsection tickets or chances may be sold by the promoters and, in the case of a lottery promoted for the members of a society, is a person authorised by the governing body of the society to promote the lottery; and for the purposes of this section, the expression "society" includes a club, institution, organisation or other association of persons by whatever name called, and each local or affiliated branch or section of a society shall be regarded as a separate and distinct society.

(2) A private lottery shall not be unlawful, but the following conditions shall be observed in connection with its promotion and conduct, that is to say —

- (a) the whole proceeds, after deducting only expenses incurred for printing and stationery, shall be devoted to the provision of prizes for purchasers of tickets or chances, or, in the case of a lottery promoted for the members of a society, shall be devoted either —
 - (i) to the provision of prizes as aforesaid; or
 - (ii) to purposes which are purposes of the society; or
 - (iii) as to part to the provision of prizes as aforesaid and as to the remainder to such purposes as aforesaid.
- (b) there shall not be exhibited, published or distributed any written notice or advertisement of the lottery other than —
 - (i) a notice thereof exhibited on the premises of the society for whose members it is promoted or, as the case may be, on the premises on which the persons for whom it is promoted work or reside; and
 - (ii) such announcement or advertisement thereof as is contained in the tickets if any.
- (c) no tickets in the lottery shall be sent through the post.

(3) If any of the conditions set out in subsection (2) of this section is contravened, each of the promoters of the lottery, and, where the person by whom the condition is broken is not one of the promoters, that person also, shall be guilty of an offence:

Provided that it shall be a defence for a person charged only by reason of his being a promoter of the lottery to prove that the contravention occurred without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all due diligence to prevent it.

"Housie-housie",
"tombola" or
"bingo".

8c. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Ordinance, the Treasurer may issue to any person or class of persons a licence to conduct the playing of the game commonly known as "housie-housie", "tombola" or "bingo".

(2) Where a licence has been issued under the provisions of subsection (1) of this section the playing of such game in accordance with the terms of such licence shall not be deemed to be an unlawful lottery.

(3) The Treasurer may, under this section, refuse to issue a licence at his discretion.

(4) It shall be a condition of the grant of the licence that the promoters shall on the day succeeding the playing of the game produce to the Treasurer a true balance sheet showing that all moneys received have been paid for necessary expenses and prize money in connection with the game and such evidence as he may require in verification thereof and shall thereupon pay the Treasurer 10 per centum of the gross takings.

- (i) the amount so paid shall be paid into the General Revenue of the Colony;
- (ii) the provisions of this section shall not apply to games operated in aid of any charitable purpose approved by the Governor:

Provided that in all games the prize moneys shall not be less than 80 per centum of the gross takings.

(5) Any person to whom a licence is refused by the Treasurer, under this section, may appeal to the Governor in Council within thirty days of such refusal. The Governor in Council may confirm such refusal or order the Treasurer to issue a licence to the applicant."

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill exempts:

- (a) small lotteries incidental to bazaars, sales of work, etc.;
- (b) private lotteries confined to a club, persons all of whom work on the same premises, an organisation or an association;

from the provisions of the Lotteries Ordinance and allows under licence the playing of the game commonly known as "housie-housie", "tombola" or "bingo".

A Bill for
An Ordinance

Further to amend the Pensions (Increase)
Ordinance, 1959.

Title.

(, 1968)

Date of commencement.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows—

Enacting clause.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Pensions (Increase) (Amendment) Ordinance, 1968, and shall be read as one with the Pensions (Increase) Ordinance, 1959, hereinafter referred to as the principal Ordinance.

Short title.

No. 12 of 1959.

2. The principal Ordinance is amended by the insertion immediately after section 7B of the following new section 7C—

Insertion of new section
7C.

"Increase of pensions as from 1st January 1966.

7C. Subject to the provisions of this Ordinance where an officer has retired—

- (1) (a) from the service of the Falkland Islands before the 2nd July 1961, or
- (b) from the service of a Scheduled Government before the effective date of the fourth general revision of salaries by that Government after the 31st December 1944, his pension may, in respect of any period beginning on or after the 1st January 1966, be increased by an amount equal to sixteen per cent of the adjusted rate of that pension;

(2) (a) from the service of the Falkland Islands after the 1st July 1961, and before the 2nd July 1963; or

(b) from the service of a Scheduled Government on or after the effective date of the fourth and before the effective date of the fifth general revision of salaries by that Government after the 31st December 1944, his pension may, in respect of any period beginning on or after the 1st January 1966, be increased by an amount equal to six per cent of the adjusted rate of that pension:

(3) (a) from the service of the Falkland Islands after the 1st July 1963, and before the 2nd January 1966, or

(b) from the service of a Scheduled Government on or after the effective date of the fifth and before the effective date of the sixth general revision of salaries by that Government after the 31st December 1944,

his pension may, in respect of any period beginning on or after the 1st January 1966, be increased by an amount equal to two per cent of the adjusted rate of that pension:

Provided that the Governor may direct that in the application of paragraphs (1) (b), (2) (b) and (3) (b) of this section the effective dates of any other general revision of salaries by the Scheduled Government as he may determine to be appropriate shall be substituted for the effective dates of the fourth, fifth and sixth such revisions."

OBJECTS AND REASONS

To authorise increases in the pensions of retired civil servants in the manner adopted by the United Kingdom in 1965. The proposed increases are related to the general salaries increases that have been authorised in the territory from which the officer retired and are —

1. Where the Officer retired from an appointment in the Colony —

- (a) before 2nd July 1961 — sixteen per cent;
- (b) after 1st July 1961 but before 2nd July 1963 — six per cent;
- (c) after 1st July 1963 but before 2nd January 1966 — two per cent.

2. Where the Officer, having previously served in the Colony, retired from an appointment in a scheduled territory —

- (a) before the effective date of the fourth general salaries revision of that territory since 31st December 1944 — sixteen per cent;
- (b) after the effective date of the fourth general salaries revision of that territory but before the effective date of the fifth general salaries revision — six per cent;
- (c) after the effective date of the fifth general salaries revision of that territory but before the effective date of the sixth general salaries revision — two per cent.

Where reference to the date of a salaries revision in any territory is inappropriate to the purposes of the Bill the Governor is empowered to issue directives to regulate the matter.

Insertion of new section
82A.

4. Part VI of the principal Ordinance is amended by the insertion immediately before section 83 of the following new section —

"Persons
drunk.

82A. (1) Every person who shall be found drunk and incapable in any public place shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on conviction to a penalty not exceeding £1 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven days, and on any subsequent conviction shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month.

Drunk and disorderly.

(2) Every person, who while drunk —

(a) is guilty in any public place of disorderly or indecent behaviour; or

(b) is in possession of any firearm, shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on conviction to a penalty not exceeding £5 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month and on any subsequent conviction shall be liable to a penalty of £20 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months.

(3) Any person who is reasonably believed to be committing any offence under this section or under section 29 of this Ordinance may be arrested without warrant.

(4) In this section "public place" includes any highway, road and any other premises or place to which at the material time the public have or are permitted to have access, whether on payment or otherwise."

OBJECTS AND REASONS

The objects of this Bill are:

- (a) to increase the fee for a "Packet Licence" from £5 to £10;
- (b) to provide a penalty under local law for the offence of being found drunk or drunk and disorderly; and
- (c) to enable the police to arrest without warrant any person found drunk, drunk and disorderly, or against whom a prohibition order has been made found under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drunk.

Ref. 1092.

Amendment of section 9.

4. Section 9 of the principal Ordinance is amended by the deletion of the words "years at the least" and the substitution therefor of the words "consecutive years immediately".

Amendment of section 11.

5. Section 11 of the principal Ordinance is amended —

- (a) by the insertion after the words "prescribed manner" of the commas and words ", within six months from the date of his departure from the Colony,";
- (b) by the deletion of the full stop and the substitution therefor of a colon; and
- (c) by the insertion of the following proviso —
 "Provided that where sufficient cause is shown to the Board, it may extend the period of six months."

Amendment of section 14.

6. Section 14 of the principal Ordinance is amended, in subsection (1), by the insertion after the words "employed person" of the commas and words ", in the Colony,".

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill provides for —

- (a) the payment of contributions under the Old Age Pensions Ordinance, 1952, by and in respect of contributors who are temporarily absent from the Colony;
- (b) the amendment of the minimum qualifying period for an old age pension of 10 years to 10 years immediately preceding the attainment of the age of 60 years; and
- (c) the withdrawal of contributions by contributors leaving the Colony permanently within six months of the date of their departure.

A Bill for
An Ordinance
Further to amend the Income Tax
Ordinance. Title.

(1st January 1969)

Date of commencement.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Enacting clause.

1. (1) This Ordinance may be cited as the Income Tax (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance, 1968, and shall be read as one with the Income Tax Ordinance, hereinafter referred to as the principal Ordinance.

Short title.

Cap. 32.

(2) The provisions of this Ordinance shall have effect with respect to profits tax chargeable for the year of assessment commencing on the 1st day of January 1969, and for all subsequent years of assessment.

Commencement.

2. Section (2A) of section 21 of the principal Ordinance is amended —

Amendment of section 21.

- (a) in lines 6 and 7 thereof by the deletion of the words "2/- for every £1 of the chargeable income" and the substitution therefor of "4/- for every £1 of the chargeable income";
- (b) in lines 7 and 8 thereof by the deletion of the words "1/6 for every £1 of the chargeable income" and the substitution therefor of "3/- for every £1 of the chargeable income";
- (c) by the substitution of a semi-colon for the full-stop at the end of paragraph (i) and the addition of the following paragraphs —

- “(j) from the profits tax payable for the year of assessment one thousand nine hundred and sixty-nine and for each subsequent year of assessment there shall be deducted a rebate based on qualifying expenditure (to be referred to as an “investment allowance”) which shall be deductible from the profits tax at the rate of 10/- where the rate of profits tax is 4/-, and at the rate of 7/6 where the rate of profits tax is 3/-;
- (k) where the profits subject to profits tax are between £2,000 and £12,000 and abatement under section 21 (2A) (c) has been claimed the amount of investment otherwise allowable shall be reduced to the proportion which the chargeable income after deduction of the abatement bears to the chargeable income before such abatement;
- (l) no investment allowance shall be allowable when the profits are less than £2,000, and the deduction of investment allowance from profits tax shall be limited to 50% of the amount of profits tax in any one year of assessment:
- Provided that where investment allowance has been disallowed by reason of such excess it may be carried forward to the next succeeding year of assessment;
- (m) subject to the limitation contained in (l) capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowance incurred since 1st January 1960 may be taken into account;
- (n) capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowance shall be restricted to the following —
- i. New sub-division fencing, excluding replacement fencing, erected for the sole purpose of holding sheep for the improvement of grasslands;
 - ii. New plant or machinery used wholly for Grasslands Improvement Schemes;
- and to qualify for such investment allowance shall be certified by the Grasslands Officer to have been expended in such improvements in relation to the year of assessment;
- (o) where it is shewn to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Income Tax that a trade or business is of such a nature that qualifying expenditure could not have been incurred, he may by order reduce the rate of profits tax payable by 50%.”.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

To implement the proposals made by Mr. C. W. Guillebaud, C.B.E., at paragraph 88 in his report designed to encourage Sheepfarming Companies to invest some of their profits in a manner that will increase farm products.

Provision is made —

1. To double the profits tax on Sheepfarming Companies and in conjunction with this to introduce an investment allowance in order to enable capital investment for pasture improvement to be set off against the additional rate in the £ profits tax.
2. To limit the amount of the investment allowance in any one year, so that profits tax assessment would not fall below what would have been paid had there been no increase in profits tax and no approved investment.
3. To make provision for capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowances incurred since 1st January 1960 to be taken into account.
4. To restrict capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowance to pasture improvement.
5. To provide for exemption from the increased rate when the business is such that capital expenditure of the nature that qualifies for investment allowances could not have been incurred.

A Bill for An Ordinance

Title. Further to amend the Immigration
Ordinance, 1965.

Date of commencement. (1968 , 1968)

Enacting clause. BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Short title. 1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Immigration (Amendment) Ordinance, 1968.

Amendment of section 11.
10 of 1965. 2. Section 11 of the Immigration Ordinance, 1965, is amended, by the insertion, after subsection (4), of the following new subsections —

“(5) The Immigration Officer may require any person seeking a new Employment Permit, under subsection (4) of this section, to deposit such sum as the Immigration Officer may specify or to furnish security for such amount as the Immigration Officer may deem sufficient.

(6) An appeal shall lie from a decision of the Immigration Officer under subsection (5) of this section to the Governor in Council whose decision shall be final.”.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

The amendments made to the Immigration Ordinance, 1965, by this Bill, empower the Immigration Officer to require a person seeking a new Employment Permit to make a deposit or enter into a bond for the purpose of defraying any expenses incurred by the Government in connexion with the maintenance and repatriation of that person and provides for appeal from the decision of the Immigration Officer in such matters.

SCHEDULE

ARRANGEMENT BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT OF THE FALKLAND ISLANDS AND HER MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT IN THE UNITED KINGDOM TO AMEND THE EXISTING ARRANGEMENT FOR THE AVOIDANCE OF DOUBLE TAXATION AND THE PREVENTION OF FISCAL EVASION WITH RESPECT TO TAXES ON INCOME.

1. The Arrangement made in 1949 between His Majesty's Government and the Government of the Falkland Islands for the avoidance of double taxation and the prevention of fiscal evasion with respect to taxes on income (hereinafter referred to as "the existing Arrangement") shall be amended —

(a) by the addition at the end of paragraph 6 of the following new sub-paragraph —

"(3) If the recipient of a dividend is a company which owns 10 per cent. or more of the class of shares in respect of which the dividend is paid then sub-paragraph (1) shall not apply to the dividend to the extent that it can have been paid only out of profits which the company paying the dividend earned or other income which it received in a period ending twelve months or more before the relevant date. For the purposes of this sub-paragraph the term "relevant date" means the date on which the beneficial owner of the dividend became the owner of 10 per cent. or more of the class of shares in question.

Provided that this sub-paragraph shall not apply if the beneficial owner of the dividend shows that the shares were acquired for bona fide commercial reasons and not primarily for the purpose of securing the benefit of this paragraph."; and

(b) by the substitution for sub-paragraphs (1) and (2) of paragraph 13 of the following two new sub-paragraphs —

"(1) Subject to the provisions of the law of the United Kingdom regarding the allowance as a credit against United Kingdom tax of tax payable in a territory outside the United Kingdom (which shall not affect the general principle hereof) —

(a) Colonial tax payable under the laws of the Colony and in accordance with this Arrangement, whether directly or by deduction, on profits or income from sources within the Colony shall be allowed as a credit against any United Kingdom tax computed by reference to the same profits or income by reference to which the Colonial tax is computed.

Provided that in the case of a dividend the credit shall only take into account such tax in respect thereof as is additional to any tax payable by the company on the profits out of which the dividend is paid and is ultimately borne by the recipient without reference to any tax so payable.

- (b) Where a company which is a resident of the Colony pays a dividend to a company resident in the United Kingdom which controls directly or indirectly at least 10 per cent. of the voting power in the first-mentioned company, the credit shall take into account (in addition to any Colonial tax for which credit may be allowed under (a) of this sub-paragraph) the Colonial tax payable by that first-mentioned company in respect of the profits out of which such dividend is paid.
- (2) Subject to the provisions of the law of the Colony regarding the allowance as a credit against Colonial tax of tax payable in a territory outside the Colony (which shall not affect the general principle hereof) —
- (a) United Kingdom tax payable under the laws of the United Kingdom and in accordance with this Arrangement, whether directly or by deduction, on profits or income from sources within the United Kingdom shall be allowed as a credit against any Colonial tax computed by reference to the same profits or income by reference to which the United Kingdom tax is computed.

Provided that in the case of a dividend the credit shall only take into account such tax in respect thereof as is additional to any tax payable by the company on the profits out of which the dividend is paid and is ultimately borne by the recipient without reference to any tax so payable.

- (b) Where a company which is a resident of the United Kingdom pays a dividend to a company resident in the Colony which controls directly or indirectly at least 10 per cent. of the voting power in the first-mentioned company, the credit shall take into account (in addition to any United Kingdom tax for which credit may be allowed under (a) of this sub-paragraph) the United Kingdom tax payable by that first-mentioned company in respect of the profits out of which such dividend is paid."

2. This Arrangement shall enter into force when the last of all such things shall have been done in the United Kingdom and the Colony as are necessary to give the Arrangement the force of law in the United Kingdom and the Colony respectively, and the new sub-paragraph (3) of paragraph 6 of the existing Arrangement shall have effect immediately and the new sub-paragraphs (1) and (2) of paragraph 13 thereof shall have effect —

- (a) in the United Kingdom —
- (i) as respects income tax (including surtax), for any year of assessment beginning on or after 6 April 1968; and
- (ii) as respects corporation tax, for any financial year beginning on or after 1 April 1968;
- (b) in the Colony —
- as respects Colonial tax, for any year of assessment beginning on or after 1 January 1968.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Order.)

This Arrangement makes two amendments to the Arrangement between the United Kingdom and the Falkland Islands which is scheduled to the Double Taxation Relief (Taxes on Income) (Falkland Islands) Order 1949.

First it provides that the exemption of dividends from any tax chargeable in addition to the tax on the paying company's profits is not to be allowed in certain cases where the shareholder is a company having a substantial holding in the paying company. The restriction does not apply to dividends on shares acquiring for bona fide commercial reasons.

Secondly, it amends paragraph 13 of the 1949 Arrangement in its application to dividends by providing that credit for tax on the profits out of which dividends are paid, whether the tax is deducted from the dividends or not, is to be given only where the recipient is a company which holds not less than 10 per cent. of the voting power in the paying company. So far as United Kingdom income tax is concerned this provision takes effect from the year of assessment 1968/69.

An Ordinance
To amend the Lotteries Ordinance.

Title.

Date of commencement.

Enacting clause.

Short title.

Addition of new sections
8A., 8B., and 8C.
Cap. 41.

(7th November 1968)

ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows—

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Lotteries (Amendment) Ordinance, 1968.

2. The Lotteries Ordinance, is amended by the addition, after section 8 of the following new sections—

"Exemption of small lotteries incidental to certain entertainments.

8A. (1) Where a lottery is promoted as an incident of an entertainment to which this section applies, that lottery shall not be unlawful but the conditions set out in subsection (2) of this section shall be observed in connection with its promotion and conduct and, if any of those conditions is contravened, every person concerned in the promotion or conduct of the lottery shall be guilty of an offence unless he proves that the contravention occurred without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all due diligence to prevent it.

(2) The conditions referred to in the foregoing subsection are that—

- (a) the whole proceeds of the entertainment (including the proceeds of the lottery) after deducting—
- (i) the expenses of the entertainment, excluding expenses incurred in connection with the lottery; and
 - (ii) the expenses incurred in printing tickets in the lottery; and
 - (iii) such sum, if any, as the promoters of the lottery think fit to appropriate on account of any expense incurred by them in purchasing prizes in the lottery,

shall be devoted to purposes other than private gain;

- (b) none of the prizes in the lottery shall be money prizes; and
- (c) the facilities afforded for participating in lotteries shall not be the only, or the only substantial, inducement to persons to attend the entertainment.

(3) The entertainments to which this section applies are bazaars, sales of work, fetes, dinners, dances, sporting or athletic events and other entertainments of a similar character, whether limited to one day or extending over two or more days.

(4) Any person guilty of an offence under this section shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £50 and in the case of a second or any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £100 or imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months or to both such fine and imprisonment.

Exemption of private lotteries.

8B. (1) In this section, the expression "private lottery" means a lottery in the Colony which is promoted for, and in which the sale of tickets or chances by the promoters is confined to, either —

- (a) members of one society established and conducted for purposes not connected with gaming, betting or lotteries; or
- (b) persons all of whom work on the same premises; or
- (c) persons all of whom reside on the same premises,

and which is promoted by persons each of whom is a person to whom under the foregoing provisions of this subsection tickets or chances may be sold by the promoters and, in the case of a lottery promoted for the members of a society, is a person authorised by the governing body of the society to promote the lottery; and for the purposes of this section, the expression "society" includes a club, institution, organisation or other association of persons by whatever name called, and each local or affiliated branch or section of a society shall be regarded as a separate and distinct society.

(2) A private lottery shall not be unlawful, but the following conditions shall be observed in connection with its promotion and conduct, that is to say —

- (a) the whole proceeds, after deducting only expenses incurred for printing and stationery, shall be devoted to the provision of prizes for purchasers of tickets or chances, or, in the case of a lottery promoted for the members of a society, shall be devoted either —
 - (i) to the provision of prizes as aforesaid; or
 - (ii) to purposes which are purposes of the society; or
 - (iii) as to part to the provision of prizes as aforesaid and as to the remainder to such purposes as aforesaid.
- (b) there shall not be exhibited, published or distributed any written notice or advertisement of the lottery other than —
 - (i) a notice thereof exhibited on the premises of the society for whose members it is promoted or, as the case may be, on the premises on which the persons for whom it is promoted work or reside; and

(ii) such announcement or advertisement thereof as is contained in the tickets if any.

(c) no tickets in the lottery shall be sent through the post.

(3) If any of the conditions set out in subsection (2) of this section is contravened, each of the promoters of the lottery, and, where the person by whom the condition is broken is not one of the promoters, that person also, shall be guilty of an offence:

Provided that it shall be a defence for a person charged only by reason of his being a promoter of the lottery to prove that the contravention occurred without his consent or connivance and that he exercised all due diligence to prevent it.

"Housie-housie",
"tombola" or
"bingo".

8c. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Ordinance, the Treasurer may issue to any person or class of persons a licence to conduct the playing of the game commonly known as "housie-housie", "tombola" or "bingo".

(2) Where a licence has been issued under the provisions of subsection (1) of this section the playing of such game in accordance with the terms of such licence shall not be deemed to be an unlawful lottery.

(3) The Treasurer may, under this section, refuse to issue a licence at his discretion.

(4) It shall be a condition of the grant of the licence that the promoters shall on the day succeeding the playing of the game produce to the Treasurer a true balance sheet showing that all moneys received have been paid for necessary expenses and prize money in connection with the game and such evidence as he may require in verification thereof and shall thereupon pay the Treasurer 10 per centum of the gross takings.

(i) the amount so paid shall be paid into the General Revenue of the Colony;

(ii) the provisions of this section shall not apply to games operated in aid of any charitable purpose approved by the Governor:

Provided that in all games the prize moneys shall not be less than 80 per centum of the gross takings.

(5) Any person to whom a licence is refused by the Treasurer, under this section, may appeal to the Governor in Council within thirty days of such refusal. The Governor in Council may confirm such refusal or order the Treasurer to issue a licence to the applicant."

Confirmation of Minutes

The Minutes of the meeting of Legislative Council held on the 20th and 24th May, 1968, were confirmed.

Address by the President

Honourable Members of Council,

In welcoming you to this meeting, I would like to say a few words about the subject which is uppermost in our thoughts at the present time.

I have previously addressed Council in this Chamber on eight occasions, and I have tried to give an unvarnished account of the Government's activities. I have tried too, in so far as it is possible at all to look into the future, to give some idea of the road ahead as I have seen it. I have, I hope, resisted the temptation to say anything which I could not substantiate, although on various occasions it has been made known to me that people in the Colony would like a clearer lead, a more definite and robust statement of encouragement, an unequivocal assertion that, as things have been, so will they remain.

At our last meeting, in May this year, I said that I was sure that all Honourable Members were as glad as I was that it was now possible to discuss in a completely open way the question of the relationship of the Falkland Islands to our large neighbour on the South American mainland, Argentina. I said that I trusted that the unhealthy atmosphere of concealment was now a thing of the past and that we were nearer to reality. I thanked those who had supported the Falkland Islands cause so vigorously and I said that we should certainly need all the sympathetic interest that we could muster, because we can not expect the future to be easy, for we are going to have to continue living with the problem of our relationship with Argentina.

That was in May and during the next few months the Falkland Islands drifted out of the headlines. The twin problems of our future - the economic problem and the political problem - continued to occupy the attention of Executive Council and of Committees of this Council. It was the economic problem which came to the fore during those months and towards the solution of which our thoughts were mainly directed.

Now, in the last few weeks, it is once again the political problem which predominates.

How happy we should be if only we could be left alone, to live our own lives undisturbed by the intrusion of power politics. But this is not to be.

The United Nations General Assembly has been meeting. The Foreign Ministers of Britain and Argentina have met in New York. In London parliament has reassembled. We expect an early visit by a Minister of the British Government.

The events of this year have aroused a most anxious and understandable questioning of what the future may hold for the Colony. On this, answers are sought with increasing urgency.

I/...

I am glad that sensible people have discounted some of the more sensational rumours which have been current. But we can not pretend that our situation is an entirely happy one.

This is a time at which I would dearly wish to put an end to uncertainty but, quite frankly, I am not in a position to do so.

In the view of some responsible people, bad news is better than uncertainty; it is better to accept harsh reality than to continue living in a dream world. But it could be naive to think that the situation is at present sufficiently clear for us to be able to say: "There are the facts we have to face". We shall have to continue a while longer in uncertainty, until at least the visit of the Minister.

Meanwhile, we have our routine business to conduct. Some people may find it hard to throw themselves wholeheartedly into activities which they may feel have lost something of their meaning. In my opinion, that view is wrong. Life has to go on from day to day and nothing is to be gained by failing to carry out our daily tasks, season by season. Peat has to be cut, gardens have to be cultivated, buildings have to be maintained, farm work has to be efficiently and regularly performed, the services provided by Government and by the trading concerns have to go on, the routine work of this Council has to be done, self respect has to be maintained. Nothing is to be gained by being slack. Nothing is to be gained by losing heart.

Our political problem is of the utmost importance to us all but we must not allow our very real concern for the future to impair our ability to cope with the present.

And with these words, Honourable Members, I will for the moment leave the subject which is inevitably uppermost in our minds and invite you to turn to the business of the day.

QUESTIONS FOR ORAL ANSWER

1. Mr Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary whether, in the interests of greater security and control, the Government will give an assurance that irrespective of the purpose of their visit Russian ships will in future be required to enter at Stanley or Fox Bay only?

The Colonial Secretary: I refer the Honourable Member to my answer given in this Council on the 20th May, 1968, when I stated that it is proposed to continue the process of dealing with each application as it arises. I am willing to discuss this matter further with my questioner at the first opportunity convenient to him.

2. Mr Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary whether in the light of world events, the Government will give consideration to extending our present sea limit of 3 miles to the more usual 12 miles?

The Colonial Secretary: Her Majesty's Government is entirely responsible for matters concerning the external affairs of the Colony.

It may interest the Honourable Member to know that although our territorial/...

territorial waters are defined in Section 2 of Chapter 16 of the Laws, the boundaries of the Colony, which are different, are laid down in the Falkland Islands (Continental Shelf) Order in Council dated 21st December, 1950, and made by His Majesty in Council. This order extends the boundaries of the Colony to include the area of the continental shelf, being the sea-bed and its subsoil contiguous to our coasts. Briefly, this boundary is on the 100 fathom line from a point 110 miles off West Jason Cay, following the 100 fathom line as shown on Admiralty Chart No. 2202B around the northern, eastern, southern and western sides of the Falkland Islands to another point 20 nautical miles off West Jason Cay, thence by a straight line crossing the unclosed part of the area where the depths are less than 100 fathoms.

3. Mr Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary what progress Government had been able to make in investigation of the possibility of an external air link?

The Colonial Secretary: Assistance is being given by Her Majesty's Government and the present position is that the Board of Trade, which is the appropriate United Kingdom authority, has advised that to comply with international requirements and to allow for increases in the use of an air strip once it has been established further survey is necessary to provide for a strip of 3,500 feet in length. To this end, a surveyor, very kindly made available by the Director of the British Antarctic Survey, will arrive by R.R.S. "Shackleton". An approach has already been made to the Commonwealth Office for aid under Technical Assistance terms to carry out the consequent full feasibility study.

As much as can be done from local resources has been done.

Since the answer was drafted, the first planning sketch has arrived from the United Kingdom and I will make this available to Members when we meet later on other business.

Mr Pitaluga: I would like to thank the Colonial Secretary for the very clear answers he has given to me on the last two questions. On the subject of the first I would be very happy to meet him and discuss the matter further.

MOTIONS

Amendment of Standing Orders

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, my Motion is that Standing Order 11 (16) be amended as follows: By the insertion of the word "alone" between the words "name" and "but" in the first line, and in sub Order (a) by the deletion of the words "and nominated official members"; and by the deletion of sub Orders (b) and (c) and by the substitution therefor of a new sub Order (b) "unofficial members" by the use of the words "the Honourable Member followed by the member's name".

I/...

I beg to move that Standing Order 11 (16) be amended.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded the Motion.

The President: So that everyone should be clear on the matter I will now read out the amended version of the Order.

"No member shall refer to another member by name alone but shall allude to -

- (a) ex officio members by the designation of their offices;
- (b) unofficial members by the use of the words - "the Honourable Member" followed by the member's name."

For example, we would now refer to the Honourable Member Mr Miller, the Honourable Member Mrs. King and so on.

The question was put and carried.

BILLS

The Colonial Secretary: At the last meeting I introduced this Bill to its First Reading. I said then that we did not wish to rush it through with unseemly haste. I now ask Council to take the Bill through its remaining stages.

As explained in the statement of objects and reasons, Clause 2 of the Bill is designed to show more clearly than the present law does that there is a personal deduction available to an individual who is a tax payer. This fact may be obscured by the existing method of treating this deduction as a free portion in the tax scale. Section 21 (1) of the present Ordinance refers.

Clause 3 is designed to lower the point at which the standard rate of tax becomes effective. In this connection I can do no better than quote Mr Guillebaud -

"My second recommendation is concerned with the scales themselves. In their present form there is a gradual progression of the tax ratio until they reach their maximum of 5s. 9d. in the £ for incomes of over £6,000. The top scale rate of 5s. 9d. is not high when compared with the "standard rate" of 8s. 3d. in England, together with an additional liability to surtax for some incomes. I consider that this upper figure of income is unduly high, and that the top rate should begin to be applicable where an income exceeds £2,500. I make this recommendation, not because it will bring in more revenue - the estimated additional revenue from the change is only of the order of £2,200 - but on grounds of justice. The present scales fall too lightly on the upper income brackets in comparison with those at the lower end. Tables A and B of Appendix V, which set out the way in which the new scales, if adopted, would differ from those now in/...

in force, appear to me to support the view that a modification of the scales on the lines I am now recommending, would result in a more equitable distribution of the tax burden."

Falling prices mean falling profits and it is very doubtful if Mr Guillebaud's figure of £2,200 is near the mark; such extra taxation as will be raised will certainly be well below £2,200. Whatever is brought in, if divided by all those people who may have to pay a little additional tax, the increase will amount to very little. The object of presenting this Bill is, to use the words of Mr Guillebaud - "for a more equitable distribution of the tax burden."

I beg to move that the Bill be read a second time.

Mr Goss: Your Excellency, in view of the political situation regarding the future of these islands and its people I do not think that this is the time to introduce increased taxation measures. As an act of protest against the apparent insecurity, and the secrecy which has prevailed and continues to prevail with reference to negotiations between representatives of the Governments of Britain and the Argentine concerning, among other matters, the future of the sovereignty of the Falkland Islands. I am of the opinion that this Bill should be withdrawn for the time being and until such time as the negotiations I have mentioned have been brought to a satisfactory conclusion in complete accord with the wishes and interests of the people of the Falkland Islands. Accordingly I call on all my colleagues of this Council to support the withdrawal of this Bill as an act of protest.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I of course entirely agree with the short, but most effective, speech of the Honourable Member Mr Goss. It leaves very little for me to say except that I entirely support him and this Bill just must be withdrawn.

Mr Hills: Your Excellency, I also feel I cannot give this Bill my support. I do not under any circumstances approve of any form of increase in tax, however large or small, while the people of these Islands are left in doubt as to what the future holds for us, with regard to the political situation and our future sovereignty. I give the act of protest in withdrawing the Bill my full support.

Mr Pitaluga: Your Excellency, I do not think there is anything quite so deflating as having the verbal ground cut from under one's feet, but I would like to say I fully support the words of the Honourable Members who have spoken before me and I too oppose this Bill.

Mr Clement: Your Excellency, I give my support, Sir, to these last Honourable speakers. I think the Bill should be withdrawn.

The Colonial Treasurer: Sir, I appreciate all that has been said by the Honourable Members, but we are discussing a matter of justice or injustice for people who are on low incomes. As the Colonial Secretary said, we are not going to raise an awful lot of revenue but is it generally known, or appreciated, that on an income of £315 the Income Tax Ordinance takes away 2/- in the pound and yet, when you have less than £6,500 per year, you have not reached the 5/9d. scale? The question is one of justice or injustice and I would strongly recommend we consider it on the basis of that. If the form of protest is to be made, I would have thought that there are better fields in which to express it.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, the Honourable Unofficial Members know full well where the sympathy of the Official Members lie. We feel as strongly as they do about the situation but I have a duty to present this Bill and the Colonial Treasurer has summed up the reasons for bringing the Bill to this Council and therefore I must pursue my duty and I cannot withdraw this Bill. I feel that a vote must be taken.

The Bill was read a second time and passed through Committee without amendment.

On the third reading, on the question being put, a division took place, the motion being defeated by six votes to two. For the Noes: Mr Hills, Mr Clement, Mr Pitaluga, Mrs. King, Mr Miller, Mr Goss. For the Ayes: the Colonial Treasurer, the Colonial Secretary.

THE INCOME TAX (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL, 1968.

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, we live precariously. We depend almost entirely on there being satisfactory profits from sheep farming. I will repeat those last four words - satisfactory profits from sheep farming - for there is an important difference between satisfactory profits from sheep farming and satisfactory profits for or by our sheep farming companies and firms. The former means profits arising in and available in the Colony; the latter could include profits earned elsewhere and not available in the Colony.

It has long been evident that too large a portion of the profits from sheep farming has been taken out of the Colony and that, consequently, the productivity of the sheep farming industry, as a whole, has not kept pace with the increased and increasing costs of both farm and public expenditure. This policy may be good business but good business and good government do not necessarily travel the same road.

The Bill follows a recommendation in the Guillebaud Report and its provisions might be regarded as having equal regard for good business and good government. In attempting to alter the direction of the flow of money there is little doubt that harsher methods could have been found and I trust that this fact will not escape the notice of Council.

The/...

The idea behind the Bill is a simple one in that Profits Tax is doubled and the extra tax so imposed can be offset by producing evidence that a minimum amount - the Bill states one fifth of profits - of capital expenditure of a particular nature has been incurred. In theory there is no reason why the tax bills of our sheep farms should be in any way increased. In practice it would seem unlikely that any farm management could relate expenditure on a grasslands improvement scheme exactly to a particular fraction of profits nor would it seem to be in the best interests of the farm that this should be so. What is important is that the increased Profits Tax can be recovered in full provided the minimum investment rate is maintained. The interests of the Colony lie much more in full recovery than in the amounts that would accrue to the Treasury in cases of default. This is not a measure designed for immediately increased revenue: its value lies in the long term, and the amount of revenue received in default of increased investment will be the measure of its failure to achieve its objective.

I will not go into the detail of the Bill at this stage for there will be a better opportunity at a later stage. The principle has been described as unique and this is quite remarkable, for the field of income tax contains little unexplored territory. I particularly recommend for the attention of Council three features of the Bill. Firstly, that it will ensure either increased capital investment in the Colony or increased revenue in default. Secondly, that the requirement to invest takes into account poor wool market conditions, so that when profits are low or even absent the requirement to invest is similarly adjusted. Thirdly, that all farms can recover all the additional tax for which they become liable. There is no provision for any farm to get more than its own contribution of the additional tax, as might be the case if the increased profits tax were distributed in subsidy form.

The memorandum that accompanied the printed Bill now in the hands of Council members states that it is the intention to proceed only to the first reading. However, if we proceed to the second stage, Hon. Members will have an opportunity to speak. I think this would be a good thing for it will afford greater opportunity for the views expressed to be given full consideration.

A small point, Hon. Members may have had difficulty in understanding clause 2 (n). This is quite understandable for there are some words missing. As the correct wording does not alter the principle behind the Bill, I will not take up time at this point in explaining the error. The committee stage will be a much more suitable time to do this.

A point that does have an important bearing on the principle, and which I submit should be altered, is that the effective date should be 1st January 1970, not 1969. Our tax system is on the preceding year basis and to introduce this measure with effect from January 1969 means that no prior warning of the investment required in 1968 has been given.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded.

The Bill was read a First Time.

The President: The Hon. The Colonial Treasurer has pointed out that in an accompanying memorandum it has been suggested that on this occasion only the first reading should be taken but it may be that Hon. Members would prefer to take the second reading, which will not commit them one way or the other to passing the Bill, in order that they may debate its provisions, if they so wish.

The Colonial Treasurer moved and the Colonial Secretary seconded that the Bill be read a second time.

Mr Pitaluga: Your Excellency, the Bill before this House is fundamentally a good one. It seeks to do something concrete in the long term interests of the Colony and as such I welcome it. However - I know it is easy to have hind sight - I am sure that anyone who has thought about it will realise that it is late, many years late. I will not say that it is too late. The Hon. Colonial Treasurer has made it, I think, quite clear that he does not wish to press it at this stage and, if he had, I would have felt honour bound to oppose it for the same reasons as the previous Bill has just been rejected. I do not feel that at this time of doubt and uncertainty the industry should be obliged to put more than maintenance capital into the Colony, when the course of our future is not clear but, as I said before, it is a very good Bill and must be kept alive. I would like to see it referred to a committee of this House for further study.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I have really nothing much to add to the words of the Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga. I can only just agree with him that although this is a good Bill I also agree with him that it could have come some time ago, for the benefit of some of us anyway. This is not the time to press it and we have been told by the Hon. the Colonial Treasurer that it is not going beyond a second reading and so it is automatically postponed anyway but, if it were to go right through, or be pressed right through by the Hon. the Colonial Treasurer, I am afraid I would oppose it because of our present circumstances.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, undoubtedly this Bill must go to a committee. It is a very complicated Bill, it requires a lot of study and by the time it has had a lot of study let us pray that our political situation will make it possible for us to proceed to a third reading with a full chorus of eyes in support. I would like to support the Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga that this Bill should go to a committee and I beg to move accordingly.

Mr Goss seconded and the motion was carried.

The President: Has the Hon. the Colonial Treasurer any suggestions as to the composition of the Committee?

The Colonial Treasurer: Sir, what comes immediately to mind is the Development Committee. It is, of course, an entirely "unofficial" committee.

The Colonial Secretary: I believe the Development Committee to be a very proper committee for the purpose. All our members who are particularly interested in farming and the future of farming are on that committee and if we constituted another committee it will be almost the same group of members and at this stage for comments on the Bill and thoughts/...

thoughts I do not think it matters that the committee is entirely unofficial because the committee is empowered to co-opt such extra membership or advice as may be necessary. I am sure the Development Committee is the right committee to deal with it.

On motion made and seconded, the Bill was referred to the Development Committee.

MARRIAGE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, after the last two Bills I cannot exactly claim that this is earth shattering. In 1967 when we amended the Marriage Ordinance we unfortunately mis-printed two figures and this opportunity has been taken to correct that mis-printing. There is no change of policy, it is merely a tidying up matter. I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read accordingly.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill received its second reading, passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

THE ROAD TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, until 1954 licence duties were imposed upon motor vehicles and trailers using roads. Roads, in our law, are defined as the roads in Stanley and immediately around it. Now, no less than 8 different scales of licence duties were applied to private vehicles up to 1954 and there were six different scales for commercial vehicles and two for trailers. The stage of the Stanley roads led to the temporary repeal of these licence duties and it was stated that when the roads had been improved these duties would be re-imposed and at our last meeting, during consideration of the estimates, Hon. Members thought that the time had come to re-impose these licence duties upon all vehicles and trailers using Stanley roads and they also thought that a less complicated system of charging these duties should be worked out. To this end this Bill is introduced and it provides for a flat rate of two pounds in respect of motor vehicles and trailers. Undoubtedly local road users benefit greatly by the work which has been done during the last 18 months on the Stanley roads and they should contribute something to the Treasury for that benefit. Now, the new proposed flat rate of two pounds is extremely low and much lower than the 1954 rates and if you take the value of money into account, might even seem extraordinarily low. For example, private vehicles of 9 h.p. and over were charged between £2. 10s. and £5 in 1954. Now we propose £2. Commercial vehicles were charged from £2 to £7 with an average of £6 in 1954. Now, we propose £2 and trailers with four wheels were £3 in 1954, now we suggest £2. It is proposed that these new charges/...

charges should come into operation with effect from the 1st January, 1969. I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary, seconded by the Colonial Treasurer, moved that the Bill be read a second time.

Mr Goss: Your Excellency, I am not protesting against the Bill but I do think that the rate of £2 for the use of a trailer is rather high. Trailers are only used periodically and it seems odd to me that a person who has a Land Rover and is charged £2 would be charged a further £2 per year for the use of a trailer. This I think is a little heavy for the trailer rate and I would like to move that the rate for a trailer be reduced to 10/-.

Mr Pitaluga: I have no objection to this Bill. I would just like to ask, if I may, what effect it is likely to have on vehicles entering Stanley from the Camp. How will it involve those?

The President: When the Hon. the Colonial Secretary replies I have no doubt he will bear your query in mind. At the moment the Hon. Member Mr Goss has moved that the Bill be amended by reducing the proposed rate of £2 for trailers to 10/- and that motion has not yet been seconded.

The Colonial Secretary: I am quite willing to accept 10/- as the duty fee for a trailer. I think my acceptance counts as seconding. I think it is a very reasonable suggestion. Quite acceptable.

I am not sure about what happens to Camp vehicles. In 1954 I was not here. I made quick reference to my Hon. Colleague here who thinks that Camp vehicles using Stanley roads paid Stanley licence. To give a firm answer I would have to take the time to check up. Would it be any help, Sir, if we continued this Bill to the end of the second reading and then later in this meeting I shall propose that Council meets again on Friday and I would then present the Bill in its proper form for the third reading, rather than make hasty alterations now and have to come back to the meeting to say we have mixed up numbers again?

Discussion of the Bill was adjourned accordingly.

THE PENSIONS (INCREASE) (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1968.

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, there exist within the Colony systems of wage and salary awards to compensate for increases in the cost of living. The basis of these awards is the quarterly review of the retail price index. The machinery for adjusting the pensions of retired civil servants is found in Ordinance No. 12 of 1949 and subsequent amendments. The basis for these awards is the United Kingdom Pensions Increase/...

Increase Act. We have used this Act as a basis for awards in 1959, 1961 and 1964 and we are now advised of a further United Kingdom Act.

We do not follow the detail of the United Kingdom pensions increases for these are related to salary awards which have no equivalent in the Colony. What we have done is to relate the scale of awards - usually a percentage of the basic pension - to dates representing Colony salary increases. The latest United Kingdom pensions increase act was effective from the 1st January, 1966, and authorises increases ranging from 2% by 2% steps to 16%. Applying the scale to our circumstances we require three steps - 2%, 6% and 16% - for pensions that commenced before January, 1966, July, 1963 and July, 1961, respectively. These are the dates of the most recent salary awards in the Colony.

A provision of the United Kingdom Act, and earlier acts, is that the pensions of retired Colonial Service pensioners may also be increased at United Kingdom Treasury expense where the territory or territories in which the officers served have failed to make appropriate pensions increases, and in fact these officers are usually in receipt of increases before we are made aware of the position.

A further point that recently came to notice is that officers who were not members of the Colonial Service (to be a member of the Colonial Service requires recruitment in the United Kingdom) but were born in the United Kingdom and recruited locally, are also benefitting from the United Kingdom Act. The position, therefore, is that the Bill now before Council can benefit only civil service pensioners who were born in the Colony.

A further provision of the United Kingdom legislation, however, is that their assistance to United Kingdom recruited and United Kingdom born pensioners ceases in the event of corresponding local legislation being introduced. While the Bill would have a practical effect on the pensions of locally born pensioners the cost of the increase would extend to all pensions paid to former civil servants. The annual cost is estimated to be £1,000 reducing. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read accordingly.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill received its second reading.

The Bill passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

THE LICENSING (AMENDMENT) BILL

The Colonial Secretary: This Bill seeks to provide for an increase in Packet Licences (that is to say the coastal licence for R.M.S. "Darwin") from £5 to £10. This is in accord with the wishes expressed by Hon. Members in the Select Committee on the Estimates.

It/...

It also includes an amendment making drunkenness, when it leads to incapability or disorderliness or indecency in a public place, to be an offence, and gives the Police powers of arrest. Drunkenness by itself is not an offence.

A loophole concerning persons on the black list is also stopped. As it stands, the law says a person on the list may not have liquor in his possession and must not be drunk. Medical Officers are rightly loathe to certify drunkenness and the Police are virtually powerless to apprehend a person in an alcoholic state who does not carry a bottle of alcoholic liquor for all to see. We have inserted a subsection referring to being found under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The Police have not the slightest intention of embarking upon a wave of arrests but it is only just that the Police, who have a job to do, should be given the powers, and protection, to do it.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded. The Bill was read a first and second time without objection.

Committee Stage:

The Colonial Secretary: Clause 1 merely states the title. Clause 2 is the Clause which doubles the packet licence and Clause 3 is the one to add the black list offence and we insert the paragraph

"to be found under the influence of intoxicating liquor" and I would just like to stress that it is to being in possession of liquor and being found drunk.

Clause 4 is where we give the Police powers to deal with people who are drunk. Now, here comes the first change. It is not in fact part of the law, but it is in the marginal note and the marginal note there reads - "persons found drunk" that should read - "persons found drunk and incapable". Any person who shall be found drunk and incapable in a public place shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to conviction to a penalty not exceeding £1 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven days" and on subsequent conviction that penalty can be increased to £5 or to imprisonment for a month.

Some people say "why should not we have a severer sentence?" Well, a severe sentence for drunkenness does not help. It does not help the person who is under the influence of drink. It only costs the tax payer money and indeed these are nominal powers to allow that man to be convicted and perhaps held by the Police until he is sober and then he can come before the court and can be fined not exceeding £1.

The second sub section of this clause refers to being drunk and disorderly, any person who while drunk is guilty in any public place of disorderly or indecent behaviour. Well, of course, if you are going to be disorderly and start throwing things about or throwing yourself and/or being indecent then naturally there is an increased penalty. It is one we have needed for a long time because this does go on. A public place is defined in the last sub section of this clause. A public place includes any highway, road and any other premises or place to which the public have or are permitted/...

permitted to have access, whether on payment or otherwise. I would like to stress that a person's home or a visitor in someone else's house, well these are not public places. Also, just to make it clear, the Camp tracks in our law are not roads so if you like to do all these things on a Camp track no one can do anything about it. This is not really a very serious Bill but it does give powers we consider the Police should have.

I beg to move that Clauses 1 to 4 stand Part of the Bill.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded.

On conclusion of the committee stage, the Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Lotteries (Amendment) Bill 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: Bills promoting gambling are not the easiest things to introduce, for someone, somewhere, will raise their hands in horror and say "how dreadful", but we must admit that in this Colony, where a considerable amount of money is already devoted to sweepstakes and bazaar raffles, society generally has given its approval to gambling. In fact, this Bill does not extend gambling, but legalises much of what is already going on.

It came about because an application was received from one of the Churches and then from another organisation for a permit to allow the playing of bingo in Stanley. Bingo for profit is already played in the Camp but has not been encouraged in town. I think the reason for this is that with a larger concentration of people, the thought of organised gambling sessions - and bingo is gambling, involving profit taking - has only been very cautiously approached. Personally, I dislike bingo, but I have no right to impose my personal dislike upon the public. Government's view is that if bingo is to be played for profit then a minimum of 80 per cent of the money taken must go back into prizes. This the Bill lays down. If bingo be played for charity the Bill also provides that a 10 per cent tax payable to the Treasury can be waived, leaving a take of 20 per cent to the charity concerned. If bingo is to be played for commercial profit, Government feels that the organisers must pay 10 per cent to the general revenue of the Colony, 80 per cent in prizes and 10 per cent only to the organisers. By this means we feel that mass organisation of bingo for commercial profit will not come about, but bingo, organised to give the maximum return to the players, can proceed. I suppose there is hardly a person in this Council who has not, at some time, played bingo, or tombola or housey-housey (they are all different names for the same thing) on board ship and I think it reasonable to say that if they will play on board ship they are hardly likely to do an about-turn and not support this Bill.

I started by saying that the Bill came about because of applications for bingo and when we began to draft it we thought that we should look at our Lotteries Ordinance again to see how out of date it had become and what functions or gambles it did not cover. As we all know well, the clubs of the Colony organise raffles and small lotteries. Raffles are also organised at church bazaars, sales of work, dances, sporting events. We have written them in to this Bill. We have provided exemptions for them. In short, where/...

where the whole proceeds of lotteries and bazaars get ploughed back into the organisation and where purchasers of the tickets are members of the organisation concerned or the general public at church bazaars, we have made them legal. The Lotteries Ordinance, as at present printed, was specifically designed to deal with sweepstakes and it has taken a lot of stretching of that ordinance to make it cover some of the activities that have gone on. I will deal with the detail of the exemptions of club draws and raffles in more detail at the committee stage. I commend this Bill to Council.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary moved and the Colonial Treasurer seconded that the Bill be read a second time.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I am not going to oppose this Bill. It has been thrashed out in Executive Council and been before Hon. Members here for some time while I have been away. I just want to take this opportunity to remind this House that we had a debate here, I think about three years ago, on a question of whether sweepstakes in general for large amounts should be taxed. Some of us wanted it that way and we were divided but it was by no means unanimous. At a later period this was brought up again by myself because I am also one of those people in this Colony who are in favour of having a large Government lottery. I am well aware that probably another small Government department would be required but lotteries have proved beneficial in other parts of the world. I do not want to introduce it now, I am merely taking this chance to record these things and, when our future is settled, that will be in my view the time to bring it in. I just wanted to make those observations, Sir, but I am in favour of the Bill.

The Bill was read a second time and was considered in committee.

The Colonial Secretary: The first clause is a very simple one; it states the title. The second clause is a very long one and if I may just point out certain important parts of that second clause and if I may commence with 8 (a) where we exempt small lotteries incidental to certain entertainments. Where a lottery is promoted as an incident of an entertainment, that is where we have lotteries in clubs, raffles, draws in clubs or part of a Red Cross raffle, we make that legal in this first clause. The conditions are simple. The whole proceeds of the entertainment, after deducting certain expenses which are laid down by law, must be devoted to purposes other than private gain. We insist on prizes in kind. We do not want money prizes in these raffles. They are already dealt with in our present Lottery Ordinance under the sweepstake part of it. We also say that if people go to clubs or wherever they may be, the lottery or the raffle should not really be the principal part of the entertainment and in 8 (b) we exempt certain private lotteries. This does not come about very often but there have been one or two instances, it could be the office raffle for instance. You might have a small raffle in an office for a purpose you might support, a charity. Think of the British Hospital appeal which sparked such a terrific response a short while back.

L/...

A group of people might get up a private lottery for that. Here again with certain differences we permit.

I would like to go to 8 (c) which is housey-housey, tombola bingo. 80 per cent. We have laid down here very strict treasury control on the same lines as treasury control in sweepstakes. The Treasurer may issue to any person or persons a licence to play bingo and if he issues a licence then bingo is not unlawful. The Treasurer may refuse. It should be a condition of the grant of the licence that promoters shall produce a balance sheet showing that all moneys received have been paid for necessary expenses and prize money and the Treasury can ask for such verification as may be necessary and shall thereupon take 10 per cent of the gross which will be paid into Colony revenue. The provisions of this section shall not apply to games operated in aid of any charity, provided that charity be approved by the Governor and provided also that in all cases the prize money shall not be less than 80 per cent. We think that this legalises bingo without allowing bingo to become over-commercialised and it puts bingo, we feel, in the hands of those who are raising money for charity if they so wish to organise it. 80 per cent must always come back in prizes. I do not think any further explanations of the Bill are required.

I beg to move that Clauses 1 and 2 stand part of the Bill.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and after concluding the committee stage without amendment the Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Pensions (Amendment) Bill 1968

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, when the present Pensions Ordinance was being discussed it was decided to remove the upper limit of age of compulsory retirement. It was felt that no person should be forced to retire from the Public Service and by this means the strength of Government staff would, to some extent, be maintained. On reflection, however, it is felt that there must come a time when an employee should retire, taking with him the pension he has rightfully earned. The printed Bill fixes this age at 60 and on careful reflection and following some representations, it appears that the age of 65 would be more appropriate and it is the intention to move this amendment in the committee stage. I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill received its second reading and was then considered in committee.

The Colonial Treasurer: I beg to move that Clause 1 stands part of the Bill and that Clause 2 be amended by deleting the word "sixty" and substituting "sixty-five" so that it will read - "on attaining the age of sixty-five years", etc.

I beg to move that Clause 1 stand part of the Bill and Clause 2, as amended, stand part of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded. On conclusion of the committee stage the Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Post Office (Amendment) Bill 1968

The Colonial Secretary: This small Bill amends the Post Office Ordinance in three respects.

An amendment to Section 8 provides for a realistic but not over-generous payment to be made to small vessels carrying local mails. It substitutes a flat sum of ten shillings per bag for the previous rate of 2/6d. for letters and papers and 5/- for parcels.

The opportunity to bring two other sections up to date has been taken. The amendments are quite minor. They are the deletion of a reference to a customs house manifest, which does not any longer exist, and an amendment to Section 11 acknowledging that hard labour is not now awarded as a form of punishment.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary moved the second reading, seconded by the Colonial Treasurer.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I do not particularly want to speak to the motion but as I was not in the country when this Bill was prepared I am a little bit puzzled and no doubt the Hon. Colonial Secretary would enlighten me. In the last part, amendment to Section 11, it acknowledges that hard labour is outdated and an illegal form of punishment in British jails. He will, no doubt, explain to me what that particular item, which one would expect in the Prisons Ordinance, is doing in the Post Office Ordinance.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, in answer to the Hon. Mr Miller, I will not read the whole thing, but it is any person who shall knowingly deal in counterfeit stamps, knowingly use counterfeit stamps or anything else for forging counterfeit stamps or insert - and here I warn the Hon. Member - in any postal packet any opium or any substance or drug whatever without permission of the S.M.O. of the Colony could, once, be sentenced to imprisonment with hard labour. Now, if the Hon. Member commits any of those offences we shall just put him in prison.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, I do not have any drugs in my possession.

The Bill was read a second time, passed through the committee stage without amendment and read a third time and passed.

The Immigration (Amendment) Bill 1968

The Colonial Secretary: Our present Immigration Ordinance works well and is adequate in most respects but as the result of certain appeals to the Governor in Council, against orders made by the Immigration Officer, a defect has shown itself.

The background is this: Firstly, in certain circumstances an immigrant may be required to deposit with the Immigration Officer a sum of money, not exceeding £150, before he can receive an Entry Permit. This disposes of a person whose repatriation might become a charge on the Colony.

Secondly, if a person has come out to the Colony on, shall we say, a contract to a farm and that person falls destitute - may I stress the words "falls destitute" - Government accepts repatriation of that person under Regulation 9 of the Immigration Regulations. Such a person must have remained in the Colony for a period exceeding one year. If the period be less than that, the liability is upon the importing employer.

But what happens to a person who breaks a contract and changes his or her employer?

If the contract breaker is destitute or undesirable or has nothing to contribute towards the life of the Colony he can, as already described, be shipped home.

But - and here lies the defect - some contract breakers are desirable. They may have fallen out with their employer (and what normal person can say the employer is always right?) or their employer might have fallen out with them (and who is to say the employee is always right?). There may be another job for them.

Only recently we have had cases in which one major employer, The Falkland Islands Company, has offered no objection to the re-employment of contract breakers; in fact on two occasions they actively encouraged re-employment.

We have also had the case of two young men who did not fit well into farm life but, because they were honourable young men, they discharged their contractual liabilities to their previous employers. Absolutely legal, proper and commendable.

So, we have a gap not covered by existing legislation; for there is nothing in our law clearly requiring such persons to enter into a bond in respect of themselves. This Bill puts that right.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded.

On further motion made and seconded, the Bill received its second reading and was considered in committee.

The Colonial Secretary: The first clause is the short title and the second clause merely lays down that the Immigration Officer may require a person seeking a new employment permit to deposit such sum as the Immigration/...

Immigration Officer may specify or to furnish satisfactory security. A guarantor will do in case of money. We have put that in the hands of the Immigration Officer thus to give the person who is applying for the permit a right of appeal should the Immigration Officer turn him down. An appeal shall lie from a decision of the Immigration Officer to the Governor in Council and, in agreement with the rest of the immigration legislation, the decision of the Governor in Council is always final.

The Bill passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

Employment of Women, Young Persons and Children (Amendment)
Bill 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: This Bill seeks to amend the Employment of Women, Young Persons and Children Ordinance, 1967. The amendments are necessary because, as Hon. Members will recall, the school age has been raised from 14 years to 15 years.

There is an amendment to section 3 of the principal Ordinance which I will seek to explain at the committee stage.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill was read a second time and was considered in committee.

The Colonial Secretary: Clause 3 merely brings up to date section 3 (1) and (2) of the original Ordinance which stated that no child shall be employed in any ship except to the extent permitted under international convention. The amendment adds a proviso which is that any children already employed at the time of the introduction of the new school leaving age may remain so employed. The fact that we have no children employed on ships or in industrial undertakings is beside the point. The International Labour Organisation insists upon having this type of legislation. The mere report from us that children are not taken into employ on ships or in industry is not accepted internationally; it has to be in black and white.

The Bill passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

The British Nationality (Amendment) Bill, 1968

The Colonial Secretary: This Bill, approved by the Governor in Council for presentation to the Legislature at the October meeting, increases the fees payable under the Ordinance and brings them into line with those prescribed/...

prescribed under the British Nationality Act.

We are required to keep our fees in line with those of the United Kingdom and this Bill merely brings existing legislation up-to-date.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was taken through all stages without amendment and was passed.

Employment of Children (Amendment) Bill 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: In presenting this Bill the approval of Council is sought to amend the Employment of Children Ordinance, 1966.

No policy change is intended and the amendments, which I will explain at the committee stage, are only designed to keep the Ordinance up to date and to provide slightly more leeway than heretofore. In the United Kingdom it is possible for a child to take up part time employment in his or her last two years at school and the Secretary of State has recommended that we should come into line. Clause 3 of the Bill takes care of this.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

On further motion made and seconded the Bill was read a second time and was considered in committee.

The Colonial Secretary: Clause 2 merely inserts a definition of "child". This is something that should have been included in the original Ordinance but, somehow, was overlooked.

In clause 3 we have removed a rather strange proviso which made the original section 2 (a) hard to understand. The substitution is simple to understand.

Clause 3 where it seeks to amend section 2 (1) (b) opens up very slightly the number of hours for which a child of from 13 to 15 years of age may be employed. Originally we said no child within its last two years before leaving school could be employed for more than 2 hours on any day. Now we have said that he may not be employed for more than 2 hours on any day on which he is required to attend school or for more than 2 hours on any Sunday. This we think is much more reasonable and is in line with up-to-date legislation in the United Kingdom.

The Bill passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

The Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey (Change of Designation)
Bill 1968

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, frequent references in our laws are made to the Falkland Islands Dependencies Survey. Of course that was the old name of what is now known as the British Antarctic Survey and the object of this Bill is to say that wherever this name appears it should be with that meaning, the British Antarctic Survey.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was taken through all stages without amendment and was passed.

Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Bill 1968

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, following a court action in which the Board of Management failed to prove that a contributor to the Old Age Pensions Fund should pay contributions during a period of absence from the Colony, it is considered that steps should be taken to clarify the law in this respect. From time to time contributors leave the Colony for periods of temporary absence. They may or may not be in receipt of a wage or salary during this time. If they are on pay, there is a reasonable chance that they can be required to contribute but to put the matter beyond doubt this is to be clearly stated in the law. If they are not in receipt of a wage or salary during this absence, there seems little doubt that the present wording of the Ordinance does not give the Board powers to demand contributions. The Bill now provides for such periods of temporary absence to be subject to the Old Age Pensions contributory requirements.

Another point on which some doubt exists arises from the minimum requirement of ten years contributing to qualify for a pension. Does this mean, for example, that a contributor can pay from, say, his 18th birthday to his 28th birthday, leave the Colony, and at the age of 65 demand a pension? It is submitted that he should not so qualify and this Bill makes suitable amendment to see that he can not. It requires him to contribute right up to his 60th birthday.

Some contributors leave the Colony without notifying the Board of Management and without withdrawing contributions. The intention of these people is not known and this creates an unknown factor in assessing the liability of the fund in relation to future pension commitments. In order that the Fund can be put to the best possible use, it is essential that as much information as possible regarding future commitments should be available. The Bill requires contributors pulling out of the scheme to claim refunds within six months of departure although the Board can extend this period in special cases. A limitation of this nature should not cause any hardship and it will certainly improve the quality of the statistical data that can be provided for review purposes. I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The/...

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

On further motion made and seconded, the Bill received its second reading and was considered in committee.

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, clause 3 introduces some new legislation which perhaps should be stressed. It reads like this -

"every contributor who is in receipt of remuneration from an employer in the Colony or during any period of temporary absence from the Colony be deemed to be an employed person" which means of course that he must contribute and so much his employer. That, I think, is accepted at the moment. It is a matter of clarification.

The next part of the clause reads -

"every contributor who is not in receipt of remuneration from an employer in the Colony or during any period of temporary absence from the Colony be deemed to be a self-employed person" that means that he must pay contributions in full from his own pocket.

Clause 4 gives effect to the need to contribute right up to the 60th year and eliminates the possibility of someone getting a pension on the strength of 10 years contributing in his early years. The Ordinance at present reads -

"a contributor shall not be entitled to a pension unless contributions are paid for a period of 10 years at the least before attaining the age of 60 years".

We are taking out the words - "at the least" and saying "a contributor shall not be entitled to a pension unless contributions are paid for a period of 10 consecutive years immediately before attaining the age of 60 years". The effect of this means that no matter when he may have started contributing he must continue up to the age of his 60th birthday, no matter whether he is in the Colony or elsewhere if he wishes to obtain a pension.

The Bill passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

The Customs (Amendment) Bill, 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, with an eye to raising revenue from the increasing number of tourist and other ships using Stanley and Fox Bay harbours a new scale of fees for customs, harbours, pilotage and other associated services has been promulgated by the Governor in Council.

To/...

To enable all these fees to be presented together under one comprehensive set of Regulations this Bill deletes one item from the Customs Ordinance (Cap. 16).

This deletion involves no change of policy and only makes life easier for those who have to deal with shipping legislation. It is so much easier to have fees set out in one place instead of having them dotted about amongst the various laws.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was taken through all stages without amendment and was passed.

Income Tax Amendment (No. 3) Bill 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, in accordance with Standing Rules and Orders 23 (1) I lay on the table a Certificate of Urgency. This will permit me to introduce a Bill to amend the Income Tax Ordinance which concerns the valuation of allowances in kind and the taxation of bazaars. The reason for this certificate is that a committee of this Council only very recently agreed to this Bill. It was approved by the Governor in Council only yesterday and it has not yet appeared in the Falkland Islands Gazette. This certificate does away with the need for it to appear in the Gazette. However, the official version of the Bill, as approved by the Governor in Council, has only just been delivered to Hon. Members and I feel they should have time to study it and I therefore propose that it be dealt with on Friday morning. At the same time we shall be proceeding with the second reading of the Traffic Licencing Bill.

It would seem that 10:30 on Friday morning would be a suitable time for Council to re-convene and, if Your Excellency has no objection, I would move that we meet again then. That, as far as I am concerned, Sir, completes the Orders of the Day for to-day.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded the notion and the House adjourned until 10:30 on Friday morning.

Council resumed at 10:30 on the morning of Friday the 18th October, 1968.

The Road Traffic (Amendment) Bill

The Colonial Secretary: I beg to move that the Bill be read a second time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a second time and was considered in committee.

The/...

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, at our meeting on Wednesday the Hon. Member Mr Goss suggested that the licence fee for trailers should be reduced from £2 to 10/- and the Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga raised the question of the licencing of vehicles from Camp using Stanley roads. We have accordingly re-drafted the second clause of the Bill and copies have been sent in advance to all Hon. Members and I think they have had time to study it. There is very little difference from the original drafting but we have added a couple of items.

We have left the licence for motor vehicles at £2 and written in that the only licence duty for a trailer shall be 10/- per annum and that, I think, will meet the Hon. Member Mr Goss.

We have made clear in an extra sub section that no duty shall be payable in respect of motor vehicles or trailers owned by the Government (we add that in respect of ourselves) or the Stanley Town Council or in respect of motor vehicles or trailers permanently based in the Camp. The operative word is "based". The Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga raised this question and we all know that he has two vehicles. I will use the Hon. Member and his vehicles as my example. The Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga has a vehicle in Camp. He comes in to Stanley in that vehicle occasionally. That vehicle is based in Camp, therefore there will be no licence fee in respect of that one. We also know that the Hon. Member has a car here in Stanley. It is based in Stanley, therefore it would be subject to licence duty.

If the Police should wish to challenge a person in respect of a licence, then a case would hang upon the interpretation of the word "based". If the Police maintained that a person should pay a licence in respect of a Camp vehicle, they would have to prove that vehicle was reasonably based in Stanley and I think that clears that matter up.

Mr Pitaluga: Your Excellency, I would like to thank the Hon. the Colonial Secretary for the way he explained that and for the action proposed and it satisfies me completely. Just for the benefit of Camp people who would have been interested in the question and the answer to it, I think it only fair I should make it clear that this does not absolve Camp travellers in any way from insuring their vehicles for third party risks when they visit Stanley. They are still advised to do this, I am sure, even although they do not pay anything for driving along the roads.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, any vehicle using the Stanley roads must be insured. Must be. It is an offence to drive a vehicle on the Stanley roads without insurance. May I repeat that. I know I must speak to the Chair and I must not speak to the microphone but, for the benefit of Camp listeners, vehicles using Stanley roads must be insured.

The Bill passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and passed.

The Income Tax (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill, 1968

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, in accordance with standing/...

Standing Rules and Orders 23, I laid on the table on Wednesday a Certificate of Urgency.

Hon. Members will recall that last year speeches were made in this Council involving the valuation of allowances in kind, and including housing, for the purposes of income tax. A promise was given that the law would be amended and a Bill presented to this Council. Accordingly, I now present a Bill, which, in its first part, lays down the method by which the annual value of land and improvements thereon, including housing, shall be valued. The responsibility for making valuations is transferred from the Commissioner for Income Tax to the Governor in Council. To enable this Council to play its full part, the Bill includes a proviso that all rules made by the Governor in Council under the new powers it is proposed to provide shall be confirmed by this Council at the first possible opportunity.

I am confident that this meets the requirements of Council and that no better method can be worked out to deal with the problem which caused an exciting debate last year.

The second part of the Bill makes it clear that the income of ecclesiastical and charitable organisations obtained from bazaars shall be tax free. Traditionally, bazaar incomes have not been taxed in the past and it is Government's intention that they should remain untaxed. However, for the record, I must make it clear that if any charitable organisation trades outside bazaars they will be liable to taxation in the normal course.

All Hon. Members of this Council, with the exception of the Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga and the Hon. Member Mr Miller, have taken part in the drafting of this Bill and have signified their approval of it. The two Hon. Members referred to have also given their blessing to the Bill in the Executive Council. I do not therefore propose to expound any further. I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time. The Colonial Secretary, seconded by the Colonial Treasurer, moved the second reading.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, because it has now become a rule or procedure for most of the speeches and what happens in this House to be broadcast at night, I wonder whether the Hon. the Colonial Secretary will be able to make it clear when we go into Committee that there are no figures yet issued. I am thinking about the listeners in Camp. They will be wondering how it will affect them when they get their Income Tax returns next year. Because this Bill as it reads - and it has not been read out in full - is that such annual value shall be prescribed by rules made by the Governor in Council. A little further on it says - "provided also that all rules made under this section shall be confirmed by the Legislature at the meeting following the publication of the rules if any new or altered values are to take effect from the 1st January". That automatically means there will have to be another meeting of the Legislature before the 31st December. I am only saying this, as I mentioned at the beginning when I got up, Sir, as there might be some misunderstanding or bewilderment when this is broadcast. No doubt the Hon. the Colonial Secretary will deal with that when we are in Committee.

The/...

The Colonial Secretary: I will deal with that in Committee.

The Bill was read a second time and was considered in committee.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, clause 1 is a standard title clause.

Clause 2 I will deal with in detail. It reads that section 5 of the present Income Tax Ordinance is amended by deleting the present paragraph (c) and substituting this paragraph -

"the annual value of land and improvements thereon, including housing, used rent free or for which a token rent is paid by the occupier for enjoyment or in connection with his employment and not for the purpose of gain or profit, such annual value shall be prescribed by rules made by the Governor in Council" and then there is a proviso to that, already quoted by the Hon. Member Mr Miller -

"provided also that all rules made under this section shall be confirmed by the Legislature at the meeting following the publication of the rules"

The idea behind this is that the Governor in Council shall lay down certain values and these will be referred to the Legislature for confirmation.

This year we propose to proceed as follows. Firstly, we do expect to have a further gathering because, as Your Excellency has stated in your opening speech, we expect a Minister of the British Government to visit us and the opportunity will be taken to produce these values in time for that meeting so that we can obtain confirmation. If, however, that meeting does not come about, I shall have to consult with Members separately. It may be that we can settle this in committee and the committee decision can be ratified in the Council later. The proviso does not, in fact, say that the confirmation must be in full session of Council and it could be done in committee, but, obviously, it is desirable that confirmation should be in full Council because there there is the maximum publicity. We do hope, all being well, to have these values declared and confirmed at a meeting later this year. In following years life becomes a little easier because the values can be declared by the Governor in Council prior to the usual spring meeting, then dealt with on a routine basis and I hope that that explanation meets the Hon. Member.

Clause 3 of this Bill deals with the taxation of bazaars and it is a tried and tested clause used elsewhere. It has been taken from a model draft. The model draft is one approved by the Secretary of State's legal advisers and is similar to sections of law already in force in other territories including Gibraltar. Here, very simply, the income of any ecclesiastical, charitable or educational institute or trust of a public character, but not including any income derived by such institutions or trusts from trade or business carried on by it unless the profits are applied solely to the purposes of such institutions, are exempt from taxation and I do here repeat my warning that although we are tying up something that required tying up in our law, if any ecclesiastical, charitable or educational institute or trust of a public character, whatever that may be, ventures into normal trade they are taxable and I am quite sure that these three clauses put right or fill gaps that existed before. I beg to move that clauses 1, 2 and 3 stand part of the Bill.

The/...

The Bill passed through the committee stage without amendment and was read a third time and was passed.

The Colonial Secretary: I beg to move that this House stands adjourned sine die.

The Colonial Treasurer: I beg to second the motion.

The President: The motion is that this House stands adjourned sine die. Does any Hon. Member wish to speak?

Mr Goss: During the meetings of the Legislature held in May of this year I spoke to some length on the political and economic position of the Falklands. Other Honourable Members also spoke with reference to our problems. Much was said but over a period of some five months the results achieved in general do not seem to be all that encouraging, regardless of the fact that we have all done our best in keeping up the necessary pressure so obviously needed in our attempts to obtain the answers which we so urgently require.

I am sure that all of us in the Falklands consider it a great pity that Her Majesty the Queen is not to visit us during her forthcoming South American tour. Her Majesty the Queen and Prince Philip are very naturally held by us all as our ultimate means of securing justice and fair play in this problem which has been purely foisted upon us, and a short visit to these Islands would have greatly relieved the anxiety which exists.

You will readily recall, Sir, that I wrote to you in early July on this and other questions to which I would like again to draw attention:

Why should our Queen be advised against visiting her subjects in the Falkland Islands, particularly at the present time when the people desire for real acknowledgement?

When can we expect a visit from a senior Minister? It is essential that a senior member of Her Majesty's Government should gain first hand knowledge of our difficulties and worries as soon as this can possibly be arranged.

What financial aid is Her Majesty's Government prepared to extend to us to accelerate the further development of our only industry? Our economy is reaching a critical state and further local investment will certainly be retarded against the insecurity of the future.

Can our official communications channel be improved to give us immediate first hand knowledge of our affairs? Being forced to deal with unofficial statements while waiting for that which is official can result in serious complications. I realise this may present its difficulties but it is being said that the unofficial always beats the official source.

What consideration is being given to strengthening our defences, particularly in the event of further incidents by Argentine extremists?

I would also like to draw attention to the fact that this wretched problem with which we are faced is of the greatest importance to each and every/...

every individual in these islands and it is therefore of no less importance that each and every individual gets a fair hearing and a fair deal. We in the Falkland Islands have celebrated this year of Human Rights with a commemorative stamp issue. I would sincerely hope that the licking of a stamp is not all that Human Rights is to mean to us.

We have at least been given the knowledge that a Minister of Her Majesty's Government is at long last to pay us a visit. We look forward to his arrival at an early date. Such a Minister will obviously be in a position to clarify much regarding the issue and we look forward to his doing so.

Mr Pitaluga: I am in complete accord with what the Hon. Member Mr Goss has just said and his sentiments have my full support.

Since our meeting on Wednesday, some public opinion has caused me to feel that a clarification of Council's action on Wednesday is desirable and with your permission, Sir, I will attempt to give it. At that meeting Council rejected a Bill designed to amend the Income Tax Ordinance. The Bill concerned was calculated in the main, to correct an injustice but, in effect, it also represented a tax increase, no matter how small in practice, for every tax payer. I am sure that my Honourable Friend the Colonial Treasurer will correct me if that statement is wrong, but that is how I understand the Bill.

There appears to be some misunderstanding, at least among Stanley residents, as to our reason for choosing this particular Bill for attack; I am sure that I speak for all Honourable Members when I declare that this Bill was quite acceptable in principle; we all want to see an end to injustice, no matter how slight, and the tax increase it would have effected was perfectly reasonable, but we could not throw out one without the other.

This Bill, from a very formidable list, was rejected because it was the one which affected practically everyone and it was rejected quite definitely as a demonstration of our total dissatisfaction with the British Government's behaviour over the future of our islands and the way we are kept in an atmosphere of doubt and uncertainty, which is deplorable. We must now await the visit of a British Minister and hope that we will get some, if not complete, satisfaction from him. I would venture to forecast that when the cloak of secrecy has been lifted and our future is clear-cut and to the satisfaction of the people, then the Bill to which I refer and indeed any other justifiable Bill which seeks a tax increase in the interests of the Islands as a whole will pass this House with hardly a dissenting voice. I am equally certain that those, who for the time being will continue to suffer the slight injustice of our present tax scale, will not mind one bit if the action taken by Council will help to prevent the soul destroying injustice of betrayal by the British Government.

Mr Miller: Your Excellency, the Hon. Member Mr Goss has rightly made reference in his speech to this Human Rights Year. It is amply evident that the United Nations Assembly has a poor interpretation of Human Rights.

There is no doubt in the minds of clear thinking Falkland Islanders that, thanks to the equivocal and weak attitude of the British Government, a grave question mark hangs over all of us in regard to our future.

I/...

I am well aware that of recent years I personally am on record in saying that I put my faith in a Government of Britons never to let us down, because to do so would be a complete reversal of all that our race has stood for over many centuries. Fundamental British staunchness and way of thinking just does not betray its own people. And I still believe that we will not, in the final issue, be let down. We must continue to put our resolute faith in the categorical statement made repeatedly by the Foreign Secretary that British sovereignty over these islands will never be handed over except at our own wish.

But, my honourable friends, the more we weaken in our inmost thoughts, the more we give way to the prophets of gloom - the more we shall progressively weaken our chance of support from Britain, and therefore our very survival.

Let the farmers continue, as far as current wool prices permit, to improve their pastures, to import fresh stock, to erect new fencing.

Let the Stanley citizen stock up his shops and repair or renew his property.

In this present age of fierce rush and competition throughout the world, there is no such period as marking time. Whether it is a nation or a company, just to survive and certainly to be successful we must look ahead and improve and so progress. To mark time too long is in fact to slip back. In this modern world there are only two gears - forward or reverse - and you dare not stay very long in neutral. Whatever the outcome of our present worries, one thing stands out very clearly. In our small way we shall need help from Britain. How can we expect any marked degree of sympathy in this respect if we do not go on doing our utmost to keep our house in order and actively develop our own lives and industry?

For the past century and more we have stood firmly upon our own feet. With rapidly increasing costs and the present low wool prices, our reserves have dwindled and we shall undoubtedly have to seek some help from Britain and, if our old country follows the tradition of her forbears, we shall get it. The amount that we shall require will, when compared to the millions of pounds that Britain has given to the Commonwealth and indeed to foreign countries, be tiny. And we can only decently expect this help if we do our very utmost to help ourselves and tell those prophets of gloom to go and chase themselves.

If we do not do that, we are betraying the great foundation work that our fine old Falkland Islands ancestors achieved in building up for us what has been up to now a prosperous and healthy community. And remember, those tough old pioneers only achieved this for us by toil and sweat, and even blood and tears.

Remember the cheerful buoyant optimism when Britain was finally threatened with invasion by the Nazi hordes in July, 1940. The typical cockney remark of the doorman in addressing a very downcast member; he said - "Anyway, Sir, we are in the final; and it's to be played on the home ground".

And to finish on a cheerful note. I believe that few of the people of this Colony have heard that the recent photographs taken of a large gathering in Stanley plus the many loyal telegrams from the Camp, published just over a week ago, have had a tremendous impact at home and the/...

the full story of this is safely on the way out to us.

These things matter. But do not let us impede such progress by fearful thoughts and feeble inaction.

Mr Clement: Your Excellency, not so very long ago Sir Arthur Bryant wrote an article in the Illustrated London News and named the age through which we are passing "the age of uproar" and this period could never be more aptly named. Look at the world wherever you will. Complete chaos. There are two terrible wars raging with all the attendant brutalities attended with pestilence and cold blooded murder. In England, people rally, students and so on insulting police, upsetting law and order and, I believe, on one occasion, they even turned their backs on Her Majesty the Queen. Look at Europe; Russia trampling on a small nation trying, Sir, to trample out a spark of freedom. She never will. I refer to the valiant Czechs.

Here, the outside edge of that uproar is touching this land. I refer, of course, to the Argentine claim to the Falklands. In the United Nations, and outside it, words like "imperialism", "colonialism" have been hurled at Britain. How could this apply to us? We have asked to remain under the British flag. That is what we have asked; under the British Crown. How, then, can they in our respect level the accusation of imperialism or colonialism? Perhaps in Russia it is translated in a different way. I do not know. But we have asked to remain British and we will. I have never deviated from that faith which the Hon. Member Mr Miller spoke of just now, never.

Out here there are, however, people who believe differently and are going about spreading rumours. Now, only this morning, I had a letter from my daughter in Darwin. She had heard that Mr Barton was selling his property and clearing out. He knew more than we did. The reply to that comment was "ridiculous". But that is the kind of thing. I have also been told that Mrs. Clement and I are selling our property and clearing out. This insidious pessimism, this shaking of heads and starting these stupid rumours, this is the kind of thing that undermines the confidence of people out here, especially in the Camps. We do not know, and we cannot know, what exactly is going to be our fate but I am sure that we will remain British.

I do not altogether agree with the Hon. Member Mr Goss when he said he thought, I think I am right in saying, that the Queen might have visited these Islands. I am sure we would have been delighted and greatly honoured but one must look at it from a political point of view. I believe I am right in saying that Her Majesty at one time might have visited the Argentine but she was advised by her Ministers not to do so and, with this political argument between Britain and the Government of the Argentine, how then could she come here without visiting the Argentine? It would, I think, have been a diplomatic slap in the face for the Argentines, which nobody wants. We ourselves would like to be friendly with them, have better relations. People travelling with Falkland Islands passports they throw every difficulty in their way to get into or out of the country. I feel, Your Excellency, that the ultimate outcome of this will be that we remain British.

I would just like to say that owing to the energy of the last Council, a nice bombshell was dropped in Whitehall which awoke the British/...

British public and the politicians to what we wanted in the Islands. We are entirely British. Should we be deprived of the land which our forefathers built? How can they accuse England of colonialism? Was there an indigenous population which we displaced or our forefathers displaced or Britain displaced? The only indigenous mammal that I know of was the fox. I know of no other. We certainly cleared the land of bullock but they were not indigenous. And the farms have gradually been built up by, as the Hon. Member Mr Miller has said, a tough bunch of men. Even my own grandfather was living in a tent for six months while a small house was being put up.

We were fortunate also in having such men as Mr Barton and Mr Cameron on the spot. As I wrote to him, it was a great pity we had no television in the Falklands. I know it would have given the population of the Islands a tremendous thrill to see him dealing with the Argentine Ambassador, was it not? The Hon. Member Mr Miller, too also had contact with various politicians and I am perfectly certain those views were very strongly expressed, on remaining British, in a British Colony and under the British Crown.

I know that you yourself, Sir, are fully sympathetic to our cause. We do not know what tremendous labour you yourself have performed in our cause but we can guess, and so, Your Excellency, I look to the future. The future of those who will come after us. They are the people who matter and matter very much. Farms have shown their confidence, quite recently, by the impending import of some very expensive sheep, so that some of us at any rate have not lost confidence.

Mr Hills: Your Excellency, I think that I can quite truly say that I agree with almost everything that the Hon. Members who have spoken before me have said. There is one point that I think that I cannot quite agree with and that is the point of our future.

I do realise and I agree, that it is totally wrong to spread false rumours and cause discontent among our people, but there again, Sir, I do remember on one occasion when you yourself said "but we must be realistic". I think that is very good advice and this I try to be. In your address to Council I was indeed very pleased to learn that a Minister was going to visit the Falklands and I am sure I am not alone in wondering just when that will be.

When we looked back over the past three years it is difficult to find anything that has been said that would give confidence to anyone wishing to invest in any project. I do not agree with the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer when, I believe, he said it was wrong to select items on the agenda which have a long term development. We did not oppose any Bills because we cannot see the wisdom of them but because we have no assurance for our future. Therefore at this moment, if we must look anywhere to place the blame for the delay in our development, I think it should be squarely on the shoulders of Her Majesty's Government. For a long time now the question of the Falkland Islands/Argentine dispute has come up. We hear that the wishes of the people will be taken into account. I think I speak for all Falkland Islanders when I say that it is our wish that Her Majesty's Government tell us, without further delay, what the future holds for us. If favourable, then we shall all be able to get down to the long overdue task of putting our economy in order. This, Sir, we all know will not be an easy one.

Mrs./...

Mrs. King: Your Excellency, there is very little left to say. I fully agree with what other Members have said. We must have confidence in the future and keep fighting. There is no use having a defeatist attitude and sitting back.

The Colonial Treasurer: Two small points, Sir. The Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga did ask me to correct him. He said that the Bill which was rejected would have caused an increase in the tax of every tax payer. Well, of course, he is wrong and that is what he asked me to say. And the Hon. Member Mr Hills. I did not say what he said I said!

The President: While it is very refreshing to hear the Hon. the Colonial Treasurer making an un-rehearsed incursion into the debate, I think that for the benefit of the Hon. Member Mr Pitaluga and the Hon. Member Mr Hills, perhaps the Hon. the Colonial Treasurer might amplify slightly, at least on the second of these, otherwise we shall be in slightly more doubt than we were in before.

The Colonial Treasurer: Sir, I am afraid that what he said has escaped my mind. I only know that what he said I said I did not say.

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, I think this is a point - to have faith - and Members have made their individual speeches on this point. I see a lot of Members in their collective role and the scenes in Committee. They make plans and I think the plans, the plans of Government, should be advertised a little more than because Members themselves do not only get down to words in this Chamber; they also look forward. I think a very brief summary of the forward looking element of our budget might well be worth

On Wednesday we read through 15 Bills and one or two people have said "a lot of claptrap, all that rubbish". It is not rubbish, you know. If we thought we were going to give up tomorrow, we would not be bothered to go through it all. We are keeping our laws up to date because we propose to go on using them.

We are negotiating and have high hopes for the arrival of a development team, a highly skilled team to come out to advise us on all aspects of farming, grasslands, sheep production and, indeed, beef production for the future. We hope to see the team on the ground next year, and there will be time after that to study the team's report, for implementing it and getting down to some development as a result of it.

"Oh, where is the airfield?" everyone cries. We would love an airfield. We would have rolled out a bit of Cape Pembroke ourselves if we could have done it, but we are told that an airfield, once it is usable, might be used by quite a lot of aircraft, therefore we must investigate radio homing aids, full meteorological services, have 3,500 feet of duplicate runway and all sorts of things and it will take time. We are planning ahead.

You are even going to get a new Colonial Secretary next year and if the Colony was going to fold up what better time than on my departure, but, no, you are going to be lumbered with another one. In other words, and/...

and this is not as funny as it sounds, administration must go on. We have a large development programme. We reviewed it yesterday. We did not alter it and we did not take one pound off it. We admit that some things will have to be studied again in the light of our economic situation. The development programme is in print for anyone who wishes to look at it. It can be found in the back of the Estimates.

We are studying new extensions to our Post Office facilities. We would not do that if we thought we were all going home tomorrow. Even the swimming pool, the mystic swimming pool, is under very close study again and the only delay has been because of the cost. We have to try and keep within our capabilities. If we had labour, we would be doing more with the roads and the fact that the roads programme has come to a halt is because we are short of labour. No other reason. Someone said to me the other day - "Ah, you are giving up; not bothering any more; letting them go to rack and ruin". The reason is labour, not politics.

Education plans are going ahead and the Superintendent of Education is pushing on to local 'O' levels with study facilities for 'A' levels beyond. We have just received a report of an expert committee on improved radio and telecommunications for the Camp. Admittedly, it does look a very expensive exercise and, no matter what the political situation, it might well be beyond our means. We have not entered into its study lightly.

The other day, someone came to me and said "I am very worried about my shop. Do you think I should order in any more goods?". I said, of course you should. Go away and have faith. I think that word "faith" is a good one and the few notes I have jotted down here about our plans for development are an emphasis on faith. We do not know what is going to happen but we are planning for the future and I feel, Your Excellency, that everyone in the Colony must do the same thing and I join hands with the Hon. Member Mr Miller and say to those who are prophets of doom - go and hide yourselves in the cupboard under the stairs.

The President: Honourable Members, the motion is that this House stands adjourned sine die. Before we do adjourn, I should like just to thank all Hon. Members for the care and attention which they have paid to our proceedings. It has been an opportunity for Hon. Members to express their views firmly and forcibly and I am very glad to know and to have heard that they have done so. Their views are not only expressed in this Chamber: they are also expressed in committee and the Standing Finance Committee has conducted a very careful review of our finances, a review which, I am told, indicates that the situation shows a distinct improvement on that which we envisaged in May this year. Never let it be said that we are "home and dry" financially. But the gloom of May - what I think was referred to as the official gloom - has certainly been clarified to a reasonable extent. The revenue which we received last financial year is just a little better than we had expected. The balance with which we ended the last financial year is just a little better than we had expected; expenditure within this year is running at a lower level, although not a very much lower level, and revenue has come in pretty satisfactorily this year. Therefore, on that side there are grounds certainly not for complacency but at least for encouragement.

Equally I believe that the Development Committee had a useful meeting yesterday and the work which it does would I think benefit by increased publicity which, if the members of the committee agree, Government/...

Government can give effect to.

We anticipate that in connection with the visit of a Minister of the British Government, it will be desirable to call a meeting of Council and as soon as details of that visit are known arrangements will be made to notify Hon. Members without delay.

There being no other business on our Order Paper and all Hon. Members having spoken, the House stands adjourned sine die.

A Bill for An Ordinance

Title.

To legalise certain payments made in the year 1967-68 in excess of the Expenditure sanctioned by Ordinance No. 6 of 1967.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make further provision for the service of the Colony for the period 1st July 1967 to 30th June 1968.

Enacting clause.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands as follows —

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited for all purposes as the Supplementary Appropriation (1967/68) Ordinance, 1968.

Appropriation of excess expenditure for the period 1st July 1967 to 30th June 1968.

2. The sums of money set forth in the Schedule hereto having been expended for the services therein mentioned beyond the amounts granted for those services by the Ordinance providing for the service for the period 1st July 1967 to 30th June 1968, the same are hereby declared to have been duly laid out and expended for the service of the Colony in that period, and are hereby approved, allowed and granted in addition to the sum mentioned for those services in the said Ordinance.

Schedule.

1968

Falkland Islands Dependencies

IN THE SEVENTEENTH YEAR OF THE REIGN OF

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II.

SIR COSMO HASKARD, K.C.M.G., M.B.E.

Governor.

An Ordinance

Title.

To apply certain Laws of the Colony to the Dependencies.

Enacting clause.

ENACTED for the Dependencies of the Colony of the Falkland Islands by the Governor of the Colony of the Falkland Islands and the Dependencies thereof, as follows —

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Application of Colony Laws Ordinance 1968.

Application of Colony Ordinances.

2. The Ordinances of the Colony specified in the first and second columns of the Schedule to this Ordinance are applied to the Dependencies, and shall be deemed to be in force in the Dependencies with effect from the date set out opposite their short titles in the third column of the Schedule to this Ordinance.

SCHEDULE

No.	Short title	Effective date
3 of 1968	The Marriage (Amendment) Ordinance 1968	7th November 1968

16 of 1968	The Customs (Amendment) Ordinance 1968	7th November 1968
17 of 1968	The Income Tax (Amendment) Ordinance 1968	1st January 1969

Enacted by the Governor on the 30th day of December 1968.

W. H. THOMPSON,
Colonial Secretary.

A Bill for An Ordinance

Further to amend the Income Tax Ordinance.

(1st January 1969)

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

1. (1) This Ordinance may be cited as the Income Tax (Amendment) Ordinance, 1969.

(2) The provisions of this Ordinance shall have effect with respect to tax chargeable for the year of assessment commencing on the 1st day of January 1969, and for all subsequent years of assessment.

2. Section 15 of the Income Tax Ordinance (hereinafter referred to as the principal Ordinance) is amended by the insertion after subsection (3) of the following new subsection —

"Personal deduction. (4) In ascertaining the chargeable income of an individual there shall be allowed a deduction of £150."

3. Section 21 of the principal Ordinance is amended, in subsection (1), by the deletion of the words and figures from "On the first" to the figures "5/9" and the substitution therefor of the following —

"On the first £100 of such income		1/-
In respect of every pound of the next	£150	2/-
" " " " " " " "	£200	2/6
" " " " " " " "	£200	3/-
" " " " " " " "	£400	3/6
" " " " " " " "	£1,300	4/6
" " " " " exceeding	£2,350	5/9."

OBJECTS AND REASONS

Clause 2 is designed more clearly to show that there is a personal deduction available to an individual who is a taxpayer. This fact may be obscured by the existing method of treating this deduction as a free portion in the tax scale (Section 21 (1)).

Clause 3 is designed to lower the point at which the standard rate of tax becomes effective. The existing and proposed scales are —

Existing			Proposed
First	£100 ...	1/-	First	£100 ...	1/-
next	£200 ...	2/-	next	£150 ...	2/-
"	£250 ...	2/6	"	£200 ...	2/6
"	£250 ...	3/-	"	£200 ...	3/-
"	£1,050 ...	3/6	"	£400 ...	3/6
"	£4,000 ...	4/6	"	£1,300 ...	4/6
over	£6,000 ...	5/9	over	£2,350 ...	5/9.

A Bill for An Ordinance

Further to amend the Old Age Pensions Ordinance, 1952.

Title.

Date of commencement.

1969)

Enacting clause

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Ordinance 1969.

Amendment of section 6.
3 of 1952.

2. Section 6 of the Old Age Pensions Ordinance 1952, is amended, in subsection (2) —

- (a) by the deletion of the full stop at the end of paragraph (c) and the substitution therefor of a colon; and
- (b) by the insertion, at the end thereof, of the following proviso —

“Provided that any female falling within the definition of “female contributor” who had attained the age of 50 years before the 1st day of July 1965, but has not attained the age of 60 years may elect, at her option, to become a contributor under this Ordinance.”.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill re-enacts and clarifies the proviso to subsection (2) of section 6 of the Old Age Pensions Ordinance 1952, which had been omitted during amendment.

(No. 15 of 1964)

ORDER

(under section 4 of the Ordinance)

No. 11 of 1968.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 4 of the Wild Animals and Birds Protection Ordinance 1964, the Governor in Council after obtaining the consent of the owners of the area known as Volunteer Point and Inside Volunteer together with Cow Bay to the fence dividing that area from Cape Carysfort Camp, East Falkland, has made the following Order —

1. This Order may be cited as the Wild Animals and Birds Protection (Volunteer and Cow Bay Sanctuary) Order 1968.
2. The camps known as Volunteer Point and Inside Volunteer, together with the Cow Bay area of Carysfort Camp, south of the fence which runs from Black Point west and south-west to Loch Head Pond, to be a wild animal and bird sanctuary.
3. That any person who within the said area at any time wilfully kills, injures, or takes, or attempts to kill, or take any wild animal or bird shall be guilty of an offence against the Wild Animals and Birds Protection Ordinance 1964.
4. That any person who introduces into the said area any carnivorous animal shall be guilty of an offence against the said Ordinance.
5. That any person guilty of an offence under this Order shall be liable to the penalty prescribed in section 4 of the said Ordinance.
6. That the herd of wild cattle in the area shall not be permitted to increase beyond eighty in number.

Made by the Governor in Council this 29th day of November 1968.

ORDER

(under section 22 of the Act)

No. 1 of 1969.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 22 of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 and the Fugitive Offenders (Falkland Islands and Dependencies) Order 1968, the Governor with the approval of the Secretary of State, has made the following Order—

1967 c. 68 S.I. 113 of

1. This Order may be cited as the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 (Commencement) Order 1969.

2. In relation to any country to which the Governor is empowered by paragraph (c) of section 2 (2) of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 (definition of "United Kingdom dependency") to apply the said section 2 (2), the said Act shall come into force on 17th February 1969 for the purposes of all the provisions of the Act other than the purposes of any provisions for which the said Act came into force on 31st May 1968 and 15th June 1968, respectively.

By Command,
W. H. THOMPSON,
Colonial Secretary.

17th February 1969.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Order)

This Order provides that the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 shall come into force on 17th February 1969 for the purposes of all the provisions thereof which have not sooner come into force.

1. This Order may be cited as the Fugitive Offenders (United Kingdom Dependencies) Order 1969 and shall come into operation on 17th February 1969.

2. Section 2 (2) of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 (which defines the expression "United Kingdom dependency") shall apply to the countries specified in column 1 of the Schedule hereto (being countries outside Her Majesty's dominions in which Her Majesty has jurisdiction, or over which She extends protection, in right of Her Government in the United Kingdom).

3. In relation to the return of persons to, and in relation to persons returned from, a country specified in column 1 of the Schedule hereto, other than the British Solomon Islands Protectorate, the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 shall have effect as if for any reference therein to the Governor there were substituted a reference to the person or government specified opposite to the country in question in column 2 of the said Schedule.

4. In relation to the return of persons to the New Hebrides, the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 shall have effect as if at the end of section 3 (1) thereof (which defines a relevant offence for the purposes of the Act) there were added the following proviso —

"Provided that an offence of which a person is accused or has been convicted in the New Hebrides shall not be a relevant offence unless he is liable to be tried therefor or, as the case may be, has been convicted thereof, by the High Court of the Western Pacific or by the Joint Court established for the New Hebrides."

*By Command,*W. H. THOMPSON,
Colonial Secretary.

17th February 1969.

SCHEDULE

Country	Government or person
British Solomon Islands Protectorate	—
Brunei	The Government of Brunei.
The New Hebrides	Her Majesty's High Commissioner for the Western Pacific or the Resident Commissioner for the New Hebrides acting with his authority.
Tonga	The Premier of Tonga.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Order.)

Section 2 (2) (c) of the Fugitive Offenders Act 1967 relates to countries outside Her Majesty's dominions in which She has jurisdiction, or over which She extends protection, in right of Her Government in the United Kingdom. It provides that such countries to which section 2 (2) is applied by Order shall fall within the definition of "United Kingdom dependency" for the purposes of that Act. Article 2 of this Order applies section 2 (2) to the countries specified in the Schedule.

As authorised by section 2 (3), Article 3 provides for the modification of references in the 1967 Act to the Governor in relation to the return of persons to, and in relation to persons returned from, these countries, and Article 4 provides that a person shall be returned to the New Hebrides only if he is liable to be tried or, as the case may be, has been convicted, by the High Court of the Western Pacific or by the Joint Court established for the New Hebrides.

 Order 1968

Made - - - - - 22nd November 1968

Coming into Operation 1st March 1969

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 22nd day of November 1968

Present,

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council

Her Majesty, in exercise of the powers conferred on Her by section 8 of the Tokyo Convention Act 1967(a) and of all other powers enabling Her in that behalf, is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows —

Citation and commencement.

1. This Order may be cited as the Tokyo Convention Act 1967 (Overseas Territories) Order 1968 and shall come into operation on 1st March 1969.

Interpretation

2. The Interpretation Act 1889 (b) shall apply, with the necessary adaptations, for the purpose of interpreting this Order and otherwise in relation thereto as it applies for the purpose of interpreting, and in relation to, Acts of Parliament.

Extension of Act of 1967.

3. Sections 1, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 of, and the Schedule to, the Tokyo Convention Act 1967, modified and adapted as in Schedule 1 hereto, shall extend to the Territories specified in Schedule 2 hereto.

W. G. Agnew.

SCHEDULE 1 TO THE ORDER

Article 3.

PROVISIONS OF TOKYO CONVENTION ACT 1967 AS EXTENDED TO THE TERRITORIES SPECIFIED IN SCHEDULE 2

Application of criminal law to aircraft.

1. (1) Any act or omission taking place on board a British-controlled aircraft while in flight elsewhere than in or over the Territory which, if taking place in the Territory, would constitute an offence under the law in force in the Territory shall constitute that offence:

Provided that this subsection shall not apply to any act or omission which is expressly or impliedly authorised by or under that law when taking place outside the Territory.

(2) No proceedings for any offence under the law in force in the Territory committed on board an aircraft while in flight elsewhere than in or over the Territory (other than an offence under, or under any instrument made under, the Civil Aviation Act 1949 (c)) shall be instituted except by or with the consent of the competent authority of the Territory, but the foregoing provisions of this subsection shall not prevent the arrest, or the issue of a warrant for the arrest, of any person in respect of any offence, or the remanding in custody or on bail of any person charged with any offence.

(3) For the purpose of conferring jurisdiction, any offence under the law in force in the Territory committed on board an aircraft in flight shall be deemed to have been committed in any place in the Territory where the offender may for the time being be; and section 62(1) of the Civil Aviation Act 1949 as set out with modifications and adaptations in the First Schedule to the Colonial Civil Aviation (Application of Act) Order 1952 (d) is hereby revoked in its application to the Territory.

(a) 1967 c. 52.

(b) 1889 c. 63.

(c) 1949 c. 67.

(d) S. I. 1952/868 (1952 I, p. 565).

3. (1) The provisions of subsections (2) to (5) of this section shall have effect for the purposes of any proceedings before any court in the Territory.

Powers of commander of aircraft.

(2) If the commander of an aircraft in flight, wherever that aircraft may be, has reasonable grounds to believe in respect of any person on board the aircraft —

- (a) that the person in question has done or is about to do any act on the aircraft while it is in flight which jeopardises or may jeopardise—
 - (i) the safety of the aircraft or of persons or property on board the aircraft; or
 - (ii) good order and discipline on board the aircraft; or
- (b) that the person in question has done on the aircraft while in flight any act which in the opinion of the commander is a serious offence under any law in force in the country in which the aircraft is registered, not being a law of a political nature or based on racial or religious discrimination, then, subject to subsection (4) of this section, the commander may take with respect to that person such reasonable measures, including restraint of his person, as may be necessary —

- (i) to protect the safety of the aircraft or of persons or property on board the aircraft; or
- (ii) to maintain good order and discipline on board the aircraft; or
- (iii) to enable the commander to disembark or deliver that person in accordance with subsection (5) of this section; and for the purposes of paragraph (b) of this subsection any British-controlled aircraft shall be deemed to be registered in the Territory whether or not it is in fact so registered and whether or not it is in fact registered in some other country.

(3) Any member of the crew of an aircraft and any other person on board the aircraft may, at the request or with the authority of the commander of the aircraft, and any such member shall if so required by that commander, render assistance in restraining any person whom the commander is entitled under subsection (2) of this section to restrain; and at any time when the aircraft is in flight any such member or other person may, without obtaining the authority of the commander, take with respect to any person on board the aircraft any measures such as are mentioned in the said subsection (2) which he has reasonable grounds to believe are immediately necessary to protect the safety of the aircraft or of persons or property on board the aircraft.

(4) Any restraint imposed on any person on board an aircraft under the powers conferred by the foregoing provisions of this section shall not be continued after the time when the aircraft first thereafter ceases to be in flight unless before or as soon as is reasonably practicable after that time the commander of the aircraft causes notification of the fact that a person on board the aircraft is under restraint and of the reasons therefor to be sent to an appropriate authority of the country in which the aircraft so ceases to be in flight, but subject to such notification may be continued after that time —

- (a) for any period (including the period of any further flight) between that time and the first occasion thereafter on which the commander is able with any requisite consent of the appropriate authorities to disembark or deliver the person under restraint in accordance with subsection (5) of this section; or
- (b) if the person under restraint agrees to continue his journey under restraint on board that aircraft.

(5) The commander of an aircraft —

- (a) if in the case of any person on board the aircraft he has reasonable grounds —
 - (i) to believe as mentioned in subsection (2) (a) of this section; and
 - (ii) to believe that it is necessary so to do in order to protect the safety of the aircraft or of persons or property on board the aircraft or to maintain good order and discipline on board the aircraft, may disembark that person in any country in which that aircraft may be; and

- (b) if in the case of any person on board the aircraft he has reasonable grounds to believe as mentioned in subsection (2) (b) of this section, may deliver that person —
 - (i) in the United Kingdom, to a constable or immigration officer; or
 - (ii) in any Territory or in any other country which is a Convention country, to an officer having functions corresponding to the functions in the United Kingdom either of a constable or of an immigration officer.

(6) The commander of an aircraft —

- (a) if he disembarks any person in pursuance of subsection (5) (a) of this section, in the case of a British-controlled aircraft, in any country or, in the case of any other aircraft, in the Territory, shall report the fact of, and the reasons for, that disembarkation to —
 - (i) an appropriate authority in the country of disembarkation; and
 - (ii) the appropriate diplomatic or consular office of the country of nationality of that person;
- (b) if he intends to deliver any person in accordance with subsection (5) (b) of this section in the United Kingdom or in any Territory or, in the case of a British-controlled aircraft, in any other country which is a Convention country, shall before or as soon as reasonably practicable after landing give notification of his intention and of the reasons therefor —
 - (i) where the country in question is the United Kingdom, to a constable or immigration officer or, in the case of any Territory or any other country, to an officer having functions corresponding to the functions in the United Kingdom either of a constable or of an immigration officer;
 - (ii) in either case to the appropriate diplomatic or consular office of the country of nationality of that person; and any commander of an aircraft who without reasonable cause fails to comply with the requirements of this subsection shall be liable on summary conviction in the Territory to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds.

Piracy.

4. For the avoidance of doubt, it is hereby declared that for the purposes of any proceedings before a court in the Territory in respect of piracy, the provisions set out in the Schedule to this Act of the Convention on the High Seas signed at Geneva on 29th April 1958 shall be treated as constituting part of the law of nations; and any such court having jurisdiction in respect of piracy committed on the high seas shall have jurisdiction in respect of piracy committed by or against an aircraft wherever that piracy is committed.

Provisions as to evidence in connection with aircraft.

5. (1) Where in any proceedings before a court in the Territory for an offence committed on board an aircraft the testimony of any person is required and the court is satisfied that the person in question cannot be found in the Territory, there shall be admissible in evidence before that court any deposition relating to the subject matter of those proceedings previously made on oath by that person outside the Territory which was so made —

- (a) in the presence of the person charged with the offence; and
- (b) before a judge or magistrate of a country such as is mentioned in section 1 (3) of the British Nationality Act (1948) (a) as for the time being in force, or which is part of Her Majesty's dominions, or in which Her Majesty for the time being has jurisdiction, or before a consular officer of Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom.

(2) Any such deposition shall be authenticated by the signature of the judge, magistrate or consular officer before whom it was made who shall certify that the person charged with the offence was present at the taking of the deposition.

(3) It shall not be necessary in any proceedings to prove the signature or official character of the person appearing so to have authenticated any such deposition or to have given such a certificate and such a certificate shall, unless the contrary is proved, be sufficient evidence in any proceedings that the person charged with the offence was present as the making of the deposition.

(4) If a complaint is made to such a consular officer as aforesaid that any offence has been committed on a British-controlled aircraft while in flight elsewhere than in or over the Territory, that officer may inquire into the case on oath.

(5) In this section —

- (a) the expression "deposition" includes any affidavit, affirmation or statement made upon oath; and
- (b) the expression "oath" includes an affirmation or declaration in the case of persons allowed by law to affirm or declare instead of swearing; and nothing in this section shall prejudice the admission as evidence of any deposition which is admissible in evidence apart from this section.

6. (1) In any legal proceedings —

- (a) a document purporting to be certified by such authority or person as may be designated for the purpose by any regulations made by the Provisions as to documentary evidence.

Board of Trade under this Act as in force in the United Kingdom or by the Governor of any Territory as being, or being a true copy of, or of part of, a document issued or record kept in pursuance of—

- (i) an Order in Council made under section 8 of the Civil Aviation Act 1949, or
 - (ii) the Civil Aviation (Licensing) Act 1960 (a) or this Act,
- by, or by the Minister in charge of, a Government Department, by an official of a Government Department who is specified for the purpose in any such Order in Council, or by the Air Registration Board of the United Kingdom or the Air Transport Licensing Board of the United Kingdom or by the competent authority in any Territory for the registration or licensing of aircraft; or
- (b) a document printed by Her Majesty's Stationery Office and purporting to be the publication known as the "United Kingdom Air Pilot" or a publication of the series known as "Notam-United Kingdom" or a publication in the Official Gazette for any Territory of a notice similar to a "Notam-United Kingdom" but notifying matters related to any Territory shall be evidence of the matters appearing from that document.

(2) Any records that are admissible in evidence in any legal proceedings in the United Kingdom by virtue of section 5 of the Civil Aviation (Eurocontrol) Act 1962 (b) as modified by section 6 (2) of this Act as in force in the United Kingdom, and of any regulations or Orders in Council made under or continued in force by either of those provisions, shall be admissible in evidence in any legal proceedings in the Territory.

7. (1) In this Act, except where the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the following meanings respectively, that is to say— Interpretation, etc.

"aircraft" means any aircraft, whether or not a British-controlled aircraft, other than —

- (a) a military aircraft; or
- (b) an aircraft which, not being a military aircraft, belongs to or is exclusively employed in the service of Her Majesty in right of the United Kingdom or in right of any Territory;

but the Governor of any Territory with the approval of the Secretary of State may by order which may be varied or revoked by a subsequent order, provide that any of the provisions of this Act shall apply with or without modifications to aircraft such as are mentioned in paragraph (b) of this definition;

"British-controlled aircraft" means an aircraft —

- (a) which is for the time being registered in the United Kingdom or in any Territory; or
- (b) which is not for the time being registered in any country but in the case of which either the operator of the aircraft or each person entitled as owner to any legal or beneficial interest in it satisfies the following requirements, namely —
 - (i) that he is a person qualified to be the owner of a legal or beneficial interest in an aircraft registered in the United Kingdom or in any Territory; and
 - (ii) that he resides or has his principal place of business in the United Kingdom or in any Territory; or
- (c) which, being for the time being registered in some other country, is for the time being chartered by demise to a person who, or to persons each of whom, satisfies the requirements aforesaid;

"commander" in relation to an aircraft means the member of the crew designated as commander of that aircraft by the operator thereof, or, failing such a person, the person who is for the time being pilot in command of the aircraft;

"competent authority" means the Attorney-General of the Territory or, where some other authority has general responsibility for and control of public prosecutions, that authority;

"Convention country" means a country in which the Tokyo convention is for the time being in force; and any Order of Her Majesty in Council made under this Act and for the time being in force certifying that any country specified in the Order is for the time being a Convention country shall be conclusive evidence that the country in question is for the time being a Convention country;

"Governor", in relation to any Territory, means the officer for the time being administering the Government of that territory;

"military aircraft" means —

- (a) an aircraft of the naval, military or air forces of any country; or

- (b) any other aircraft in respect of which there is in force a certificate issued in accordance with any Order in Council in force under the Civil Aviation Act 1949 that the aircraft is to be treated for the purposes of that Order in Council as a military aircraft; and a certificate of the Secretary of State or of the Governor of any Territory that any aircraft is or is not a military aircraft for the purposes of this Act shall be conclusive evidence of the fact certified;

“operator” in relation to any aircraft at any time means the person who at that time has the management of that aircraft;

“pilot in command” in relation to an aircraft means a person who for the time being is in charge of the piloting of the aircraft without being under the direction of any other pilot in the aircraft;

“Tokyo Convention” means the Convention on Offences and certain other Acts Committed on board Aircraft signed at Tokyo on 14th September 1963.

(2) For the purposes of this Act, the period during which an aircraft is in flight shall be deemed to include —

- (a) any period from the moment when power is applied for the purpose of the aircraft taking off on a flight until the moment when the landing run (if any) at the termination of that flight ends; and
- (b) for the purposes of section 3 of this Act —
- (i) any further period from the moment when all external doors, if any, of the aircraft are closed following embarkation for a flight until the moment when any such door is opened for disembarkation after that flight; and
 - (ii) if the aircraft makes a forced landing, any period thereafter until the time when competent authorities of the country in which the forced landing takes place take over the responsibility for the aircraft and for the persons and property on board the aircraft (being, if the forced landing takes place in the Territory, the time when an officer having functions corresponding to the functions in the United Kingdom of a constable arrives at the place of landing); and any reference in this Act to an aircraft in flight shall include a reference to an aircraft during any period when it is on the surface of the sea or land but not within the territorial limits of any country.

(3) In this Act, except where the context otherwise requires, any reference to any Territory or to any other country or the territorial limits thereof shall be construed as including a reference to the territorial waters, if any, of that Territory or country, and any reference to any Act (including this Act) or to any provision thereof shall be construed as including a reference to that Act or to that provision as extended to any Territory.

(4) For the purpose of construing this Act as part of the law of any Territory to which it extends, “the Territory” means that Territory and “any Territory” means any of the Territories to which this Act extends.

(5) Any order of the Board of Trade for the time being in force in the United Kingdom by virtue of section 7 (4) of this Act as in force in the United Kingdom (which subsection provides for specifying the Convention country in which aircraft operated by joint air transport organisations or international operating agencies established by two or more Convention countries shall be treated as registered) shall have effect in the Territory.

SCHEDULE TO THE ACT

Section 4.

PROVISIONS OF GENEVA CONVENTION ON THE HIGH SEAS TO BE TREATED AS PART OF THE LAW OF NATIONS

Article 15

Piracy consists of any of the following acts:

(1) Any illegal acts of violence, detention or any act of depredation, committed for private ends by the crew or the passengers of a private ship or a private aircraft, and directed:

- (a) On the high seas, against another ship or aircraft, or against persons or property on board such ship or aircraft;
- (b) Against a ship, aircraft, persons or property in a place outside the jurisdiction of any State;

(2) Any act of voluntary participation in the operation of a ship or of an aircraft with knowledge of facts making it a pirate ship or aircraft;

(3) Any act of inciting or of intentionally facilitating an act described in sub-paragraph (1) or sub-paragraph (2) of this article.

Article 16

The acts of piracy, as defined in article 15, committed by a warship, government ship or government aircraft whose crew has mutinied and taken control of the ship or aircraft are assimilated to acts committed by a private ship.

Article 17

A ship or aircraft is considered a pirate ship or aircraft if it is intended by the person in dominant control to be used for the purpose of committing one of the acts referred to in article 15. The same applies if the ship or aircraft has been used to commit any such act, so long as it remains under the control of the persons guilty of that act.

A Bill for An Ordinance To amend the Police Ordinance, 1967.

(, 1969)

Title.

Date of commencement.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Enacting clause.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Police (Amendment) Ordinance, 1969.

Short title.

2. The Police Ordinance 1967 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Ordinance) is amended by the addition, after Part V, of the following new Part —

Addition of new Part VA.
(9 of 1967)

“PART VA.

POLICE RESERVE.

Establishment.

33A. (1) The Governor may establish a Police Reserve, to be known as the Falkland Islands Police Reserve.

(2) The Police Reserve shall be part of the Force.

Appointment of police reservists.

33B. It shall be lawful for the Officer in Charge, with the prior approval of the Governor, to enlist so many fit and proper persons as members of the Police Reserve as the Governor shall from time to time authorize.

Powers, etc., of police reservists.

33C. Police reservists when on duty as such shall be deemed to be members of the Force and shall have all the powers, privileges, liabilities and immunities which are conferred or imposed upon police officers or constables by any law.

Regulations for Police Reserve.

33D. The Governor in Council may make regulations for the Police Reserve and in particular but without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, may make regulations regarding —

- (a) the appointment, retirement and dismissal of police reservists;
- (b) the rank and remuneration of police reservists;
- (c) the terms of service and discipline of police reservists;
- (d) the training and administration of the Police Reserve;
- (e) the duties and responsibilities of police reservists;

Police Ordinance, 1967

REGULATIONS

(under section 38 of the Ordinance)

No. 2 of 1969.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 38 of the Police Ordinance, 1967, the Governor in Council has made the following regulations —

1. These regulations may be cited as the Police Regulations, 1969. Citation.

PART I

RECRUITMENT AND PROBATION

2. The following standard is required for enrolment of recruits for the Police Force — Physical standard for recruits.

- (a) Age: A minimum of eighteen years;
- (b) Of good physique;
- (c) Eyesight: Normal or fully corrected with spectacles;
- (d) Ears: No undue deafness;
- (e) Feet and legs: Sufficiently developed to cope with long periods of standing.

3. A recruit may, before entry into the Force be required to pass a written educational examination, to be set and marked by the Superintendent of Education or such other person as the Colonial Secretary may approve. Examination before entry into Force.

4. A police officer will be on probation for two years after appointment as such, during which period his services may be dispensed with at any time if the Officer in Charge considers that he is not likely to become efficient and well conducted. If his services are so dispensed with, he will receive one month's notice. Probationary period.

PART II — DISCIPLINE

5. Any member of the Force commits an offence against discipline if he commits one or more of the offences set out below (hereinafter in these regulations referred to as the disciplinary code) — Disciplinary code.

(1) Discreditable conduct, that is to say, if he acts in a disorderly manner or any manner prejudicial to discipline or reasonably likely to bring discredit on the reputation of the Force.

(2) Insubordinate or oppressive conduct, that is to say, if he —

- (a) is insubordinate by word, act or demeanour; or
- (b) is guilty of oppressive or tyrannical conduct towards an inferior in rank; or
- (c) uses obscene, abusive or insulting language to any other member of the Force; or
- (d) wilfully or negligently makes any false complaint or statement against any member of the Force; or
- (e) assaults any other member of the Force; or
- (f) improperly withholds any report or allegation against any member of the Force.

(3) Disobedience to orders, that is to say, if he disobeys or without good and sufficient cause omits or neglects to carry out any lawful order, written or otherwise, or any provision of any Standing Order or Routine Order, or contravenes any of the following requirements —

- (a) a police officer shall at all times abstain from activity which is likely to interfere with the impartial discharge of his duties or which is likely to give rise to the impression amongst members of the public that it may so interfere, and in particular a police officer shall not take any active part in politics;
- (b) the place at which a police officer resides shall be subject to the approval of the Officer in Charge;
- (c) a police officer shall not wilfully refuse or neglect to discharge any lawful debt.

(4) Neglect of duty, that is to say, if he —

- (a) neglects or without good and sufficient cause omits promptly and diligently to attend to or carry out anything which is his duty as a police officer; or
- (b) idles or gossips while on duty; or
- (c) fails to work his beat in accordance with orders, or leaves his beat or other place of duty to which he has been ordered without due permission or sufficient cause; or
- (d) by carelessness or neglect permits a prisoner to escape; or
- (e) fails, when knowing where any offender is to be found, to report the same, or to make due exertions for making him amenable to justice; or
- (f) fails to report any matter which it is his duty to report; or
- (g) fails to report anything which he knows concerning a criminal charge, or fails to disclose any evidence which he, or any person within his knowledge, can give for or against any prisoner or defendant to a criminal charge; or
- (h) omits to make necessary entry in any official document or book; or
- (i) neglects, or without good or sufficient cause omits to carry out, any instructions of a government medical officer, or while absent from duty on account of sickness, is guilty of any act or conduct calculated to retard his return to duty.

(5) Falsehood or prevarication, that is to say, if he —

- (a) knowingly makes or signs any false statement in any official document or book; or
- (b) wilfully or negligently makes any false, misleading or inaccurate statement; or
- (c) without good and sufficient cause destroys or mutilates any official document or record, or alters or erases any entry therein.

(6) Breach of confidence, that is to say, if he —

- (a) divulges any matter which is his duty to keep secret; or
- (b) gives notice directly or indirectly to any person against whom any warrant or summons has been or is about to be issued, except in the lawful execution of such warrant or service of such summons; or
- (c) without proper authority communicates to any person, who is not a member of the Force, any matter connected with the Force; or
- (d) without proper authority shows to any person outside the Force any book or written or printed document the property of the government; or

- (e) makes any anonymous communication to the Governor, any public officer, the Officer in Charge or to any superior officer; or
- (f) canvasses any member of the Legislative Council or any public officer with regard to any matter concerning the Force; or
- (g) signs or circulates any petition or statement with regard to any matter concerning the Force except through the proper channel of correspondence to the Officer in Charge; or
- (h) calls or attends any unauthorised meeting to discuss any matter concerning the Force.

(7) Corrupt practice, that is to say, if he —

- (a) receives any bribe; or
- (b) fails to account for or to make a prompt and true return of any money or property received by him in his official capacity; or
- (c) directly or indirectly solicits or receives any gratuity, present, subscription or testimonial, without the consent of the Officer in Charge; or
- (d) places himself under pecuniary obligation to any publican or any person who holds a licence concerning the granting or renewal of which the police may have to report or give advice; or
- (e) improperly uses his character and position as a member of the Force for his private advantage; or
- (f) in his capacity as a member of the Force, writes, signs or gives without the sanction of the Officer in Charge any testimonial or character or other recommendation with the object of obtaining employment for any person or of supporting an application for the grant of a licence of any kind; or
- (g) without the sanction of the Officer in Charge supports an application for the grant of a licence of any kind.

(8) Unlawful or unnecessary exercise of authority, that is to say, if he —

- (a) without good and sufficient cause makes any unlawful or unnecessary arrest; or
- (b) uses any unnecessary violence to any prisoner or other person with whom he may be brought into contact in the execution of his duty; or
- (c) is uncivil to any member of the public.

(9) Malingering, that is to say, if he feigns or exaggerates any sickness or injury with a view to avoiding duty.

(10) Absence without leave or being late for duty, that is to say, if he without reasonable excuse is absent without leave from or is late for parade, court or any other duty.

(11) Uncleanliness, that is to say, if he, while on duty or while off duty in uniform in a public place, is improperly dressed or is dirty or untidy in his person, clothing or accoutrements.

(12) Damage to clothing or other articles supplied, that is to say, if he —

- (a) wilfully or by carelessness causes any waste, loss or damage to any article of clothing or accoutrement, or to any book, document or other government property served out to him or used by him or entrusted to his care; or
- (b) fails to report any loss or damage as in the preceding paragraph however caused.

(13) Drunkenness on duty or soliciting drink, that is to say, if he —

- (a) without the consent of his superior officer, drinks or receives from any person any intoxicating liquor while on duty; or
- (b) demands or endeavours to persuade any other person to give him or to purchase or to obtain from him, any intoxicating liquor while he is on duty.

(14) Entering licensed premises, that is to say, if without permission he enters —

- (a) while on duty any premises where intoxicating liquor is served, sold, stored or distributed when his presence there is not required in the execution of his duty; or
- (b) any such premises in uniform while off duty.

(15) Lending, borrowing or accepting presents, that is to say, if he lends money to any superior in rank or borrows or accepts any present from any inferior in rank.

(16) Conviction for a criminal offence, that is to say, if he has been found guilty by a court of law of any criminal offence.

(17) Being an accessory to a disciplinary offence, that is to say, if he connives at or is knowingly an accessory to any offence against discipline.

PART III — DEFAULTERS

Misconduct report.

6. For any offence against the disciplinary code a police officer will, if considered necessary, be placed on the defaulter's report.

Entries on record.

7. Every punishment will be entered on the defaulter's record sheet.

Defaulter to be served with a copy of report.

8. A defaulter shall, when going off duty or if off duty, as soon as practicable, be supplied with a written copy of the report preferred against him, which must disclose an offence against the disciplinary code with such details of time and place as will leave him under no misapprehension as to the offence for which he is reported.

Defaulter to be afforded access to reports.

9. The defaulter will be afforded access to all reports and statements relevant to the report against him, as soon as they are prepared. If he so desires, he will be permitted to take copies in his own time. Each folio of a report or statement of which a copy is taken must be marked by him "Copy Taken" and initialled by him to show that he has seen it.

Questions to be answered on report form.

10. (1) The defaulter will be invited to state in writing on a report form whether he admits or denies the charge. He will also be invited to state thereon the names and address of any witnesses to relevant facts whose attendance at the hearing of the case he wishes to secure.

(2) He may be present when the statement of his witnesses are being taken.

Trifling irregularities.

11. Police officers are not necessarily to be reported for trifling irregularities which can often be dealt with by immediate verbal reprimand, brief particulars of which should at the time be recorded in the official pocket book of the officer by whom the reprimand is administered. Repeated acts of negligence, although in themselves trifling, must be brought to notice.

Trial of defaulters.

12. Offences against the disciplinary code will be tried by the Officer in Charge.

Other member of Force may assist defaulter.

13. (1) At the trial of an offence against the disciplinary code, the defaulter may be assisted by another member of the Force.

(2) The member of the Force assisting the defaulter or the defaulter may address the Officer in Charge trying the case and examine or cross-examine the witnesses.

(3) The defaulter will be permitted to give evidence on his own behalf.

14. If a defaulter absconds or refuses or neglects without good and sufficient cause to attend the hearing of the charge at the time and place appointed or is serving a sentence of imprisonment the case may be decided in his absence.

Absence of defaulter.

15. When a police officer is reported for rendering himself unfit for duty through drink, whether on or off duty, or for drinking on duty, he shall have the right to require that a medical practitioner shall be called to examine him.

Drunkenness — attendance of doctor.

16. The Officer in Charge, when trying a case against a defaulter, shall record the substance of the evidence in writing.

Recording of evidence.

PART IV

APPEALS AND CONFIRMATION OF PUNISHMENT

17. (1) A police officer who is not satisfied with a decision reached on the trial of any offence against the disciplinary code may, subject to the provisions of this Part, appeal to the Governor, who may vary the decision or allow or reject the appeal.

Conditions to be complied with.

(2) Appeals may only be made on the condition that the officer shall have made his whole defence and called all his available witnesses at the original hearing.

(3) Notice of intention to appeal must be given in writing within forty-eight hours of the award of the punishment, stating whether the appeal is against the finding or the punishment or both.

18. On appeal, the appellant shall, within the prescribed time, give notice of appeal by serving on the Officer in Charge a notice in writing of his intention to appeal and of the general grounds of such appeal.

Notice of appeal.

19. A police officer, if found guilty of an offence by the Officer in Charge, may appeal to the Governor only if he has been sentenced to dismissal, termination of service, reduction in rank or reduction in rate of pay.

Limits of appeal.

20. When a member of the Force appeals to the Governor the Officer in Charge shall forward all records, statements and other papers relevant to the hearing to the Colonial Secretary for onward transmission to the Governor.

Appeals to Governor.

21. Any punishment specified in paragraphs (a) to (d) of section 30 of the Ordinance awarded by the Officer in Charge shall be subject to the approval of the Governor.

Confirmation of punishment.

PART V

COMPLAINTS AGAINST POLICE

22. All complaints against members of the Force shall be investigated without delay.

Complaints.

23. (1) When a complaint is lodged against a member of the Force it shall be the duty of the officer receiving it to record it in writing.

Complaints to be recorded in writing.

(2) The officer against whom the complaint is made, will, whenever practicable, be permitted to be present while any statements are being taken from the complainant.

Investigating complaints.

24. In all cases of complaint against a police officer, the Officer in Charge shall enquire into the allegation.

Complainant to be informed.

25. When the enquiry has been completed the Officer in Charge shall inform the complainant of the result of such enquiry.

Revocation.
(7 of 1967).

26. The Police Regulations, 1967 are revoked.

Made by the Governor in Council on the 26th day of March 1969.

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Leave and Passage (Amendment) Regulations 1969.

Amendment of regulation 23.

2. Regulation 23 of the Leave and Passage Regulations 1966, is amended —

(a) by the deletion of paragraph (1) and the substitution therefor of the following —

“(1) Where an officer is required by these Regulations to travel by air he shall be allowed in each direction up to 20 cubic feet for himself and 10 cubic feet for each member of his family, subject to a limit of 50 cubic feet for the officer and his family. Sea freight charges only will be met from public funds and the officer should seek reimbursement of expenditure (made in the first instance by himself) by presenting his receipted invoices to the Treasury or the Crown Agents:

Provided that, an officer shall be permitted to send baggage by surface parcel post when the cost to Government is lower than the ruling minimum freight rate. In this case the officer should seek reimbursement of expenditure by presenting that portion of the parcel wrapping which carries the stamps and customs declaration.”; and

(b) by the deletion of paragraph (4).

Made by the Governor in Council this 23rd day of April 1969.

ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Short title.
Cap. 32.

1. (1) This Ordinance may be cited as the Income Tax (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance, 1969, and shall be read as one with the Income Tax Ordinance, hereinafter referred to as the principal Ordinance.

Commencement.

(2) The provisions of this Ordinance shall have effect with respect to profits tax chargeable for the year of assessment commencing on the 1st day of January 1970, and for all subsequent years of assessment.

Amendment of section 21.

2. Section (2A) of section 21 of the principal Ordinance is amended —

- (a) in lines 6 and 7 thereof by the deletion of the words "2/- for every £1 of the chargeable income" and the substitution therefor of "4/- for every £1 of the chargeable income";
- (b) in lines 7 and 8 thereof by the deletion of the words "1/6 for every £1 of the chargeable income" and the substitution therefor of "3/- for every £1 of the chargeable income";
- (c) by the substitution of a semi-colon for the full-stop at the end of paragraph (i) and the addition of the following paragraphs —

- “(j) from the profits tax payable for the year of assessment one thousand nine hundred and seventy and for each subsequent year of assessment there shall be deducted a rebate based on qualifying expenditure (to be referred to as an “investment allowance”) which shall be deductible from the profits tax at the rate of 10/- where the rate of profits tax is 4/-, and at the rate of 7/6 where the rate of profits tax is 3/-;
- (k) where the profits subject to profits tax are between £2,000 and £12,000 and abatement under section 21 (2A) (c) has been claimed the amount of investment otherwise allowable shall be reduced to the proportion which the chargeable income after deduction of the abatement bears to the chargeable income before such abatement;
- (l) no investment allowance shall be allowable when the profits are less than £2,000, and the deduction of investment allowance from profits tax shall be limited to 50% of the amount of profits tax in any one year of assessment:
 Provided that where investment allowance has been disallowed by reason of such excess it may be carried forward to the next succeeding year of assessment;
- (m) subject to the limitation contained in (l) capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowance incurred since 1st January 1968 may be taken into account;
- (n) capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowance shall be restricted to the following —
- i. All new fencing, other than main farm boundary fences;
 - ii. New plant or machinery used mainly for grasslands improvement schemes;
 - iii. Pasture improvement schemes including ditching, draining, preparation of ground for seeding, seeds and fertilizers;
 - iv. Pedigree livestock;
- and to qualify for such investment allowance shall be capital expenditure which may be subject to certification by the Grasslands Officer or such other officer as shall be appointed to act in that behalf to have been expended in such improvements in relation to the year of assessment;
- (o) where it is shewn to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of Income Tax that a trade or business is of such a nature that qualifying expenditure could not have been incurred, he may by order reduce the rate of profits tax payable by 50%.”.

NOTICE

No. 13.

27th June 1969.

Intimation has been received from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs to the effect that Her Majesty will not be advised to exercise her power of disallowance in respect of the following Ordinance of the Colony —

No.	Title	Ref.
12/68	British Nationality (Amendment) Ordinance, 1968	1022/III.

Report on the working of the Old Age Pensions Equalisation Fund for the year 1967/68.

To The Honourable
The Colonial Secretary,
Stanley.

Colonial Treasury,
Stanley, Falkland Islands,
20th November 1968.

Sir,

I have the honour to submit a report on the Old Age Pensions Equalisation Fund for the period 1st July 1967 to 30th June 1968, together with the following accounts and statements —

1. Statement of Revenue and Expenditure.
2. Investments Adjustment Account.
3. Statement showing the growth of the Fund during the year.
4. Statement of Assets and Liabilities at 30th June 1968.
5. Statements of Investments held at 30th June 1968.

2. Two important changes in the operation of the fund took place during the year. The first is reflected in the revenue and expenditure where there is a sum of £2,208 : 17 : 6 described as 'Contribution from Falkland Islands Government to cover increases in Pensions'. With effect from 1st January 1968, pensions were increased from 26/- and 52/- per week for unmarried and married pensioners respectively to 46/6 and 93/- per week.

3. At the same time the total weekly contribution was increased from 7/6 to 12/- and the special reduced rate of 4/6 per week for persons between the ages of 18 and 21 was abolished. A condition of the increased pension rate was that only contributors who had made contributions at the increased rate could receive the increased pension rate from the fund which meant, in effect, that the fund could not be liable to pay at the increased rate until 1st January 1973, i.e. five years after the increased contribution rate was introduced, or the period during which a contributor who reached the age of 60 on 1st January 1968 and ceased to contribute, advanced to pensionable age of 65.

4. In the meantime, as pensions were increased from 1st January 1968, the difference between the old rates of 26/- and 52/- and the new rates of 46/6 and 93/- is to be met from the general revenue of the Colony and the 'contribution' referred to in paragraph 2 records the amount received from the Colony general revenue to meet the increased pension payments.

5. Excluding the Government contribution referred to above total revenue for the year amounted to £30,140 : 15 : 0 compared with £23,805 : 7 : 7 during the preceeding year. Also excluding that part of the increased pensions met from Government funds, expenditure during the year totalled £7,318 : 14 : 10 compared with £8,090 : 9 : 11 during the preceeding year. Revenue exceeded expenditure by £22,822 : 0 : 2 compared with £15,714 : 17 : 8 during the previous year.

6. The fund increased by £32,768 : 17 : 8 during the year, £9,946 : 17 : 6 of this coming from appreciation in the market value of investments after offsetting a small losing from trading in investments.

7. The second important change in the management of the fund was the extension of the investment policy to the equity market. At 30th June 1968 equity holdings had a market value of £99,058 : 5 : 6 and gilt-edged £97,854 : 14 : 6.

8. During the year 13 claims to pensions were allowed : none were disallowed. Six pensioners died. At 30th June 1968 there were sixty-six persons in receipt of a pension of whom twenty-one were married men, twenty-five were widows, and twenty were unmarried men (including widowers and divorced men).

9. One hundred and three (eighty-seven male and sixteen female) new contributors registered during the year. Contributions were refunded to eighty-five contributors who left the Colony and to four female contributors who married.

10. The following legislation amending the Ordinance was passed during the year — which introduced revised rates of contributions and pensions.
Ordinance No. 8/67

OLD AGE PENSIONS EQUALISATION FUND

Accounts for the years ended 30th June 1967 and 30th June 1968.

CERTIFICATE OF THE AUDITOR

The attached Accounts and Statements of Assets and Liabilities have been examined in accordance with Section 22A of the Old Age Pensions Ordinance. I have obtained all the information and explanations that I have required and I certify as a result of this audit that, in my opinion, the attached Accounts and Statements of Assets and Liabilities are correct.

2. The investments held by the fund at 30th June 1967 have been verified from certificates furnished by the Crown Agents and the Comptroller and Auditor General. The investments held at 30th June 1968 have been verified from an advance certificate of the Crown Agents which is subject to confirmation by the Comptroller and Auditor General.

3. During the year 1967/68 approval was given for up to half of the fund to be invested in equities. This course was adopted on the recommendation of the Crown Agents and with the agreement of the Secretary of State. At the 30th June 1968 the market value of investments was made up of £99,058 in equities and £97,855 in gilt-edged stocks.

4. The transactions during the year 1967/68 relating to the two classes of investments, which are not shown separately in the attached accounts, may be summarised as follows —

	Equities	Gilt-edged	Total
Market value 30th June 1968	99,058	97,855	196,913
Appreciation (net)	13,765
Depreciation (net)		3,450	10,315
Profits on sales	4,099	47	4,146
Losses on sales	77	4,437	4,514
Interest and dividends			10,824

Interest on gilt-edged stocks and dividends on equities are not shown separately because the new holdings of equities were purchased at various dates during the year. The losses on sales of gilt-edged stocks, £4,437 reflect the sale of securities before maturity in order to effect the transfer to equities.

JOHN E. FARRANT,
Auditor.

Falkland Islands.

Report on the working of the Government Savings Bank for the year 1967/68.

The Honourable,
The Colonial Secretary,
Stanley.

Colonial Treasury,
Stanley, Falkland Islands.
1st November 1968.

Sir,

I have the honour to submit the following report on the Savings Bank for the year that ended on 30th June 1968, together with the following accounts and statements —

1. Revenue and Expenditure Account.
2. Deposits and Withdrawals Account.
3. Investments Adjustment Account.
4. Reserve Account.
5. Statement of Assets and Liabilities.
6. Statement of Investments.

2. Revenue during the year totalled £62,236 : 2 : 7 and was derived solely from interest on investments. Charges totalled £29,113 : 12 : 6 leaving a surplus of £33,122 : 10 : 1.

3. Deposits during the year totalled £358,523 : 16 : 7 and a further £27,113 : 12 : 6 was credited to depositors accounts in the form of interest at the rate of 2½%. Withdrawals totalled £423,313 : 5 : 10.

4. At 30th June 1968 there were 1,918 depositors compared with 1,869 a year earlier. The total amount due to depositors at 30th June 1968 was £1,144,329 : 5 : 1 compared with £1,182,005 : 1 : 10 a year earlier.

5. During the year a sum of £80,073 : 19 : 1 was transferred to the Falkland Islands revenue under the authority of Section 13 (2) of the Savings Bank Ordinance. This sum represented the margin by which the assets of the bank at 30th June 1967, exceeded 110% of the amount due to depositors at that date.

6. Revaluation of investments according to market prices quoted on 30th June 1968 revealed depreciation amounting to £33,946 : 18 : 8. Sales of holdings during the year realised a net loss of £761 : 19 : 5.

7. At 30th June 1968 the assets of the bank totalled £1,260,943 : 7 : 7 or £116,614 : 2 : 2 more than the total due to depositors at that date, including interest accrued.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

3. Note Security Fund Balance Sheet.
4. Statement of Investments.

2. During the year a total of £83,509 : 9 : 5 was lodged with the Colonial Treasurer for payment in the United Kingdom and elsewhere, and £4,477 was received by the Crown Agents for the credit of persons residing in the Colony. These were all for transfer by telegraphic advice.

3. Commission at the rate of 1% on remittances from the Colony amounted to £832 : 4 : 6 and was credited to the Currency Note Income Account. Interest on investments amounting to £5,298 : 11 : 3 was also credited to the Currency Note Income Account. After providing for the cost of 30,000 new £1 notes, £564 : 4 : 1 the balance of the Currency Note Income Account was distributed to the Fund, £1,042 : 1 : 5 and Colony Revenue £4,524 : 10 : 3, in accordance with Sections 7 (5) (b) and 7 (6) of the Currency Notes Ordinance.

4. A further sum of £3,202 : 12 : 7 was transferred to Colony Revenue from the Fund representing the amount by which the General Reserve exceeded the required 10% of the note issue on 30th June 1967. This transfer was made in accordance with Section 7 (6) (b) of the Currency Notes Ordinance.

5. At 30th June 1968, the assets of the Fund exceeded the face value of notes in circulation and remittances in transit by £9,331 : 6 : 10. The value of notes in circulation at this date was £96,500 made up as follows —

THE NOTE SECURITY FUND

Accounts for the years ended 30th June 1967 and 30th June 1968.

CERTIFICATE AND REPORT OF THE AUDITOR

The Attached Accounts and Balance Sheets have been examined in accordance with section 12 of the Currency Ordinance. I have obtained all the information and explanations that I have required and, subject to the following observations, I certify, as a result of this audit, that in my opinion the attached Accounts and Balance Sheets are correct.

2. NOTE SECURITY FUND ACCOUNT, 1966/67. Due to an error of classification in the Colony books which was not adjusted until 1967/68 "Sterling payments made in London £99,369 : 12 : 6." are under-stated by £980 : 17 : 5 and the balance of the fund at 30th June 1967, £104,940 : 13 : 10, is correspondingly over-stated.

3. BALANCE SHEET AS AT 30TH JUNE, 1967. The liability "Remittances in transit £2,240 : 17 : 5." is over-stated by £980 : 17 : 5. The balance "Owing to the Colonial Treasurer £3,315 : 7 : 6." is under-stated by the same amount.

4. VERIFICATION OF ASSETS. The investments held by the Fund at 30th June 1967 have been verified from a certificate furnished by the Crown Agents and endorsed by the Comptroller and Auditor General. Those held at 30th June 1968 were verified from a certificate supplied by the Crown Agents without endorsement by the Comptroller and Auditor General.

5. CURRENCY NOTE STOCKS. The Currency Note Rules require four quarterly Boards of Survey to be held on currency stocks in addition to one surprise survey each year. Quarterly surveys are not done. Annual Boards of Survey are held on the 1st July each year, and surprise surveys were carried out in February 1967 and January 1968.

6. A surprise survey was conducted during the audit with satisfactory results.

Government Employees' Provident Fund 1967/68

The Honourable,
The Colonial Secretary,
Stanley.

Colonial Treasury,
Stanley, Falkland Islands.
1st November 1968.

Sir,

I have the honour to submit a report on the Government Employees' Provident Fund for the year that ended on 30th June 1968, together with the following accounts and statements.

1. Revenue and Expenditure Account.
2. Deposits and Withdrawals Account.
3. Investments Adjustment Account.
4. Reserve Account.
5. Statement of Assets and Liabilities.
6. Statement of Investments.

2. An improved return from investments produced a small surplus of revenue over expenditure. Interest from investments totalled £310 : 10 : 11: interest credited to depositors totalled £198 : 15 : 7 and there was the usual administration charge of £100.

3. Deposits during the year, including the employer's bonus, totalled £915 : 19 : 2 compared with £1,074 : 13 : 0 during the previous year. Withdrawals totalled £1,670 : 0 : 11 compared with £592 : 18 : 2 during the previous year. The number of depositors at 30th June 1968 was 15 : a year earlier there were eighteen.

4. At 30th June 1968 the amount due to depositors, including accrued interest, was £7,893 : 18 : 4. A year earlier it was £8,449 : 4 : 6.

5. Despite depreciation of £68 : 1 : 11 in the value of investments when revalued at market prices prevailing on 30th June 1968 the assets of the fund exceed the total due to depositors by £510 : 9 : 10.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

L. GLEADELL,

Colonial Treasurer.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES' PROVIDENT FUND

Accounts for the years ended 30th June 1967 and 30th June 1968.

CERTIFICATE OF THE AUDITOR

The attached Accounts and Statements of Assets and Liabilities have been examined in accordance with Section 4 of the Government Employees Provident Fund Ordinance. I have obtained all the information and explanations that I have required, and I certify as a result of this audit that, in my opinion, the attached Accounts and Statements of Assets and Liabilities are correct.

2. The investments held by the Fund at 30th June 1967 have been verified from a certificate supplied by the Crown Agents and endorsed by the Comptroller and Auditor General. The investments held at 30th June 1968 have been verified by reference to an advance certificate furnished by the Crown Agents without endorsement by the Comptroller and Auditor General.

JOHN E. FARRANT,
Auditor.

Falkland Islands.

The Honourable,
The Colonial Secretary,
Stanley.

Colonial Treasury,
Stanley, Falkland Islands.
14th March 1969.

Sir,

In accordance with the requirements of Section 12 (1) of the Currency Notes Ordinance I have the honour to make the following report on the state of the Currency Note Security Fund at 31st December 1968.

The face value of notes in circulation at 31st December was £111,700, made up as follows—

Series	Denomination	No.	Value
C	£5	17,117	85,585 : 0 : 0
C	£1	728	728 : 0 : 0
D	£1	5,003	5,003 : 0 : 0
E	£1	16,149	16,149 : 0 : 0
C	10/-	8,470	4,235 : 0 : 0
			£111,700 : 0 : 0

At 31st December there was a net amount of £159 : 14 : 6 awaiting payment in respect of telegraphic remittances.

A further liability of £40,000 was created by the use of the Colony funds to finance Currency Note investments. This was an error and will be adjusted when the Crown Agents attention is drawn to it.

The following is a statement of Assets and Liabilities at 31st December 1968—

LIABILITIES		ASSETS
Notes in circulation	£111,700 : 0 : 0	Investments (valuation at 30th June 1968 unless purchased since that date) ...	£146,606 : 7 : 11

IN THE NAME of Her Majesty ELIZABETH II., by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith.

By His Excellency SIR COSMO DUGAL PATRICK THOMAS HASKARD, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies.

WHEREAS by section 35 of the Customs Ordinance it is provided that it shall be lawful for the Governor from time to time by proclamation to prohibit the importation, carriage coastwise or exportation of any goods whatsoever, and any such proclamation may prohibit importation, carriage coastwise or exportation until the revocation thereof, or during such period as may be specified therein, and may either absolutely prohibit importation, carriage coastwise or exportation, or may prohibit importation, carriage coastwise or exportation except on compliance with any conditions which may be specified in the proclamation, or importation from or exportation to any particular place named in the proclamation:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, SIR COSMO DUGAL PATRICK THOMAS HASKARD, do hereby PROCLAIM and declare that the exportation of any firearms or ammunition, unless authorised in writing under the hand of the Colonial Secretary, is prohibited until the revocation hereof.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN

Given under my hand and the Public Seal of the Colony this 22nd day of July 1969.

C. HASKARD,
Governor.

Ref. 0465/C.

PROCLAMATION

No. 3 of 1969.

IN THE NAME of Her Majesty ELIZABETH II., by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith.

J. A. JONES.

By His Excellency JOHN ASHLEY JONES, Esquire, Officer of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, Acting Governor of the Colony of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies.

WHEREAS by the seventh clause of the Letters Patent passed under the Great Seal of the United Kingdom, dated the 13th December 1948, constituting the office of Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Colony of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies, it is provided that "whenever the Office of Governor is vacant, or the Governor is absent from the Colony or is from any cause prevented from, or incapable of, acting in the duties of his Office, then such other person as We may appoint under Our Sign Manual and Signet, or if "there is no such person in the Colony so appointed and capable of discharging the duties of "the administration, the Senior Member of the Executive Council then in the Colony and so "capable, shall, during Our pleasure, administer the Government of the Colony".

AND WHEREAS HIS EXCELLENCY SIR COSMO HASKARD, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, has this day left the Colony on leave of absence.

AND WHEREAS no person has been appointed under the Royal Sign Manual and Signet to administer the Government of this Colony in the absence of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JOHN ASHLEY JONES, Colonial Secretary of the Falkland Islands, the Senior Member of the Executive Council aforesaid, do hereby proclaim and make known that, in pursuance of the said clause of the said Royal Letters Patent and having taken the oaths prescribed by law, have this day assumed the Administration of the Government of this Colony and its Dependencies.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN

Given at Government House, Stanley, this 25th day of July, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand Nine hundred and Sixty-nine.

By Command of the Acting Governor,

H. L. BOUND,

Assistant Colonial Secretary.

WESTLANDS YEARLY

REPORT

The following is a summary of the main features of the report, which is a detailed account of the activities of the Westland Islands Council during the year 1965-66. The report covers the period from 1st January to 31st December 1966. It is divided into several sections, including a general introduction, a report on the work of the Council, a report on the work of the various committees, and a financial statement. The report is a valuable document for the people of the Westland Islands, as it provides a clear and concise account of the Council's activities and the progress of the various projects which are being carried out. It is also a useful reference for those who are interested in the development of the Westland Islands.

Police Ordinance, 1967

REGULATIONS

(under section 33D of the Ordinance)

No. 4 of 1969.

J. A. JONES,
Acting Governor.

In exercise of the powers conferred by section 33D of the Police Ordinance, 1967, the Governor in Council has made the following Regulations: 9 of 1967

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Police Reserve Regulations, 1969. Citation.

2. In these Regulations, unless the context otherwise requires, "police reservist" means any member of the Police Reserve. Interpretation.

PART I — APPOINTMENT

3. The Officer in Charge may, with the approval of the Governor, appoint as a police reservist any person — Eligibility for appointment.

- (a) Who is not less than eighteen nor more than sixty years of age;
- (b) who is of good character;
- (c) who is of good health and physique; and
- (d) who is likely to become an efficient and well-conducted police reservist.

Application for appointment.

4. Any person wishing to be appointed as a police reservist shall apply to the Officer in Charge and shall supply such information as the Officer in Charge may require to enable him to decide whether or not the applicant should be so appointed.

Duration of appointment.

5. The appointment of a police reservist shall, unless otherwise specified by the Officer in Charge at the time of appointment, be without limitation as to period, subject to the provisions of regulations 8 and 9 and Part IV.

Declaration on appointment.

6. A police reservist shall on his appointment make and sign the declaration required to be made under section 8 of the Ordinance save that for the reference to police officer there shall be substituted reference to reserve police officer.

PART II

DETERMINATION OF SERVICE

7. A police reservist shall retire from his office as such on reaching the age of sixty-five years:

Provided that in any case, the Officer in Charge may permit a police reservist to continue to serve until such age not exceeding sixty-five as he may determine.

8. A police reservist may resign his office at any time upon giving to the Officer in Charge not less than one month's notice in writing:

Provided that the Officer in Charge may in any case allow a police reservist to withdraw from the Reserve at any time between the giving of the notice and the expiration of the said period of one month.

Determination by Officer in Charge.

9. The Officer in Charge may, at his discretion, determine the service of any police reservist by giving him not less than one month's notice in writing.

PART III

DUTIES, PRIVILEGES AND IMMUNITIES

Application of Part II of Ordinance.

10. Part II of the Ordinance shall apply to a police reservist as it applies to a member of the Force.

Standing Orders and section 24 of the Ordinance.

11. A police reservist shall, subject to the provisions of these Regulations, be subject to and governed by the provisions of any Standing Orders issued under the Ordinance in the same manner as a member of the Force, save in so far as such Standing Orders shall be expressed as not to be applicable to a police reservist.

PART IV

RANK AND CONDITIONS OF SERVICE

Ranks in Reserve.

12. The Police Reserve shall consist of such numbers of the following ranks as the Governor may direct, in order of seniority as shown —

Sergeants
Constables.

Secondment of police officers.

13. Any rank in the Police Reserve other than that of constable may be filled by a member of the Force, appointed to that rank in the Force and seconded for duty with the Police Reserve. Any member of the Force so seconded shall for all purposes be deemed to be still a member of the Force.

Pay and allowances.

14. Police reservists shall receive such pay and allowances as may be assigned to them by the Governor in Council.

15. The Pensions Ordinance and the Pensions Regulations shall not apply to a police reservist or (subject to regulation 16) to any service as a police reservist.

Service in Police Reserve not pensionable.

16. If a police reservist becomes a member of the Force, having been appointed thereto under the Ordinance, without any break in service, then one-half of his continuous service in the Police Reserve after the age of twenty years shall be deemed to have been service as a police officer for the purposes of the Pensions Ordinance and Pensions Regulations and to have been continuous with the period of his service as a police officer.

When service as police reservist may be pensionable service.

PART V

CONTROL AND DISCIPLINE OF POLICE RESERVE

17. Without prejudice to the powers conferred upon the Officer in Charge by regulation 9, and subject to the provisions of these Regulations —

Application of Police Ordinance and Police Regulations.

- (a) Part V of the Ordinance shall apply to a police reservist as it applies to a member of the Force;
- (b) Parts II, III, IV and V of the Police Regulations, shall apply to a police reservist as they apply to a member of the Force.

18. The Officer in Charge shall have command, superintendence and direction of the Police Reserve and shall be responsible for the efficient administration of the Police Reserve and for the proper expenditure of all public moneys appropriated for the service thereof.

Officer in Charge to command reserve.

19. The Police Reserve Regulations, 1967 are revoked.

Revocation.

Made by the Governor in Council on the 15th day of July 1969.

Enacting clause.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Administration of Justice (Amendment) Ordinance 1969.

Short title.

2. Section 29 of the Administration of Justice Ordinance, is repealed and replaced by the following —

Repeal and replacement of section 29. (Cap. 3.)

"Appointment of Coroner.

29. (1) The Governor may by warrant under his hand appoint some fit and proper person to be the Coroner for the Colony, and any person so appointed shall have and may exercise all the powers and shall, subject to the provisions hereof, perform the duties of a coroner according to the English law and practice:

Provided always that it shall be lawful for the Governor to revoke such appointment and by warrant to appoint any other fit and proper person to be Coroner for the Colony.

Appointment of Deputy Coroner.

(2) The Governor may from time to time appoint any fit and proper person to be a Deputy Coroner for a specified purpose or specified period or specified district and may at any time revoke any such appointment."

OBJECTS AND REASONS

Under the existing law the Magistrate is Coroner ex-officio.

This amendment provides for the appointment of some fit and proper person to be Coroner who may not necessarily be Magistrate. It also provides for the appointment of a Deputy Coroner.

Confirmation of Minutes

The Minutes of the Meeting of Legislative Council held on the 16th and 18th October 1968 were confirmed.

Address by the President

Honourable Members of Council, time in the Falkland Islands, as you have heard me say before, passes too quickly and it is hard to credit that it is already twelve months since our last Budget meeting.

In welcoming Honourable Members today, I should like to say how glad I am that we have with us our new Colonial Secretary and I am sure that all Honourable Members will wish to join with me in extending to him a very warm welcome to the Colony and to this Council. It may be that he will feel that a meeting of Legislative Council the week after his arrival is a little soon. However, I recollect that my own experience was similar and Honourable Members were, on that occasion, very considerate. At this meeting, therefore, if at no other, the Honourable the Colonial Secretary may expect to be given a fairly easy passage. We hope that he and Mrs Jones will find life in the Falkland Islands much to their liking.

In welcoming the new Colonial Secretary, I am sure that Honourable Members will have in mind the debt of gratitude we owe to Mr Jones' predecessor, Mr Thompson, who left the Colony earlier this month after 5½ years service with this government. It can be truly said that he will be greatly missed, both in respect of the imaginative and conscientious way in which he carried out his many official duties and because of the great interest which he took in so many outside activities. It is my sincere hope that the Falkland Islands Journal and the Museum, for both of which Mr Thompson did so much, are sufficiently established in public regard for people to come forward who are prepared to continue the admirable work started by Mr Thompson. To him and to Mrs Thompson all Honourable Members have already expressed their thanks and have wished them well for the future.

Except for the departure of Mr Thompson and the arrival of his successor, our membership remains unchanged but our one lady member, Mrs King, is at present absent from the Colony; I am sure Honourable Members will wish her a pleasant holiday and a safe return.

The Honourable Member Mr Miller, for so many years manager of Roy Cove, has now come to reside in Stanley. We know that as elected member for West Falkland he will continue to be very active on behalf of his constituents; the word "retired" is not one which can properly be applied to him.

Honourable Members will have shared in the general pleasure at the award at the New Year by Her Majesty The Queen of the M.B.E. to Mrs Vinson, until last year an elected member of Council.

And there is one other person whom I would wish at this stage to mention and that is Mrs McAskill, who, to the great joy of all of us in the Colony and many people overseas, celebrated her one hundredth birthday a few weeks ago. Honourable Members of Council shared, I know, in congratulating her on that remarkable anniversary and in admiring her vitality and sense of humour.

I should like now to review - though I hope not at excessive length - the activities of the past year.

Increasing speculation throughout 1968 regarding the political future of the Colony culminated in the visit in November by Lord Chalfont and his party and the subsequent remarkable publicity given to the Falkland Islands at the time of the debates in the British Parliament early in December.

Since/...

Since December, the Falkland Islands have tended to disappear from the headlines but, as everyone in the Colony is aware, talks between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of Argentina have continued and indeed were the subject of further parliamentary questions as recently as a fortnight ago. These talks are aimed primarily at achieving a more normal relationship between ourselves and our large neighbour on the coast. Our preoccupation with other matters should not allow us to be forgetful of the political problem with which we have to live and which will not disappear as a result of forgetting it. I shall be referring to this subject again later.

Our main link with the outside world is R.M.S. Darwin and close liaison exists between the Government and Darwin Shipping Limited, to which company the Government pays a shipping subsidy of £24,000 a year. This, Honourable Members will recollect, appeared last year for the first time under a separate head in the Estimates, making it clear that the subsidy is not only for the mail contract but also a contribution to the cost of running the service. That service is efficient and well patronized.

There was a further small increase in the number of ships using Port Stanley, fifty ships clearing outwards as compared with 29 four years previously. The figure is likely to drop this year because R.R.S. Shackleton, which has been calling here regularly since 1956, has been withdrawn from service with the British Antarctic Survey following the decision to go ahead with the building of a new vessel. We shall miss Shackleton's distinctive silhouette in the harbour and the crowd who lined Ross Road on her departure testified to the deserved popularity of Captain Turnbull and his ship's company, a number of whom are Falkland Islanders, whom we expect to return in R.R.S. John Biscoe.

The Government cargo vessel, M.V. Forrest, has proved herself as useful as we had hoped she would be when the decision was taken for her construction. In 1968 Forrest steamed over 7,500 miles and, in addition to transporting a considerable amount of cargo, she distributed no less than 35,000 gallons of diesel to farm settlements.

Once again, the Falkland Islands Government Air Service has maintained its excellent reputation for efficiency and helpfulness and in 1968 the number of passengers carried, 3,692, was once again a record.

We have recently lost, through retirement, the services of two extremely faithful and efficient aircraft engineers, Mr Maurice Smith and Mr David Jones, who had been with the Air Service for over 19 and 18 years respectively, during which time they established deservedly high reputations throughout the Colony. Thanks to the Royal Air Force, it has been possible to secure the services of engineers on secondment to fill these vacancies.

Local weather forecasting is now a Colony responsibility and the arrangements made last year seem to be working well.

For the Posts and Telecommunications Department the past 12 months have seen considerable activity, with the issue of a new definitive set of postage stamps and two commemorative issues, one marking Human Rights Year and one the 21st Anniversary of the Falkland Islands Government Air Service. Falkland Islands stamps, I am glad to say, continue to enjoy a good reputation in the philatelic market. Indeed, the amount of correspondence from stamp collectors and traders addressed to the Department increased to such an extent that it became necessary to set up a small bureau which now deals with overseas orders for stamps.

The/...

The overseas telephone service and the RTT telegraph circuits continued to provide an efficient service and in this connection we have to thank the engineers of Cable and Wireless who have worked closely and harmoniously with our Colony staff. The spare quarter's speed private telegraph circuit from Stanley to London has recently been taken up by the British Antarctic Survey.

The population of Stanley is telephone minded and the number of telephone lines has now risen to 423, not including extensions and party instruments. The department has been active in removing unsightly cables and old poles no longer in use.

Within the Colony, Fox Bay wireless station and the camp radio telephone network have as usual provided a good service. Consideration is being given to technical means of improving broadcasts throughout the Islands and upgrading camp communications but it is only right to say that an inexpensive answer to the problem will not be found.

Arising out of a recommendation in the Guillebaud Report, a full time broadcasting secretary is now employed and broadcasting time has been extended by 16 extra hours a week in winter and 10 in summer.

Honourable Members will recollect that a year ago a variety of suggestions for improving the efficiency of working conditions at the Stanley post office were made. It has been possible to implement most of the recommendations but the finances of the Colony have not allowed for the major work of construction of additional accommodation. Two separate schemes have been put forward and rejected on the score of expense and modified proposals are now in the process of being worked out. Meanwhile, I am sure that the thanks of the public are due to the post office staff for the way in which mails are handled. In this connection, thanks should also be given to volunteers from the Royal Marines, V.S.Os and others who have from time to time assisted with mail sorting and to the hovercraft unit for helping with distribution of mail to camp.

Turning now to the Education Department, Honourable Members will be aware that the number of children receiving schooling within the Colony at the end of last year was the highest ever recorded, 381. This increase was partly due to the extra year of schooling which followed the raising of the school leaving age to 15 and partly to the number of young families among persons recently arrived in the Colony.

A new building containing two modern classrooms has recently been constructed adjacent to Stanley Junior School and this has allowed two classes to be moved from the old Senior School building with consequent improvement of conditions there. For a generous contribution to the cost of this building we have to thank the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund.

Recruitment of teachers has been satisfactory and once again we have had with us three young men from the Voluntary Service Overseas Organisation. Honourable Members will be glad to know that in September this year we expect three replacements.

Last September a seminar for all camp teachers was again held at Darwin School and there is no doubt that this annual meeting serves a very useful purpose.

It is satisfactory to know that there has been an improvement in results in overseas examinations and that 10 candidates sat the annual overseas scholarship examinations, three of them being successful in obtaining scholarships to the British schools in Montevideo.

Evening/...

Evening classes have continued, although on a somewhat reduced scale. To those who turn out on winter evenings to instruct at these classes I should like to say a special word of thanks, as also to those responsible for bringing the childrens' playground into being and for organizing the kindergarten.

Over the radio 85 education programmes lasting 45 minutes each were produced last year and some of them appear to have been as popular with adults as with children.

Increased activity by the Education Department is naturally accompanied by increased expenditure and Honourable Members will notice that in the coming year we are expecting to spend a sum of £66,000 on the department and this does not include the cost of passages, pensions or gratuities. The direct cost of schooling in 1968 at Stanley schools was about £104 per pupil with a corresponding figure of £318 at Darwin School and £98 in the camp.

We should I think ask ourselves what return we receive from that expenditure. In our schools and from our camp teachers the men and women of tomorrow are receiving their training, a training which I trust is related to the environment in which we live. We have a full staff of devoted teachers and they deserve all the support that Government and parents can muster. We can not leave that training to the teaching staff alone. We all need to be interested in the schooling which our children receive, for education does not end in the classroom and if we are to get full value for the money spent on schooling we all have to involve ourselves in the business of bringing the next generation of Falkland Islanders up to the mark.

The Education Committee of the Legislative Council is active with advice and support for the department and the committee's interest is much appreciated. And I should like too to pay tribute to those organisations and individuals who devote time and energy to the encouragement of youth activities here; they are doing a very worthwhile job. But the continuing support and interest of parents and guardians is essential if we are to achieve the standard we need and if that £66,000 in the estimates is to prove itself money well spent.

The establishment of the Medical Department has been up to strength during the greater part of the last 12 months and the sterling work of the Department is recognised throughout the Colony.

We shall soon be saying goodbye to Mr Mahood, who during his time here has undertaken a tremendous amount of work both in Stanley and the camp. We shall also shortly be bidding farewell with regret to Mr and Mrs Neville Bennett. Mr Bennett has very efficiently supported Mr Mahood's work. I am sure that Honourable Members would wish to join in wishing these members of the Department good fortune in the years to come.

The Power and Electrical Department has met all the demands made on it, coping with an amount of re-wiring and setting up the new X-ray unit at the hospital.

Output has again risen and now exceeds two million units a year. This is within the capacity of the existing generating machinery but I am told by the Superintendent that on average each generator has completed more than 60,000 hours which, if they drove vehicles instead of alternators, would amount to one million miles each. Clearly the time is drawing near when we shall have to think of expensive replacements. Meanwhile, a study is being made of ways in which Government consumption of electricity can be curtailed.

The Public Works Department is necessarily much concerned with maintenance but included in the department's activities have been the erection of the new Junior School Building, renovation of the interior of/...

of the prison, refurbishing some 14 Government properties, improving the capacity of the filtration plant, laying a new water main, road repairs, converting peat fired heating systems in Government buildings to oil, and improvements to the fabric of the hospital. In addition a considerable amount of outside painting has helped to improve the look of the town.

In this matter of painting, it is encouraging to see the many signs of improvement carried out on private properties. In recent years the prospect of Stanley has been transformed by the use of bright and cheerful colours; this is indeed excellent for our morale and I hope that the good work may be continued to include the disposal of rusty iron, of which too much spoils the look of the town and its surroundings.

The Government Printer has been kept busy with routine work, maintaining the high standard for which his office is well known. As a result of cooperation between several people, two small publicity pamphlets were produced one advertising the Colony's wildlife, the other being an introduction to Stanley.

The Legal Department has as always continued to fulfil its unobtrusive but very necessary functions and the Court of Summary Jurisdiction and the Supreme Court have experienced an unusually busy year. As always we are indebted to the Justices for the time they devote to public service.

The small but efficient Police Force has been kept busily engaged during the past year during which I am sorry to say that larceny and vandalism have made an unwelcome appearance at the head of the list of prevalent crimes. The public are appreciative of the work of the Police.

We are very conscious of danger from fire in Stanley and the Police have maintained a regular programme of checking Government fire equipment, much of which has been brought up to date in recent years.

The volunteer fire brigade with 48 members has dealt with 16 chimney fires in the past 9 months and quickly coped with what promised to be one major fire among timber. The crash landing of a visiting aircraft on 27th November gave the fire brigade a chance to demonstrate the efficiency of their foam equipment. The knowledge that the brigade is alert and competent is comforting to the public but every householder owes it to himself, his family and his neighbours to see that he has the proper means of coping with a fire before help comes.

The Stanley Town Council has been active in its particular fields and close liaison has been maintained between the Council and Government.

The Falkland Islands Defence Force has been maintained in a satisfactory state of readiness. Defence exercises, in cooperation with the Royal Marines, have been held on several occasions during the year and on that same memorable afternoon of 27th November to which I have just referred the unscheduled arrival of an aircraft gave the opportunity for a satisfactory demonstration of the speed with which the Force can react.

I should like at this point to thank the Honourable Member, Mr Goss, who in another capacity is Captain Goss of the Defence Force, for his years of service as adjutant, recently concluded.

We have benefitted from the presence in the Colony of the Royal Marine detachment and the Royal Navy hovercraft unit. Both have been/...

been active in visiting the Camp as well as carrying out training in the vicinity of Stanley.

With the dependency of South Georgia the Colony's links have been reasonably frequent during the past year, thanks mainly to the presence there of the Geodetic Survey team and the consequent voyages of the American vessel FS 216, now I regret withdrawn from service in these waters.

In November this year there will be a change of management at South Georgia with the present administrative staff being replaced by members of the British Antarctic Survey and I should like to pay tribute to the standard maintained by Mr Coleman and his staff at King Edward Point during the period of several years since the decline of whaling brought about the closure, one by one, of the South Georgia whaling stations. It has not been an easy task to sustain morale in such circumstances of comparative inactivity. The change of management will bring a new and scientific purpose to the British presence in South Georgia; I should make it clear that this change of management in no way affects the constitutional position of South Georgia as a dependency of the Falkland Islands.

Cooperation with the British Antarctic Survey has, as usual, been close and friendly throughout the year. There is much which the Survey has been able to do to help the Colony and there is much also which the Colony can do to be of assistance to the Survey. This happy relationship is one which it is important to maintain.

The arrival of H.M.S. Endurance of her first commission was welcome to Stanley and perhaps even more popular was the ship's tour of settlements in camp. It is intended that visits to farms should be part of her programme each year.

H.M.S. Arethusa paid Stanley a visit and this allowed many people to see over an extremely modern warship.

Turning now to the proceedings of this Council, seventeen Ordinances were enacted last year, none of them perhaps of major significance but most, I believe, contributing to the good ordering of the Colony's affairs.

A year ago I said that I hoped that it would not be long before an Honourable Unofficial Member took the chair in the Education Committee. This duly came about and experience has shown that this was the correct course of action. It was also decided to convert the former Natural Resources Committee into a Development Committee, again with an Honourable Unofficial Member in the chair, and here again I am sure the decision has been shown to be correct. In addition to the Public Accounts Committee, brought into existence last year, Honourable Members asked for the establishment of a committee specifically to review the question of Government transport. In all these ways Members have been active in giving their voluntary service for the good of the community.

I might mention that the number of days spent in meetings of Executive Council has increased considerably in recent years; I hope that the time spent is justified by results.

Last year I drew the attention of Honourable Members to possible opportunities for development of the Colony's natural resources and I should like to take a look at what progress, if any, has been achieved since then - and what might be achieved in future.

First/...

First, the Colony's staple industry - indeed its only industry at present - wool production. Prices last year were marginally a little better than in the grim year of 1967 and the first sale this year gave some grounds for restrained optimism.

We know only too well that the major fluctuations of the world wool market are outside our control. What does, however, lie to some extent within our control is the production of wool of a quality which, within the world price range, will command a reasonable figure. I can not pretend to knowledge in these matters but I am sure that when a farm manager studies the details of the price received for each individual bale of wool he must relate the price achieved by that particular bale to something more than the luck of the draw. Can he relate his better prices to some improvement of his pastures, of his system of farming, of his importation of pedigree stock? I would imagine that he can - and that this knowledge will spur him on to undertake fresh improvement.

Those who pay scant regard to pasture improvement are perhaps those who have not seen what has been achieved. Perhaps more publicity should be given to what has been done and is being done. It is possible to quote many examples of commendable activity in the laying down of better pasture, the subdivision of large camps, the drainage of land so that stock can make use of ground hitherto barred to them.

And we have to take note too of other improvements, less directly relevant to grassland improvement but conducive to it - the construction of all weather tracks, the replacement of old camp houses by modern ones, the introduction of land girls to camp life.

But there is a long way to go yet until we can be satisfied.

Later this year, probably in August, we expect to welcome a sheep and cattle industry study team from the Ministry of Overseas Development. It is proposed that the team should study all aspects of sheep and cattle health and production and make recommendations on how farms can best improve the productivity of the sheep industry and also advise on the future production of beef cattle. The team's work in the Colony should certainly stimulate interest and activity.

During this meeting Council will resume the debate on a Bill, based on the recommendation of Mr Guillebaud, to strengthen the foundations for increased production in the future. This Bill aims to achieve its object by introducing an increase in Profits Tax against which can be offset corresponding investment allowances. Whatever view is taken of the details of the Bill I hope that Honourable Members will bear in mind the object of Mr Guillebaud's recommendation, namely, to strengthen the foundations for increased production in the future.

So, as regards wool, the position is, first, that there are farms which are setting an excellent example of progressive management and secondly, that the Government is seeking to follow up that example both by obtaining up-to-date professional advice and by introducing draft legislation based on the Guillebaud Report aimed at strengthening the foundations for increased production. If constructive criticism can be brought to bear on what is proposed, so much the better. But let it not be said that we are content with inactivity.

And now what about other lines of development?

It is perhaps a little early to speak about beef production but Honourable Members are aware that the study team due here later this year has been specifically asked to pay particular attention to this subject. Looking to the long term future, we can not afford to neglect any/...

any opportunity to probe any possibility of diversification of our economy.

Interest in the export of sheep skins for chamois leather was stimulated by the visit earlier this year of Mr John Smith, a director of an old established tannery firm in Lancashire. It is too soon to say whether anything will come of his visit but he at least drew attention to the possibility of a useful and remunerative side line activity.

What of sand for glass making? Earlier analysis, undertaken in the 'thirties, was confined to sands from the neighbourhood of Stanley and the results were disappointing. At the instance of the Development Committee and thanks to the willing cooperation of farms all round the islands, 68 samples of sand were despatched last month to the Crown Agents for analysis. We must expect some time to pass before we hear any news and we must be prepared to be disappointed. But at least it can not be said that investigation is being neglected.

What of minerals? The Ministry of Overseas Development has agreed to meet the cost of the preparation of an up-to-date geological map. This will undoubtedly provide useful basic information. And last month a geologist of the British Antarctic Survey spent a week investigating the Cape Meredith area and has taken away 32 samples for analysis at Birmingham University. But here again, in the light of previous investigations, we must be prepared for disappointment.

What of oil? Indications are not so far particularly encouraging but prospecting companies still show interest in us. We can not assume that anything is proved, one way or the other.

What of tourists? Although opinions vary on this subject, potential attraction undoubtedly exists in our wild life. Visitors to the Falklands are unlikely to be numerous but we can expect that those who come will be reasonably endowed with this world's goods and prepared to pay for their pleasures.

The granting of a substantial loan by the Falkland Islands Government for the setting up of an hotel in Stanley is a step in the direction of providing encouragement for tourists and I would commend the far sightedness of farm managers at whose request the Government has declared extensive areas wild animal and bird sanctuaries. Honourable Members will be aware that recently Cape Dolphin and the Volunteer-Cow Bay camps have been so declared. And in this connection I should like to digress for a moment to emphasise that the declaration of a sanctuary in no way affects the rights of ownership. People who wish to visit a sanctuary on freehold land must have the permission of the landowner before they do so.

Tourism, as we all appreciate, must depend on communications and for this reason - and even more so because the everyday life of the Colony is involved - we look forward keenly to the report of the experts who recently visited us from the United Kingdom to study our airfield requirements. Their feasibility survey should be ready next month and when we have received and studied it we shall have to decide on what the next step is to be.

And now the last item on my list of resources - kelp. The publicity which has attended discussion of kelp since last December has emphasised the value of the extensive beds of unexploited seaweed which surround our shores. We have recently had a most useful visit from Mr Michael Pery, a representative of Alginate Industries, and all Honourable/...

Honourable Members of Council had the opportunity of very full and very frank discussions with him.

The importance to the Colony of the establishment of a kelp processing factory here is considerable; we hope that it is just as important to Mr Pery's company and that his brief but busy visit will result in an agreement with Alginate Industries satisfactory both to that enterprise and to the Falkland Islands. We hope that we shall soon see tangible evidence of the determination of his company to go ahead, not only with a pilot scheme, but with the establishment of a factory and the commissioning of harvesting craft. Of one thing Alginate Industries may be sure and that is the good will of the Falkland Islands Government.

I have spoken in some detail about opportunities for development. None of them immediately affect our financial situation.

Honourable Members will not have forgotten the substantial deficit expected for the current year following the poor price obtained for our wool on the London market. There are, as I have already said, signs of a slight improvement in the wool market but the beneficial effect on the Colony's financial position is likely to be slight. Additional revenue in the form of stamp sales goes some way to offsetting the effect of poor wool prices but the Colony does face a difficult period and we would be well advised to face up to the fact, sooner rather than later.

Much of our difficulty lies in our dependence on things over which we have no control. We purchase much of our needs from abroad and we recruit a proportion of our staff from abroad. What we have to pay depends to a large extent on conditions in the country of purchase or recruitment. We sell our only product abroad and have virtually no say in what price it should sell at, except in so far as we can improve its quality. These facts contract the field over which we can exercise control but, if the field is contracted, at least it becomes more clearly defined.

There appear to me to be two distinct courses of action that we can follow. We are still able to call on reserves to the order of about $300,000. We can go on drawing on these reserves until they are exhausted and then embark upon a programme of wholesale and drastic cutting of expenditure or increasing taxation, or most likely both. Alternatively we can attempt to make the reserves last longer by undertaking a modest programme of economy in our spending, coupled with some increase in taxation.

I do not pretend to forecast when our present difficulties will end but we have a right to hope that our efforts to increase the productivity of the Colony and the interest being shown in the kelp of the Colony's waters will make themselves felt at some not too distant time. We have to bridge this gap in a manner most beneficial - or least harmful - to us all. In the next few months these are the problems that will be given the most careful consideration and in deciding on our policy, we shall have the benefit of up-to-date information of conditions on the wool market. Those conditions are likely to have an important influence on what our policy should be.

So much for our economic problem. What of its twin, the political problem? As I said earlier this morning, to forget it will not cause its disappearance.

But I tend to optimism. We have a clear statement of policy, given in a speech by the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs/...

Affairs on 11th December in the House of Commons, namely, Her Majesty's Government's insistence that no transfer of sovereignty could be made against the wishes of the Falkland Islanders.

That is what we sought and that is what we got.

The knowledge of that assurance has given us confidence to continue behaving in an adult way; to make no difficulties about Argentine nationals visiting the Islands; to return to its country of origin, carefully handled, the errant aeroplane of 27th November.

I am sure that we should like to see a relaxation of restrictions on communication; after all, relations in the Antarctic between British and Argentine bases are good - indeed, more than good, for last winter Argentine doctors, airmen and sailors did all they could to succour a desperately sick man of ours.

In many ways it is a pity that such a friendly atmosphere can not prevail with regard to the Falklands.

We shall just have to wait and see what, if any, relaxation comes about as far as the Falkland Islands are concerned.

Over the past year the Colony has certainly had its fair quota of publicity in press, radio and television. In recent months we have welcomed not only a number of newspaper correspondents but also no less than four different visitors concerned with making documentary films of one kind or another. Should political activity be resumed, at least the general public are likely to know more about these islands than was the case a year ago.

Meanwhile, lest anyone obtains the erroneous impression that we allow our problems to get the better of us, I would draw attention to the tremendous amount of enjoyable activity displayed in so many directions - the multiplicity of flourishing sporting clubs for outdoor and indoor activities; the West Falkland sports and those at Darwin and Stanley; the dog trials; the bazaars; dances and what not; the horticultural show and (I hope the optimism of the organisers will be justified) the forthcoming winter show; and most important of all, the satisfaction obtained from our everyday tasks, wherever they may lie. Our jobs may be in the public eye or comparatively unknown: it makes no difference, for we are all part of one community and each is essential to the other.

I mentioned just now my optimism - cautious optimism perhaps but nevertheless optimism - and I am sure that it is with optimism that we must face the future.

Let us have faith in ourselves - in our ability to bridge the financial gap, in our ability to grapple with our political problem. Two years ago I reminded Honourable Members of the words of that man of great experience, Charles Darwin: "The traveller will meet with no difficulties or dangers nearly so bad as he beforehand anticipates".

Darwin, who in 1834 saw these islands under much more difficult conditions than we experience today, followed up that remark with another - that the effect of travel is to teach the traveller good humoured patience and the habit of making the best of every occurrence.

As travellers through life in this part of the globe, may I suggest, Honourable Members, that we show our determination to make the best of every occurrence? Here, in this outpost of the Western World, let us strive to look ahead and to foresee the logical outcome of our decisions. We are a small community but it is a well integrated one: we may not be able to bring such influence to bear on the forces of the world around us but, by the way in which we meet the impact of those forces, we can satisfy ourselves if, at the end of the day, we can say, as Darwin might have said, "we made the best of it".

PAPERS LAID ON THE TABLE BY THE COLONIAL SECRETARY

- (i) Financial Report 1967/68
- (ii) Report on the working of the Government Employees' Provident Fund 1967/68
- (iii) Report on the working of the Currency Note Security Fund 1967/68
- (iv) Report on the working of the Old Age Pensions Equalisation Fund 1967/68
- (v) Report on the working of the Government Savings Bank 1967/68
- (vi) Auditor's Report on Accounts for 1966/67 1967/68
- (vii) Medical Report 1968
- (viii) Copies of subsidiary legislation made or approved by the Governor in Executive Council since May, 1968.

QUESTIONS FOR ORAL ANSWER

1. Mr. Pitaluga asked the Colonial Secretary if the Board of Trade airfield inspectors had produced an interim report on their feasibility survey of the proposed airfield site and, if so, what prospects, if any, it contained.

The Colonial Secretary: Mr. Wainwright of the Board of Trade (Civil Aviation Department) and Mr. Botham of the Ministry of Public Buildings and Works visited the Falkland Islands from 1st to 12th April. They did not produce an interim written report on their feasibility survey on the proposed airfield site. It was their intention that their full report should be submitted as soon as possible after their return to the United Kingdom.

It can be stated that they confirmed the Cape Pembroke site, which had been provisionally selected prior to their arrival, as being the most suitable area for an airfield. They were, however, somewhat concerned at the height of the water table and it would appear that even a grass covered airfield might be expensive.

Mr. Pitaluga: I would like to thank the Honourable Colonial Secretary for his reply to my question about the proposed airfield site. His remarks at least are not discouraging and I look forward, as I am sure so many people must do, to the arrival of the full report from the surveyors.

2. Mr. Pitaluga enquired whether Government would give consideration to the appointment of a Camp Tracks Advisory Committee which would arrange for feasible improvements to be carried out by tender when possible, as there appeared to have been only a slight upsurge of interest in the Camp Tracks Grant Scheme since his question on the 20th May 1968.

The Colonial Secretary: If Council is of the opinion that a Camp Tracks Advisory Committee would serve a useful purpose, such a committee could certainly be appointed and, if the Honourable Member would care to move a Motion to this effect later during our present meeting, the matter could be more fully discussed then.

Mr. Pitaluga: Your Excellency, again my thanks to the Honourable Colonial Secretary for his brief, favourable reply to my question. I would indeed like to take up his suggestion that I move a Motion for the setting up of a Camp Tracks Advisory Committee. With your permission, Sir, I will do this when Council resumes after the Select Committee has considered the Budget.

MOTIONS

A Motion for the adoption of the Standing Finance Committee Report for the period January, 1968, to March, 1969, was put by the Colonial Treasurer. The Motion was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and carried.

BILLS

The Income Tax (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance, 1968

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, consideration of this Bill commenced at the last meeting of Council when, during the debate on the second reading, it was referred to the Development Committee. Arising from the recommendations made by the Development Committee the range of capital expenditure qualifying for an investment allowance has been extended. It is proposed to amend clause 2 (n) to read - and here I will quote the exact words that will appear in the Bill - 'Capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowance shall be restricted to the following -

- i. All new fencing other than main farm boundary fences;
- ii. New plant or machinery used mainly for grassland improvement schemes;
- iii. Pasture improvement schemes including ditching, draining, preparation of ground for seeding, seeds and fertilisers;
- iv. Pedigree live stock;

and to qualify for such investment allowance shall be capital expenditure which may be subject to certification by the Grasslands Officer or such other officer as shall be appointed to act in that behalf, to have been extended in such improvements in relation to the year of assessment.'

Because of the passage of time, the Bill also requires some minor amendments in relation to dates. These I think can be dealt with in the committee stage. They are not matters of principle.

I beg to move the second reading.

Colonial Secretary: I beg to second the motion.

The President: For clarification, in case any Honourable Member may fail to recollect the stage where we had reached with this Bill, if Honourable Members will cast their minds back to October last when we met we had a short debate on this Bill as a result of which, as the Honourable Colonial Treasurer has reminded us, it was referred to the Development Committee. The Development Committee made certain recommendations and the Governor in Council considered those and made further recommendations. That is why the Honourable Colonial Treasurer has read out to us the amendment to sub-section (n) deleting what is written in the printed paper which Honourable Members will have before them, and substituting that which is on the typescript.

We are still in the process of the second reading. The Bill has not yet been read a second time and I hope that Honourable Members will take the opportunity this morning of speaking to the Bill and at an appropriate stage I anticipate that the Honourable Colonial Treasurer will move that the Bill be then deferred for passing through its final stages when Council resumes after the Select Committee has met. The object is to be perfectly satisfied and certain that any suggestions or constructive criticisms of the Bill should have plenty of time to be made, but this morning is an appropriate time for Honourable Members to speak to the Bill if they so wish.

Mr. Miller/.....

Mr. Miller: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, I find myself this time in a rather unusual position. In my previous years in Council I have usually had a pretty clear idea of the Bills being laid before me or what I think of them - I either like them or I do not. There is no question, I do not think, of any Member being against this Bill; it is an excellent Bill; its origin was good and we have chopped it around a bit in various committees and I think, on the whole, we have considerably improved it, but I am not quite sure yet in myself whether we should bring it in just yet or not. By which I should make myself clear, I am not against it by any means and if Honourable Members think it should go through I certainly would not oppose it; I would agree with them, but I have thought about this an enormous amount (we all have) and I am not quite sure if the time is yet ripe. The object of this Bill is to improve the industry of the Colony; it is not intended as an extra 2/- profit tax to produce revenue for the Colony. In fact if it does it is failing in its original purpose, because it is designed to encourage owners and farmers to spend their profits on improving their property or their farms, their produce and, thereby of course, improving the Colony's income. The only thing that makes one wonder about this is that we have just been through two fairly hard years, the profits of which are pretty small. If we pass this Bill this year the inclination will be to spend as much as we can on improvements in order to get that 2/- back, or as much as we possibly can. On the other hand, deterioration on farms does not stand still, money has not been available in the last two years to meet some of this deterioration and owners and managers will be inclined to feel they had better mark time on pasture improvement, fencing, or the other things whereby they can benefit under this Bill, to build a new house or something else if they feel they will have to do that. Then in that case it will probably be a win for the Treasury because they will not get their 2/- back, but I don't suppose the Treasury will mind that either. But, as I said a little earlier, the object of this Bill is not to produce income, it is to better the whole industry of the Colony. I think it has done this Bill a lot of good to have been thrashed out in Development Committee and Executive Council and, in fact, around the dining room tables. I am quite sure we have certainly improved it. At least we have as far as the owners are concerned with the extra backlog of cash they will have available as it is back dated to 1960 or money that has been spent on the various things. There are some farms, if they like to take advantage of that, will probably save their 2/- for a good many years to come but, as you have said, Sir, we are neither going to oppose, reject or do anything to this Bill at the moment. It is going to come back again at the end of this week, after we have discussed the Budget. I am certainly not opposing this Bill, no sane farmer would even begin to think of opposing it, but I am not quite sure whether it should come in this year or not.

Mr. Pitaluga: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, when this Bill came before Council in October last year I moved a Motion that it go to a committee for further study and that took place. I said then it was fundamentally a good Bill and I still think so. I have had, and still have, several reservations about it. I think it seeks to force upon farming companies and managers a way of doing things but it is a much less forceful Bill, if I may use that expression, now with this amendment we have before us than it was in October last year. In fact, it does not really force fencing on anyone. I think for the next few years it looks as if profits are going to be fairly low anyway. Most farmers will probably get their money back in replacing fencing and surely even the least progressive of us are doing replacement fencing, if no actual sub-division. But I cannot agree with some farmers, when I think back, who suggest that sub-division fencing is a waste of time. Indiscriminate sub-division fencing is dangerous and probably very wasteful but careful sub-division and properly planned and thought out in advance is worthwhile. Although we have not done very much on the farm that I manage we are doing it, and we have got quite a lot planned for the future, and we have seen great benefits from it.

So, Sir, my reservations about this Bill, I think are confined to the fact that it seeks to force on us a way of farming that we do not all agree with but for that reason alone I would not oppose it.

Mr. Clement: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, it was only this morning that I received a copy of the new amendments. I agree very heartily with what Mr. Miller has said and also Mr. Pitaluga. I am absolutely certain myself that no sane farmer would rush into a lot of sub-dividing of his camp when he has other and older fences which he must repair and which he has probably already arranged to do. I do not think there is the slightest danger of that, but I too am doubtful as to whether with the present state of the wool market, this Bill should be introduced straight away. But I, again, certainly would not oppose it. I think it is a very good Bill.

Mr. Hills: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, as has been said by the Honourable Members who have spoken before me, I think that we all agree when they say that this is a good Bill as Bills go. If the necessary steps had been taken in the past to do the improvements that are recommended by this Bill, I do not think that the Bill would have ever come into being or been suggested, but, seeing that they were not, I agree that it is regrettable that it has come at a time when wool prices are rather low. We have no assurance that in a year's time, in five year's time, wool prices will be any better and, therefore, for that reason, I feel that I must support this Bill to go through now - not to leave it. I think it has been left too long already.

Mr. Goss: Your Excellency, we have been discussing this Bill now for some two years, in Development Committee, the Legislature, Executive Council. We have hashed it about, we have done this, that and the other over a very long period and if there is fault with it now I wonder why we have it back here. It seems to me to be a move in the right direction; not to raise revenue as Mr. Miller has said, but in the general move towards the progress of the Colony. It shows, I think, in the passing of this Bill, we are not only getting up and saying we should have faith in the future, this is declaring that we do have faith in our future. I certainly support it.

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, all Members have supported the Bill, some rather reluctantly, but support has been given. There is one little thing perhaps that people will have to know about. Attention has been drawn to the rather poor wool prices and consequently the low profits that farms are now making. Everybody knows about this and it is not very often that one can say that poor profits have something in their favour, but the requirement of this Bill is that a sheep farm should invest one fifth of those profits into various things that have been listed. It follows, therefore, that if profits are low, the one fifth is tiny and qualifying expenditure over the last eight years can be taken into account which creates what I would call a useful float. Qualifying expenditure even over eight years, if profits have been small, must be a sizeable sum of money and with prices and profits now low the one fifth should be absorbed by this float, certainly for the coming year and possibly some time after and I see no reason why any farm should ever be caught by this, shall I call it penalty, if they use this float prudently add to it as the years go by. Some could get caught if they simply ignore the fact that they do need to add to it from time to time, but it would be a very great surprise to me that any sensible management is ever caught.

The President: I wonder if the Honourable Colonial Treasurer would perhaps, for the clarification of any Council Member who is not yet certain about it, say a few words about the last part of the clause as amended.

The Colonial Treasurer: If Members look at their original copy of the Bill, the little piece starting "to qualify etc.", it read that "to qualify for such investment allowance it shall be certified by the Grassland Officer", in other words, to get your abatement on profits tax a certificate by the Grasslands Officer had to be produced. That is being amended in such a manner that a certificate by a Grasslands Officer may be called for. This implies that, generally speaking, the accounts as produced by a farm will be accepted, but it does leave Government the right, if circumstances should warrant it, to ask a Grasslands Officer to go and have a look at what has been going on. Before, a certificate was a necessary part of the machinery, now it is an incidental part.

The President: If Honourable Members have said all they wish to at this stage, I would now suggest that the Honourable Colonial Treasurer could just move that further consideration of the second reading of this Bill be deferred until such times as Council resumes after the Select Committee has met.

The Colonial Treasurer: moved further consideration of the Bill be delayed until Council resumed after recess. This was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and carried.

The Income Tax (Amendment) Ordinance 1969

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, this Bill is identical in all respects except the year of enactment, to that defeated in Council last year. It provides for the introduction of a personal allowance to replace the free element in the income scale and for the standard rate of tax to operate at £2,350 of chargeable income instead of £6,000, together with other amendments to the reduced rate reliefs so that the 2/6, 3/-, 3/6 and 4/- rates will become effective at points that are lower by £50, £100, £150 and £300 respectively.

The Bill owes its introduction to the Guillebaud report in which amendment was recommended on the grounds of justice. Its revenue raising qualities are not high but the expected yield of about £3,000 will be a welcome contribution in our present difficulties.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

The Colonial Treasurer moved that the Bill be read a second time and the motion was seconded by the Colonial Secretary.

Mr. Goss: Sir, when the Council had this Bill withdrawn at the last meeting I said then that I considered it an injustice that anyone, any tax payer, within this Colony should be called upon to bear additional tax when there were no assurances regarding his future. Now these assurances have been given and given quite categorically. Therefore, my point in requesting the Bill be withdrawn has now been waived I am very pleased to say.

The Bill was then read a second time and after the Bill had been taken through the Committee stage was read a third time and passed.

Old Age Pensions (Amendment) Ordinance 1969

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, the old Age Pension Ordinance is probably the most amended ordinance in the statute book. These amendments usually seek to improve the effectiveness of this ordinance. This amendment does not come within this category for it seeks only to re-insert an earlier provision that was deleted in error. There was a provision, relating to female contributors, to the effect that women between the ages of 50 and 60 when the ordinance was extended to women, had the privilege of an option on whether or not to contribute. During one of our recent re-castings of the ordinance this provision was deleted in error, and the object of this Bill is to re-insert it.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary: I beg to second the motion.

The Bill was taken through all stages and passed.

Police (Amendment) Ordinance 1969

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, this amending Bill is entirely procedural. Examination of the earlier, 1967 legislation indicated the need for a little tidying up, in particular to embody in the ordinance specific provision to enable the establishment of a Police Reserve and this is a need which is met by clause 2 of the Bill in front of us. At the same time opportunity is taken to make a minor amendment to section 30 of the original ordinance clarifying the position of the Officer in Charge relating to the imposition of punishments.

As I have said, the purpose of this piece of proposed amending legislation is to enable the establishment of a Police Reserve, and intention which the original ordinance had implemented but which apparently it did not adequately cover. Since the entire object therefore is to give effect to what was the original intention, I would hope that this is non-controversial.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The motion was seconded by the Colonial Treasurer and the Bill was taken through all stages and passed.

Loan (Telecommunications) Ordinance 1969

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, Council is aware of the financial arrangements by which modern telecommunications equipment has been installed in the Stanley Wireless Station. A further part of the establishment of adequate communications facilities for the Space Research Station in Stanley involved certain civil engineering costs for which the initial financial arrangements seem to be somewhat obscure. The cost was borne by the Science Research Council, but this organisation is anxious to be relieved of the liability. The European Space Research Organisation accepts final responsibility but wishes to meet the liability in what might be called easy stages. Between these two factions - S.R.C. who have paid the Bills and seek reimbursement, and E.S.R.O. who accept responsibility but wish to absorb it over a period of time - this Government has been asked to place itself by lending £35,643 at $8\frac{3}{8}\%$ per annum interest, and repayable over a period of up to eight years.

Government would find it difficult to provide such a sum as this from its own resources and this Bill proposes a loan from the Savings Bank to the Government and authorises its application to meeting the cost of civil engineering work associated with the new telecommunications system. Provision for the repayment of the loan, and interest at $8\frac{3}{8}\%$, is to be inserted in the contract with ESRO under which there is also provision for paying for the equipment installed at the Wireless Station.

The loan at $8\frac{3}{8}\%$ is an attractive investment for the Savings Bank and Government has been assured that there is adequate security for the repayment of the loan.

Since the Bill was published we have been advised that the wording of clause 3 requires slight amendment to take account of the fact that the first repayment will be of principal only and it will be made within one month of the issue of the loan and that the seven succeeding repayments will be of both principal and interest. An amendment to this effect will be made at a later stage.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

This was seconded by the Colonial Secretary. After a further motion moved and seconded, the Bill was read a second time and Council went into Committee.

The Colonial Treasurer: Clause 3 requires slight amendment. In place of what is written on the printed Bill, the following wording should be used: "any loan made under the provisions of section 2 of this ordinance shall be for a term of up to eight years from the 1st July 1969, and shall bear interest at $8\frac{3}{8}\%$ per annum and shall, by eight complete annual instalments, be repayable within one month from 1st July of each year of the term commencing on 1st July 1969, the first payment being of principal and the remaining seven payments being of principal and interest combined. Provided that the Governor shall have the option of repaying the amount of loan or interest outstanding at any time during the term".

With that amendment, Sir, I beg to move that clause 1 to 5 apply complete.

This was agreed and the Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Pensions (Increase) (Amendment) Ordinance, 1969

Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, this Bill deals with a very small and simple matter. The Pensions (Increase) Ordinance provides for increases, approved from time to time by this Council, of Civil Service pensions awarded under the 1937 and 1949 Pensions Ordinances. We now have the 1965 Pensions Ordinance and the next time there is a general increase in pensions, pensions awarded under this ordinance will be involved. By adding 1965 to the Pensions (Increase) Ordinance we are making suitable provision for the future.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and after a further motion moved and seconded, the Bill was taken through the Committee Stage, read a third time and passed.

/The Pension.....

The Pensions (Amendment) Ordinance 1969

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, the Pensions Ordinance provides for service in other territories by officers serving in, or who have, or will service in, the Falkland Islands to count as continuous service for the purpose of calculating an eventual pension. These other territories are listed in the Pensions Ordinance or in a Schedule to the Pensions Regulations. From time to time some of them change their names. We need to keep pace with these changes purely for legal reasons. This Bill is designed to do just that.

I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was taken through all its stages and passed.

The Non-Contributory Old Age Pensions Ordinance 1969

The Colonial Treasurer: The non-contributory Old Age Pensions Ordinance is designed to provide a measure of assistance to those persons who, for reasons beyond their control, cannot benefit from the contributory scheme. The current rates of pension are 18/- per week for unmarried persons and 36/- per week for married men. It is proposed to increase these rates to 32/- and 64/-.

The Bill, as printed, leaves out the date on which this should come into force. Some things require to be done after, or if, the Bill is passed; particularly the printing of books with the revised rates on pension. The present books in the hands of pensioners will be exhausted the first week in July and I propose that the date of commencement of this new Ordinance be the 14th July, 1969.

I beg to move that the Bill be read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill moved on through its first and second reading. In committee the words "14th of July" were inserted in clause 1 and the Bill was read a third time and passed.

Commissioners for Oaths Ordinance 1969

The Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, this new piece of legislation is also, I hope, non-controversial. Its purpose is to provide a simple means of dealing with day to day run-of-the-mill matters such as the validation of statutory documents, witnessing of signatures, and so on, by enabling the appointment of Commissioners of Oaths for that purpose; that is to say for dealing with matters which, while they are of some importance, do not call for any real exercise of the judicial function as such.

Clause 2 of the Bill provides for certain ex officio appointments of Commissioners and also for appointments by Your Excellency and for the revocation of appointments.

Clause 3 defines the powers of Commissioners.

Clause 4 clarifies the position of certain persons who may be given the power to take oaths and perform certain other acts, for example by the Supreme Court, this merely to make the distinction clear to ensure that there is no confusion between the two types of persons and the exercise of the two different powers.

Clause 5/.....

Clause 5 relates to certain procedural matters and is self-explanatory.

Clause 6 provides for penalties in the case of people misrepresenting themselves to be Commissioners.

I think this is a useful Bill and it is not necessary for me to do anything further than commend it to Honourable Members and I accordingly beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

This was seconded by the Colonial Treasurer and the Bill was read a first time.

Mr. Miller: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, with all due respect to the Honourable, our new Colonial Secretary, I think this is a very bad Bill. I do not think we need it and I think the printer's time has been wasted printing it. I have made representations at various times, in writing, to our previous Colonial Secretary reminding him that Justices of the Peace were getting a bit thin on the ground, on both East and West Falkland, but I was referring mainly to the West, and I could never get a satisfactory answer from either the Honourable Mr. Thompson or from anyone else as to why Justices of the Peace were a bad thing to have. They do not cost the tax payer any money. They can do all that a Commissioner for Oaths has got to do as far as witnessing signatures is concerned and they are useful people (and I speak from experience of my many years in the Camp) to have in the background as being a person of similar authority as a police constable. People in Camp are pretty law abiding people as a whole as you know. Well, the Commissioner for Oaths is not that sort of person; he is not in that position. The J.P., if there is any trouble anywhere, has to take action, has to act as a police constable, and, in fact, there is a penalty if he does not. He can call up other people to come and support him and there is a penalty if they do not. The Commissioner for Oaths is merely a man who has to witness signatures and I have had it offered to me as an argument that in these days of aeroplanes you do not need J.P.'s. You can send someone out from Stanley. That is alright as far as it goes but sometimes 'planes cannot fly even in the Falklands. If Commissioners for Oaths are appointed and we have no more J.P.'s. and someone in Port Stephens wants an important signature for something and the nearest Commissioner for Oaths happens to be in Port Howard there will still have to be a considerable delay. I would like, Sir, to go through this Memo, all six paragraphs of it, piece by piece.

First the lack of J.P.'s. can lead to inconvenience when signatures have to be witnessed, statutory documents validated and so on. It can lead to inconvenience for lack of transport but exactly the same situation would arise if there were three or four Commissioners for Oaths in the Camp, exactly the same position.

The next paragraph actually deals with the same situation, to appoint a J.P. just to witness signatures and sign notices of marriages is a somewhat cumbersome way of dealing with the problem; well I would say an equally cumbersome way if a Commissioner was doing it, he has got to do exactly the same thing.

Third one - "Such an appointment is usually made as a recognition of particular worth, coupled with an ability and willingness to undertake judicial duties", and here again exactly the same situation applies.

/Number four.....

Number four is virtually the same thing - finding the right person. If you cannot find anyone fit to be a J.P. then there cannot be one fit to be a Commissioner for Oaths. These things go together.

The crucial one is number five, "two many Justices in such a small population as we have." Well my first reaction is whose criticism? Is this criticism within the Colony and, if so, whose? Surely not the United Nations. We know all about them from our recent political troubles. I just cannot understand that particular one, why it is a bad thing to have too many. Admittedly if we had dozens they would not be necessary. At the moment in the West Falkland there is no J.P. whatsoever. On the East Falkland, I think I am right in saying, there is one and no police of course, in either place. In Port Stanley there are between twelve and fifteen Justices of the Peace and six members of Police. Any thinking person coming to the Colony, say tomorrow or next week and looking at these figures, would say, "What an extraordinary country. In most of the area people are so law-abiding they do not need any policemen and only one Justice. In the one and only town it must be a hotbed of crime, because they need six police and fifteen Justices!" Well, I presume that is the position, I have not been living in Stanley very long but it is an unusual situation and I know as a matter of fact that the number of Justices at present in Port Stanley are there because we are retired Camp J.P.'s and we are getting old. I suppose from the official point of view, in the Secretariat, when we gradually disappear from the scene there will not be so many Justices. From my experience it is better to have Justices of the Peace scattered around. Not too many, I would agree with that, but it does make a difference. It is a big help and those people are there in the position of a policeman if they are needed. It very nearly happened in my case about fifteen years ago. I hunted through the Ordinance to find out what my powers were and I found I was in a position of a policeman if this trouble arose and, in fact, if I did not use that position I was in for trouble, and I think it is, shall I say, an advantage, to the continued peace of the Camp - not that we have got any budding criminals - to have a J.P. They are not costing the taxpayer anything. And so I think, as I say at the beginning, this Bill is a complete waste of time and totally unnecessary.

Mr. Pitaluga: Your Excellency, I would just like to add my general support to the remarks made by the Honourable Member, Mr. Miller. I do not entirely agree with him that it is a bad Bill; a waste of printers' time. I think it is good enough as far as it goes but he has put up a very strong argument for at least some more J.P.'s to be appointed in the Camp, if not a lot. I do not think I can add anything further in the way of support to that but Mr. Miller has my support, as I said before and really I am opposed to this one as it stands.

Mr. Clement: Your Excellency, I support particularly what Mr. Miller said and the Honourable Mr. Pitaluga. I do not agree that the Bill is a bad one but, at the moment, as the Honourable Mr. Miller has said there is not one J.P. in any area on the West Falkland. They can be of help to the people, not necessarily in a case of crime but very often you get somebody coming to you wanting to know possibly the law of the land or some little difficulty therein and it is a great help when they know they can come to somebody who can turn up the law for them, even though they don't know it themselves, so I think I give my support to the two Honourable Members who have spoken.

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, I do not know enough about the local situation but what I do want to do, with permission, is to make some short comments on some of the points that have been raised. Even in so short a time in the Falklands I would not have thought that this was necessarily a bad Bill but / I am.....

I am naturally open to correction and I may have got it completely wrong, but I would not have thought that the passing of this Bill would necessarily preclude the appointment of other J.P.'s. I am not sufficiently familiar with the rest of the legislation to know, but I would expect that that would be the case.

The other matter which I do want to refer to, perhaps I did not make it sufficiently clear when I was speaking earlier, is that really the type of person whom this piece of legislation proposes to enable to be appointed is not called upon to exercise to the same extent the judicial function as would be a J.P. This surely, is the whole purpose of this particular Bill. And, as I have just said, it does not appear to me to preclude the appointment of J.P.'s. as to which I have to confess I know nothing in the local circumstances.

The President: It would appear to me that certain misconceptions have obviously arisen in the minds of Honourable Members regarding the purpose of the Bill. It is not a vital Bill. Our affairs will not come to a halt if, at this Meeting of Council, the Bill is not passed. It is astonishing to me that so many misconceptions should have arisen. Sometimes this Council is criticised for adjourning discussion on a particular subject and in another place sorting it out and then coming back some days later to discuss the matter formally and in public once again. In this particular case, since I feel it would be regrettable that the Bill should be the cause of any major disagreement, I would suggest that if an Honourable Member were to care to move a Motion that discussion of the Second Reading of this Bill be adjourned, until Council resumes following the Meeting of the Select Committee, and if that were to be seconded and to receive the agreement of Council, it would, I think be a way perhaps of sorting out one or two misconceptions which have obviously arisen.

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, in these circumstances I think the best thing would be for me to move that further consideration of the Bill be deferred until after the Select Committee, that is to say, at a later stage in our proceedings this week. This was seconded by Mr. Miller and further consideration was accordingly deferred until a later stage in the proceedings.

The Supplementary Appropriation (1967/68) Ordinance 1968

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, listed in the schedule to this Bill are sums of money, the total of which represents over-expenditure on the approved estimates for 1967/68. All amounts have been dealt with in detail in S.F.C. and the object of the Bill is to give formal approval to what has been approved in that committee. One small amendment is necessary. The Bill was printed last year and it appears in clause 1 as being a Bill for an Ordinance of 1968. Because we are going to pass it in 1969 there will be a slight amendment there which can be dealt with in the committee stage. I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

This was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and the Bill was read a first time.

The Bill was read a second time and in the Committee Stage clause 1 was amended by the deletion of the year 1968 and substitution of 1969.

The Bill was then read a third time and passed.

/The Appropriation.....

The Appropriation (1969/70) Ordinance, 1969

The Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, the Appropriation Bill sets out, head by head, proposals for Government expenditure during the coming financial year. If, however, the mover restricted his comments to this expenditure much important information would be withheld. It is customary, and indeed necessary to associate the introduction of this Bill with a review of the financial situation in the current year, and to give an account of how the money which it is proposed to spend in the coming year will be raised. This may even anticipate the approval of additional revenue raising measures.

The estimates of revenue and expenditure are set out in two parts. The first deals with what is described as ordinary revenue and expenditure, i.e., those items which are accepted as being part of our everyday lives, and the second part relates to development, although this expression is applied in a very wide sense. I will deal with part one first.

The estimates of revenue and expenditure for 1968/69 when passed by Council at last year's budget meeting showed a deficit of £128,000. Reading the Minutes of the Meeting I see there was some disagreement when my colleague, the Assistant Treasurer standing in during my absence, described the budget as gloomy. The largest deficit ever to be faced by the Colony certainly warranted some special comment. According to the revised estimates of ordinary revenue and expenditure for 1968/69 the deficit is now expected to be £103,000. Revenue is much improved being some £64,000 more than the original figure. Revised expenditure is greater than the original estimate by £35,000. £28,000 of this being accounted for by a transfer to the Oil stocks Replacement Fund and did not appear in the original estimates.

All the main revenue heads show increases on the original estimates; substantial increases are expected from our invested funds, income tax and sales of stamps. The increase in total expenditure, discounting the transfer to the Oil Stocks Fund, is not large but gives an indication of the changing scene. Many of the items of expenditure that regularly appear in the estimates remain unaltered year after year and it has become the accepted thing that these sums will be sufficient for the year. The implication is that this is no longer the case and is borne out by the reports of Heads of Department that the cost of purchasing their needs from abroad, and freight charges, are steadily increasing. The situation reflects the increasing cost of Government services and an illustration may put this in proper perspective. In 1965/66 ordinary expenditure amounted to £384,000; the revised figure for 1968/69, excluding the Oil Stocks transfer, is £452,000. The increased cost of purchases experienced by Departmental Heads affects also the family budget. The last salaries revision took effect on 1st January 1966 and since that time there have been six cost of living awards of 1d. to hourly paid workers and two awards of £30 per annum to permanent establishment staff. These awards cost £500 per annum and £4,500 per annum respectively.

Now to 1969/70: Taking into account the revised deficit for the current year we expect to commence the next accounting period with £151,000 in reserves supporting the ordinary revenue/expenditure account. Ordinary expenditure is expected to total £480,548 and revenue £426,559. Increases in expenditure will be found under the Aviation, Education, Medical, Pensions, Police, Public Works, Secretariat and Social Welfare heads. This rather formidable list emphasises what I said earlier about the increasing cost of Government and the absence of corresponding increases in revenue creates a situation requiring the closest examination. Additional commitments for example need to be considered against this background. It will be appreciated, therefore, that careful thought has been given to the proposal to increase non-contributory old age pensions and overseas education allowances, both of which are matters for consideration at this meeting. It is also a budget proposal that Government accepts full financial responsibility for the cost of medical treatment overseas, and that no part of the cost will, in future, be passed on to the patient or requested from his or her employer.

Revenue at £426,559 is £91,000 more than the original estimate for the current year and £26,000 more than the revised estimate. The largest single increase is the expectation that £40,000 will be available for transfer from the Savings Bank, representing the surplus over the statutory reserve of 10% of the amount due to depositors. But I should add a word of caution for this transfer depends on stock market quotations for Savings Bank investments and considerable variation, both upwards and downwards, is possible. Welcome contributions are expected from the sale of commemorative issues of postage stamps and leased telegraph circuits, but in respect of the latter a further word of caution should be made. This Colony has an agreement with the European Space Research Organisation for meeting the cost of the new communications equipment at the Wireless Station. A condition of this agreement is that should the telegraph service show a greater profit after the installation of this equipment than it did before, 60% of the improvement will be set off against the contractual payments undertaken by ESRO. From the figures in these estimates it would seem that some of this additional revenue might be passed over to the Space Organisation. It will also be noted that income tax receipts are expected to be higher than last year. This is largely accounted for by the delay in assessments brought about by the need to await a decision on the tax increases that were the subject of an earlier Bill.

Additional revenue raising proposals include an increase in the fixed charge for air travel, in which it is the intention to amend the existing fee of £1 for all passengers to £2 for adults and 30/- for children under school leaving age. It is also the intention to increase Customs import duties on beer, spirits, tobacco and wines. By these various means an additional £11,740 would be received, based on past performances.

After taking into account the improved state of some revenue sources and the increases mentioned, the revenue will still be £54,000 below the expenditure level. The position is far from satisfactory and the immediate outlook shows no encouraging signs. From the one wool sale so far this year there is an indication of a small improvement on the sales of last year, but the additional revenue that this will bring in cannot be regarded as having any significant effect on the situation. Sheepfarms, like everyone else, are feeling the effect of increased costs and much of their increased income may go to meeting them. Because of the present situation, and because the immediate future holds no indication of improved prospects, consideration is being given to the raising of further revenue by means of increased taxation on incomes. No definite policy decision has yet been reached but in the coming months, and before the October meeting of the Legislative Council, the financial position will be re-examined and Council may be asked to approve further taxation measures. This, of course, is not a proposal of the budget now presented and might be considered to be out of order. However, it is essential that some reference be made to the measures that are under consideration for silence on the point might imply unqualified acceptance of the £54,000 deficit.

/The

The Development estimates for 1968/69 provided for expenditure of £17,164 from Colony funds and £51,880 from Colonial Development and Welfare sources. The programme has not been carried out for various reasons and the revised figures are £22,470 and £6,871 respectively. The bulk of the expenditure from Colony funds arises from residual payments related to the Stanley Roads contract, and for local loans, mainly housing loans, which were previously accounted for under ordinary expenditure.

In 1969/70 Development expenditure is modest by any comparison. £15,800 is to be met from Colony sources; the major item being a loan of £14,000, and it is hoped to obtain £1,200 from C. D. & W. sources as an 80% contribution to the cost of modernising the hospital laundry. The Development Fund, which supports development expenditure financed from Colony sources, has an estimated uncommitted balance of £148,923 as at 30th June, 1970.

I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

This was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and the Bill was read a first time. A Motion was put by the Colonial Treasurer and seconded by the Colonial Secretary that the Bill be read a second time.

The President: I would just remind Honourable Members about our procedure and Standing Rules and Orders No. 43, where the annual Appropriation Bill has been read a second time the Colonial Secretary will recommend that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee. So I will ask whether there is any objection to the Motion that the Bill be read a second time. (No objection).

The Bill was read a second time.

Colonial Secretary: I beg to move that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee.

This was seconded by the Colonial Treasurer and carried, The President accordingly appointed the Colonial Secretary and all Unofficial Members to be Members of the Select Committee and adjourned the meeting.

Council resumed at 2.30 p.m. on Monday 26th May.

PRESENT: The President and all Honourable Members except Mrs. King.

The prayer was read by the Rev. P.J. Millan.

The Appropriation (1969/70) Bill, 1969. (Contd.)

Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, the Select Committee met as directed by you and made the following amendments to the Estimates as printed under Head VI Education - Item 16. Spares, Electrical and Mechanical, Darwin and Port Howard Schools and Maintenance Generators. Increase the provision from £200 to £350. Item 17 Voluntary Service Overseas. Increase the provision from £1,055 to £1,140. Head VII Medical, Personal Emoluments Five Nurses, Scale P. Increase the provision from £1,520 to £1,900 and Dental Technician, Scale P. Decrease the provision from £3,126 to £2,746. Item 3 Amend to read "Wages of Caretaker and Handyman". Increase the provision from £1,211 to £1,816. Item 5 Maintenance of Patients and Staff. Decrease the provision from £3,000 to £2,900 and delete Item 20 Labour, Gardens £50. Head VIII Meteorological Item 4 Stationery. Decrease the provision from £320 to £80. Head XVI Public Works Recurrent Item 10 Wages of Caretakers and Handymen. Decrease the provision from £2,200 to £1,595. The effect of these amendments on the Appropriation Bill will be referred to in the committee stages.

The President declared the Council in Committee.

In the committee stage clause 1, the enacting clause and title were agreed and consideration of clause 2 was deferred until after consideration of the schedule.

The Colonial Treasurer, seconded by the Colonial Secretary, moved that the schedule should stand part of the Bill subject to the following amendments:

Head	Delete	Insert
VI Education	66,049	66,284
VII Medical	56,443	56,898
VIII Meteorological	2,490	2,250
XVI Public Works Recurrent	42,755	42,150
Total Ordinary Expenditure	480,548	480,393
Total Expenditure	531,548	531,393

It was agreed that the schedule, as amended, should stand part of the Bill and that clause 2 be subject to the following amendment:-

Delete the figures £531,548 and insert £531,393.

The Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Income Tax (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance, 1969

Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, the Council adjourned on the Motion for the second reading to give further considerations to what had gone on before and as a result of discussions and examinations and implications of the Bill, I beg to move that clause 2 (n) be amended. The reason for this amendment is that by permitting qualifying expenditure from the 1st January 1960, to be taken into account rather large sums can be accumulated. Particularly so following the amendment to include all forms of fencing as qualifying expenditure. It is felt that a period of two years of part of the performance as the qualifying period would be fair and reasonable and the amendment which I propose is that the figures "1960" in clause 2 (m) be replaced by the figures "1968".

This was seconded by the Colonial Secretary.

The President: Honourable Members, the Honourable Colonial Treasurer has moved a Motion that Clause 2 (m) be amended by the deletion of the year 1960 and its replacement by the year 1968. Perhaps I may remind Honourable Members that under our Legislative Council Standing Rules and Orders, that Rule No. 11, sub-rule (10) states that a Member who has spoken may speak again when a new question has been proposed from the chair. Such a proposed amendment has been proposed from the chair, and, therefore, if any Honourable Member wishes to speak to the Motion of the Honourable Member, the Colonial Treasurer, this opportunity is now provided.

Mr. Miller: Your Excellency, Members, I spoke for some length the other day (that was five days ago) and since that time all of us have given a very large amount of thought to the matter and a spate of figures have appeared. Those figures have been extremely useful and, in fact, partly responsible for the amendment of the date at the moment. When this bill becomes law I have no doubt it is going to be unpopular in some quarters. We know that, but then of course, so do most bills connected with income tax. If the ordinary income tax was to be put up by 25% now quite a lot of people would be able to produce quite a spate of figures showing they could not afford it. I still think this is fundamentally a good bill. Five days ago I was not quite sure whether it was a good time to bring it in or not, but on reflection now I think it is the time because we have gone into this pretty exhaustively - I have also heard, not exhaustively enough - yet more figures could be taken to show whatever the particular person producing them wants them to show. It has been before us as a Bill since last October; it has been in everybody's minds for twelve months or over. People have had time to consider its implications and I think it would be wrong to go on leaving it hanging around on the Statute Book although it does not come into force until the 1st January next year. It has been suggested that figures may prove that we are wrong and we may look rather stupid, on the other hand, it is very difficult not to say that we shall look stupid if we keep it hanging around for another seven or eight months and do nothing about it. I would recommend that this House passes the bill.

Mr. Pitaluga: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, I would like to say now that this bill has my support. In the last few days we have had a lot of discussions on this bill. There have been many arguments and figures put before us in support and against it and to those of us who are not accountants, some of these figures have been extremely confusing but I think we have got the hang of it and I, personally feel, that with the amendment that the Colonial Treasurer has spoken about this afternoon, this bill is now right for the time it is being put forward and the time I expect it to be passed. There have been times when the arguments for and against have been so powerful that I know I, and possibly some other members have felt as Mr. Hills put it, that we have been rushing from one side of the ship to the other and I now feel that as far as I am concerned anyway, that I have rushed to the side which is the right and proper one. Only time will prove that assumption to be correct and I very much hope that this bill when it is passed, will do what it is intended to do and those who are still very much against it will find that we have taken the correct action.

Mr. Hills: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, I feel it does not require me to say anything further. I think the Honourable Members who have spoken before me have said all that I would wish to say other than that I also support this bill.

/President...

President: Honourable Colonial Treasurer, have you anything further to say?

Colonial Treasurer: No.

President: The Motion, Honourable Members, that we are called upon to consider at the moment is that referring to the date "1968". According to our procedure we are now required to deal with that particular amendment, before we go on to deal with the bill in the normal way. So the motion is that clause 2 (n) be amended by the deletion of the year "1960" and the substitution of the year "1968". Those in favour of the Motion say 'aye'; those of contrary opinion say 'no'. The 'ayes' have it. The Motion is passed.

We now return to the normal consideration of the Bill and we have not yet taken the second reading. The Honourable Colonial Treasurer moved originally that the bill be read a second time and we have had an intervening Motion. I would ask him that he again moves that the Bill be read a second time.

The Colonial Treasurer moved that the bill be read a second time and this was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and the bill was accordingly read a second time. The President declared Council to be in Committee.

Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, clause 1 requires amendment to the year 1968. This bill was published last year and of course, it is now being considered in 1969. The year 1968 should now be replaced by 1969. Clause 1 (2) also requires amendment in respect of the year. The year 1969 should read 1970 which means that the bill should come into force on the 1st January 1970. Clause 2 (i) the words "sixty-nine" should now read "seventy". Clause 2 (n) has already been amended by formal amendment in the second stage. Clause 2 (n), the reference has been made to this in the earlier readings but it has not been amended, therefore the amendment to be introduced is that clause 2 (n) shall read "Capital expenditure qualifying for investment allowance shall be restricted to the following:-

- (1) all new fencing other than main farm boundary fences;
- (2) new plant or machinery used mainly for grasslands improvement schemes;
- (3) pasture improvement schemes including ditching, draining, preparation of ground for seeding, seeds and fertilizers;
- (4) pedigree livestock, and to qualify for such investment allowance shall be capital expenditure which may be subject to certification by the Grasslands Officer, or such other officer as shall be appointed to act in that behalf, to have been expended in such improvements in relation to the year of assessment."

I beg to move that clauses 1 and 2 as amended stand part of the Bill.

This was seconded by the Colonial Secretary.

The President read the proposed amendments and clauses 1 and 2 as amended, were agreed. The enacting clause and title were likewise agreed and the bill was read a third time and passed.

The Commissioners for Oaths Bill 1969

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, after these rather exciting proceedings I am afraid what we now have in front of us is a little mundane. It may be recalled that when we considered this matter /last.....

last week, on the second reading we decided to defer it for some further examination and consideration. This allowed, I think we could say, for some clarification of misunderstandings, possibly mis-conceptions but there is, in fact, no urgency about this piece of legislation and I think everyone will agree that additional time to get more reflection will be in order and I accordingly propose that the second reading be deferred until the October meeting of this Council.

This was seconded by the Colonial Treasurer.

The President: Honourable Members, the motion before the House is that further consideration of the Commissioners for Oaths Bill be deferred until the October meeting of Council. Those in favour say "aye", those of contrary opinion, say "no". The Motion will be deferred until the October meeting of Council.

Customs (Amendment to Duties) 1969

Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, references made earlier in the meeting to certain increases in the import duties on spirits, wines, beer and tobacco and this Resolution is in fact to give effect to that statement, but before going on to the rather formal resolution which to insert this and delete that I shall try to say more in plain English just what is implied by these changes. Spirits are to be increased by 9/- a gallon. That is from 126/- to 135/- a gallon. Wines are produced in various parts of the world and there are certain preferential rates, especially for wines produced in what are known as the scheduled territories. The increase ranges from 11d. to 1/4d. a gallon, depending on the origin. Beer is to be increased by 1/- a gallon. That is from 1/2d. to 2/2d. Tobacco, cigars. Again cigars or tobacco, in general the import duty varies slightly depending on the origin, whether or not it is produced in the scheduled territories but irrespective of the origin, duty on cigars is to increase by 5/- a pound, on cigarettes also by 5/- a pound, and on cut and manufactured tobacco, snuff and all other exemptive tobacco by 6/- a pound. To give effect to these changes I beg to move that the following resolution be adopted;

In exercise of the powers conferred upon Legislative Council by section 5 of the Customs Ordinance, it is hereby resolved by the Legislative Council as follows:

- (1) This resolution may be cited as the Customs Amendment of Duty Resolution 1969 and shall come into operation on the 31st May, 1969.
- (2) Item 2a of paragraph 2 of the Customs Order is hereby amended by the deletion from the third column of the figures 126/- and the substitution of the figures 135/-. Item 2b of paragraph 2 of the Customs Order is hereby amended by the deletion from the third column of the figures 4/6, 13/3, 9/9, 5/-, 6/6, 19/6 14/3 and 7/3 and the substitution of the figures 5/5, 15/11, 11/9, 6/-, 7/10, 23/5, 17/1 and 8/9 respectively. Item 2c of paragraph 2 of the Customs Order, is hereby amended by the deletion from the third column of the of the figures 1/3 and the substitution of the figures 2/2.
Item 3 of paragraph 2 of the Customs Order is hereby amended by the deletion from the third column of the figures 19/3, 9/6, 5/7, 20/-, 10/- and 6/- and the substitution of the figures 24/3, 14/6, 11/7, 25/-, 15/- and 12/- respectively.

The Motion was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and the Resolution adopted.

/Motion,.....

Motion for Adjournment

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, I beg to move that this House stands adjourned sine die.

Colonial Treasurer: I beg to second the Motion.

Mr. Pitaluga: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, on the motion for adjournment I would like if I may to speak for a moment about my second question on the 21st May regarding Camp Tracks Advisory Committee. It was left that day for me to prepare a formal motion that such a Committee should be appointed. During informal discussions outside this Chamber it has appeared that no special Committee for this purpose is required and that this is something that could well be taken under the wing of the Development Committee. All members of the Council were at that meeting of the formal discussion and it was generally agreed that this was so and in fact gave their support. I would like to take just a few more minutes and give some of the background to my thinking on this thing. The Camp Tracks Scheme allows for money to be provided from public funds for the improvement of camp tracks when the farm owner or manager feels that such improvement is necessary on a part of the land managed by him and does not wish to take on the whole expense for himself because it provides a benefit not only for the owners of the land and the people who are living on that farm, but others passing through and this has been done in varying degrees, but I have always felt that it does not really go far enough because in many cases parts of main camp track which require improvement are of no interest to the owners of the land and it is on these parts where I feel that some other form of scheme should be introduced. In this case the sort of Committee which I had in mind would look into suggestions for improvement to camp tracks, decide what was possible and what was not, would then obtain the permission of the land owners concerned and advise Government that such an improvement was a worthwhile objective, then Government would proceed and offer the job on the tender scheme. This is, I think the only way in which this could work. It may well happen that certain well thought out and approved schemes might not even attract a single tender but we could only find out by trial. The Development Committee as it stands is mainly concerned with looking into the possible improvements for the Islands in the future; it does not have any direct administrative objectives. This, to me would be something it could really get its teeth into without actually saying who would have the tender and what figure would be acceptable. This must be in the proper Government hands and channels. That, then, Your Excellency, Honourable Members is my thinking behind the question I asked in this House last year and last week. I beg, therefore, to propose that this idea be adopted, that the whole review and investigation of Camp Tracks improvement to be placed in the hands of the Development Committee.

Mr. Miller: Your Excellency, Honourable Members, I am rising to second the Honourable Mr. Pitaluga's motion for adjournment partly because I think it is a good one but also because as Chairman of the Development Committee, on behalf of that Committee, we are quite willing to do what we can. The question of proportion of finance for the various applications will have, of course, to be resolved finally in the Secretariat and the Treasury because the amount that a farm can be expected to contribute towards the cost of an improvement whether it is bridges etc. or anything, will vary in relation to where that farm is. The nearer that required improvement is to Stanley, the more it becomes a public thoroughfare, not the obligation or in fact probably not required by that farm or, the owner of that land. On the far side of the West it is in the reverse, of course. Any new bridges or repairs to the track that are required are mainly for the advantage of that farm and a few visitors, few in relation to the closeness of Stanley. So I would presume that any proportion of costs for that farm would ultimately be resolved in the Secretariat or the Treasury and will vary according to where that farm is placed.

/President.....

The President: Thank you very much. Perhaps I should just mention that the actual Motion in the course of the moment, is the Motion to adjourn. I think by a slip of the tongue, the Honourable Member, Mr. Pitaluga was proposing that the subject of camp tracks should be dealt with by the Development Committee but I take it he would be content that this, in fact, came about rather than we should have a Motion to that effect. Would I be right in thinking that?

The Motion for the adjournment as all Members know provides a useful opportunity for Honourable Members to speak on other subjects but not actually to propose any Motion. Another Motion can be proposed but I think in this case it is probably not necessary.

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, I hope that you and the Honourable Members will not mind my saying how interesting and stimulating to me the affairs of this Council have proved to be and I should like to take this public opportunity of referring to the kind remarks of welcome which were made in your opening address last week and to express the appreciation of myself and Mrs. Jones, not only for those remarks but also for the kindness and the helpfulness and friendliness, and I have to add, the forbearance displayed towards us publicly, officially and in private by all those who we have met in our short stay so far. In such measure have we been made to feel welcome that we already feel completely at home and we are looking forward to closer association with these islands and the people in the future. Thank you, Your Excellency.

The President: The Motion Honourable Members is that this House stand adjourned sine die.

Before we disperse I would like to thank the Honourable Colonial Secretary for the remarks he has just made and I would also like to thank all Honourable Members very much indeed for the care and attention which they have given to the complex and in some ways controversial legislation which we have been dealing with. It certainly has not been easy. I feel that it is the legislation which we have been dealing with and I refer particularly, of course, to the Income Tax (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance passed into the law, or it will be passed into the law shortly. It has been through all its stages in this Council, and has not been an easy one at all. We have had it before us for a period of nearly two years. We have had it in Bill form for a period of six or seven months and we have certainly latterly given it very detailed and close attention and I would just mention one thing with regard to that particular Ordinance and that is that Council has a majority of Unofficial Members and I think it is important to recollect that what this Council decides should pass into law, subject to the reserve powers of Her Majesty's Government at home which are remarkably seldom exercised, is something which comes about as a result of very careful consideration by Members and if in time Honourable Members feel that policy should be other than what is laid down at the moment, then it will be in the hands of Honourable Members to decide what to do about it. Meanwhile I think all of us are satisfied that the action which is proposed to be taken is action which is taken in the best interests of the Falkland Islands, both now and for a considerable period of time to come. We very often have to legislate for things which are not of supreme interest to us. Much legislation which passes through these chambers is run of the mill stuff, formalities and so on, but from time to time we have Bills which are of very great significance to us. This is certainly one of them and I would thank Honourable Members for the care and attention which has been paid to it and as I say, if over the course of the next few years it is shown that some form of amendment is necessary, then it will be up to this Council to propose it and if the Council thinks it right and proper, to take whatever action the Council feels is correct.

There being no further business on the Order Paper, the House now stands adjourned sine die.

A Bill for An Ordinance

To control the harvesting of kelp in the Colony and its exportation therefrom. Title.

(1969) Date of commencement.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Fakland Islands, as follows — Enacting clause.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Control of Kelp Ordinance, 1969. Short title.

2. In this Ordinance, unless the context otherwise requires — Interpretation.

“export” means taking or sending out of the Colony;

“licence” means a licence granted under this Ordinance;

“sale” includes exchange, barter, and offering or exposing for sale;

“kelp” means any alga or plant of the genus macrocystis pyrifera and lessonia growing in or on the foreshore of any part of the Colony or in or on the seabed within the territorial waters of the Colony.

3. (1) No person shall harvest any kelp for sale, processing or export save with, and in accordance with the terms of, a licence granted by the Governor. Prohibition.

(2) No person shall export any kelp save with, and in accordance with the terms of, a licence granted by the Governor.

4. The granting or withholding of any licence shall be in the absolute discretion of the Governor, and every licence to harvest kelp for sale, processing or export shall be for such period and relate to such place or places and shall be subject to the payment of such fees and such other conditions as may be specified therein. Grant of licence.

5. All kelp exported shall be liable to such royalties, if any, as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Governor in Council, and such regulations may prescribe the method of collection and disposal of the royalties so imposed. Royalties.

6. (1) Any person who harvests any kelp for sale, processing or export or exports any kelp without being authorised so to do by a licence granted for such purpose shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or to a fine not exceeding £200 or to both such imprisonment and fine and to forfeit any kelp found in his possession. Offences and penalties.

(2) Any person who fails to comply with the conditions specified in any licence granted to him shall be guilty of an offence and, in addition to any penalty, not exceeding a fine of £100 which to a court it seems proper to impose, the court may order that the licence be suspended or revoked and may further order the confiscation of any kelp harvested in contravention of the conditions specified in such licence.

7. Nothing in this Ordinance shall affect any customary right of any person to harvest kelp in small quantities for agricultural and other purposes within the Colony. Saving.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill gives power to the Government to control a potentially valuable economic asset.

A Bill for
 An Ordinance
 Further to amend the Income Tax
 Ordinance. Title.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows — Enacting clause.

1. (1) This Ordinance may be cited as the Income Tax (Amendment) (No. 3) Ordinance 1969. Short title and commencement.

(2) The provisions of this Ordinance shall have effect with respect to tax chargeable for the year of assessment commencing on the 1st day of January, 1970, and for all subsequent years of assessment.

2. The Income Tax Ordinance (hereinafter referred to as the principal Ordinance) is amended by the addition after section 16 of the following new section — Addition of new section 16A.
(Cap. 32)

“Total income and old age relief.

16A. (1) In ascertaining the chargeable income of any married man who proves that at any time within the year of assessment he was of the age of 60 years or upwards, his wife living with him or wholly maintained by him and that his total income for the year preceding the year of assessment is less than £500, he shall be entitled to a deduction equal to two thirds of the difference between his total income and £500.

(2) In ascertaining the income of any individual, not being entitled to a deduction as aforesaid, who proves that at any time within the year of assessment he was of the age of 60 years or upwards and that his total income for the year preceding the year of assessment is less than £500, he shall be entitled to a deduction equal to one third of the difference between his total income and £500.”

Amendment of section 21.

3. Section 21 of the principal Ordinance is amended —

- (a) in subsection (1), by the deletion of the words and figures from "On the first" to the figures "5/9" and the substitution therefor of the following —

"On the first £100 of such income	1/-
In respect of every pound of the next	£150 2/-
" " " " " " " "	£200 2/6

- "transformation" includes the transformation of pressure up or down, and the conversion of alternating to direct current, or vice versa, by static, rotary or electro-chemical means.

3. Every notice order or other document under these regulations requiring authentication by the Government shall be sufficiently authenticated if signed by the Superintendent.

Authentication of notices, etc.

4. Where any notice or other document is required by these regulations to be served on or given to any person it shall be either served personally on such person or left at or sent by post to his last usual place of abode or business.

Service of notices.

5. Any person who shall fail to comply with any notice or order duly given or made under these regulations shall be deemed to have committed a breach of these regulations.

Failure to comply with notice, etc.

6. (1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations the installation connected with the supply of electric light or energy for power purposes to the premises of any person shall be provided and fixed by such person at his own expense, and the wiring of the Installation by consumer.

premises shall be effected in accordance with the Regulations for the Electrical Equipment of Buildings published by the Institution of Electrical Engineers of Great Britain as from time to time amended or replaced, unless otherwise authorised by the Superintendent.

(2) A copy of the above-mentioned regulations may be seen on application to the Superintendent.

(3) Any person providing or fixing any installation or wiring any premises in such a manner as to contravene any of the aforesaid regulations shall be deemed to have committed a breach of these regulations.

Notice of Installation.

7. Before any new installation or any addition or alteration to any existing installation is begun, or before the whole or any part of an installation connected with the service of any person such person shall in every case send to the Superintendent —

(a) notice of his intention to begin such work; and

(b) a precise description of such proposed work.

Approval and test of installation.

8. No energy shall be supplied to any new or altered installation until it has been approved by the Superintendent, who may, if he thinks necessary, test such installation or any part thereof.

Connection to and discontinuance of service.

9. (1) Notice shall be given to the Superintendent by the owner or occupier of any premises which are, or require to be connected to the main service, if he desires to make use of such service. Such notice shall be recorded by the Superintendent who, subject to the conditions of these regulations, will arrange for such connection to be made. A connection shall constitute an acceptance by the applicant of these regulations.

(2) On connection the applicant as consumer will be liable for the cost of all energy consumed up to the time he gives written notice to the Superintendent that he wishes the service to be discontinued.

Charges for the supply of energy.

10. The general rates to be charged for the supply of electrical energy shall be those fixed by the Governor in Council from time to time and published in the Gazette.

Reduction or cessation of supply.

11. (1) The Government may, without incurring any liability for so doing other than a liability to make a proportionate abatement in the charges for the supply, reduce as it may think fit the quantity of energy supplied to any premises, if by reason of any unforeseen circumstances it shall appear that the supply of energy generated is insufficient to enable the full quantity to be conveniently supplied.

Liability of Government.

(2) The Government shall not be liable for any damage to person or property or for any cessation of the supply of energy which may be due to unavoidable accident, fair wear and tear, or to the reasonable requirements of the system, or to defects in any installation not provided by the Government.

Precautions in execution of work.

12. (1) The execution of all work in connection with the generation or supply of energy which may affect any street, drainage or water supply, or any telegraphs, telephones, harbour-works or other public or private works, and also the erection of any apparatus which crosses, whether overhead or underground, any such work as aforesaid shall, independently of any other statutory requirement in that behalf, be carried out in the manner prescribed by these regulations and without danger to public safety or private safety.

Inspection of works in progress.

(2) When an installation is under construction the Superintendent shall have free access for inspection at all reasonable hours of the work in progress; and all reasonable facilities for such inspection shall be afforded by the persons controlling or carrying on the work.

(3) In addition to periodical inspections during construction and final inspections on completion, all installations while in operation may be inspected by the Superintendent. The licensee and persons in control of all installations shall afford full facilities for inspection within working hours.

Inspection of works in operation.

13. The Superintendent or any person authorised by him may, for any of the purposes mentioned in this regulation, at any time between the hours of nine in the morning and four in the afternoon or, in the case of urgency, at any other time, enter upon any premises upon which an installation is under construction or is in operation

Entry of premises.

- (i) to inspect and/or test any wire fitting or apparatus installed or being installed so as to ascertain whether there is likely to be any waste, leakage, obstruction, damage or misuse of electrical energy in connection therewith, and/or to ascertain whether such wire fitting or apparatus complies with the terms of the Electricity Supply Ordinance;
- (ii) to fix, inspect, read, check, clean remove or replace any meter or similar appliance of the Superintendent, used or to be used in connection with the installation;
- (iii) to disconnect the installation from any premises or to diminish, withhold or divert the supply of electrical energy through or by means of any wire fitting or apparatus wholly or in part.

Cap. 23

14. Any consumer taking or using energy from an installation shall, if the Superintendent so requires, provide such means for obviating risk of damage to such installation by atmospheric electricity as may be indicated by the Superintendent.

Precautions against damage by atmospheric electricity.

15. No consumer shall use energy supplied to him for purposes other than that for which it is supplied.

Use of energy supplied.

16. If the Superintendent shall find in any installation or apparatus any defect which in his opinion is likely to cause danger he may, by notice in writing posted to or served upon the licensee or owner thereof, suspend the operation and use of such installation or apparatus until such defect is made good or removed; and in such case the said installation or apparatus shall not be operated or used so long as the said notice of suspension remains unrevoked.

Procedure in case of dangerous defect in installation or apparatus.

17. Any person who shall refuse admittance or reasonable information to the Superintendent or any person authorised by him, or to any Police Officer engaged in carrying out the provisions of these regulations or any order duly made thereunder, or in doing any act thereby authorised, shall be deemed to have committed a breach of these regulations.

Obstruction or refusal.

18. In all cases where notice has under these regulations to be given to the Superintendent, such notice shall be sent to the Power and Electrical Department, and addressed in cases where the supply of energy is involved to the Superintendent.

Notices, how to be sent.

19. No owner or occupier of any premises whose connection with the main service has been cut off shall re-connect or attempt to re-connect such premises with such service; and no person shall replace, attempt to replace, or cause or suffer to be replaced any main fuses, but a report of any defect thereon should at once be sent to the Superintendent.

Re-connection of service by consumer.

20. No person shall alter, extend or in any way interfere with an installation once it has been tested and passed by the Superintendent, unless he has first obtained the approval of the Superintendent to do so; and such alteration, extension or addition must not be used for the conveyance of energy until it has been tested and passed by the Superintendent.

Interference with service.

Notice of damage etc. to service.

21. Any person finding any trace of damage to, interference with or defect in any part of the service to premises owned or occupied by him and connected with the main service shall immediately give notice to the Superintendent.

Damage to public lamp etc.

22. No person shall wilfully or negligently damage any public lamp, main transformer, house or any part of the electrical service.

Outbreak of fire.

23. In the case of the outbreak of fire upon any premises connected with the main service, notice thereof shall immediately be given by the occupier of such premises to the Police Station and also to the Power and Electrical Department.

Means of making connection with premises.

24. The service connection shall terminate at the meter. The service lines, such fuse or control gear as may be necessary to protect the meter and service, and the meter, shall be provided and fixed by the Government and shall remain the property of the Government. The installation commencing at the outgoing terminals of the meter shall be provided by and at the expense of the consumer and remain the property and responsibility of the consumer.

Supply for private purposes.

25. The cost exceeding £5, of the construction of any service lines for the supply of energy from any main to any owner or occupier as may be laid or erected upon the premises of any owner or occupier, and so much of any such service lines as may be necessary to lay or erect from such main, although not on those premises, shall be defrayed by that owner or occupier.

Electric lines etc. to remain property of Government.

26. All electric lines, meters, accumulators, fittings, works and apparatus let by or belonging to the Government shall remain the property of the Government, whether they be or be not fixed or fastened to any part of any premises in or upon which they may be situate, or to the soil under any such premises.

Supply of energy outside area.

27. The Colonial Secretary may, subject to such conditions and restrictions, if any, as he thinks fit to impose, authorise the supply of energy to any person outside the area of supply, and to lay down or place electric lines and all other works for that purpose.

Meter.

28. The meter shall be fixed at a point to be determined by the Superintendent and as close to the main fuse as may be convenient and the consumer shall provide such connecting loop or loops as may be required by the Superintendent.

Incorrect meter.

29. If the consumer has reason to suppose that the meter is out of order or is registering incorrectly, he shall immediately give notice to the Superintendent who upon request shall test such meter and for every such test a fee of ten shillings shall be paid in advance by the consumer. A meter shall be considered to be correct unless it has an error of over five per centum fast or slow. In the event of the meter being found to have an error of more than five per centum the fee shall be refunded.

Replacement of incorrect meter.

30. Should the meter at any time be out of order and register incorrectly, the Government upon receiving notice thereof shall repair or replace such meter as soon as possible, and the quantity of energy to be paid for by the consumer from the date of the meter ceasing to register correctly up to the time of its repair or replacement shall be estimated by the Superintendent upon the basis of the previous consumption of electrical energy in such premises or, in the event of such an estimate being impossible, upon the basis of the subsequent consumption after such repair or replacement has been effected.

Consumer bound by reading of meter.

31. The consumer shall be bound absolutely by the reading of the meter for the purpose of calculating what money is due from him to the Government for energy supplied during any particular period; and for the purpose of proving such meter-reading he shall be bound by the entry in the books of the Superintendent in which it is recorded. In the absence of evidence showing that either such entry has been incorrectly made or that the meter was at the time of such reading in default, it shall not be necessary to produce the person who read the meter or the person who made the entry in order to prove the reading or entry.

32. (1) The Superintendent may without notice and without paying compensation and without prejudicing the right of Government to obtain payment for energy supplied or for any services rendered to the consumer, discontinue the supply to the consumer in any of the following cases —

Supply may be discontinued in certain cases.

- (a) if within twenty-eight days after the date of demand the consumer fails to pay any sum or charge due under these regulations or due for repairs or work executed or services or energy supplied by the Government relating to the installation or due under any agreement with the Government relating to the installation or under any directions or orders given in pursuance of these regulations;
- (b) if, in the opinion of the Superintendent, the consumer —
 - (i) has injured or allowed to be injured any part of the service or the meter; or
 - (ii) has allowed any part of the apparatus connected with the supply of energy to his premises, for the good order of which he is responsible, to become defective; or
 - (iii) has used or allowed the energy to be used in such manner as to interfere with the supply of energy to others; or
 - (iv) has contravened any of the provisions of these regulations; or
 - (v) has tampered or interfered with or has permitted any tampering or interference with any part of the service under the Government control.

(2) In any of the above cases the consumer shall be liable for all damage caused to the Government and also in the event of the Government deciding to renew the connection and to re-commence the supply in consequence of the removal of any such defect or on payment of arrears or for any other cause, all expenses of such re-connection shall also be borne by the consumer.

33. Any test made by the Superintendent shall be accepted by the consumer as binding and final.

Test.

34. (1) Any person contravening any of the provisions of regulations 19, 20, and 21 or failing to comply with any notice thereunder shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £50 in respect of each contravention, and in addition to a further fine not exceeding £10 in respect of each contravention for every day upon which such offence shall continue.

Penalty for contravention of regulations.

(2) Any person contravening any of the other provisions of these regulations shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10.

35. Every occupier shall be liable for any contravention of these regulations committed upon his premises during his occupancy as though he were the person actually committing such contravention.

Liability of occupier.

36. Every person committing a contravention of these regulations shall in addition to the prescribed fine be liable to recompense the Government for any loss or damage suffered by it in consequence of such contravention.

Liability for loss or damage to Government.

37. The Electricity Supply Regulations 1951 are hereby revoked.

PROCLAMATION

No. 5 of 1969.

Made under section 24 of the Falkland Islands (Legislative Council)
Orders in Council, 1948 to 1964.

IN THE NAME of Her Majesty ELIZABETH II., by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and of Her other Realms and Territories Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith.

C. HASKARD.

By His Excellency SIR COSMO DUGAL PATRICK THOMAS HASKARD, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire.

LS

WHEREAS by subsection (1) of section 24 of the Falkland Islands (Legislative Council) Orders in Council, 1948 to 1964, it is provided that the sittings of the Council shall be held at such times and places as the Governor shall from time to time appoint by Proclamation:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, SIR COSMO DUGAL PATRICK THOMAS HASKARD, Knight Commander of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire, Governor and Commander-in-Chief in and over the Colony of the Falkland Islands and its Dependencies, in exercise of the powers vested in me aforesaid, do by this Proclamation appoint Wednesday the 17th day of December 1969, at 10.0 a.m. at the Court and Council Chambers, Stanley, to be the time and place for a sitting of the Legislative Council of the Colony.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN

Given under my hand and the Public Seal of the Colony at Government House, Stanley, this 6th day of December, in the year of our Lord One thousand Nine hundred and Sixty-nine.

By His Excellency's Command,
H. L. BOUND,
for Colonial Secretary.

A Bill for An Ordinance

Further to amend the Firearms Ordinance 1965.

Title.

Date of commencement.

(1969)

Enacting clause.

BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows —

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Firearms (Amendment) (No. 2) Ordinance 1969.

Amendment of section 18.
(12 of 1965)

2. Section 18 of the Firearms Ordinance 1965, is amended by —

- (a) the deletion of the full stop at the end thereof and the substitution therefor of a colon; and
- (b) the insertion, at the end thereof, of the following new proviso —

“Provided that the provisions of this section shall not apply to —

- (a) officers or men of any of Her Majesty's forces while acting in the course of their duty or employment on Cape Pembroke Peninsula; and
- (b) persons using firearms and ammunition during any organised competition or practice on a rifle range.”

OBJECTS AND REASONS

It is the intention that the use of Cape Pembroke Peninsula should continue to be available for military exercises and for the rifle range to be exempt from the restriction on the use of firearms on Stanley Common. This is not clear in the Ordinance and the Bill seeks to put the intention beyond doubt.

C. M. Biggs,

Town Clerk.

A Bill for An Ordinance

Title. Further to amend the Pensions Ordinance 1965.

Date of commencement. (, 1970)

Enacting clause. BE IT ENACTED by the Legislature of the Colony of the Falkland Islands, as follows—

Short title. 1. This Ordinance may be cited as the Pensions (Amendment) Ordinance 1970.

Amendment of section 6. 2. Section 6 of the Pensions Ordinance 1965 is amended by the deletion in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of sub-paragraph (i) and the substitution therefor of the following—

“(i) on or after he attains the age of sixty years, or, with the approval of the Governor in Council, fifty-five years, or in special cases, with the approval of the Secretary of State, on or after attaining the age of fifty years;”.

OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object is to remove from the Pensions Ordinance the amendment introduced by Ordinance No. 8 of 1968 which purported to make retirement at 65 compulsory.

It has been found that a measure of this nature is inappropriate in Section 6, and that provision for compulsory retirement already exists in Section 8.

The Bill re-inserts the wording used prior to Ordinance No. 8 of 1968. Ref. 0829/V.

FALKLAND ISLANDS GAZETTE
Supplement No. 2

9th DECEMBER 1969

MINUTES OF MEETING OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL HELD AT STANLEY ON THE 29 OCTOBER 1969

The Council assembled at 10.00 a.m.

His Excellency the Governor (Sir Cosmo Haskard, K.C.M.G., M.B.E.) presiding.

PRESENT

The Honourable the Colonial Secretary (Mr. J. A. Jones, O.B.E.)

The Honourable the Colonial Treasurer (Mr. L. C. Gleadell, O.B.E., J.P.)

The Honourable Mr. R. V. Goss, E.D. (First Elected Member for Stanley)

The Honourable Mr. R. M. Pitaluga (Elected Member for East Falkland)

The Honourable Mr. W. H. Clement, J.P. (Nominated Independent Member)

The Honourable Mr. R. W. Hills, (Nominated Independent Member)

Mr. H. Bennett, J.P. acted as Clerk of Council in the absence of Mr. H. L. Bound

PRAYER

The prayer was read by the Reverend P. J. Millam.

CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

The Minutes of the Meeting of Legislative Council held on 21st and 26th May, 1969 were confirmed.

Address by the President

Honourable Members of Council,

Our numbers today are, I am afraid, somewhat reduced. We are indeed sorry to be deprived of the stimulating presence of the Honourable Member Mr. Miller and I know that we all wish him a speedy recovery. The same good wishes to our Clerk of Council, Mr. Bound, who is also laid up and I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Bennett for stepping into his place at short notice.

We had hoped that the Honourable Member Mrs. King would have been with us today but the hazards of travel to and from the Coast have delayed her arrival. We look forward to seeing her before too long and to her participation in the committee work of Council. For, as Honourable Members know full well, it is not merely in this chamber that Council work takes place; far from it. Over recent years the amount of committee work has greatly increased, as indeed I hoped it would do, and the Education and Development Committees, the Public Accounts Committee and the Standing Committee on Finance have all been very active.

The May meeting, when we consider the budget, is the normal time for a review of activities and it is not my intention to depart from that custom today. But there are certain matters to which Honourable Members will expect me to refer this morning, particularly in view of my recent return from the United Kingdom.

Honourable Members will have observed the modest improvement in wool prices this year. We all acknowledge that, come what may, we are dependent on those prices for our very life blood in the Colony and, while there are grounds for restrained optimism, we know only too well how fickle fortune can be and that the price per pound paid for Falkland Islands wool is to a great extent outside the control of the industry here. We can mitigate the adverse effects of poor prices to a certain extent, however, by producing the type of wool which the market favours and by producing more of it.

It was in order that we might have first class advice on the means of improvement of the productivity of the wool industry and advice also on the possible future production of beef cattle that the Ministry of Overseas Development has sponsored a visit by a study team of five experts who arrived in the Colony last month.

On my return from London I was delighted to find and to hear from so many quarters that the team had got off to a very good start. Honourable Members and indeed many people throughout the Colony have already welcomed Mr. Davies and his colleagues and I would like to take the opportunity of this meeting formally to do so myself.

We are indeed grateful to the Ministry of Overseas Development for arranging this visit and we look forward keenly to receiving the advice of the team. I am sure that its members will be of the greatest help to us in pin pointing the real problems we are facing and I trust that we in turn will follow up their advice in a thoroughly practical manner which will demonstrate that we are in earnest when we talk of improvement. Such improvement should manifest itself in the quantity and the quality of Falkland Islands wool coming on the market in future years, and, I hope, in some diversification of the farming economy.

While a careful look is being taken at the sheep and cattle problems of the Colony, what of activities in other directions?

The first subject which comes naturally to mind is kelp and the plans of Alginate Industries. Honourable Members are aware that while I was in London I had meetings with Mr. Ralph Merton, joint managing director of Alginate Industries. At those meetings Mr. Pery, who visited the the /Islands.....

Islands last April, was present. I am optimistic that as a result of those discussions we shall soon see tangible evidence of the intention of Alginate Industries to go ahead with their pilot scheme here, leading to the establishment of an industry which will be of considerable benefit both to that company and to the Colony. Final agreement has not yet been reached on the terms on which Alginate Industries will operate here but there is abundant goodwill on both sides and an agreement should not be long delayed.

Tourism, we hope, is likely to be given a mild fillip this summer, with half a dozen scheduled calls by cruise ships and a number of visitors booked to travel to the Colony. In this connection I might mention that since our last meeting Bird Island, off Port Stephens, has been declared a nature reserve. While visitors to Bird Island are likely to be few and far between I think it is prudent to take steps to preserve our wild life heritage for the future, not only for our own enjoyment but also for that of tourists who may be attracted here. For, despite the difficulties involved, I am optimistic that the Falkland Islands will in time benefit from the obvious world wide growth of the tourist industry.

We are grateful to the British Government for welcome help from the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund towards the programme of converting more of Stanley's roads to concrete, a material which has proved itself the most economical in reducing the cost of maintenance and work should be starting shortly.

The Board of Trade report on the feasibility of constructing an airfield on the Cape Pembroke peninsula has been received and has been studied by Honourable Members and I am sure that Council would wish us to express thanks to Mr. Wainwright and Mr. Botham who conducted the survey so thoroughly.

A very limited number of copies of the report are available, too few I am afraid to put on sale to the public but arrangements are being made for interested persons to borrow copies on application to the Secretariat.

Many of us had originally hoped that an adequate landing ground could be constructed on the peninsula using the natural grass cover of that area but the report concludes that a low-cost natural surface airfield of a satisfactory standard can not be provided at Cape Pembroke. What the report describes as a reliable "all seasons" airfield of moderate usability would itself be a fairly high cost project. Rough estimates of cost as at July this year made in that report are £230,000 for a scheme involving a main runway only, and that figure rises to £300,000 if a subsidiary runway were provided, and in addition £35,000 for ancillary equipment.

Honourable Members are aware that when Mr. Wainwright and Mr. Botham were here they were asked to advise also on the possibility of using Stanley Harbour for amphibians; their report on this alternative plan is awaited.

Arising out of the airfield report it is intended that a thorough re-examination of the Colony's air and sea transport problems should now be carried out with the object of deciding what our long term plans should be and in this connection I hope that Government will have advice from a number of persons best qualified to give it.

Consideration of our external transport links leads us to think not only of our traditional outlets to the South American continent but to the possibility, politics apart, of the opening up of communications with Argentina. Given a relaxed atmosphere, it could be that a gradual removal of artificial barriers to communication might come about. Meanwhile, as Honourable Members know, unbiased visitors from any country are welcome here, for we have nothing to hide and much of which to be proud.

proud/In the.....

In the Dependency of South Georgia a change of management is about to take place. I referred to this in Council last May when I paid tribute to the high standard maintained by Mr. Coleman and his staff at King Edward Point. In mid-November the present Government staff and their families will be arriving here in Stanley and their successors, members of the British Antarctic Survey, are due to pass through Stanley next week on board R.R.S. "John Biscoe".

I would like to reiterate what I said at our last meeting, that the forthcoming change of management in no way affects the constitutional position of South Georgia in relation to this Colony and the Honourable, the Colonial Secretary will be travelling to South Georgia by R.R.S. "John Biscoe" to acquaint himself at first hand with conditions there.

Later this morning the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer will be talking about a most important subject, the state of the Colony's finances. I do not wish to anticipate what he has to say in any great detail but I would point out that the actual deficit on the Ordinary Revenue and Expenditure Account for the year that ended on 30th June 1969 was £85,000. While this is a useful improvement on the revised estimate of £103,000 it would be idle to regard it as anything but a serious slice out of our reserves, which are gradually being whittled down. It is yet too early in the current year to express opinions as to how accurate the expected deficit of £54,000 for this financial year will prove to be.

I have already referred to the improvement in wool prices, which although small and certainly not likely to cause a significant change in the budgetary situation, does give grounds for cautious optimism when seen as an improvement on last year's prices which in turn were better than those of the year before. But against this of course we have the unpleasant fact of steadily rising costs of production.

It is against this background that a review of the taxation on income for 1970, as forecast in the budget speech of the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer, has been conducted, and I will leave it to him to tell us more about this. All I would say at this stage is that I think that a meeting of Legislative Council later this year may be desirable to discuss the matter further.

And now Honourable Members, I suggest we turn to the business of the day.

PAPERS LAID ON THE TABLE BY THE COLONIAL SECRETARY

- (i) Reports of the Director General of Overseas Audit for the years 1964/65, 1965/66, 1966/67 and 1967/68.
- (ii) Report of the Public Accounts Committee.

QUESTIONS FOR ORAL ANSWER

Mr. Pitaluga: Is Government aware of the growing public concern over the known incidence of hydatid disease in humans in the Falklands and what action does it propose to take to reinforce control and eventual eradication of this disease from the islands?

It is submitted that the dosing of dogs and other control measures initiated in 1965 have lapsed to a certain extent, and where they have not, the measures taken are not fully effective.

The Colonial Secretary: Yes, Government is aware and shares the public concern on this matter and for this reason the matter is currently engaging the attention of the Agricultural Advisory Team whose expert advice and assistance over this problem I confidently anticipate.

Mr. Pitaluga: Your Excellency, I should like to thank the Colonial Secretary for his reply to my question and I look forward to the results of the team's investigation.

The Colonial Secretary. May I add something Sir? The laboratory facilities of the Agricultural Advisory Team are now established in the west wing of the hospital and the equipment there is excellent; really first class quality. The veterinary member of the team and the laboratory assistant have already been doing a good deal of work there. The team itself would welcome a visit from Members and yourself, Sir. There perhaps we can see a little of what they are doing. I understand this very fine equipment is in fact, going to be donated to the Colony in due course. I hope that Members and you, Sir, will be able to accept this invitation.

MOTIONS

A Motion for the adoption of the Standing Finance Committee Report for the period ended September, 1969 was put by the Colonial Treasurer. The Motion was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and carried.

BILLS

The Commissioners for Oaths Ordinance, 1969 (Second reading)

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, at the last meeting of this Council we adjourned to the present meeting, discussion of this measure, since there was a feeling that perhaps the proposals contained in it were in some way a substitution for, or a derogation of, a Justice of the Peace, and despite discussion at that time it was considered better that we should give ourselves plenty of time for this consideration and to clear up these misunderstandings. I think that Members will agree with me that these misunderstandings have not only been cleared up but have been seen to be cleared up and I think we can now go ahead and pass into law, not a measure which I would say is an earth-shaking one, but one which might be useful for providing a service, as I said last time, for the witnessing of minor documentation and things of that kind, with the least possible delay to the individual. It might be worth making the point that nobody can be forced to be a Commissioner of Oaths if he does not wish to be. Naturally anyone who it is considered might be appointed will be consulted first and if he wishes to refuse he will refuse. I therefore, Sir, beg to move that the Bill be read a second time.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a second time.

The clauses, enacting clause and title were agreed in committee and the Bill proceeded through its third reading and was passed.

The Administration of Justice Ordinance, 1969

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, this Bill, as measures of this kind frequently do, arose because of an occurrence which indicated that our present law under which a magistrate is also the coroner is not always the most convenient, and the purpose of this short piece of legislation is to enable the appointment of a coroner to be separate from an appointment of magistrate. The circumstance, I think is known to everybody here. At the same time as enabling these two functions to be separated it seemed sensible to make it possible to appoint deputy coroners which would on the whole expect to be in camp, but it might be useful (one could envisage occasions when it would be extremely useful) to be able to make an appointment for a specific occasion and purpose when for reasons of bad weather or for reasons of bad communications it was impossible for a coroner from here to carry out the function in a remoter part of the islands. I think, Sir, that I can commend this measure to Honourable Members which is solely designed to make public business easier. I beg to move the first reading of the Bill.

The motion was seconded by the Colonial Treasurer and the Bill was taken through all its stages and passed.

passed./The

The Firearms (Amendment) Ordinance, 1969

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency, the question of shooting on Stanley Common has exercised public concern for some considerable time and this very short Bill results from consultations with the public whose views were invited over the radio and many of who responded with a remarkable variety of proposals and suggestions as to the wisdom, dangers and all the other arguments for and against permitting shooting on the common. As so often happens with these matters I think one could say approximately 50% of the public were in favour of allowing the practice to continue and approximately 50% were in favour of various methods of restriction down to a total prohibition, and so we are here in some way attempting a judgement of Solomon and the measure is designed to prohibit shooting on the common but to continue to permit it on the peninsula. In some degree this will be an experiment. We can see how it goes. Judgements of Solomon do not always work, but we shall see. I think that one could say this accurately reflects public opinion on this subject. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Treasurer seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

The Colonial Secretary then moved the second reading of the Bill.

President: The Motion is that the Bill be read a second time. Does anyone wish to speak to the motion?

In view of the heat generated at an earlier stage before Solomon's judgement was exercised I had hoped that this might have stirred some sort of further argument, but apparently as at today, this division into shooting and non-shooting areas seems to meet with approval. Although the Honourable Colonial Secretary did not mention it, there is, of course already a prohibition on certain firearms in the Cape Pembroke Peninsula, but not having the book in front of me I do not know whether it would be fair or unfair to ask the Honourable Colonial Secretary just to draw attention, for the benefit of the public, to the fact that certain kinds of firearms might not in any case be used in the Cape Pembroke area. I believe that this is in fact so.

Colonial Secretary: This is certainly so, but in the circumstances you mentioned earlier in this meeting I beg to say that it would be unfair.

President: In that case we should make quite certain that as a post scriptum to any report on the proceedings of Council, that proper notification is given to all and sundry as to what they may or may not use in any particular area. This I am sure will be done.

As there is no objection, the Bill will be read a second time.

The Bill was accordingly read a second time and proceeded through its committee stage to be read a third time and passed.

The Control of Kelp Ordinance, 1969

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency the object of this Bill is very adequately and concisely stated in the note at its foot which states that its purpose is to give power to the Government to control a valuable economic asset. Personally I have no doubt that Government controls this asset whether we have this Bill or not, but it is advisable that things of this kind should be embodied in legislation. It is a comparatively simple Bill which in its clause 3 specifically reserves Government's right to the crop. In its clauses 4 and 5 enables regulations and other matters to be dealt with regarding licence royalties and in its clause 6 provides for the usual penalties without which all legislation is useless. Its clause 7 is of some interest because it reserves any customary rights to harvest kelp in small quantities for agricultural and other purposes within the Colony. This Bill, Sir, is before us because it is considered wise that Government's rights should be seen to exist, but I do not suggest that at the current meeting we should, or need, to go into it very deeply because from all points of view it is desirable that other people involved, some of whom were mentioned in your address earlier this morning, should have the opportunity to see this legislation to make any suggestions which they may have and which I am sure they will have, for its improvement, and this will take some time. As you stated earlier, negotiations in connection with this crop are still going on so there is not in this case a pressing hurry in the matter. We hope to gather these views and if necessary we can amend this short but useful Bill before we finally pass it into law, and I suggest therefore, that today we take the first reading only and leave the rest of the legislative processes for a future date when we have been able to gather opinions and views of Members. I therefore beg to move the first reading.

Colonial Treasurer: I beg to second the motion.

President: The motion is that the Bill be read a first time. As the Honourable the Colonial Secretary has mentioned it is proposed that having taken that step that we should make certain that everyone who could conceivably be affected by the Bill has had adequate opportunity to consider its contents and as Honourable Members have just heard it is proposed only to take the first reading today. Therefore, if any Honourable Member wishes to speak at this stage on the Bill this would be an opportunity to do so.

If there is no objection then, the Bill will be read a first time.

The Bill was accordingly read a first time.

The Supplementary Appropriation Ordinance, 1969

Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, about eighteen months ago Council passed the Appropriation Ordinance for 1968/69 in which it was set out the amounts of money authorised to be spent under the various Heads of the Departments for that year. In the event some of these sums of money were overspent and the Schedule to this Bill is designed to give legal authority for such overspending. I should add that in all cases the amounts of money concerned have been approved by the Standing Finance Committee. 1968/69 has passed into history and our concern is for 1969/70 and later, and I should like at this stage to say that on the Motion for Adjournment I would like the opportunity to say a few things about what is intended or proposed, in the way of taxation for next year. I beg to move that this Bill, the Supplementary Appropriation Ordinance be read a first time.

The motion was seconded by the Colonial Secretary and the Bill was taken through all its stages and passed.

Colonial Secretary: Your Excellency I beg to move that this House stands adjourned sine die.

Colonial Treasurer: Your Excellency, Members will recall that when the Budget for 1969/70 was introduced, certain additional taxation items were proposed and subsequently approved. These covered import duties on tobacco, wines and spirits. At the same time it was stated that consideration would be given to increasing taxes on incomes after the review of the financial position for October. As you have already stated the actual deficit for last year shows some improvement but it was still a substantial sum of money; £85,000 in fact. We are expecting a deficit on the current year of over £50,000 and it is therefore the intention, later in the year, to introduce a Bill setting out some increases in taxation on incomes. The Bill itself, when it is published, will be rather difficult to understand because in order to understand it one should really have a copy of the Income Tax Ordinance handy. It may, therefore, be of interest and help if I outline what it is that will be contained in the Bill. There are four things; firstly to increase the rate of what is known as Companies Tax from 5/9 in the £ to 7/-. This is a measure which is largely designed to re-direct from the British Treasury to the Falkland Islands Treasury, taxation paid by companies controlled outside the Colony, and here I should add that they are by far and away the largest part of the sheep farming community. There will be some slight effect on local companies; it is very small and I should emphasise that as there are to be no increases in taxation on personal incomes except for one particular case which I shall mention shortly, that the real effect of increasing the rate from 5/9 to 7/- will be that companies controlled outside the Colony will not pay more in total taxation but they will pay more to us and less to the British Government, and that companies controlled in the Colony will pay a very small amount of additional taxation. I should again emphasise strongly that there is no need for these companies to be involved in anything but a very small increase in their tax bills.

The one change on taxation for personal incomes, and I do not think the number of people involved will be very large, is that the scale of tax rates which at present has a ceiling of 5/9 is to be extended to 7/- on chargeable incomes. (Chargeable income is income after all deductions have been made). This rate of 7/- is to be applied to chargeable incomes where they exceed £10,000.

The Bill is not without its reliefs; it is not all take. There are two items of relief which I hope will be welcome. Firstly to older members of the community. People over the age of 60 who are in receipt of a total income of less than £500, if the person is a married person he shall be able to claim a further relief equal to two thirds of the difference between his total income and £500, and if he or she is an unmarried person the deduction will be one third of the difference between whatever the income may be and £500.

One small point - companies who are affected by the 7/- rate I mentioned earlier will be able to claim a reduction of 1s. 3d. in the £ - in other words restoring the tax rate to 5s. 9d. in respect of that part of their profits that they have invested in what can be called qualifying expenditure, i.e., the expenditure which we have listed in Income Tax Amendment (No.2) Ordinance, 1969, in which an investment allowance arrangement was introduced.

I beg to second the Motion proposed by the Honourable the Colonial Secretary.

President: The Motion is that this House stands adjourned sine die.

Honourable Members have just heard a statement of intent from the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer resulting from which it may be necessary to take a decision that there should be a further meeting of this Council before the end of the current year. Would any Honourable Member wish to speak to the Motion of adjournment? No Honourable Member wishes to comment at this stage. I would just conclude by saying that notification of any further meeting will be given due publicity and as the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer has just mentioned, when the Bill to which he has referred is published, care will be taken to see that it is given very wide distribution; that it is sent to interested persons, all farm managers for example and anyone else in the Colony who might conceivably have a particular interest as well as those in the United Kingdom who might also be affected. The object will be to give it as much publicity as possible and to invite as much comment as possible.

The Motion is that this House stands adjourned sine die. Any objection to the Motion? No objections. The House stands adjourned accordingly.
